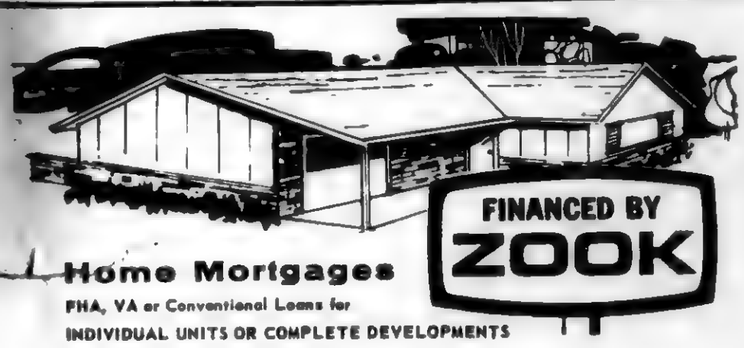
The land where their 100-year-old home stands was part of a land grant given by Thomas Jefferson to refugees from the British Provinces of Canada and Nova Scotia in 1801.



Throughout the years, the garden has been tended by many pairs of eager and diligent hands.

But it is difficult to believe that before now so much had been done here with so little.

A view of the garden is certainly an inspiration to those who think you can substitute a green thumb for hard work in building a "room under the sky."

ONCE INSIDE the gateway, visitors are met by this graceful statue. Molded in Columbus, the figure is designed as a fountain and stands amid a ground cover of ivy.

Mrs. America Visits Jamestown, Approves Of Regency-Built Home

Brookline, the first of three areas of Regency Homes constructed by C. V. Perry and Co., celebrated its grand opening on June 9. A total of 500 new homes has been planned for the three areas in Brookline, Brentwood and Jamestown.

Since that first opening, Mrs. America of 1963 and 205 Columbus families gave their full approval to the Regency concept. To this date sales have been so encouraging that already additional areas of Regency Homes are being planned for the 1963-64 building program.

C. V. Perry and Co. offers not only Regency Homes, but also develops land and sells homes for more than 30 outstanding builders in the Columbus area. These homes are found in every part of Franklin County.

The Perry firm has 29 full-time salespeople who now sell an average of more than 500 homes, new and existing, each year. During the past 16 years this sales force has sold more than 9000 homes. In order to continue to meet this record in sales each year, Perry salespeople stress personal service to every buyer and seller.

LOVELY MARILYN MITCHELL of San Diego, Calif., Mrs. America for 1963, smiles approvingly on this Regency-built home in Jamestown, Rt. 161 and Karl-rd. Mrs. America was a recent visitor to the new development and spent several hours talking to families visiting this latest area featuring Regency Homes.

Lincoln Catalog Views Modern Home Trends

Enthusiastic public reaction to an elaborate new catalog of home designs has created an air of optimism at Lincoln Homes Company.

Nat M. Soll, local sales manager of the company, reports, "never have there been so many favorable factors pointing to a good demand for quality-built, factory-produced homes; and never before have we here at Lincoln Homes been able to offer the prospective home buyer so much for his money."

Realizing that a good, informative catalog is a powerful sales tool, Lincoln has tried to give the reader a comprehensive picture of the entire Lincoln Homes organization.

The complete line of Lincoln Homes is illustrated in color, floor plans are detailed and prices are shown. In addition, the catalog details Lincoln's modern construction methods in assembling the completed exterior wall panels that are delivered directly to the home site.

Various stages in the erection of the home are pictorially depicted, along with floor plans, specifications and prices for every home in the Lincoln line.

1963 is showing a continued decline in tract-building interest, both by the consumer and the builder. In contrast to this trend, there is a large demand developing for "scattered-lot" housing. The Federal Housing Administration is now giving special consideration to this type of home construction.

Scattered-lot housing . . . where the builder erects one home for the owner on his own lot . . . embodies many of the same principles as the "owner-builder" program that has been the basis of Lincoln's success in the housing field.

Lincoln Homes Company, now one of the ten largest producers of factory built homes, originated the "owner-builder" plan whereby Lincoln erects the basic home on the owner's lot, regardless of location (rural, suburban or urban) and provides material packages for the completion of the home. Installation services are also available.

According to Soll, "Lincoln's advantatge with factory production methods make possible better quality, along with actual savings in labor cost that are impossible to match by conventional methods.

Also, in many areas where high costs have made home building almost prohibitive for the average wage-earning family, Lincoln homes, specifically designed to be finished by the owner continue to have good acceptance.

"The customers" excellent performance in completion of these homes has made them increasingly more acceptable to local lending institutions and the problem of obtaining a construction loan for an owner-built or owner-contracted home has been pretty well eliminated."

THIS IS Lincoln Homes' "Julie," a new model home now open for inspection at 646 Ross-rd in Whitehall. The ranch-type home, with attached two-car garage, has more than 1,400 square feet of living space. It contains living room, dining room, kitchen, three bedrooms with closets and large paneled family room with sliding glass doors and inside entrance to the garage.

Florida Furniture Offers New Concept In Northern Living

Less than a year ago a combination of foresight and insight led to the establishment of the Florida Furniture Company, 229 S. Fourth-st. The name of the store, the type of furniture carried and its location have caused many raised eyebrows and comments in the Columbus area, according to the owner, Mrs. Margaret Yerke.

The whys and wherefores of its beginnings are easily understood once discovered, and the story of its already established success in selling rattan, wrought iron and redwood for homes in Ohio for year-round use is phenomenal.

Mrs. Yerke's husband, Marvin C., is well known as a real estate broker and investor. As an outgrowth of the "Florida Home and Homesite" (Port Charlotte, Fla.) representation in Columbus for the General Development Corp., the couple has made many trips through the Southland. Both were impressed by the casual and versatile furniture they saw in use in Florida and the southern states.

The Yerkes decided that since this furniture was so practical in Florida, it could be adapted to the smaller, more compact homes of the North. Also, the increasing popularity of "Florida" rooms, dens and recreation rooms in new and remodeled northern homes would pave the way for lightly scaled, casual and colorful furnishings, they reasoned.

This was the beginning of Florida Furniture in Columbus. This and the fact that Mr. Yerke had the insight to establish the new store in the area of an announced urban renewal project have done much to ensure the future of the enterprise.

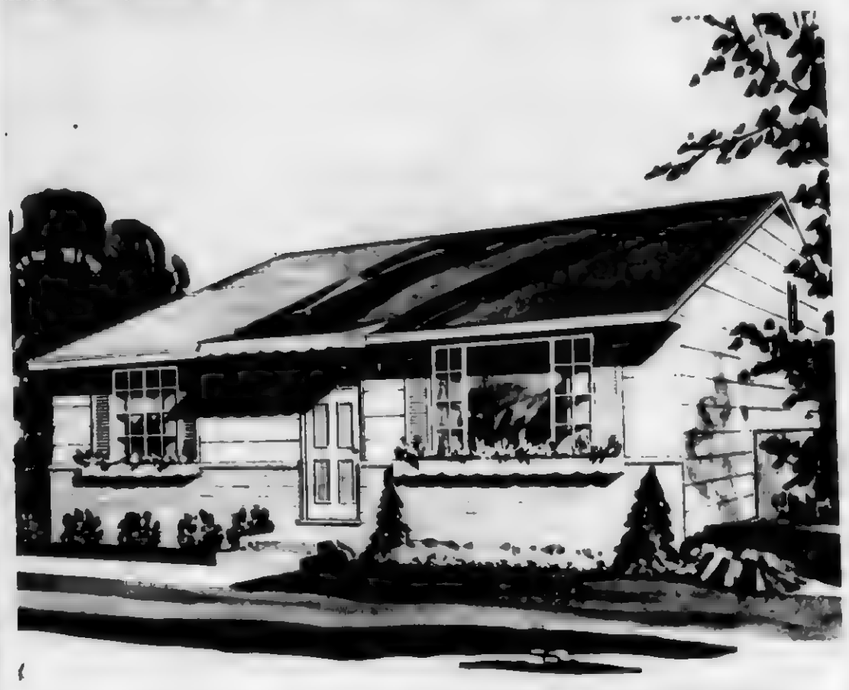
Merchandise recently carried by the store includes aluminum groups by Scroll, Inc., rattan by Bam-Tan, Clark Casual, redwood by Vandy Craft, murals by Westfall and other items by prominent manufacturers. The store also features a line of accessories and lamps.

Mrs. Yerke admits she is a novice in the furniture business from the retailing standpoint, but from the housewife's viewpoint of interior decoration, she was inspired to give people "an opportunity to enjoy the fine and casual furniture available but not generally found in a quantity display by local merchants." Apparently this inspiration is more than paying.

ENJOYING THE COMFORTS of the "Village Tea House" at the Florida Furniture Store, 229 S. Fourth-st, is owner Mrs. Marvin C. Yerke and guest, Mrs. Robert Cardoff, a native of Japan. All components of this display are available for purchase and immediate delivery. It was designed by Rattan of BamTan and is a popular item for gracious living.

Ernest G. Fritsche Co. Announces Opening Of New East Community

The newly opened East Side community of Haviland, built by Ernest G. Fritsche and Co., will eventually total 379 homes in the $13,450 to $16,250 price range, according to Ernest G. Fritsche, president of the firm.



Fritsche added that financing for $9.95 down is available in the new community located on Zettler-rd, just south of Livingston-av. Under this plan homeowners perform certain painting and planting tasks in lieu of a larger down payment.

Fritsche emphasized that all homes in Haviland will be protected by his firm's exclusive five-year warranty at no extra cost. This warranty covers structural materials and workmanship.

Ranch, split-level and bi-level homes are among the styles offered in Haviland. Homes contain from three to five bedrooms, up to two baths and basements. Construction is of brick and frame.

According to Fritsche, the number of Haviland homes on through streets will be kept to a minimum, since the traffic pattern calls for courts, cul-de-sacs and U-shaped streets.

Haviland is located within Columbus city limits and qualifies for service by city utilities, schools and transportation facilities.

THE JOY, an Ernest G Fritsche three-bedroom, front-to-rear split-level home features two baths and a lower level for future development. This is one of the homes being featured in the new Haviland Community built by the Fritsche organization.

Right Placement Of Thermostat Is Key to Comfort

If you want to get the maximum comfort out of your home heating system, be sure the thermostat is mounted in the right place.

The thermostat is the "brain" of your heating system. Its job is to maintain room air temperature at the level you desire. How well the thermostat does its job depends a great deal on its location.

Experts advise you to put the thermostat in the room you live in most, and don't hide it behind a door, or in a closet, or bury it in book shelves. Dead spots caused by lack of circulation — such as behind doors or in a closet — prevent the thermostat from sensing temperature variations.

If possible, select the coldest area of normal occupancy, since that is the area where the effects of outdoor weather changes will first be felt.

Don't, however, mount the thermostat on an outside wall. Always mount it on an inside wall — at least one stud space from an outside wall.

EXTERIOR OF THE CHATHAM

FAMILY-TV ROOM

MASTER BEDROOM

LIVING ROOM

"The Chatham" constructed by Hali Construction Co. and featured by them at the recent Parade of Homes proved to be one of the features of the new home exhibition.

This split-level home, with attached garage, comes with many well-designed "extras" included for the comfort of the occupants. The basic home, including the accent features, is priced at $25,000, and is available in Hali subdivisions.

Ten rooms, two baths, entry-way, future expansion area, basement and attached garage are included in this lovely home.

Within the home a visitor will find a large family-TV room with brick wall and beamed ceiling, a large brick fireplace in the living room, three double-size bedrooms, a separate dining room, two ceramic tile baths with colored fixtures, built-in kitchen range and oven, garbage disposer, gas furnace and air conditioning, and full closets in every bedroom. Two of the bedrooms, a bath, a storage room and future expansion area are located on the second floor.

The exterior of the home is completely landscaped with a black top drive to the garage, paved streets and walks, brick, stucco and aluminum siding and Johns-Manville roofing and insulating sheeting. The garage is equipped with two overhead doors.

The home is complete, all assessments are paid and it's ready to move into. Available options include a dishwasher and a built-in vacuum cleaning system.

Hali Construction Working To Further Columbus Expansion

One of the Columbus area's oldest and largest building firms is Hali Construction Co., headed by Jack Wallick as president. The Hali firm and its affiliates have built over 3,000 residential units in the Columbus area during the past 10 years.

Wallick says he feels that Columbus families have continued to purchase Hali homes through the years because the homes have basic designs to satisfy their space needs and the appearances reflect their tastes. He added, another important factor is the development of a planned community in a highly desirable area offering many convenience features such as: access to freeways, shopping centers and recreation areas.

Presently, Hali homes are available at Kar-Mel Village, on Karl-rd, just north of Morse-rd, and at Monterey Park in Grove City.

Kar-Mel Village is rapidly nearing completion with only about 40 homesites remaining for sale. A new section has just been opened at Monterey Park. Both of these excellent suburban locations offer convenience to schools and churches, as well as freeways, shopping centers and recreation.

A Tribute to County 4-H Clubs

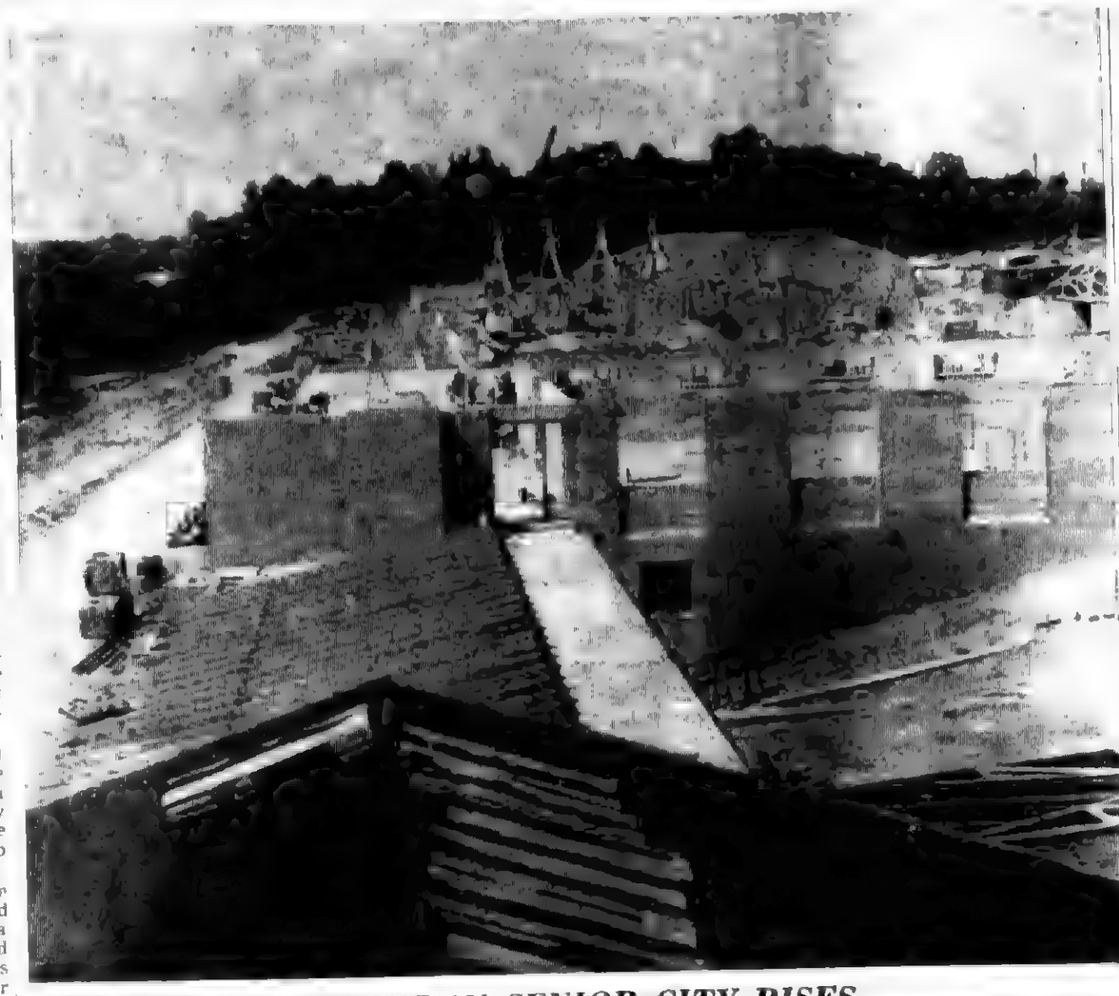
This past week it was our pleasure to hear Tom McNutt, new county extension agent in charge of 4-H club work, address the local Kiwanis Club. At this time he presented Miss Carol Norris, a member of the New Albany Stylettes.

Carol presented her speech as it would be given this past Saturday at the district contest at Waverly and we feel this area was well represented

She spoke on safety including the following points:

S Speed
A Alertness
F Fun
E Eagerness
T Thoughtfulness
Y You

All those present agreed emphatically that this program was a real tribute to the fine work being done by many 4-H leaders in assisting the youth of our various communities.



Recall Anxiety

After two weeks away from the office and the grind of business it is sometimes difficult to get back in the groove. However, I find that I am quite relaxed and "recharged."

A friend who read my last two columns reminded me this past week he had seen a local man who one time many years ago took much of the joy out of my vacation trip into the north woods.

This particular year three of my business associates and myself were staying in a camp at Loring, Ontario and had traveled some six miles up river by boat, portaged far up a rocky hillside carrying luggage and eulpment where we took another small boat across a large lake to a cottage on an island apparently out of reach of any of the disturbing elements that might

LUTHERAN SENIOR CITY RISES

A MAZE OF MORTAR, lumber, bricks and roofing all add up to a $2.5 million project. The 25 per cent completed Lutheran Senior City overlooks St. Mary of the Springs to the Northwest, and borders Alum Creek. Due to be completed sometime in February, the "city" will house 285 residents. Rev. Arthur Rismiller, of the Lutheran Welfare League, says, " . . . calls have been coming in daily and we expect some persons from out of state to make their residence here." Tibbals, Crumbly and Musson, 965 E. Broad-st, are the architects. See story Page 4.

Sawvel Findings To Be Modified

Present indications point to modification of some of the recommendations contained in the controversial Sawvel water rate study. The study was prepared for Columbus by J. S. Sawvel, Findlay public utility and management consultant.

The general trend of negotiations toward a settlement acceptable to both proponents and opponents of basic Sawvel recommendations indicates probable changes in the following areas:

1. An adjustment of commodity rates that would include at least token increases on an across-the-board basis.

2 Re-appraisal of capacity and system capacity charges. (The claim has been raised that 98 per cent of the revenue gained through the system capacity charge would be levied against two per cent of the users — industrial-commercial consumers.)

3. The inclusion of cost-of-service data as a constant administrative procedure.

4. Reconsideration of proposed rates for areas outside Columbus.

As a preliminary step to the re-evaluation of the Sawvel report, Council approved a motion to table the pending water rate increase ordinance. The Council action concluded the pre-recess session that ended at 1:15 a.m. Tuesday.

But the groundwork for expected basic changes in the ordinance was laid during a July 23 meeting between Council members and representatives of the Development Committee for Greater Columbus.

It is expected that a subsequent meeting will be scheduled with Mayor W. Ralston Westlake and administrative personnel, including C. Wayne Freeman, finance director; Ernest Stork, public service director, and Frank Wright, water superintendent. The meeting with Westlake administration officials would then be followed by scheduling of a third public hearing, according to present general plans.

Sources close to the water rate hike proposal have indicated that a final disposition by Council might not be reached until after the November elections. This possibility is attributed to the length of time required to give adequate attention to a complete review of the ordinance.

When asked about the July meeting, Mayor Westlake said he was not aware that such a meeting was held. He also said he had not received a copy of a Development Committee statement reportedly distributed to Council members.

Finance Director Freeman also reported that he had no knowledge of or information concerning the July 23 meeting.

Council President Mrs. Golda May Edmonston confirmed that the meeting was held. She said she was given copies of the Development Committee report to forward to the two councilmen who were not

Village Tour Nets $3,500

Certainly no red ink was required for the report of the German Village Tour which was given by Miss Marie Warren, chairman of ticket committee at the society's board meeting last Friday.

Although not all tickets have been returned yet, gross sales to date total $8,192. With expenses of about $1,500 and income from the major concession not yet received, Miss Warren is confident that the fourth annual Haus Und Garten Tour netted something over $3,500 for the Society.

Though her records do not include the first tour which was held in 1960, the ticket chairman who is also secretary of the corporation, believes this to be by far the most successful undertaking since the tours were initiated. Last year the net was $2,250 and only $1,500 the previous year.

Frank Fetch, president of German Village, stated that expenses climb every year, but that is to be expected as the tours become larger. More than half of the expenses involved transportation, Miss Warren said. The bus drivers, teamsters' service and hauling of the antique cars were among these items.

With expiration of the fiscal year Sept. 1, the society is awaiting the slate of officers from the nominating committee so that election may be held before that date.

The incumbent officers are Frank Fetch, president; Arthur E. (Buck) Remmert, vice-president, Mrs. Dorothy Fischer, treasurer; Jim Allen, sergeant-at-arms, and Miss Warren, secretary. It can be assumed that Frank Fetch who has been president since before the society's incorporation in 1960 will again be a candidate for the chair.

The regular meeting last week was held in the back yard of the home of Jim Allen whose mobility has been at low ebb since he fractured his leg in recent weeks.

Tuesday afternoon a very exclusive Haus Und Garten Tour was given. The guests of honor were Mrs. Helen Bell and Justin Henley. Mrs. Bell is the new secretary of the new German Village Commission office in City Hall and Henley is the planning coordinator for the city of Columbus. The tour was given so that they could familiarize themselves with the area they serve.

Steelton Parking Lot Dedication Changed

The date for the dedication of the Steelton Parking Lot was changed to Sept. 17 when the South Side Business and Industrial Association met last week.

To be operated by the Steelton Merchants' Association, the lot is the realization of a dream the Business and Industrial Association has been promoting for 10 years, according to attorney Robert Horowitz.

The dedication will be preceded by the annual auction of the SSBIA at 6 p.m., with Joe Ronson its perennial chairman

Mayor W. Ralston Westlake and other city officials will attend the ceremony and the ribbon will be cut by Miss South Side.

The City of Columbus built the lot and, though the papers have not been signed, will eventually lease it to the Merchants' Association. Council granted permission Monday night to the two associations

WHAT MAKES TOP-FLIGHT BOARD MEN?

In Madison, Hamilton and Canal Winchester school districts the terms of two of the five school board members expire this year. In Ashville three members will complete their current terms.

By 5 p.m. August 7, candidates to fill these vacancies must file their petitions in order that their names may appear on the ballot in November.

Philip Drake, president of the Ohio School Boards Association, recently published a list of qualities important in the citizens who will be chosen to govern the public schools.

He suggests a study of these qualifications by candidates before declaring themselves in the running, and by the citizens who may be influential in urging a potential candidate to file.

He first brought out the point that an overall interest in students and public education is essential, lamenting the fact that too often a candidate is motivated to run because of a primary interest in one facet of the total program such as the budget or a particular policy he may disagree with.

Coupled with that was his contention that a board member should be willing to subordinate his personal interests to objective action for the interests of his entire community. He extended this latter point to include a loyalty to the democratic process which allows bowing to the will of the majority and a realization that the lay board must work closely with the professional administrators they appoint.

Drake feels that only past participation in community affairs can give the candi-

Jackpot Reaches $88

No winners in last week's "Confederate" Money Contest means the entire amount offered has been added to the "Confederate" jackpot to make this week's new total of $88.

Each week all money not claimed is added to make the new total which is available to some lucky subscriber. Other winners can claim as much as five "Confederate" dollars each week.

All "Confederate" cash awarded in the weekly contests can be spent just like the real thing at any place of business advertising in a Hartley Newspaper during the week the winner claims his money

To win "Confederate" money readers must find one of two emblems in their copies of Hartley Newspapers. These emblems do not appear in every newspaper and are always printed in a color other than black and placed in the white space surrounding an advertisement on the inside pages.

CSSO Dines Local Lasses

"Just wear a bathing suit and a smile."

That was the advice given by Judy Robinson last week when asked by Joyce Birdlemen over WMNI what a candidate must do to win the title of "Miss South Side."

The interview took place when Judy, [illegible] hall, chairman of the CSSO sponsored Fourth of July contest [illegible] at the Olentangy Inn.

When Miss Birdlemen talked with each of the girls on her program, it was learned that though they share a mutual interest in the opposite sex, their career interests vary widely.

Only one, Mary Good, 16-year-old junior at Marion-Franklin High School, plans to cash in on her pretty face and figure by modeling. Daughter of Mrs. Irene Good, 2222 Lowenate, Mary was chosen Miss Franklin County when living in Kentucky, and was elected freshman attendant on the Football Court while attending Franklin Heights.

Judy and Susie Berger are both putting vocation plans off until college is out of the way. Susie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Berger, 1518 Oakwood, wants to go to Ohio State to become an elementary teacher after completing her senior year at Marion-Franklin. Judy, who lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack M. Robinson, 35 Thurman-av, will enter Ohio State University this fall, having graduated in Marietta in June. Susie is 16, and Judy, 17.

Joanne McGarvey, 1962 graduate of Sacred Heart, revealed that she is an extremely busy young lady. In addition to being a full-time private secretary at Toledo Home Mortgages, she is the switchboard operator for three hours during the early evening at

DON'T BE Penny-Wise, Fire Foolish

With two fires on the South Side Sunday caused by the use of a penny in place of a fuse, the public is again given an object lesson against the dangerous practice.

The loss in the home of John Days, 1320 Mooberry-st, reached $1,500. Prompt cutting of the wires in the C. W. Cade home, 1210 Wager-st, prevented structural damage.

"Misuse and abuse" of electricity, of which penny-fusing is a common means, ranks as one of the five major causes of fires throughout the country, according to Chief Elmer J. Brophy of the Public Information office of the Fire Prevention Division.

With the solid copper of a penny bearing a current heavier on a circuit than is even brought into many houses on the main line, the department pointed out that anyone using this fusing method leaves himself without any protection whatsoever.

A fuse will blow either because of a short or an overload, and this short or overload can start the fire anywhere between the appliance and the fuse box when the fuse or "safety valve" is circumvented.

Brophy pointed out that while often a penny is used as a stop-gap measure, too many householders promptly forget about it and a regular fuse is not again thought of until it is too late.

Any fuse larger than 15 amperes is designed to be used with the heavier wiring of major appliances.

Using big fuses for lighting circuits is another dangerous practice.

One would be wise to check his fuses now to learn whether someone, either through ignorance or neglect, has allowed a penny to take up permanent residence behind a regular fuse.

It doesn't even take a thin dime to buy a fuse, a form of insurance against the loss of one's home or possibly one's life.

TWO MEMBERS of the Jacobs family, Tom, right, and Jim, pause for a moment while inspecting one of the Jacobs and Son moving vans. As Columbus agent for U.S. Van Lines, the firm has facilities for moving goods to any part of the country and overseas. Local facilities include warehouse facilities with more than 40,000 square feet of storage space.

Jacobs & Son Movers Has Been A Family Affair Since 1921

A growing business since it was established by Clarence Jacobs in 1921, Jacobs and Son Movers, 954 Gilbert-st, still offers personalized moving service under the direction of a member of the Jacobs' family.

Featuring moving and storage, the firm is the Columbus agent for U.S. Van Lines, and offers complete storage facilities with over 40,000 square feet of warehouse space.

Estimates for moving and storage can be obtained, with no obligation, from the company's manager, Tom Jacobs.

The son of the founder of the firm, Tom Jacobs, began working for his father as a youth and eventually moved into his present position. He is assisted by his brother, Jim Jacobs, and his uncle, Virge Jacobs, head bookkeeper.

Although Clarence Jacobs, founder, is no longer active in daily affairs of the business, he still serves as company president and advisor and, according to Tom Jacobs, holds a small "director's meeting" almost every night at the family supper table.

Affiliation with U.S. Van Lines gives the local organization a connection with any point in the world. In certain cases, when a full truck load is to be moved, Jacobs and Son will personally take charge of the entire job, and has sent their own trucks to points as far away as the Rocky Mountains.

In other cases, the local organization will take charge of loading the goods to be moved onto a U.S. Van Lines truck, and make all arrangements to see that it reaches its destination quickly and safely.

All local moving jobs are handled by the Columbus firm and supervised by a member of the Jacobs family. Each job is fully insured by Jacobs and Son who take full responsibility for any mishaps that might occur.

All members of the family were born on the South Side and grew up in that area. Each of the younger members was graduated from South High School, and those still active in the moving business remain as residents of that section of Columbus.

come from telephone calls, etc.

But, imagine the anxiety when a small boat comes up where we are fishing one day to advise that I am to make a telephone call immediately to the long distance operator in Columbus.

With every conceivable tragedy that might enter my life passing in review in my mind the next two and a half hours were spent in getting back to the main camp to make the telephone call.

Well do I remember my fury and even some of the words in my expressions when the call turned out to be from an obnoxious local attorney who was merely seeking to pressure my local editor into the use of a story which had been turned down in our Columbus office.

Needless to say he accomplished nothing with his call except my then severe ill will.

When I was reminded of this incident this past week I could not help but remember the tensions of that ride across the lake. Yet, I am also reminded that time heals all ills.

Ashes to ashes,
And dust to dust,
Names are so deceptive,
In numbers we'll trust.

Dr. F. Finke Dies Friday

Dr. Frederick C. Finke, 45, well known Columbus and Franklin county physician and surgeon, was pronounced dead on arrival at Mt. Carmel Hospital Friday, July 26, at 5:10 p.m.

He was the victim of a fatal heart attack, suffered while eating supper at Holiday Inn, 4601 W. Broad-st.

Dr. Finke was a resident of 133 S. Huron-av, and practiced medicine at his offices at 1847 Parsons-av. He was also on the staff at Mt. Carmel Hospital.

A 1943 graduate of Ohio State University, he had served as a captain in the Medical Corps during World War II, and was a member of the Westgate Methodist Church.

He was preceded in death by his wife, Betty, in 1960.

Dr. Finke is survived by one son, Rick, 17; his mother, Mrs. E. H. Finke, 488 Woodbury-av, and two brothers, Eugene E. 1835, Walsh-av, and Robert of Dayton.

date the knowledge of his district's past and enable him to make forsighted plans for the future.

Emphasizing that "board membership is not for the faint-hearted," the OSBA president declared a potential board member must not only have the courage of his convictions and be able to resist intimidation by pressure groups, but be willing to accept the responsibility of his mistakes.

Believing that poor judgments can be made with the best of intentions, Drake asks only that such errors not be "covered-up," but rectified.

As public faith in the body which spends hundreds of thousands and sometimes millions of the taxpayers' money is deemed important, Drake states that an earned reputation for integrity and good judgment is of essence, and past activities in community affairs should be made a matter of public record.

Finally, it was pointed out that long hours and stamina are required by the man or woman who fulfills his responsibilities as a school board member.

"School board membership is not an honorary office," he stated, with the contention that the candidate must devote much of his free time to board affairs, and it is not a post for one who is out of the community for extended periods or does not have time and energy to devote to school problems.

Drake concluded with the admonition that there are no perfect school boards, no more than there are perfect people.

His plea was only that those whose qualifications most nearly approximated the high standards needed for the important posts be selected.

The board members in the South East whose terms expire the end of the year are: Madison Local, president John Hummell and Harvey Spence; Hamilton Local, Frank Peters and R. J. Claybaugh; Canal Winchester, William Boving and Robert Wood, and Ashville, president Harold Hines, Everett Bess and Joe Vause. Wood was appointed to fill out the term of J. R. Wynkoop, who resigned to accept a teaching position in the school, and R. J. Claybaugh took office when Lewis Eakin moved from the district.

With a twinkle in her dark eyes and the boundless energy of youth she admitted to a full social life after she closes the switchboard at 9:30 p.m. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGarvey, 290 Deshler-av, Joanne is 19-years-old.

A choice of jobs awaits Ruth Anne Emerick, 281 E. Moler-st. While finishing her senior year at Bishop Hartley she began her studies at the Capital Beauty School at nights. This ambitious program allowed her to complete the cosmetology course this week, only a few weeks after graduation, and she has already been asked to work at either of two beauty salons. The 17-year-old was the Sweetheart Queen at school.

All the girls showed an avid interest in the teenage styles shown for their benefit from B. Goodman Fashions. The clothing was modeled by girls from Chez Helene, managed by Helene Barrett, who gave a $90 self-improvement course to "Miss Fourth of July."

John Mrshall appeared justifiably proud of his "harem." It was evident that the CSSO had chosen a court of young ladies who were not only pleasant to look at, but interesting to know.

$2.5 MILLION "CITY"

Lutheran Project Provides Homes For Independent Retired Persons

By Janet Michael

A whole new life of comfort, beauty and activity is beginning to replace the tired outlook on life, the idleness and boredom that so often become commonplace in the lives of retired folks.

Imagine — beautiful living units, in a community of interesting people, modern conviences and unlimited activities, all combined with spiritual fulfillment.

The Lutheran Welfare League has organized just such a place.

Lutheran Senior City is now being built on Parkview-av off Johnstown-rd, overlooking Alum Creek and spacious acreage of trees and greenery. When completed the project will house 285 residents with rooms for couples and individuals. Complete privacy will be offered to the resident, while at the same time there will also be opportunity for neighborhood, or family type living.

A central dining area will be built with easy access to and from all units. Tray service will be provided for those unable to participate in the family style dining.

The "city" is designed with small "neighborhoods" around an open court, rather than the usual tall and crowded apartment building. Since most people are used to small get-togethers, each neighborhood has social rooms and kitchenettes where residents may be in the company of their own choosing.

In the centralized area there will be a facility for larger social gatherings and planned events. Facilities and trained personnel will be available to assist residents in learning such skills as painting, weaving, ceramics and various hobbies.

Although the "city" is not a convalescent home, it does provide a clinic and infirmary for persons needing special care and treatment. A staff physician will co-ordinate a general health program, and will be on hand in case of emergency or when the resident's own physician cannot be reached.

A beauty shop and barber shop will be established to provide service for the residents.

The laundering of linens, towels and personal garments will be done within the facility. Garments requiring special treatment are to be the personal responsibility of the resident. Laundry stations for self service will also be available.

Worship services will be held in the chapel and discussion groups, pastoral care and counseling will be conducted by the chaplain.

Requirements for residency are: 62 years of age and over, prior consultation, filling in admission forms, medical examination, initial fee of $350 and ability to make monthly rate payments.

A double room will be available for $160 a month, per person and private rooms, $190 a month. Both include private bathing facilities. A few have central bathing facilities to give service to those requiring supervision in daily living.

The infirmary section will be available for $235 a month. Sheltered living will be available for those who require continuing nursing services, staffed by qualified nurses and aides.

Brochures and information may be obtained by writing: Lutheran Welfare League of Central Ohio, Lutheran Senior City Department, 106 S. Gift-st, Columbus 22, O., or by calling CA. 8-5209.

GETTING THE JOB DONE takes a lot of manpower, and a wheelbarrow of bricks keeps this man busy for a few minutes. In the background, others perform their various tasks. Located off Johnstown-rd on Parkview-av, the community will only be a few minutes drive from the heart of Columbus.

Next-To-Last Schiller Concert Sunday, Aug. 4

Building And Remodeling Underway At First United

Ground was broken for the new addition to First United Brethren Church at 496 S. Wheatland-av, on Sunday, July 14. Mrs. H. E. Harwood, secretary of the Board of Trustees and wife of the organizer and first pastor of the church, turned the first shovelful of soil.

The 21 by 61 foot one-level addition will be of cement block with brick veneer on the front of the building. The unit will house a kitchen and Sunday School rooms.

Rev. and Mrs. Roger Martin, who are serving the congregation for the second year, planned the ceremony. Guest speaker was Rev. E. H. Martin of Chillicothe, district superintendent of the Scioto Conference and father of the minister.

Rev. Harwood organized the congregation in 1946 and served for 15 years before his death. Other members of the Board of Trustees are Ray Milke, president; Edson Stemen, treasurer; Ed Lilly, Lewis Walters and Mrs. Lewis Dixon.

The congregation plans to add the finishing touches to the addition and remodeling of the present structure when the construction crew has finished.

It takes a Good Eye...

TO THREAD A NEEDLE

Did you ever thread a needle? ...Most everyone has, it takes a good eye, for the opening is small. Did you ever try to thread one while someone else held the needle? ...This is almost impossible. All this brings us to the point that... there are some things that we must do ourselves. We can not send someone else to church for us, we can not have someone else worship the Lord for us. These things are strictly on an individual basis. ATTEND CHURCH THIS SUNDAY ...YOU'LL BE GLAD THAT YOU DID.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH ... THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

GOLF ETIQUETTE--6

DON'T BE AN "ADD NOW – PLAY LATER"

IF YOU'VE ever played behind a slow foursome who seem ignorant of your desire to play through, you know that this gesture could be titled the last straw. The true test of patience comes when the mathematical genius of the foursome remains on the green after putting to record scores. Actually a bogie doesn't improve or a birdie disappear while walking to the next tee to figure a scorecard. Remember, greens are for putting, not addition.

Trailer Camping Adds Comfort To Outdoors

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROB COCHRAN

You become expert in the matter of hitches, lights and the like when you go trailer camping. But it all seems worthwhile once you are under way. You are not really camping, for you have the conveniences of a portable vacation cabin hooked on to your car.

We made our first trailer jaunt to East Harbor State Park in a Maclean, made by the J. S. Maclean Co., 470 S. Front-st. After making numerous trips in a tent trailer, the move to a hardtop was not difficult after we got hooked up. The extra load was noticeable, of course, but after a few miles towing was no problem.

THE TREND to trailers is booming. You see many of them on the roads these days, and park officials verify the observation that more trailers are showing up in campgrounds. At first, old-time campers scoffed at those who took a home away from home into the outdoors with them. But now it's the accepted thing to have a trailer of some kind, either tent or hardtop.

I first became interested in trying such a rig myself when I saw the Maclean trailers being built last winter. At that time Hayden Maclean offered to lend us one for a few days to get our reaction.

We discovered nothing startling. They are certainly handy and convenient. In a long stretch of really drenching weather, they would spell the difference between a successful vacation and no fun at all. Weighted against the trailers is the extra load you carry and resulting loss of gas mileage.

CAMPERS ARE a friendly lot, and since we were quartered in the trailer area at East Harbor we talked about trailers with our neighbors. One family across the way was from Cleveland and had rented a trailer for their first trip. Everything was going well and they were enthusiastic about trailer camping. It seemed as if a trailer of some kind would be squeezed into their budget next year.

Another man from Ontario, not far from Niagara Falls, had built his own trailer, and his suspension system was not a complete success. He and his wife were confined to low road speeds, but they were enjoying a camping tour as much as anyone else.

The number and types of trailers on the market are great, but there is one constant rule—the more features you have the more they cost. In a park the size of East Harbor you can see a fair sampling of the rigs in use today, and they range from fairly crude home-made "sleepers" to the ultra jobs with air conditioning and television. Some even have picture windows.

OUR DECISION was that trailer camping is fun, but it's not camping. With its foam mattresses and screen door, it's more like staying in a vacation cottage. But it has the real advantage over a cottage of being mobile, and you can spend your vacations and weekends in different locations. The people we talked to liked this, and it seems certain that you will see more and more hardtops on the road.

Professionalism Harms Little League Purpose

The formation of Little Leagues to promote kids' baseball in this country was received with open arms at its introduction. The boys were having fun; Pop caught a glimpse of his yesteryears while watching that 'chip off the old block' and community spirit reached an all-time peak. Everybody was happy.

But as the system grew and multiplied, the opinion on Little League baseball became sharply divided. Today, there are people who will not allow their boys to don the pint-sized pin-stripes.

THE FINGER of suspicion has been distinctly and unquestionably pointed at professionalism — the cancer of amateur athletics which isn't satisfied until it's eaten the fun right out of the game.

"My boy isn't ready to be a 'Big Leaguer,' "is the way one parent puts it. "When they give the game back to the kids, I'll let him play," remarked another.

We do not intend a blanket condemnation of Little League baseball. LL organizations that put fun, sportsmanship, teamwork and skill development on the line as their selling points are to be heartily commended.

AS FAR AS we have been able to discern, the local set-up is based on solid foundations. But the old saying about the shoe and its ability to fit the foot still goes.

One of the best setups we've heard about is practiced in Kettering, O. No spectators are allowed on the practice fields. There are no stands behind the backstop, and dugouts have been located where they are not easily accessible to interfering spectators.

One of the biggest points in question is the so-called "point system" by which Little Leaguers can be "bought, sold and traded."

ACCORDING TO the system, each coach is given a certain number of points at the outset of the season, which he may spend (as a major league team might with cash) to set up a top-notch ball club. Each boy is rated with the "All-Stars" costing more points than the kid who has a hard time getting the bat off his shoulder.

The coach must decide whether to empty his point-purse on three or four established 'stars' or take a chance on six or seven 'low-pointers' who might develop into stars once they reach 'big league maturity.'

The rationalization of the system seems to revolve around the argument that point systems make for more balanced leagues.

IT SEEMS TO us that maybe the cart has been placed before the wagon again with this train of backward logic.

Case in point — John Doe, one of this area's most talented young players who moved to St. Louis. It seems that another team was interested in acquiring Johnny's services and so Johnny was 'sold.'

Unfortunately, his new team was located 30 miles from his home. Johnny quit playing baseball.

HOW ABOUT a fair evaluation? If plain, old-fashioned fun is disappearing from the game at even the pint-sized level, let's go all-out and get the neighborhood nine on the bubble gum cards.

Ridiculous? Maybe not, when you stop to consider that winning ball games was meant to be just a segment of the purpose of playing the game at this age level.

It's bad enough to expose the high school crop to the overwhelming pressures of 'win-win-win.' But when you serve that kind of cocktail to an eight-year-old, you're buying trouble on the installment plan. And putting Junior on the block for that curve-ball specialist two blocks over isn't exactly a remedy.

A BIG PAT on the back to those coaches and parents who have been untainted by the symptoms of professionalism. They may not necessarily be filling trophy cases or building future major leaguers, but they are providing stepping stones to physical, mental and emotional maturity.

Maybe that's corny and doesn't win many ball games, but maybe the guy with the best record isn't always the winner.

SIX QUESTIONS FOR COACHES AND PARENTS

Is the coach really prejudiced playing Billy at your Jimmy's position?

O.K. So Jimmy struck out. So did Harmon Killebrew — 142 times last season — and he's a major leaguer! Is it really that bad?

That easy grounder went right through Tommy's legs. Before you open your mouth, did you make any errors today?

Billy only played one inning tonight. But, did HE have a good time?

A good manager would have had him bunt. Why aren't you coaching a team?

That's 22 wins in a row. Do my players respect me as a coach?

PIT STOPS

Race fans were treated to plenty of action Sunday night at the Columbus Motor Speedway when they saw the super-modified rained-out 25-lapper of July 14, plus the regular modified headliner, a late-model feature and other events.

The first race of the night, the rain-out event, had Urbana's Neal Sceva and Columbus' Bob Smith doing the real battling, with Sceva emerging the victor with his third conquest of the season on the South Side oval.

IN THE SECOND modified 25-lap main event of the night, Bob Smith took over the front spot on the eighth-lap and, although Sceva drove bumper-to-bumper with him for 16-laps, Smith, who had won the 50-lap Mid-Season Championship feature a week ago, made it two for the year.

Shad Wheeler was the victor in the late-model feature, followed in quick order by Keith Weaver and Bob Bower.

None of the fans was able to select the first five finishers, in order, in the second modified headline race, so there'll be $800 in the jackpot this coming Friday night for the flying-stock program in the speedway's game of "Total."

SPEEDWAY officials have just announced the Mid-Season Championship races, for the flying-stocks will be held on Friday night, Aug. 9, with two 25-lap Monza-style features.

Horse Show Planned

The First Annual Horse Show of Hide-A-Way Hills Resort will be held Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 10-11. Show time is 1 p.m.

Hide-A-Way Hills is located 5½ miles south of Lancaster, off Route 33 It is a member of Tri-State Horse Association and Ohio Western Horse Association Inc. (approved point show).

Lt. Co. Walter K. Morgan U.S.A.F. (ret) is official manager.

Home Platers Picnic

Central Ohio Home Plate Club president Chuck Wareham announced the second annual Home Plate Club Stag Outing and Picnic will be held on Sunday, Aug. 18 at Jet stadium.

Barney Clapsaddle is general chairman for the big affair. Tickets may be purchased from board members and committee members.

All Y Titles Undecided As Seasons Near End

As teams enter the home stretch in the South Side "Y" Inter-Church softball program, championship honors remain up for grabs in all divisions.

In the Monday Junior Boys play last week, Emmanuel Lutheran defeated Hungarian United, 7-6, as it parlayed walks, hit batsmen and singles in the right places to produce a victory over the second round champs.

In other scheduled games, Welch Free Will Baptist won a well played tilt and the round - leading Livingston Methodist nine won by forfeit from Gates-Fourth Methodist.

Outstanding players included Marty Komives, Ronnie Sabo, Hubert Moore, Richard Young, M. Boggs, Brent DeWees and Dan Watkins.

GIRLS — Hope Lutheran was unable to field enough players for its two games scheduled last week, enabling first division Washington Ave. EUB and Hungarian United to add victories to their season records.

League leading South Methodist won its eighth straight in a thriller against Brookwood; while St. Paul United scored over Parsons Baptist Top performers for the night were Ann Slaughter, Karen Sickbert, Weonona Weston, Betty Compton, Jessie Nordoff and Janis and Terry Moore.

'Y' Wins But Loses

The "Y" won—well, actually the "Y" lost. The South Side "Y" Inter-Church All-Stars won a thrilling 3-2 victory over the South Side "Y" Intermediate team at Southwood Saturday.

Jim Christy hooked up in a real pitchers battle against John Whitacre, with each team able to muster only three hits, all singles.

The win was the fourth straight for Bill McDonald's All-Stars, with their next game scheduled for Saturday at Southwood with the Southeast Church All-Stars.

WEDNESDAY JUNIORS— St. John, league leaders for the second round, rested because of a bye, while Hope and St. Paul United continued their winning ways to remain in the runner up spot with wins over St. Paul Lutheran and Ohio Ave. EUB respectively.

South Methodist topped Southwood in a real crowd pleaser in the final game on the card. Players who grabbed the spotlight included Steve Foltz, David Davies, John Workmaster, Roger Milligan, Jim Christ and Gene Moore.

INTERMEDIATES — With Tom-Flockin having one of his real good nights at the plate, and John Whitacre pitching in fine form, South Methodist pulled a major upset as it downed the previously undefeated Frebis Church of God nine.

These two teams, along with the Ohio Ave. EUB - South Congregational combo, are now in the thick of a fight for the championship honors with a three way tie predicted after tonight's action. Chester Ellis, Gary McCoy, Hause and Roger Chapman also played oustanding ball for their respective teams.

Playgrounds Prepare For Junior Olympics

Children and leaders on the Columbus Recreation Department's 81 playgrounds are in the midst of preparations for the Central Ohio AAU Track Meet and also the AAU Swim Meet.

The annual track and field meet, co-sponsored by WBNS-TV and the department, will be conducted at Whetstone High School, 4405 Scenic-dr, Saturday, Aug. 3.

All field events will start at 11:30 a.m., while the running events will begin at 12:30 p.m. This meet is open to all boys and girls 17 years of age or under as of Aug. 3, who reside in Central Ohio AAU territory. Because of the all-weather track at Whetstone, no track shoes with spikes over one-fourth inch will be permitted.

Competition will be offered in four age groups of boys and girls: 11 and under; 12 and 13; 14 and 15; and 16 and 17. Entry blanks are available at the playgrounds or at Room 124, City Hall. Deadline for submitting entries is 9 p.m., Aug. 1, at the Columbus Recreation Department.

The Central Ohio AAU Junior Olympic Swim Meet will be held at Maryland Park's Swimming Pool Thursday and Friday, Aug. 8 and 9, with diving events starting both days at 9:30 a.m. Entry blanks are available at any playground or at most of the swimming pools in the city.

New playground hours went into effect July 29, throughout the city. Hours are from noon to 8 p.m., each week-day.

Following are reports from local playgrounds this week:

Lincoln Park . . .

Lincoln Park youngsters have decided to perform a "Candy Parade" for the annual pageant scheduled Tuesday, Aug. 20, at Schiller Park. Costumes resembling various forms of candy will be made and worn. A dance and drill formation will be part of the act.

Leader Mrs. Hynes asks that anyone between the ages of 10 and 16 who is interested in taking part in the act to see her.

Besides thinking of ideas for the parade, the youngsters have been learning the ancient art of basketweaving.

The softball squads continued their winning ways last week, taking three of four games.

The Intermediate Girls all but wrapped up the League K crown by stomping Watkins for the second time, 38-19. The Gold Junior Boys team and the Intermediate Boys won by forfeits. The Junior Girls lost to Karns, 14-11.

Karns . . .

The Pirates and the White Sox are the king-pins of the Karns' Junior Jet Leagues.

Coaches Dan Hoffman and Ron Foraker have guided the White Sox to a 8-1 record and the American League lead.

Herb and Steve Schomburg have led the Pirates to a 6-2 record, and the National League leadership.

The Heyl girls captured Karn's first league championship of the season. Carol Thomae pitched for Karns and the hitting of Shiela Morris, Jane Slaughter and Georgann Wood helped put the game on ice.

Bruce Harris, Steve Brown, and Pat Parker's big bats, combined with Rick Anderson's no-hit pitching, gave their team a 13-2 and the league championship. Anderson struck out nine, didn't allow the ball to be hit beyond the infield.

Karns Junior Gold forced its league into a three-way tie for first place with a win over Deshler. Mike Bellamy's slugging and the fielding gems of Jim Lyons, Dave Davies and Mike Shaefer led the Gold to its win.

Smith Road . . .

Smith Road's girls' softball team upset Schiller last week with a score of 18-11.

Gail Kaltenecker won the roller skating event again with a time of 2:24. These rallies are held every Monday night for the boys and girls of all ages.

The bicycle rally was cancelled last Friday because of the lantern parade, but will resume tomorrow night.

Next week the older children will do sculpture. They are asked to bring used coffee grounds, milk cartons and paring knives.

Physical fitness tests are given every day at 1 p.m.

The Junior Boys Red Team won the league championship by defeating Deshler Red. They will now play in the sectional play-off.

Southeast Lions . . .

Southeast Lions are assured of at least a tie for the South Division Championships. Southeast Lions blasted Karns 16-2, July 24, at Lincoln Park. The big bats banged out 25 hits, plus the smooth working combination of shortstop Doug Carroll and second baseman, Donald Galobs who pulled off three double plays, to help pull winning pitcher William Goodwin out of trouble in the fourth, sixth and seventh innings.

Southeast Lions defeated Watkins Road and Karns two straight to win the South District senior boys volleyball championship at Schiller Recreation, July 15.

Deshler winners in the sectional tennis tournament were Brenda Sarchet, Debbie Stewart, Steve Assmann and Kevin Assmann. Other entrants were Kent Rose, Jeff Bauer and Carl Lefevre.

The Deshler Red Junior Boys softball team lost its last chance for a bid at their league championship, by losing to Watkins, 14-0.

In other action, the Deshler Gold Team lost to Karns, creating a three-way tie for the championship of league B, Junior Boys Softball, with Karns, Deshler and Lincoln all vying for the title.

Booklet Of Flag Etiquette Included In Newspaper Offer

What is the proper way to raise and lower your American flag? When should the flag be displayed and what are the exceptions? What is the proper way to hoist your flag when planning to fly it at half staff?

These are just a few questions answered by the pamphlet on flag etiquette included in every flag kit purchased during the special offer being made by this Hartley Newspaper.

The pamphlet also gives tips for preserving and cleaning your flag as well as describing the proper way to dispose of it when your flag is no longer a fitting emblem for display.

During the special limited offer by Hartley Newspapers, the flag kit — containing a new 3x5 cotton American flag, six-foot wooden pole, halyard, top decoration, window socket and pamphlet on flag etiquette, along with a one-year subscription to any Hartley Newspaper — is priced at just $5.

Separately the flag kit is usually priced at $5.98 and the cost of a one-year subscription is $3. This means an overall savings of $3.98 to readers of Hartley Newspapers during the limited offer.

Since this combination offer was first made several weeks ago, nearly 400 readers have taken advantage of it by making their purchase of a new flag.

If you have not yet purchased your new 50-star flag for coming patriotic holidays, be sure to take advantage of this offer while the limited supply is available. When the remaining flags are sold there will be no more ordered.

Send your name and address, along with a check or money order for $5 for your new flag, to Hartley Newspapers, 2465 W. Broad-st. Be sure to mention the newspaper to which you wish to subscribe. If already a subscriber, one year will be added to the expiration date of your current subscription.

Divi-Chek is just one month old, yet it has already captured the fancy of hundreds of Central Ohio savers. These people were amazed to find that they could invest in a Divi-Chek account in July and receive the first monthly portion of their earnings in advance on Aug. 1 . . . and . . . a check regularly each month thereafter. You can get your first Divi-Chek on Sept. 1, if you open a Divi-Chek account by Aug. 10.

 JUST LIKE A PAYCHECK * NO COST TO SAVERS * FIRST TIME IN OHIO

 WHAT IS DIVI-CHEK?

With a DIVI-CHEK account you earn at the same high rate of dividend (4%) but you receive a check EVERY MONTH instead of only twice a year! This is the first time such an arrangement has been available to savers in Ohio! There is no charge to you for this service. Example: If you deposit $10,500 in a DIVI-CHEK account and do not add to or withdraw from the account until the end of the earning period, your monthly DIVI-CHEK will amount to $35.00. DIVI-CHEKS are actually advances secured by the recipient's savings account and are repaid automatically from regularly distributed earnings.

 WHO IS ELIGIBLE?

Anyone may open a DIVI-CHEK account with a minimum deposit of $5000. This includes individuals, partnerships, corporations, trusts, organizations and associations.

 ADDITIONS OR WITHDRAWALS?

Once your DIVI-CHEK account is opened, additions or withdrawals can be made (in multiples of $100) provided your balance remains at least $4000.

 WHO BENEFITS MOST FROM REGULAR MONTHLY DIVI-CHEKS?

Anyone who needs or prefers a planned periodic income instead of a lump sum payment of earnings. DIVI-CHEK accounts are particularly beneficial to those who are using their savings to support themselves — widows, retired people. People with seasonal occupations will realize the value of regular monthy checks in the off-season months. A planned periodic income can serve nearly anyone better than a lump sum payment.

Guard Your Credit Cards

Loss or theft of a credit card can cost you money. But the credit card holder does have protection if he acts promptly in reporting such loss.

Some credit cards bind the holder to all charges against the card until such time as it is returned to the issuing company. But in the event of loss or theft, there is a reasonable degree of protection afforded to the person to whom the card is issued.

The courts have ruled that the issuing company must make reasonable effort at the time of each sale to see that the proper person is using the card. Under the law, credit card holders must not mislead the concern issuing the card and must guard against use of the card by any unauthorized person. In return, the firm must also take measures to avoid honoring the card when presented by a wrongful user.

Issuance of a credit card may impose on the holder an unconditional promise to pay for any purchases made on the card. This, however, does not relieve the businessman or firm from using good faith in charging purchases to the card.

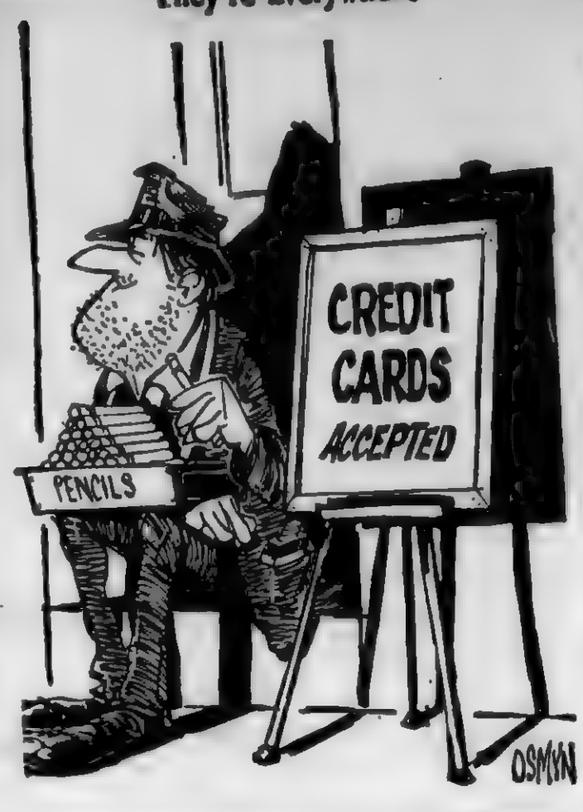
Each merchant or credit company may extend credit on different terms. Only if the terms are unfair, or if the customer is in an unequal bargaining position, or bound to unreasonable terms, will the agreement not be enforced.

Don't take chances with a lost credit card. If yours is lost or stolen report the loss to the issuing authority immediately.

Jets In 1964 -- Yes Or No?

After a disastrous start, the Columbus Jets have taken on the look of a pennant contender. Whether they can close the gap between their present standing and the top position is still an unanswered question.

There's one question you can answer now. When was the last time you were out to the stadium? A ball team's home advantage encompasses more than just the physical layout of the stadium.



The large local crowd vigorously pulling for its team has probably helped more ball games than a friendly right field fence.

Jet GM Harold Cooper has wondered aloud lately if Columbus really wants baseball. The challenge to local fans is just as great as the one facing the Jets in these final five weeks of the season.

If you can't remember how much fun it was going out to the ball game, then you've been away too long. The Jets have two more home stands—Aug. 8-15 and Aug. 20-25.

Let them know Columbus wants baseball!

Boosts Editorial Page

To The Editor:

I consider your Editorial Page a source of interesting, informative and constructive reading. In my opinion the page in the July 25 edition excelled all past efforts.

Article No. 1—"Recreation Is Vital Thing" worthwhile reading for all ages.

Article No. 2—"Home Ownership Creates Stability" no one should have missed reading this, it meant so much.

Article No. 3—"Family, Not Laws, Will Set Course For Youth." Nelson A. Crites so aptly sets forth the need for family togetherness and the fruits to be obtained therefrom. Often it is said, a family that prays together, stays together.

Article No. 4—"Fast Bucks' Fever Could Poison Us," by Jenkin Lloyd Jones. Mr. Jones brings out the fact that although many people are always looking for ways to make a fast buck, the great majority of people prefer to get their bucks by the sweat of their brow.

Thanks for wonderful reading.

Arthritis Project Succeeds

To the Editor:

Board and executive committee members of the Franklin County Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation were unanimous in their high praise of your cooperation in publicizing the recent Bexley Art Guild "Artists for Arthritis" showing at the Maramor.

As a direct result of your newspaper's efforts to publicize this affair, we have received many inquiries about the self-help devices. The terrifying helplessness created by these crippling diseases may be greatly eased as victims learn of the availability and use of these devices.

We are more than grateful for your humanitarian interest in this project.

An Editor's Outlook . . . 'Tremendous Tinkerer' Changed World

by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

One hundred years ago Tuesday Henry Ford was born.

He was born in the light of a kerosene lamp. The dynamo was still a laboratory curiosity. The Otto gas engine was six years away. When Baby Henry opened his eyes, wind still drove 90 per cent of the world's ships and falling water powered most of its machines. steam pushed the locomotives. Otherwise man found a horse or walked.

Jones

Henry was a tinkerer. His disgusted farmer-father said he had "wheels in his head." At school he learned little except the McGuffey maxims, corny but uplifting. While the kids played One Old Cat, Henry squatted by the brook making little waterwheels and turbines.

You might say Henry never became anything else but a tinkerer. He was a wrench-and-pliers man. He never read or wrote easily. He could have used a slide rule only to pick his teeth. But he had a sense of machinery.

When he was 12 his parents gave him a watch. He took it apart and reassembled it immediately. The foreman fired him from his first mechanic's job because he fixed in 10 minutes a babbit box on which the foreman and four skilled workers had been laboring for hours. On Christmas Eve, 1893, when he was the 29-year-old superintendent of the Detroit Edison Electric Co., he lugged into the kitchen a contraption consisting of a gas pipe cylinder, a homemade piston and a flywheel off an old lathe. While his nervous wife poured raw gasoline through a hole he spun the flywheel. In the roar and flames that followed, his life's ambition became clear.

He would build an automobile—the cheapest practical automobile on earth. An automobile for nearly everyone. "The Universal Car."

By 1903, the year the Ford Motor Co. was incorporated with $28,000 capital, there was an estimated 1,200 "motor companies" in America, most of them in barns. When Ford's first Model A rolled out the door, the company bank balance was down to $223.65. Fortunately, the cars sold well from the start, and the Ford Motor company never went to the lenders. It grew from nothing to a giant on its own earnings.

There were squabbles in the board of directors. Alexander Malcomson, the biggest stockholder besides Ford, wanted to make luxury cars. He left in bitterness. One-by-one other shareholders sold out to Ford and James Couzens for what they considered handsome profits. Albert Stretlow sold his five per cent of the company for $25,000. He blew it all on a mining venture.

Then in 1908 Ford brought out the Model T and what had been a vein of gold turned into a Golconda.

For 20 years everybody laughed about the Model T. Every vaudevillian had his Ford gags. "What time is it when two Fords go down the street?" (Tin after tin). A tin barn roof is rolled up in a tornado. As a joke the farmer sends it to the Ford factory. The reply: "It will cost you $43.50 to fix your Ford. What hit you?" The Ford company delightedly collected and published hundreds of them.

But the Model T was the most carefully researched car that had ever been produced. For three years in a corner of the factory, Ford, a couple of draftsmen, a young metallurgist, and a few trusted artisans put the first Model T together.

What will give strength with lightness? The new vanadium steel. How do you get a hot spark without a battery? A magneto system. How to shift gears most simply and cheaply? A planetary transmission. It was a car stripped to the bare essentials. But the Tin Lizzie bounded over the rutted roads of America, splashed through the creeks, rode high through the gumbo. There were other cheap cars, but the Model T was the only good cheap car.

It caught on like wildfire. Within a few months the embarrassed company had to quit taking orders. So the moving assembly line was born. The man no longer went to the job. The job moved past the man. Ford made the industrial world furious when he established the $5 wage at a time when $2.50 a day was standard for skilled labor.

Cars demanded roads, first graded, then graveled, then paved. Rural life lost its isolation and the shock was felt everywhere. The crossroads "general store" languished. The newborn interurban died quickly. "Milk" trains vanished. Blacksmiths became garage men.

As Ford grew fabulously rich and famous his blind spots became apparent. He saw little use in colleges. He hadn't gone. He couldn't understand why people bought paintings when photographs were more accurate. With kind conceit he tried to stop World War I by financing a "peace ship." He took a brief fling at anti-Semitism as publisher of the peculiar "Dearborn Independent." He mulishly overrode the protests of his bright son, Edsel, and held on to the Model T until General Motors took his measure with the snappier Chevrolet.

He was not a great mind — only a narrowly-clever man. But he believed in machines. He thought they would make the world happy. He wanted to straighten the bent back and remove the drudgery of labor. And he did.

Henry Ford, not Karl Marx, was the modern revolutionist. The masses under Communist rule all dream wistfully of the day when they can have a car.

Frosting On The Cake

By "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

The biggest successes are those people who save their own soul on the way up the ladder of life. Others have some degree of success by being rough and tough and threatening with their fellow humans, but it is an ersatz success, and they wind up with no ability to unwind their record.

Millions of people live out their lives in sad-sack slavery to drudgery, only because they know nothing of the dynamics of real achievement. They hate to get up in the morning, and they hate to go to work, and they hate the boss, and they wind up hating themselves.

Success, without finding the secret of happiness, is too often a hollow sham. By failing to take care of the "out-put" as well as the "in-take," they are wide open to the charge of ingratitude, and the ingrate is always the most miserable of beings.

No one ever begins to become "somebody" until he has learned to respect folks who have already become "somebody." Just be sure you pick the right models to admire.

Honest sweat, coupled with honest minds, activated by healthy ambition to amount to something, make up an unbeatable formula for happy and contented living with one's self.

The everlasting will to be kind and considerate costs nothing except a high type of social intelligence.

Guest Pulpit . . . The Call To Prayer Applies In Space Age

Two years ago as I first entered the Arab World in Cairo, Egypt, there came the unforgettable experience of hearing the Moslem Call to Prayer. How weird the musical call sounded in its minor key! Notwithstanding the differences I felt with this ancient system, I could not help but be impressed as faithful Moslems bowed to the ground in response to their call to prayer.

Rev. Perkins

We of the Christian world likewise have a call to prayer. In an age which is jet-propelled it is increasingly difficult to heed that call which the Prophet long ago gave with such meaningful emphasis: "If my people, which are called by My name, shall humble themselves and pray, and seek My face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from Heaven, and will forgive their sin, and heal their land." (2 Chr. 7:14).

Long ago the disciples had wisdom to ask for guidance in prayer. "Lord, teach us to pray" was their petition. We need to be reminded again of the words recorded by the prophet: "In quietness and in confidence shall be your strength." (Is. 30:15). The Psalmist spoke words of comfort to a troubled world: "Be still, and know that I am God." (Ps. 46:10)

As a boy I recall our little rural congregation singing certain Sunday School songs almost every Sunday. One of them was:

What a friend we have in Jesus,
All our sins and griefs to bear;
What a privilege to carry
Everything to God in prayer!

O what peace we often forfeit,
O what needless pain we bear,
All because we do not carry
Everything to God in prayer.

Paul admonished the followers of Christ to "pray without ceasing." "In everything give thanks." "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me." The example of the early church was that the members "continued steadfastly in the Apostles' doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers." (Acts 2:42).

Great men of God have always prayed. Noah prayed and God showed him how to build the Ark of Deliverance. Moses prayed and God directed him and the children of Israel through the wilderness. Daniel prayed and the mouths of lions were closed. Elijah prayed and God did what Baal could not do for 400 of his prophets on Mt. Carmel in consuming with fire the sacrifice.

Jesus often prayed through the night and has left us in the Word great examples of praying: "Nevertheless, not my will but thine be done." On the Cross: "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do;" and the Lord's Prayer. The disciples prayed and were filled with the Holy Spirit. The result was that 3000 souls were added to the church. So today the Christian with power and the church with a message are those who pray.

In the home of John Wesley there is a little prayer room, perhaps a key secret to his greatness. Would that we could have more prayer rooms in our homes today! "The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much."

Christian friend, pray!

Pray at the times of need, lest you become fearful and despondent. Pray at the times of blessing, lest you become self-reliant and proud. Prayer is the unfathomed dimension of space our present generation would do well to explore.

THE SECOND BATTLE

On a quiet Sunday morning in July, 1913, this writer stood in the front yard of a Southern Ohio rural church and heard an old soldier tell of his experiences of a few days before in "The Second Battle of Gettysburg." A reunion had been held there on the 50th anniversary of the battle.

The 50,000 who came were welcomed by Governor Tener of Pennsylvania. The U. S. Army Quartermaster Corps bedded them in tents and fed them from field kitchens. War Secretary Garrison spoke: "The passions of yesteryear have become a comradeship under one flag."

A woman sang the National Anthem while a Confederate old soldier waved the flag of the Union beside her. The crowd cheered.

Men were still coming in on July 2. But already 6000 had gone home because of the 90 degree heat. The oldest was Micajah Weiss, age 92.

By July 3, 10,000 had gone home, seven had been injured, and eight had died. But Pickett's charge was reenacted 50 years to the hour after the original. When the Confederates reached the grove of trees (still there) and the stone wall, the Bloody Angle, they were greeted by handclasps instead of the hot fire of muskets and the cruel steel of bayonets.

On July 4, President Woodrow Wilson spoke of "the high recklessness of utter devotion that does not count the cost."

So ended the reunion of Gettysburg, the greatest up to that time, perhaps of all time.

It says here . . .

Why must war come before peace?

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

Vegetables, Melons Top List Of Plentifuls

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits—cantaloupe, watermelon, peaches, plums.
Vegetables—sweet corn, tomatoes, green beans, potatoes, lettuce, cucumbers.
Meat and Poultry—fryers, forequarter cuts of beef, ground beef, hams, medium eggs.
Other—canned tuna, dairy foods.

It's August again . . . with prospects for the usual peak supply of summer vegetables. It's also the large supply month of two summer favorite fruits—cantaloupe and watermelon.

You can serve a different colorful vegetable every day with the variety expected this month. Sweet corn harvest is in full swing now, bringing the best eating varieties of the season to market. Quality is good. Vine-ripened tomatoes come from nearby fields from now until early frost; prices are lowest in August and early September. Look, also, for attractive prices on lima beans, beets, snap beans, cabbage and lettuce.

Mrs. Franks

This year's cantaloupe supplies are slightly above average, and it's in August that peak supplies come to our markets from many regions. If you like the homegrown cantaloupe best, harvest of a good-sized crop begins early this month. The quality of the Ohio crop is reported to be very good as a result of the bright sun and hot weather for many weeks.

Watermelons have been placed on the plentiful food list by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, so expect prices to stay reasonable. Only a few watermelons are grown in Ohio. Peaches and many varieties of plums are available. Bartlett pears start this month but the total U.S. crop will be small this year.

Meats and Poultry

You can keep the outdoor grill hot, because there will be plenty of top grade beef coming to market. The prediction that cattle marketings will taper off late this summer and into the fall still stands.

Mid-summer beefsteaks for the grill will likely be more costly than a few weeks ago; other cuts will not vary much from July prices. You can expect retail prices on fresh pork to remain at present levels through August. Bacon prices continue to edge up; cured hams have declined a little.

Meat men say lamb and veal supplies will increase slightly during the next two months and that bargain prices on fryers will continue.

Schiller Lantern Event Winners Announced

Last Friday night Schiller Park was the scene of the annual South Sectional Lantern Parade, sponsored by the Columbus Recreation Department.

Three hundred eleven boys and girls from 17 playgrounds in the southeast part of the city assembled with lanterns made on the playgrounds, and marched around the lake and through the park past the judges' stand.

The creations took various shapes and sizes, such as the 15-ft. "Puff The Magic Dragon," an eight-foot submarine, six-foot housefly, an open book and many other small lanterns.

Winners of the best project were: first, Leawood Gardens, with the theme taken from the song "Puff, the Magic Dragon"; second, Smith Road for the theme of "World Peace," and third, Courtright, depicting the "Wild West" complete with a chuck wagon.

Ribbons were presented to the following playgrounds for these prize winners: prettiest, Karns, Schiller and Deshler; cleverest, Smith Road, Scottwood and Scioto Trail; most unusual, James Road, Schill-Leawood, Smith Road and er and Scioto Trail; original, Most spectacular, Lincoln, Smith Road and Willis Park; best design, Scioto Trail, Helmandale and Schiller; showtest, Schiller, Smith Road and James Road; funniest, Willis, Scottwood, Lincoln; most grotesque, Scioto Trail, Smith Road and Willis Park; special award, Southeast Lions, Pinecrest and Livingston.

Sawbel—

In attendance at the meeting.

Mrs. Edmonston stressed that the July 23 meeting was not a public meeting, and that Council members did not commit themselves to any specific course of action. "We said we would study their problems," Mrs. Edmonston stated.

She said the meeting included discussion of the proposed $300 water tap charge. It was pointed out, she said, that this charge would work against developers who would be required to include the charge as an added initial investment.

Mrs. Edmonston said tabling of the current water rate ordinance would allow time to determine savings to the water department as the result of ordinances passed during the Monday night session.

The ordinances to which she referred would transfer 58 employes from the Division of Water to the Division of Parks and Forestry.

The ordinances transfer to the Division of Parks and Forestry the responsibility for maintenance and construction of park lands and facilities. The work was previously charged to the water division payroll.

Finance Director Freeman reported that the change would decrease Division of Water operating funds for the balance of 1963 by an estimated $129,000. He estimated a $304,000 operating decrease for 1964.

Mrs. Edmonston said there is "no use discussing the Sawvel report now" until results are known on savings to be effected by the streamlining ordinances. "I would have no idea when that will be," she added.

The currently planned revision of the water rate ordinance is scheduled to be completed within a few days, but will not necessarily represent the final draft of the rate increase measure.

A prime purpose in revising the ordinance will be to eliminate extraneous material and focus attention on areas including the basic rate structure, capacity and system capacity charges, fire protection service and overall consideration of rates inside and outside Columbus.

The western portion of the continent was explored thoroughly by Clara Dover, 512 Jackson-st, for this summer's vacation. By the looks of her itinerary, she viewed practically every western landmark possible in a few weeks. The traveler utilized both trains and motor coaches in her weeks of traveling. She took in such sights as Las Vegas, Hoover Dam and Lake Mead, in her first sightseeing.

Her next stop was in California, where she quartered at Mission Inn. Other spots visited in California were San Juan Capistrano, founded in 1776 and made famous by the swallows that return so punctually each year; Knott's Berry Farm and Disneyland. She saw the performing porpoises whil: at Marineland. She also visited Tiajuana, Mexico.

Another tour included a view of homes of millionaires, movie stars and celebrities, in beach resorts, the Palisades and Beverly Hills. This junket also presented views of motion picture and radio stations, as well as glimpses of the Wilshire District and MacArthur Park. Clara took advantage of the opportunity to see the Farmer's Market as well!

Another phase of the trip found Mrs. Dover at the Merced River Canyon and Yosemite Valley. On an all-day trip, the Columbusite saw the Mariposa Grove of Big Trees and Glacier Point. Leaving nature's handiwork, the traveler journeyed on to view some of man's creations, in San Francisco. Her sight-seeing included the Golden Gate Park, a tour of China Town and a boat ride on the bay, past outmoded Alcatraz Island, Treasure Island, and the Golden Gate and Bay Bridges.

No trip in San Francisco would be complete without a ride in the Cable Car, so that was also included in the summer's experiences of Mrs. Dover. Knowing the inveterate traveler, she probably has next year's vacation all planned already!

A tour of the brand new Christopher Inn is the Aug. 8 offering of the YWCA Summer Tour. The evening's activities will also include a group dinner. The reservation and $4 payment for the 6 p.m. affair must be made by Monday, Aug. 5. The number to call is CA. 4-9121.

The Young Married Fellowship Class of the Ohio Ave. EUB Church will meet at 7 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 4, at the home of Dean and Carole Karns, 1439 Byrd-dr, to enjoy homemade ice cream. Dave and Carol Blazer will lead devotions.

The Fellowship Class of Southwood Church of Christ will meet at 3 p.m., on Saturday, Aug. 3, for its annual corn roast, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gutridge. The YCHB Class of the church also has a meeting scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 3. C. E. Seniors of Southwood who are just back from Round Lake Camp are Carol Doron, Carla Jividen, David Ourster, Beverly Ourster and Susan Smith. Adult members of the church who were workers in the camp were Rev. and Mrs. Ellis Wesner, Mrs. Carl Jividen and Mrs. Richard Donavan.

The Schiller Park Golden Age Club will meet on Tuesday, Aug. 6, at 1 p.m., for the business meeting and birthday social.

Still young enough to relish the idea of adding a new year to their age, these small fry are listed in the birthday-celebrating segment of the population:

Larry Depriest, Danny Obert, Kimberly Masters, Vicky Bivens, Melinda Mulkey, Beverly Wallace, Brenda Neel, Thomas Cheeshir, Dawn Lindsey, Charles Sherrod, Douglas Williams, Carol Frazier, Greg Malberger, Vicky Lynn Bivens, Jane Schodorf and Trudy Marie Tope.

Natal day greetings to teens Harold Fielder, Janice Alexander, Carol Loska, Jon Leist and Gary Conkle.

Adult friends to whom we express good wishes are these: Pat Miller, Shirley Hathorn, Mary Long, Helen Yockey, Phyllis Donovan, Sharron Miller, Ruth Friebis and Maude James. Belated wishes to Mrs. Charles Ketter, who recently celebrated an 88th birthday.

Anniversary celebrants include Jean and Fred Bush, Edward and Agnes Dorn, Billie Rae and Jay Gramlich.

Franklin, Isabelle and Sharon Dunkle, 93 E. Frebisay, drove through Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota for this year's vacation junket.

Oscar Jenkins, Innis-av, was able to realize a life-long dream this summer and that was to take his two grandsons on a camping trip to Canada with him. His grandsons, Paul, 13, and David Ross, 15, are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ross of Thurman-av. The trio was quartered at Louzicourt, Quebec.

A big thrill for the boys was visiting a logging camp and eating wth the lumberjacks. In their two-week vacation they also saw quite a few moose. Naturally, the famed Canadian fishing was generously sampled by the Columbusites.

Pastor and Mrs. David Lynn, with their family, are enjoying a vacation in New Mexico. The pastor of the Hope Lutheran Church was winner of a scholarship provided by the Lutheran Brotherhood Insurance to attend the Volunteer Training Center, Philmont Scout Ranch at Cimarron, N. M.

The 40 recipients of the scholarships will learn how the church and Scout program can enjoy closer co-operation. The Lynn family left on July 25 and will return Aug. 21.

The members of the Hope Luther League will be among those attending the Area Luther League Picnic to be held on Sunday, Aug. 4, 2:30 to 8 p.m., at the Grace Lutheran Country Club, for a "nosebag" lunch.

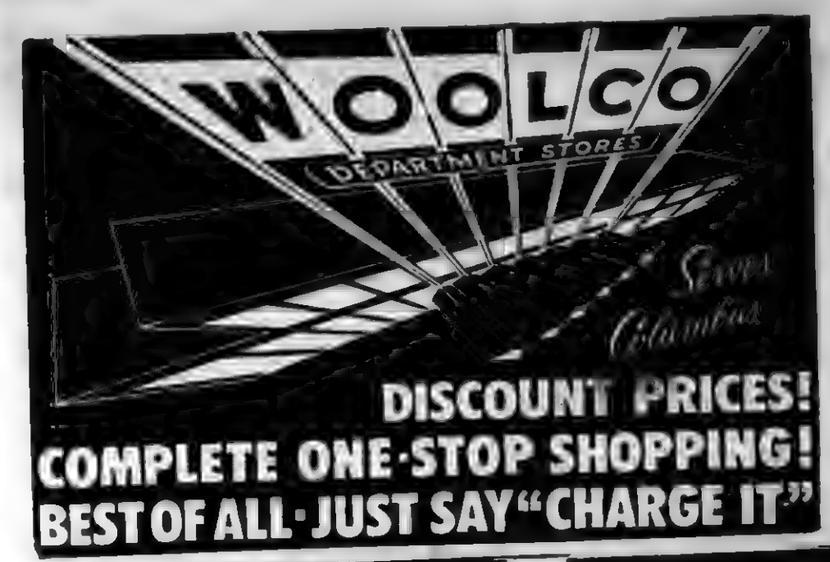
Interested women bowlers are reminded that a meeting will be held today (Thursday) at the Rainbow Lanes, to formulate plans for the Rainbow Handicappers Leagues, which bowls at 1 p.m. on Thursdays, during the season. A call to Evelyn at HL 3-3519 will provide fuller details.

The annual Homecoming and Festival of St. Mary's parish will feature a fish fry on Friday, Aug. 16, and a chicken dinner on Saturday, Aug. 17. The awarding of a Galaxie "500" Hardtop, at 11 p.m. on Saturday, will climax the two-day festival.

Cloverleaf 12 of St. Anthony's Hospital will meet on Tuesday, Aug. 6, for a 12:30 luncheon. Mrs. Andy Holzapfel, 1278 Wilson-av, will be the hostess.

Palm Meals on Wheels will meet on Saturday, Aug. 3, at 6 p.m., for a dessert bridge at 1190 S. 22nd-st, home of Mrs. F. Herrel.

Rev. and Mrs. Carl Brown spent a week in Washington, D. C., visiting their son Ronny, who is now a resident of the capital.



The ailing list includes Paul Baughman, 1575 S. 6th-st, who is convalescing in Mt. Carmel, following surgery; Iva Warner, who was in Grant Hospital, and Mrs. Ila Bosworth, now at home, 1444 Wilson-av, after a stay in Grant Hospital.

Governor To Officiate At County Fair Opening

By C. R. Holbert

Ohio's Governor James A. Rhodes will personally open the way to Franklin County's Golden Anniversary Fair in Hilliard next Monday, Aug. 12, by cutting the ribbon at the main gate of the fairgrounds. The ceremony is to take place at 6 p.m.

Assisting the governor will be Director of Agriculture, Robert Stackhouse.

The state's first citizen will be helped in the opening ceremony by Penny Miles, "Miss Hilliard — 1963". She will cut a huge cake prepared especially for the occasion.

Other helping hands will be offered by several honorary cake cutters, including A. E. Bogan, Charles High, Robert Reese, and Fred Dellinger, "grand old men" of the Franklin County Fair.

Kicking things off later in the evening will be the 4-H Fun Talent Show in front of the grandstand at 7:30, featuring complete family entertainment.

On Tuesday the day begins with Angus beef cattle judging scheduled for 8:30 a.m., followed by a full morning of poultry, farm products and animal husbandry judging.

The flower show begins at noon, and the District 10 Jersey Cattle show at 7 p.m.

Tuesday night holds a double attraction in the persons of the Fair King and Queen interviews and selection. This will take place in the Activities Tent immediately after the interviews at 7 o'clock.

Swine, Shorthorn and Charolais cattle judging make up Wednesday morning's schedule, the latter being new to the regular annual fair agenda. Rabbit judging is to be held at 12:30 p.m. and the Central Ohio Guernsey Show is set for 7 in the evening.

Racing Begins Wednesday

Three nights of pari-mutuel harness racing enliven the fair picture Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Eligible entries total some 180 for the Hometown Colt Stakes.

Eligible runners include 53 two-year-old trotters, 16 two-year-old pacers, 21 three-year-old trotters and 30 three-year-old pacers, said Vic Miller of the racing committee.

An array of judging, exhibitions, midway amusements, and other interesting

ON THE BLOCKING stand, getting all "prettied up" for his debut at the county fair is one of the young Shropshire rams that Tom Lamp, son of Mr. and Wilber Lamp, Brice-rd, will show. Tom, a sophomore at Canal Winchester High School, bought seven bred ewes last fall and is proud of his 200 per cent lambing record. Besides the 12 sheep (Shropshire and Cordele) he will show as FFA projects, he will also exhibit Holstein dairy heifers as part of his 4-H work.

Lazy Days Ramblings

The over 90 degree heat of this past Saturday and Sunday gave a lot of people something to complain about and I'm not complaining if they like to complain but actually I found nothing to complain about.

After a heavy afternoon of outside work it was a refreshing interlude to be able to relax in a reclining summer chair and look up into the trees and listen to the symphony of a movement directed by hundreds of branches like the arms of a hundred directors wielding batons.

Warmth of a very different kind was much in evidence as our six-year-old Golden Retriever gave forth with his special kind of love and affection by nudging a little closer until he made a physical contact with my shoe, as though to say, "What's love if you don't express it."

Summertime is nature's growing season. Both plants and relationships require warmth for continued growth.

Ever Read This Chapter?

"Brethren," said the visiting pastor, "the subject of today's sermon will be 'falsehoods.' How many in the congregation have read the 69th chapter of Matthew?"

Nearly every hand went up.

"Well now," said the preacher, "this is just the group I want to talk to — there is no such chapter!"

St. Mary's Homecoming Almost Here

"Gesundheit."

No. No one just sneezed.

That is the greeting of "God Bless You" on a banner that will wave above the hundreds who will pour onto the grounds of St. Mary's School grounds next Friday and Saturday, Aug. 16 and 17.

By this time next week, activity will be at a high pitch. Both young and old of the societies and members of the parish will be giving their all to the last-minute preparations for the annual Homecoming and Festival.

For more than 50 years, graduates of St. Mary's have convened at the old school at 685 Mohawk-st for two days. Old friends will meet at the authentic "Bier Garten" that has been set up. Entertainment and food will be sold at the numerous booths and stands.

City Schools Remind New Students To Register

Columbus school bells will signal the close of summer vacation for nearly 100,000 youngsters Wednesday morning, Sept. 4.

School officials, anticipating an enrollment increase of 4,600, in addition to an undetermined number of summer transfers to new districts, emphasize the need for immediate registration.

All students new to the Columbus system, and those who have moved into different districts during the summer months, must register at the school they will attend, to ensure scheduling and early study assignments.

In addition, secondary school students who wish to change their schedules must do so at the school before Friday, Aug. 16. There will be no schedule changes during the first week of school.

Junior and senior high principals are in their offices now, and elementary principals will be on duty after Monday, Aug. 12. Any student or parent who has questions about the coming school year is urged to come to the school or phone.

The new Buckeye Junior High School at 2750 Parsons-av has opened offices this week at Scioto Trail Elementary School, 2951 S. High-st. Pupils new to the area may register there while the Buckeye building is being completed.

Anyone new to the area who has doubts as to which school his child should attend should call the Columbus Board of Education, CA. 8-3821.

Students entering the Columbus school system from other towns must furnish proof of compliance with Ohio's immunization law. They must have, or be in the process of completing, the following immunizations:

Smallpox, one successful vaccination; poliomyelitis, three vaccines, either oral or injections; diphtheria and tetanus, two injections required in the third through sixth grades.

Teanus, two injections required in the seventh through 12th grades, with a booster at least one year after the basic series is completed. Diphtheria and tetanus booster (depending on grade level) is also required.

GEN. STRAUSS TAKES OVER

LASSITERS MAKE THEIR FOND FAREWELL

By JANE ROBINSON

Tears streamed unashamedly down the cheeks of an elderly gentleman, almost immobile in his wheel chair, a guest at the change of command ceremonies at Lockbourne AFB last Thursday.

Judge Thomas Herbert, former governor of the State of Ohio, showed his loss more unabashedly than most at the parade grounds when Gen. O. F. Lassiter relinquished the command he has held the past three years to his successor, Gen. Robert H. Strauss.

Yet the voices of more than one broke as Gen. and Mrs. Lassiter stood in the reception line following the impressive ceremonies, host and hostess for the last time at Lockbourne.

It was obvious that Lassiter, who had come to the base as a colonel and was leaving as a general, was also leaving as a personal friend of not only his staff, but of many civilians.

During Lassiter's tour of duty here, the SAC base has enjoyed unusually cordial relations with the community within which it is located.

Mayor W. Ralston Westlake and his wife were present to bid the Lassiters bon voyage.

Dr. Vernon Alden, president of Ohio University and his Dean, Albert C. Gubitz, who have been so pleased with the success of the OU branch established on the reservation, were on hand to say their farewells.

Don Casto, builder, and officers of several banks were among the representatives of Deserted Cars Sorry Plight

In an age when the automobile is often consi[illegible] a member of the family, the number of abandoned ste[illegible]ildren" increases. Unlike their human counterparts, however, these "children" are not protected by law.

These steel and chrome orphans, once adopted from a Detroit assembly line, rust and cower among the weeds in back yards, on city streets and alleys, in country fields, and even in shopping center parking lots.

Disposal of an abandoned car is sometimes difficult, sometimes relatively simple. The procedure used depends upon where the car is located. Here are some examples of what can be done.

After being parked on a street, alley or thoroughfare,

The Lord is my shepherd

The 23rd Psalm is one of the most familiar chapters in the Bible. Early in life, most of us have committed it to memory. Every once in a while we should go back to these verses and think of the wonderful message of faith and trust in God that they reveal to us. They show us that we have a loving Father; one who will show us the right paths; one who will protect and provide for us. These scriptures end with a note of thanksgiving and a promise.

"Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

Plan to start a regular worship in the Lord's house this Sunday.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

CAMERA CATCHES COMPETITION AT '63 OHIO STATE SKY DIVING MEET

A GROUP OF SKY diving enthusiasts proved that space flights aren't restricted to Cape Canaveral alone last weekend as they competed in the 1963 Ohio State Sky Diving meet roughly a mile and half above and four miles south of Plain City on the Price-Hilliard-rd. At left is smiling winner Bill Cook, 693 S. Terrace-av, who copped the overall champion trophy, thanks to his first-place finishes in both target and team competition jumping and second place in style jumping. Center photo pictures Paul Ninninger, 83 Broadlawn-av, as he displays the form that earned him the first place trophy in style jumping. At right is Jim Hite, 398 E. Royal Forest, shown corralling his chute following a perfect landing. The meet was composed of three events—style (7200-ft.), target (3200-ft.) and team (7200-ft.) jumping. To underline the accuracy of the target jumpers, Cook's winning jump placed him six inches from the center of the target. Cook and Ninninger, who are both employed at Westinghouse, jump every Saturday and Sunday, weather permitting. (Photos by Tom Baird.

Senior Citizens Center

275 McDowell-st

After the Senior Citizens Recreation Center elects six officers in May, the new president in consultation with the directors, appoints the 12 standing committee chairmen. This group of 18 makes up the Senior Council that meets monthly to hear reports, discuss activities, and to make suggestions for future programs.

From 80 to 100 members serve on these committee that represent a variety of interest areas. Each has a staff advisor that meets with them.

Many older people have leadership skills, any many discover talents that they did not know existed. Members working in these small groups soon learn it is one of the best ways to make friends more quickly, and they enjoy seeing ideas they present turn out successfully for others — it also increases self esteem to be of service with a specific assignment.

This represents the "inner life" of the center. The inter-action between members and recreation leaders is the most important part of this professionally directed program for older people.

The Senior Center's working committees from May, 1963 to May, 1964 are:

Membership chairman, Mrs. Harriet Evans; new members tea, Mrs. Mary Adler, Mrs. Ann E. Werner, Mrs. Edith Robinson, Mrs. Nancy Lacey, Mrs. Elsie Collins, Mrs. Rachel Strawn and Mrs. Sarah Davidson; name tags, Mrs. Emilie Hale and Mrs. Mae Bryant.

Hostess chairman, Mrs. Marie Kramer, and committee members Mrs. Mary Adler, Mrs. Pansy Kuhn, Mrs. Estella Ruckman, Mrs. Emma McFarland, Mrs. Anna Brodbeck, Mrs. Harriet Evans, Mrs. Elda Turvey, Mrs. Christine Phillips, Mrs. Leona Gump, Mrs. Bessie Weiss, Mrs. Gaynelle Tannreuther and Mrs. Pauline Donavan.

Nominating chairman: Mrs. Farland, Mrs. Pansy Kuhn, Clinton Turvey and committee members Mrs. Emma McAllison Wood and Arthur Simons.

House chairman, Fred Kreuzer; friendly visiting chairman, Mrs. Olga Merz and committee members Mrs. Iren- Redding and Mrs. Martha Rittenger.

'Confederate' Cash Jackpot Again Passes $100 Mark

Again the jackpot in the "Confederate" Money Contest, sponsored by this paper, has passed the $100 mark. This means that some lucky subscriber to a Hartley Newspaper could take home enough "Confederate" cash this week to make a down payment on a car, buy furniture, appliances or any of hundreds of other items advertised in today's paper.

Any merchant or place of business which has an advertisement in any of the seven Hartley Newspapers will accept the "Confederate" money, at face value, just like the real thing.

To win this week's jackpot of $113 in "Confederate" cash, a reader must find a "5" insignia, just like the one shown in the column, printed in a color other than black. Only one of these emblems is placed within one of the large advertisements in one copy of this week's edition of nearly 74,000 newspapers.

To claim the entire jackpot the finder must be a paid subscriber to a Hartley Newspaper and bring the paper containing the winning insignia to the Hartley Newspaper office, 2465 W. Broad-st, in person, before the deadline at noon on the Monday following the date of publication. If not a paid subscriber the finder can still win $5 in "Confederate" money.

In 20 separate copies of this week's edition of Hartley Newspapers there have been hidden "1" emblems like the one shown in this column. Like the "5" emblem, they are printed in a color other than black and appear within an advertisement on the inside pages.

These emblems can gain $1 in "Confederate" cash if the finder will mail the page containing the winning insignia to the Hartley Newspaper office. The finder does not have to be a subscriber to claim the winnings from a "1" emblem.

All entries must be submitted by the deadline on Monday, following publication of the paper, before noon.

This contest is not open to employes, including carriers, of Hartley Newspapers and their families. All "Confederate" money will be accepted, at face value, by any merchant advertising in a Hartley Newspaper during the week the winner finds the emblem.

All money not claimed during one week's contest is added to the jackpot that is offered the following week.

Ohio Federal Savings Says Divi-Chek Plan Successful

The Divi-Chek, a plan which assures participants of a check each month, has been qualified as an overwhelming success by the Ohio Federal Savings and Loan Association, 24 E. Gay-st, which introduced the plan in Ohio one month ago.

More than $1.5 million has been invested in the plan during the first three weeks of operation, according to Arthur R. (Art) Allen, president of the association.

Allen said the plan is open to anyone having $5,000 or more to invest. Since it is illegal for a savings and loan firm to declare monthly dividends, the local organization actually pays advanced installments on the six-month dividend. This plan is a modification of a plan first introduced on the West Coast. Ohio Federal is the first to offer it in Ohio.

So far records indicate that many of the early investors were retired persons who invested an average of $10,000 in their new Divi-Chek accounts. All investments made by the 10th of the month yield the first check on the first of the following month.

The Divi-Chek plan is available at any of the six offices of Ohio Federal Savings and Loan: Main Office, 24 E. Gay-st; Linden Office, 3246 Cleveland-av; Southern Office, 3460 S. High-st; Whitehall Office, 4140 E. Broad-st; Arlington Office, 1743 W. Lane-av, and Reynoldsburg Office, 7110 E. Main-st.

All accounts are insured up to $10,000 by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, an agency of the Federal Government.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

Peak Season For Tomatoes, Roasting Ears

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Vegetables — sweet corn, tomatoes, snap beans, cabbage, all purpose potatoes.

Fruits — watermelons, cantaloupes, peaches, plums, nectarines, grapes, summer apples.

Meats and Poultry — fryers, chucks and rounds of beef, hams, medium eggs.

Other — canned tuna, peanut butter, dairy products.

Field grown tomatoes are in peak season. From now until frost they come to our markets vine-ripened and full flavored from nearby fields. Local supply is expected to be heaviest and prices lowest from Aug. 15 through early September.

Mrs. Franks

The Ohio Crop Reporting Service estimates that the 1963 Ohio crop of early summer tomatoes is down 24 per cent from last year. The reduction is due mainly to fewer acres planted, with the weather being a contributing factor. However, the total supply picture looks brighter — estimated to be down only two to three per cent in the main producing areas of the country.

Although production is down, you can expect tomato quality to be up. Bill Brooks, Extension Specialist, O.S.U., reports that the hot, dry weather has caused high sugar content in tomatoes, resulting in excellent eating quality.

Mr. Brooks also commented that while tomatoes with cracks may not look good, cracks do not hurt the flavor. Generally cracks are caused by a rapid change in the water supply in tomatoes. They grow slowly during a dry time, then moisture causes them to make such a spurt in growth that they literally get "too big for their skins," so they split.

Irregular shaped or cracked tomatoes are not popular for slicing, but may be economical for wedges or pulp or juice. A bushel (50 pounds) of tomatoes will make 15 to 20 quarts when canned.

Also Best Time For Roasting Ears

Now is the time to enjoy roasting ears to the hilt. The best eating varieties of the season are here. Luckily, much acreage devoted to this crop in the Columbus area is under irrigation, so the ears from these fields are well-filled and the kernels tender and sweet. Harvest at farms without irrigation will wind up early this summer—for many in another week or two. As a result, prices may not go as low this summer as last.

For best quality and lowest price, the next two weeks will likely be the best time to freeze sweet corn. Recommended varieties for freezing include Golden Cross Bantam, Victory Golden, Deep Gold, Golden Sensation, and Tendermost.

Cast Of 350 To Stage 'Neptune of Broadway' At Center Aug. 10, 11

"Neptune Of Broadway," 12th annual water show of the Jewish Center's Swim Department, will be staged in the outdoor pool of the center, 1125 College-av, Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 10 and 11, 7 p.m.

Public is invited to both performances. Tickets are available at the door.

A cast of 300 children and 50 adults will perform in a program of water ballet, synchronized canoeing, diving, trampoline and gymnastic exhibitions, and acrobatic ballet dancing.

The show, in its entirety or by portions, will be repeated many times during the year for charity benefits and exhibitions, in the community, at other Jewish Centers and at the Veterans Hospitals in Dayton and Chillicothe.

Attended each year by more than 1,000 persons, the annual productions each represent a year of practice and planning, and are directed by Peggy Pierce, head of the swim department.

Key groups in the cast are the Nereides, skilled girls from eight to 17, and the Torpedoes, a group of 30 boys now under the leadership Lynda Bayliss.

Although produced and coordinated under the direction of Peggy Pierce, most of the choreography and costuming for the water numbers is done by the Nereides, part of the club's purpose of developing the girls' creativity.

A lot of know-how and experience go into the productions, with some of the older girls and boys incorporating eight or nine years of instruction, experience and practice into the show.

Howard Banchefsky is director of the center's health and physical education department, and Stuart Greenberg, former member of Ohio State University's gymnastic team, is in charge of diving and gymnastic instruction. Greenberg will present a trampoline and diving exhibition during the show, and his group will perform in a free exercise period.

Nineteen classes in water skills are conducted at the center throughout the year for all age groups, from three and a half years through the Senior Citizens groups.

The center has a fleet of sailboats and canoes at Hoover Dam, and canoeing instruction is given there by Lynda Bayliss and Sissy Schwartz. Alan Ross and Sissy Schwartz conduct sailboat classes.

FALLOUT DANGER ON GROUND ZERO

BELIEVE IT or not, for once our heroes are completely in the right. Their putting session has been rudely interrupted by the on-target warning of an impatient golfer who just couldn't wait. Even if you're a pessimist who figures you can't possibly hit the green with your tee shot, wait those few extra seconds to be sure. If your shot should head toward someone anywhere on the course, the word is 'fore' or 'watch out' or anything that gets the point across. Sure, golf balls bounce but they usually leave dents when they do.

Sporting 'Almosts' That Never Quite Saw Print

Each year there are literally hundreds of sports stories that never see print because they lack what editors refer to as "dramatic impact."

Nevertheless, they are still noteworthy expressions of the trials and tribulations of athletic endeavors in this country and certainly do deserve a mention in passing.

HERE ARE A FEW of our favorite 1962-63 sports stories that you never read in any newspaper:

MOBILE, ALA. — Jake Mossley, a 42-year-old right-hander, pleaded for one more chance to escape the last cut made by the Pelicans.

Manager Bill Regan granted Mossley his wish by starting him last night against the hard-hitting Macon Bluejays. Mossley fanned the first two batters on six pitches while local fans cheered the old veteran's every move.

Mossley was unable to retire another batter, however, as Macon scored 11 first-inning runs and won eventually, 13-2. Mossley received his release this morning.

LATROBE, PA. — Johnny Sumpter, a senior halfback and leading scorer for the local high school here had good reason to do well in Friday night's game with arch-rival Centerville.

Johnny's father, Dave Sumpter, is head coach at Centerville and admittedly planned his whole defense to stop the high-scoring of son John.

The defense worked like a charm. Centerville won, 33-0 and young Sumpter was held to minus 21 yards total offense.

SILVER SPRINGS FLA. —Andy Billings, a 12-year-old who wants to "play golf just like Arnold Palmer" wrote the top money winner asking if he could meet him at the local country club pro shop when Palmer appeared here in the Invitational this week.

Young Andy wanted to present Palmer with a scrapbook he has been filling with Arnie's clippings since he was nine.

Andy camped in the pro shop for four days but Palmer never showed up.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK.—Eddie Harkness, the state's leading money winner in stock car racing, had a nightmare before last night's National Championships at the Holloway Track.

Harkness dreamed that his car jumped the wall and he was seriously burned. He refused to race but let fellow driver Jeff King pilot the car.

King won the race and $10,000. purse without mishap.

SAN BERNADINO, CALIF. — One of the biggest drives this city has ever seen climaxed last night at Chief Stadium where a "Save the Team Night" was staged.

Local officials, concerned with a shortage of fans at the ball park, warned that the club would move unless local

ON LINE — Groveport's Pam Higgins, recent runner-up in the Franklin County Women's Championships, follows through on a practice putt at the Groveport County Club course while the white sphere heads home toward the cup. At 17, Pam has a bright future in her quest for top honors in the women's amateur field. Immediate plans include Ohio State and plenty of practice sessions.

BANDWAGON ROLLING AT 17

Groveport's Pam Higgins Eyes Amateur Golf's 'Queen Crown'

By JACK WITTENMEIER

Perhaps the biggest single satisfaction in the world belongs to the guy who can say, "I told you so."

You don't have to look far around this part of the state these days to find somebody who uses the phrase in regard to Jack Nicklaus.

BUT IF YOU like to be the kind that gets on the bandwagon early, better reserve a spot on the cart marked "Pam Higgins" that could come heading out of the Groveport Country Club any day now.

Pert Pam, who only last May said goodbye to high school at Groveport High, already has some pretty impressive credentials to present with only three years of golf experience behind her.

1963 has by far been Pam's most productive year off the tees and on the greens. She just missed the cutoff point for the National Open just about a month ago, took individual honors in the Juniors Tourney (Southern Ohio PGA) at Cincinnati.

PAM'S BIGGEST and best effort, however, came in the Franklin County Women's Championship two weeks ago when she progressed all the way to the finals before bowing to local golfing queen, Anne Richardson.

It was Pam's fourth try for the title and naturally, her closest grasp at seizing the gals' crown.

The 17-year-old blonde, who admits that her chipping and putting are the strongest part of her game, plays normally every day. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Higgins, 559 Main-st, Groveport, Pam is the only serious golfer in the family.

SHE'S HAD three different golfing instructors but credits Groveport pro Bob Bisciotti with helping her to her fine finish in the Women's Championship.

"I was playing lousy golf before the tournament but he (Bisciotti) helped me work on my swing. I wasn't shifting my weight properly."

Pam, who admitted that she did little else but play golf in preparation for the Women's Championships, is now taking a short layoff from the game at her father's suggestion. But the layoff didn't include chipping and putting practice which she worked on last week.

THE IMMEDIATE future means enrollment at Ohio State in the fall and more golf. Pam hasn't considered professional golf as yet but she is anxious to continue her competition on the amateur level.

But when you're just 17 and shooting in the high 70s off the men's tees at Groveport C.C., your future, whether professional or amateur, seems bright.

The name is Pam Higgins. Keep it in mind. It's likely you'll be hearing it plenty in years to come around golfing circles.

Three Titles Settled In Y Church Loops

Three round championships were decided in play in the South Side YMCA Inter-Church softball leagues last week.

MONDAY JUNIORS—Livingston Methodist won second round honors in the Monday Junior division by defeating Welch Baptist 8-7. Other games saw Hungarian United down Gates-Fourth Methodist and Emmanuel Lutheran outscore Parsons Baptist 8-6.

John King, Steve Bukey, Steve Hoersdig, R. Cordelle, Hubert Moore, B. Pitts, Harry Keaton, Marty Komives, Fred Nagy, Paul Popp, Paul Quickel, Dan Watkins, and Mark Marinello all played fine ball for their respective teams.

GIRLS—South Methodist continued on undefeated with a win over Hungarian; Southwood Church of Christ nosed out Hope Lutheran; Washington topped Emmanuel Lutheran; St. Paul United clipped the wings of the Livingston "Angels" and Ohio Avenue EUB finally enjoyed sweet victory by scoring an upset over Parsons Baptist.

Ouptstanding players included Judy Carpenter, Loretta Boso, Jeannie Summers, Margie Santo, Carolyn Todd, Susie Bell, Lenora Pritt, Sandy Haynes, Sharon Ross, Marlewe Esswein, Andy Gill, Kathy Kirby, Susie Humes, Jo Ann Detholf, Terry Moore, Lindy Archer, Sue Stewart, Cherrie Ferrell, Carol Larimer, Nancy Laueraek and Jane Hoffman.

WEDNESDAY JUNIORS—St. John United Wrapped up league laurels by squeaking past an inspired South Methodist nine. Ernie Heller and Bob Vick led the Saints attack while the big guns for the Methodists were Larry Milligan and John Workmaster.

INTERMEDIATES—After the dust had settled after last week's play, a drawing was held to determine the play-off schedule as three of the league's five teams were tied for the topspot.

By scoring victories South Methodist and Frebis Church of God joined idle Ohio-South Congregational at the top. South plays Frebis tonight for the right to meet the Ohio-South Congregational combo for the league title.

ADULT SLOW PITCH—Underdog St. Paul United defeated the classy Ohio Avenue EUB ten in a well-played game to latch on to the second round flag and will meet St. Paul Lutheran tomorrow evening at Southview in a game to determine the "champs of '63". The Lutherans kept in shape by downing an all-star outfit in an exhibition tussle.

South Side Branch YMCA Junior Church League All-Stars racked up their fifth straight victory by defeating the "Y" Southeast church representatives in a game played at Southwood Field last Saturday afternoon.

Hubert Moore and Bill Karns were the top hitters for the winners, while Eugene Epps allowed only three hits as he kept the losers baffled with his assortment of "junk" pitches.

Several outstanding plays by the defense also helped the South Siders in their victory march.

Reb Equipment Issued Aug. 14

All South High football candidates should report to the high school next Wednesday WITH PHYSICALS ALREADY TAKEN for equipment issue.

All lettermen must report for equipment at 9 a.m. All other '62 varsity players report at 10 a.m. All reserves report at 11 a.m. New sophomores and all others interested in playing football should report at 2 p.m.

South's first grid practice session will begin promptly at 8 a.m., Friday, Aug. 16 in the Bulldog stadium.

Sergio's 6th 'Best Ever'

Pat Sergio, 11, of 802 E. Mithoff-st, placed sixth Saturday in a field of 240 entrants at the All-American Soap Box Derby in Akron, winning a $2500 college scholarship for his high finish.

Pat, the son of Mrs. Joseph Sergio, turned in the highest finish ever for a Columbus contestant with his sixth-place.

YOUNG SERGIO recorded the fastest time of the day the one time he drew the favorite number two lane on the three-lane course. The derby winner, Harold Conrad, of Duluth, Minn., drew the second lane in his final heat.

Sergio, in his first year of racing, was the only Ohio boy to reach the final run-off stage (after the third heat). In all, Pat drove five heats to win his sixth-place in the 26th running of the National derby, which saw six countries represented.

Pat's coach and advisor, who will undoubtably be in great demand next year, was Steve Haban.

Scout Camp Teaches Outdoor Living Lesson

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROB COCHRAN

Last week 21 Boy Scouts camped at Madison Lake under the leadership of Ralph Roy of Mt. Sterling, who has been a Scoutmaster for 20 years. It was obvious that these Scouts were becoming acquainted with the outdoors, and learning quite a bit about self-reliance in the process.

I talked with Mr. Roy at the boat dock where he was waiting for four boys to come in from an afternoon of fishing. The Scouts at camp ranged from 11 to 16 years, and the older ones seemed to be looking after the younger Scouts.

The boat load of fishermen came to dock on schedule, and I noticed that an older Scout was rowing. About that time a column of hikers hove into view down by the bridge, and these Scouts were returning from a five-mile hike. Again, a taller boy was leading.

IN THIS DAY of herd psychology and high prices, Ralph Roy and his Scouts take a good deal of pride in the fact that they go camping by themselves and they do it for eight dollars a week per boy. "And they eat as well as they do at home, too," Roy is quick to add.

It was refreshing to spend some time in this camp without a lot of counselors with whistles around their necks running all over the place. That morning some of the Scouts had taken a 10-mile hike, again on their own. While Roy was at the boat dock — he wouldn't leave because he told the boys he would wait for them — I inspected the camp.

Expecting it to be deserted at that time, I was surprised for two boys had built fires to heat water and to cook supper. Another Scout was preparing potato salad. All was in order.

HERE, CLEARLY, boys were camping as they should — on their own with the experienced hand of an elder to guide them. From this small and simple camp will come memorable experiences that will last a lifetime.

Ralph Roy calls all his boys by their first names, and his collective term for them is "men." They respond to this treatment and he converses with them easily. The boys respect him and they do what he asks. There is probably no force on earth, however, than can control teen-age appetites, and I noticed that Ralph Roy sleeps with the food boxes in his tent. But a Scout pointed out that the ice box is left unprotected — on purpose, I presume.

The sociologists who devise great schemes for solving youth "problems" should spend a day with Ralph Roy and his Scouts at Madison Lake. When they camp, they mix work and play with only the sky overhead, and the whole thing is spiced with swimming and boating, fishing and wood chopping, hiking and kitchen police and a big helping of trust and devotion.

Ralph Roy is planning a Scouting reunion next year to celebrate the Troop's twentieth year. They better make arrangements for plenty of people.

(IN)TOLERANCE

"Intolerance" is an ugly word, and "tolerance," in one sense, is nearly as bad.

Intolerance is an unreasonable, stubborn determination to establish as a standard of human relationships one's own status, especially in racial and religious areas.

Racial characteristics are inherited, giving one no choice. One's early religious impressions and beliefs are a heritage, too. Too often there is little or no real religious teaching or example. Adult religious beliefs and conduct may be rejected, confirmed, or changed, depending upon the influences that have the most effect upon maturing minds and souls.

The very poor often are invidious toward the very rich. The rich are too often contemptuous of the poor. Fortunately, at least in this good land, both are becoming fewer. Consequently, some causes of ill will are being removed. So much for intolerance.

Tolerance means the "act of enduring," or the capacity for endurance. Endurance is the "ability to suffer pain, distress, hardship, or prolonged stress. Act of suffering." All this implies that a tolerant person assumes that people outside his group have qualities necessarily incompatible with his own. Therefore, he can find no common ground for equating his own situation with theirs. He leaves out understanding, and above all, love. He has little or no intellectual understanding of brotherhood and no spiritual experience of it. He just tolerates those not of his own group.

Fairs Are For The People

County and State Fair time is here again, and this year's programs for both events hold forth a promise for new attendance records.

The Franklin County Fair, marking its 50th anniversary, will hold the spotlight at Hilliard from Aug. 12 through 17. The 110th edition of the Ohio State Fair will run from Aug. 23 through Sept. 2 at the Ohio Exposition Center.

The day of "the fair" as a strictly agricultural event is history. Today's events are sufficiently urbanized to include events of interest to everyone.

Livestock showing, tractor pulling contests, youth activities and harness racing are still integral parts of both the Franklin County and State Fair programs. But today's fair programs also include exhibits in the fields of industry, science, government and other areas commanding a wide urban and rural interest.

Modern techniques of display and presentation provide a balance between education and entertainment.

Franklin County area residents are doubly fortunate. They can more easily follow up their visit to the "local" fair by joining the throngs from throughout the state who will view and participate in the State Fair — the "granddaddy" of all fairs in Ohio.

Entries for this year's exhibits, judgings, races and special events indicate the largest exposition in Ohio's State Fair history.

Fairgoers have been promised a "wide-angle view of the best Ohio has to offer in the fields of agriculture, horticulture, livestock, dairy production, poultry, farm machinery, harness racing, excitement, horse show dignity, industry, science, research, homemaking, culture, youth activities and many, many other things."

(While the foregoing is a mouthful to say, write or promise, it should prove a worthwhile eyeful and earful for those who visit the fair extravaganza.)

The Franklin County Fair is a program by and for the local community. The State Fair presents for all Ohioans the best from communities throughout the state. Each event is worthy of full public support and participation. See you at the fair(s).

A-ch-o-o-o-o-o!

The American Medical Association warns that the most bedeviling portion of the hay fever season will soon be with us. Those sensitive to the ragweed pollen will be most affected from the middle of August through mid-September, the AMA says.

The hay fever allergy has a variety of causes, the most common of which is ragweed pollen. Effects also vary, but most common are sneezing, watery eyes, runny nose and general miserable discomfort.

The most common preventive measures listed by the AMA include the following:

Get specific anti-hay fever shots well ahead of the season.

Avoid exposure to ragweed pollen by keeping away from areas where it is prevalent. (Mow that vacant lot now.)

Air condition the home and work in air-conditioned surroundings, if possible.

Use antihistaminic drugs to lessen the nasal and sinus congestion.

Keep the home as dust free as possible, particularly during the height of the hay fever season.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

'Uglification' Of America Must Stop

SOCORRO, New Mexico — Alice (in Wonderland) argued with childlike logic that if things can be "beautified" they can also be "uglified." And the uglification of America should now be a matter of national concern.

U. S. Highway 60, newly paved between Phoenix and the Rio Grande, is a lovely American road. It climbs out of the old copper town of globe onto the Natanes Plateau, plunges into the Salt River gorge, and twists up to a gently rolling high land of thick pine forests.

Jones

Then suddenly across one of the West's most beautiful mountain meadows you see it — a red-and-yellow sign 100 feet long advertising cut-rate gas.

So you know why you have been delighted with Highway 60? The desecrators haven't had a chance to ruin it. But they are coming. As the road grows in popularity the signs will multiply, and as competition increases for the tourist dollar every tasteless, gimcracky device will be used to catch the eye.

So Highway 60 will become another Highway 66. Sixty-six has long been the "main street" to Los Angeles. West of Albuquerque it crosses the Navajo and Zuni country, skirts the Red Cliffs, bisects the Petrified Forest, and runs through the Painted Desert. It is also garnished with a nearly-unbroken succession of snake farms, chained bears, wooden Indians, pickled two-headed calves, bogus trading posts and the loudest and most garish signs in America. What should be one of the most beautiful highways is an elongated eyesore, ruined by man's greed.

Now, of course, there's nothing wrong with selling gasoline along a highway. Nor pop nor souvenirs. Nor putting a neon tiara around your motel to mesmerize the weary night driver. If you want to display a wooden replica of Geronimo's horse, why not?

What is wrong is the destruction of miles of scenery on both sides of your business in order to soften potential customers for the kill.

You can louse up the landscape until you begin to hurt business both for yourself and your neighbors. Americans are hungry for beauty. That's why they travel great distances on their vacation.

Look ahead 25 years. Our country will have 45 million more people. The thirst for unspoiled natural charm will be greater than ever, for we will be a crowded country. How long can we tolerate the messers?

Take Williamsburg, Va. I saw it first in 1926, the year before John D. Rockefeller, Jr., began pouring in the restoration millions that has made it the historical showplace of the continent. It was a spavined, wind-broken tobacco town, filled with dilapidated shanties decorated with chewing tobacco signs. An occasional antiquarian would drop off the C&O local to look at the Bruton Church.

Consider Williamsburg now. You can't get a parking place. Millions have thrilled to this re-creation of colonial charm. Now, suppose you lined Duke of Gloucester Street with billboards, set up an alligator farm and a kiddie-whirl, and built a few hamburger stands to resemble teepees and a couple of coffee shops in the shape of giant coffee pots. There'd be plenty of parking places.

Williamsburg is proof that Americans are willing to reward good taste with good business.

There is evidence that a lot of communities are beginning to get the word. Carmel is the most visited village in California because it won't put up with uglification. Coral Gables turned a swamp into some of the richest real estate in Florida because it insisted on beauty.

Forty years ago a shaving cream maker painted his pitch on the sheer rocks of Maryland Heights overlooking storied old Harper's Ferry. They should have pushed him off the cliff. But at least the outcry was sufficient to make him refrain from ever repainting the sign. The last time I came through, the huge, hideous letters were almost gone. But is that view from Jefferson's Rock, which the third president said "is worth crossing an ocean to see" living on borrowed time again?

Every American should hold a share of stock in America's scenery. We have now reached the point where we must preserve this scenery. No legitimate private rights need be destroyed.

The principle of zoning is well established in every major city except Houston. We no longer consider it an invasion of individual liberty to forbid man from putting up a glue factory in a residential area.

States that have scenery to sell would be smart to adopt the same principle. Let billboards be confined to "information areas" outside each town. And there's nothing tyrannical about requiring rural businesses to limit the size and frequency of their ads. It doesn't take a notice the size of the Queen Elizabeth to get across the idea that gas is cheaper or that the motel has a pool.

America is big and beautiful, but not too big and beautiful to be marred by the loud and the tasteless. In the name of good hard-boiled self-interest, states and communities should preserve the beauty that they have and restore the beauty they have lost. Rather than let new U.S. 60 look like old 66, Americans should demand that 66 look like 60.

Guest Pulpit . . . Unconsciously We Can Become Near-Pagan

Many persons do not take seriously the matter of attendance at worship. It seems to be looked upon as something to do if the weather is good, if there is no place else to go, if no company is coming, if there is nothing pressing to be done around the home and if one feels in a church-going mood. This gives worship a very low priority.

Rev. Peters

The author of Hebrews marked out the right course well when he said, ". . . let us consider how to stir up one another to love and good works, not neglecting to meet together, as is the habit of some . . ."

It is true that absence from public worship may be due to circumstances beyond our ability to control. Working conditions which cannot be altered, sickness, infirmity and certain other things may prevent attendance. Even under such circumstances, the desire to come to God's House can be present and opportunities used when possible. We try, in such cases, to bring the church to people in other ways. This, however, is not the deep problem we face.

What may happen when we, deliberately or through neglect, stay away from public worship? It becomes increasingly easier to do it. Absences become more frequent. Likely, no calamity befalls us at once so that we easily begin to feel that it doesn't matter. The world goes on. Our children don't become bad all at once. We find ourselves caring less and less about what goes on at the church. It becomes uncomfortable to have the minister call. He somehow reminds us of obligations we would rather forget.

Perhaps once a year we are called upon and confronted with the need for offerings to operate the church. However, why should we give to something that no longer means much to us? It becomes harder to say grace at meals—seems perhaps a little strange. The day of worship becomes much like any other kind of holiday — a time to loaf or do a few odd jobs around the house. We have become a new kind of pagan. It was easy to accomplish.

But, we are not happy. World unrest affects us more than it did when we worshipped regularly. Life lacks a certain zest, purpose and satisfaction that it once had. We worry about our children as they grow up in these days of confused moral standards. Have we given them all the help we could? The friends we choose live as we do. It's becoming hard to meet a funeral procession. "Some day it's going to be me. I wish I could feel more calm about it."

The deepest needs of life are never met without God. Therefore, let us, "Remember the Sabbath-day, to keep it holy."

Our attendance for the past two homestands has increased considerably and we have 14 more openers this season. It is hoped the fans will keep on supporting us. If so, we have a chance of coming out of this year's operation in fair shape.

Your support of baseball in our city certainly has paid dividends.

Frosting On The Cake

By "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

It's no wonder the specialists in psychosomatic medicine are getting rich. Millions of otherwise fine and decent people are getting "flickers in the ticker" halfway through a normal expectancy, and all because they have never learned how to be deliberate about everything.

People jump out of bed every morning in a real "state of shock." Then they are in such a hurry to shave, shower and eat breakfast that every natural process is thrown out of rhythm.

With this kind of a start it is no wonder that by 10 a.m. they need a stimulant to keep going. And things get worse as the day goes on.

Hurry, hurry, hurry! Step right up and put in your bid. Win yourself a coronary or a perforated ulcer.

As for me, you can have it all. I've been taking my time for 72 years.

There are several ways to handle a woman, and it's a shame that no one knows what they are.

Marriage is just another union that defies management.

Some say that if a man tells a woman she is beautiful, she will overlook most of his other lies.

Many a man wishes his wife could make bread like his mother, while the little lady wishes he could make dough like her father.

Ever Fish With Camera?

Harley Groom, our photographer, has a new wrinkle for those who like fish.

On his recent vacation on a camping trip in Canada his family took nary a fishin pole along but had plenty of good fish when they wanted them.

He would merely watch for a fisherman with a likely string of fine finny specimens and after the customary compliments would take a picture of the piscatorial expert and in turn be rewarded with his fish for dinner.

Oh well, I'll get mine the hard way. I'm not much of a photographer!

THIS BUS doesn't collect fares or furnish public transportation. It's the 35-foot long bus belonging to the National Cylinder Gas Division of Chemetron Corp. and is used as a demonstration unit for new arc welding techniques. Five different arc welding processes will be shown to visitors during the program's visit to Columbus at 765 Woodrow-av, Aug. 20 through 23.

Welding Road Show Will Be Seen Here

Welding—not juggling or singing—will be the feature attraction of an unusual road show which visits Columbus Tuesday, Aug. 20, through Friday, Aug. 23, it was announced today.

An arc welding demonstration bus equipped by the National Cylinder Gas Division of Chemetron Corp, will be open to visitors from noon through 6 p.m. at 765 Woodrow-av. NCG representatives will be on hand to operate the equipment and answer questions, according to O. H. Wilhelm, district manager.

NCG electric arc welding processes involving some type of gas shielding will be demonstrated within the bus and in a canopy-covered area alongside. The 35-foot yellow bus carries its own generator to supply power to the welding machines. Lighting and other electrical equipment are powered by a 115-volt combination welder-lighting plant.

NCG is a leading supplier of industrial and medical gases, welding and cutting equipment and medical apparatus.

Speedy Lawnmower Started As A Spare-Time Occupation

Four years ago, as a favor for neighborhood friends, Henry Vance began working on lawn mowers in his spare time. Prior to this Vance says he had worked as an automobile mechanic. Following an accident, however, he found he could no longer lift the heavy parts or squeeze into the positions necessary to repair automobiles.

He found the answer in his love for mechanics was working on smaller and more accessible gasoline lawn mowers as a hobby.

Two years later his activities with the grass cutters grew much larger than his own garage and driveway, so he opened the Speedy Lawnmower Service at 3412 Parsons-av.

Even though Vance is still employed as a plumber by the Timkin Roller Bearing Co., he finds that most of his day is devoted to the lawn mower repair and sales business. During much of the year he employs several helpers to keep up with the lawn mower business.

Now specializing in service and repair, the firm also handles complete line of new and used lawn mowers and is the authorized dealer for the Ariens Rider Mower, Briggs-Stratton, Clinton and Lawson engines. Roto-Tillers and garden tractors are also available from Speedy Lawnmower Service.

The company also stocks a complete line of parts for repair work. According to Vance, many minor repair jobs can be handled in less than a day. However, he added, "We like to take at least three days for a major overhaul. This allows a day for disassembly, a day for reassembly and a day for testing."

A full line of blades, bolts, adapters, pull ropes, spark plugs and other supplies are kept on hand for the retail customer who might want to work on his own machine.

The new Ariens Rider Mowers, now featured by Speedy Lawnmower, include the latest advantages for the person seeking a larger lawn mower. Equipped with a six-horsepower Lawson engine, it can be fitted with seven attachments and equipped with a 26 or 32-inch rotary blade, or 30-inch reel mower. All attachments can be added in a matter of seconds, according to Vance.

Speedy Lawnmower service offers pickup and delivery service anywhere in the Columbus area and guarantees all work. Customers are always told when their mowers will be ready so that they can make arrangements to return them to service.

Vance recommended that persons in need of lawn mower repairs have the work done during dry spells, in fall or winter; when they were not in need of the machine. He cautioned that the spring rush is always a bad time to have lawn mowers serviced, since the extra amount of work can delay the return of a needed lawn mower to a customer.

Playground—

Fairwood . . .

Activities this week at Fairwood Playground centers around work on the act for the annual pageant and on completing the softball season. Fairwood's act for the pageant will be a boxing kangaroo act.

Heimandale . . .

Allen Simmons, 748 Stambaugh, from Heimandale Playground, won the Junior Boys' City Horseshoe tournament last week at Sunshine Park. He defeated six boys in the sectional tournament and four boys in the finals.

Junior Jet night for the Junior Jet league at Heimandale will be held Tuesday, Aug. 13. All Junior Leaguers are to wear their Jet T shirts as their badge of admittance.

Heimandale is busy preparing for the annual pageant to be held at Schiller Park Aug. 20. The playground is planning a number of midway acts to coincide with the overall "Circus-Fair" theme of the pageant.

Smith Road . . .

Gail Kaltenecker won the skating rally for the third time in a row last Friday.

This week the drama group started practice for the pageant. They are doing an act based on the Frontier Fair, complete with a quack doctor.

The Arts and Crafts Class will work on wire sculpture and papier-mache next week. All children interested in this should bring coat hangers.

Tonight (Thursday) there will be a dance for boys and girls ages 11 to 14. Girls must wear dresses or skirts, and boys must wear dress pants and sport shirts.

Lassiter—

the business and financial interests on hand to say goodbye to the man who had worked for the good of the entire community.

Every major press medium of the area was represented, by publishers, reporters or photographers, admittedly hoping the pleasant relations enjoyed with the base would continue.

The quiet dignity of Gen. Strauss and the charm of his wife Betty was a bright side of the regret shown at the departure of the popular Lassiters.

Coming to LAFB from Whiteman AFB in Missouri, where he has been commander of the 17th Strategic Aerospace Division, Strauss has been in the Air Force since 1940. A West Point graduate of 1935, the General had spent the next five years in the Cavalry and Field Artillery units.

The Strausses will live on the post with their daughter, Betty, who is a senior at the University of Missouri, and their younger daughter Connor. Their son, Robert, Jr., who is also a West Point officer, is a pilot serving in Viet Nam.

Both General and Mrs. Strauss expressed their pleasure of coming to Ohio, and time and time again had the pleasure of meeting old friends whom they had known at other stations in the past.

The Lassiters are going to Washington, D. C., where he will assume command of the Air Force Command Base.

It is evident that they will be missed by many off and on the post—but from the enthusiasm with which General Strauss and his wife were met, the vacancy has been filled by a couple who will soon be equally admired and respected.

BRISKLY LEAVING the parade grounds, General Robert Strauss and his predecessor, General O. C. Lassiter, head toward the reviewing stands past a small army of photographers.

Local Guest From Austria Eyes U.S.A. With Amazement

The Gadabout

Priscilla LaRue Lenox

HI. 4-1851

High school graduations are customarily attended by proud relatives of the senior class. No relative at the June commencement of South High was any prouder than Mrs. Sofia Romaniuk when she heard her grandson, Peter Meitner, give one of the speeches even though she did not understand a single word. This is because Mrs. Romaniuk, a resident of Austria, does not speak nor understand English. But she was awed by the ceremony, unlike anything she had seen.

The visitor arrived in this country in April and will remain until September. She is visiting her son, Erwin, and his family, 786 S. 18th-st, and her daughter, Annie Meitner, 850 S. Ohio-av. Mrs. Romaniuk was unprepared for the size of our department stores and supermarkets, as well as the wide selections and the low prices. Frozen foods are virtually unknown in her country and "out-of-season" foods are just that most of the year. She cited the fact that watermelons are available only one week a year in Austria.

She enjoys the concerts at Schiller Park and was surprised to hear the Austrian anthem sung at one such musicale, but with different words. She also enjoyed a concert at the Maennerchor.

Her family is highly amused that she has become a pizza enthusiast. Who knows, she just might be the one to introduce this popular snack in Schwanenstadt, her home town! She found the July 4th fireworks impressive, as such pyrotechnical displays are not often seen overseas.

The Austrian grandmother had seen three of her grandchildren, Peter, his brother, Eric, and Sylvia, the eight-year-old daughter of Erwin, but on this visit first met Erwin's younger offspring, Wolfgang. As Sylvia was only a year old when her parents emigrated to America, this is really the first she has known her paternal grandmother.

She nejoyed a Michigan vacation with her son's family and was thrilled when little Sylvia turned out to be the best fisherman.

Beginning to realize the size of our continent, she believes it is matched only by the friendliness of the people.

Mrs. Romaniuk has been busy taking pictures to show her husband and daughter in Austria, as proof of all she has seen in the adopted land of Erwin and Anne. She believes that life in America has to be seen to be believed.

It's birthday cake and candle time for these members of the younger generation this week: Larry Genheimer, Clarence Sontee, Janelle Malloy, Michael Obert, Michelle Dean, Ronald Ireson, Anna Gallagher, Kyle Jones, Barbara Dorn, Ralph Oberkonz, Adina Newman, James Gleich, Gary Robinson and Sandy Ward.

Teen-agers who celebrate the important day within the week include Carole Ann Baum, Loretta Boso, Danny O'Neill, Sue Ann Steffans, James Marte, Larry Conaway and Suzanne Dorn.

Birthday greetings are appropriate for Laura Houghn, Erma Daugherty, Lucille Stephens, Hilda Baumert, Esta Cobourn, Betty Mae Hafey, Danny Lyle, "Dee Dee" Bier, Dicky Moore, Chuck Boyd, Paul Milligan, Wilma Barton, Bob Hart and Anna Baum. Belated wishes go to Alice Hummell.

Wedding anniversaries that are celebrated in the second week of August include those of Darrel and Connie Itskin, Priscilla and Ed Day, Rose and Irvin Moehrman. Belated greetings to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bobo, 522 Sheldon-av, who recently celebrated their 50th year of wedded life, as did Mr. and Mrs. A. Coffman, 1035 Linwood-av. Family gatherings marked both celebrations.

James Bullock, assistant pastor at St. Paul's Lutheran Church during 1962-63, has accepted a similar position in Anchorage, Alaska.

Ron Kemmerling of Boy Scout Troop 244 will receive the Eagle award in a Court of Honor ceremony to be held Friday, Aug. 9, 7:30 p.m. Ron is a South High senior.

St. Paul's Lutheran League will hold an outing Sunday, Aug. 11, at 12:45 p.m., at Lake Hope. Leaguers of St. Paul's Church, near Ashville, will be guests of the Columbus group.

Several Juniors of Southwood Church of Christ spent last week at Camp Round Lake with Rev. and Mrs. Ellis Wesner, Lucille Wolfe and Frances Jividen of the church. The campers were Bobbie Yontz, Mark Wesner, Terri Donovan, Mike Ross, Donald Boyer, Renee Jividen, Larry Griffith, John Alton, Judy Lee, Denise Yates, Vicki Daniels, Vicki La Rose, Bobbie Hall, Kenneth Wolfe, Fred McCoy and Dennis Coffman. A teenager, David Coffman, was an assistant during the week.

Cub Pack 84 will hold a father-son swimming party on Sunday, Aug. 11, at Buckeye Lake at the Firemen's Lodge. The young people of Ohio Avenue EUB are getting acquainted with their new youth directors, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Yinger, who are natives of Jackson. Mrs. Yinger is a graduate of Asbury College, while her husband earned his degree at Missouri State.

St. Francis School of Nursing, Circle 12, will meet tonight at 8, in the home of Mrs. James Kennedy, 246 E. Molerst.

Vacationing Columbusites include the family of Don LaRue, who visited friends in North Carolina for a week; the family of Roy Rohrer, who took a trip to Niagara Falls and Michigan, and Mr. and Mrs. William Kuhn, who visited their son, Donald, at Parris Island, S. Car.

Patty Trigg, 160 E. Gates-st, has been visiting an aunt in California. Her postal told us that her aunt had taken her to Disneyland, Marineland, Knott's Berry Farm, Los Angeles, Hollywood, and several beaches.

The Hollingsworth family of S. Sixth-st enjoyed a vacation in Florida this summer.

An 8:30 p.m. candlelight service at Broad Street Christian Church will be the setting for the Saturday, Aug. 10, wedding of Judy Grace, 737 E. Hanford-st, and Robert White, 1615 S. Champion-av. A reception at the church will immediately follow the ceremony. Dr. Floyd Faust will perform the service. The couple will reside on Reinhard-av, following a wedding trip.

Faye and Fred Grace, 737 Hanford-st, spent a portion of their vacation at Long Lake, Wis., then traveled to Missouri for a visit with relatives. Their Missouri trip proved exceptionally delightful, as they spent 48 hours on a houseboat, which was a novel experience.

Wedding bells will be ringing on Saturday, Aug. 10, for Joyce Huiss, 2033 Linwood-av, and Wayne Dersom, 778 Stanley-av; Carole Karshner, 1621 Wilson-rd, and Richard Kollmer, 983 E. Whittier-st; Anita Holliday, 25 E. Innis-av, and Jack Rowe, 2717 Lindsay-rd.

A cookout for the Lutheran Aid Society of St. Paul's Lutheran Church will be held Sunday, Aug. 11, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Roth, 4732 Grebus-rd.

A euchre party will be held Wednesday, Aug. 14, at 8 p.m., at the Moose Hall, 36 W. Sycamore-st.

Drying orlon and nylon sweaters in a clothes dryer until partially dry eliminates the tiny wrinkling which often gives sweaters a washed-at-home-in-the-washbowl look. The little wrinkles give way to a soft new finish impossible to achieve in air drying.

features constitute the daytime activities on Thursday. And highlighting the evening is the Junior Livestock Auction beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Clyde Herron, chairman of the Junior Sales committee, announces that 70 4-H and FFA steers, 100 4-H and FFA lambs, and 60 4-H and FFA barrows are to be sold.

Saturday will feature a tractor puling contest (morning and afternoon) sponsored by the Central Ohio Tractor Pulling Club. At 8 p.m. the WLW-C Cavalcade of Stars, brings radio-TV personality Dean Miller to host the entertainment. Miller was former co-star of the "December Bride" series, and now has his own show in Columbus over WLW-C, channel 4 in the mornings.

Cars-

for 24 hours, Columbus police will remove a car upon receipt and verification of a complaint. If the owner wishes to retrieve the car, it will cost him $10 for towing and $1 for each day the car is impounded.

When a vehicle is parked on private property without the owner's permission, removal is simple but costly. The owner has the right to phone a private wrecking service and have the car towed away.

Laws governing the disposition of vehicles deserted along county and state right-of-ways are basically similar to those governing the removal of motor vehicles from city streets.

Capt. A. B. Cook, head of the State Highway Patrol Investigation Service, states that the patrol allows a motorist 24 hours to reclaim his car if he abandons it along ordinary state and county right-of-ways.

Should the car be left on a limited access highway, however, it will be carted away in a matter of hours, unless its owner gives explicit information to the patrol as to exactly when, shortly thereafter, he intends to remove it.

A vehicle rusting on a neighbor's property presents a more difficult removal problem. The esthetic aspect, the fact that the car is an eyesore, is not a ground for legal action. There are, however, two means by which something can be done in certain situations.

If the car is being dismanteled, the owner could be warned that he may be violating the district zoning ordinances. Frank A. Reda, first assistant Columbus city attorney, states this is the usual way of getting unsightly cars removed from neighborhood property. Continued violation can lead to heavy fines and a possible workhouse sentence, especially if sale of parts stripped off the cars can be proved.

Secondly, it is possible that the vehicle is a health hazard. This is true "in about one per cent of the cases," says Dr. Robert C. Adams, Deputy Health Commissioner of Columbus Board of Health. He denies that there is any real evidence to prove that battered old cars are the harborage of rats, the breeding places of mosquitoes, or special oases for the growth of irritating weeds.

There is an optimistic note, however. The Columbus Board of Health doctor cites the fact that often a health officer's visit and an appeal to the person's sense of community spirit and neighborhood pride can persuade him to have his wreckage carted off.

How does one start action in getting a junker removed from another's premises in your neighborhood? Columbus residents should phone the city prosecutor's office at the police station.

In rural Franklin County, excepting where there are local law enforcement officials, you should contact Mrs. Thelma Hardy of the Franklin County Rural Zoning Office in Columbus.

Both offices will determine if there is a justifiable complaint and advise the best course of action.

Volleyball Tourney, Swim Meet Top Playground Events

With the swim meet being held at Maryland Park Swimming Pool today and tomorrow, summer playground activities are drawing to a close. The two remaining big city-wide events are the annual Junior Jet Nights at Jet Stadium next Monday and Tuesday, and the annual pageant.

The teams from this area will be guests of the Jet Baseball team next Tuesday night, when all Jet players will be admitted free by wearing the official uniform of the organization, the tee shirt with the team's name on it.

The pageant will be held at Schiller bandstand Tuesday, Aug. 20, at 7:30 p.m. Approximately 45 playgrounds from the south half of the city will participate in this outdoor spectacle. A circus theme will be used.

The Traveling Zoo will visit the following playgrounds next week.

Monday, Aug. 12: 2 p.m.—Deshler; 3 p.m.—Karns; 4 p.—Smith, and 6 p.m.—Watkins.

Wednesday, Aug. 14: 1 p.m.—Helmandale and 2 p.m.—Lincoln.

Following are reports from playgrounds:

BOUND to make quite a splash at the Junior Olympic Swim Meet, Aug. 8 and 9 at Maryland Park Pool are these teenage swim queens: (from left) Wanda Isabell, 1437 Eastwood, East area; Luana Morehart, 1886 S. Washington-av, South; Sherri Diven, 1731 Sullivant-av, West; Connie Ford, 1360 Redwood-ct, Linden; Susan Henry, 525 Brevoort-rd, North.

Karns . . .

Intermediate Girls' Softball team at Karns ended the season with a 4-2 record. The final game was a victory of 18-11 against undefeated Schiller.

Work is being started on the pageant. Neighbors of the playground should take heed, for ferocious bears may be stalking that area in search of a circus. These bears will be on roller skates and wearing either vests or aprons.

Two of the Junior Girls' teams (blue and gray) made up a team against the South Side YMCA Junior Girls' team. The final score was 13-11 in favor of Karns.

Wednesday the playground took an excursion to Lazarus and saw a puppet show.

The past week was a tough one for the league leaders in the Karns Junior Jet League. In the American League, the White Sox lost a pair of games. The Yankees romped over the Pale Hose 11-2, and Red Sox edged the Sox 7-6. Greg Bauer pitched masterfully to help the Red Sox in the upset.

The hit of the week was a homer by Mike Justice.

The Pirates have been sailing along in the National League, but the best they did last week was a split in two games. Mark Roshon and Jim Kollmer gave the Dodgers the pitching necessary to halt the high-flying Pirates.

The Junior Boys annexed their league championships to become the third Karns Softball team to move into the city-wide play-offs. Mike Jones, Charles O'Neil, Jan Herrman and Rod Parker have been hitting very well.

The Karns Midget Softballers romped to a 17-0 win in their first game of the season, Olin Collins, Larry Huskey, Steve Hoffman and Gregg Sickles were the big guns for the Midgets.

Lincoln Park . . .

The Orioles, coached by Vic Watson, won the American League title with a 6-3 record. The Reds, coached by Oliver Hughes, captured honors in the National League with a 9-3 record.

Players on all JJL teams will have a chance to see their parent team in action on Junior Jet Night, Aug. 13, at Jet Stadium. Mr. Hynes asks all interested players to see him for transportation arrangements.

The park honored two other champions last week. Alfred Edwards, of 695 E. Morrill, won the city horseshoe championship in the intermediate age group. Alfred beat three opponents, all of them sectional champions, in the city tournament at Sunshine Park. He was forced by the Tuttle Park entry to play extra innings in the championship match, which ended in a tie. Alfred scored in each extra inning to bring home the title.

Intermediate Girls' Softball team beat Watkins, 38-19, to win the league title.

The Gold Junior Boys' Softball team just missed winning the League B crown by dropping a 14-10 playoff to Deshler last week. The two teams and Karns had tied for first place, forcing the playoff.

The arts and crafts groups worked on two projects this week. Several youngsters are becoming skilled basketweavers, making such useful articles as bowls, platters and centerpieces. Others have begun work on the act for the pageant on Aug. 20. "The Good Ship Lollipop" will be the name of the act, which will feature a lollipop signal corps.

Southeast Lions .

Southeast Lions Senior Boys' Softball team defeated Schiller 12-5, Tuesday, July 29, at Lincoln Park. It was a close ball game until the top of the seventh with Southeast Lions trailing 5-3, when the Lions' big guns cut loose. Sparked by Gaylord Hicks' home run, they scored nine runs before being retired. Winning pitcher, William Goodwin won his sixth straight of the year.

Watkins . . .

Children from Watkins Playground are busy getting ready for the annual pageant. The theme this year is "Circus-Fair," and Watkins will be singing the familiar song, "Meet Me in St. Louis." The children will be dressed in Gay Nineties costumes. We hope to have many children in this. Last week 41 children participated in the Lantern Parade and won third place for the most original.

Bill Gray, D. J. Henry, Clara Howard, Theresa Humphrey, Eric Jordan, Michael Lunsford Vaughn McDaniel, Debbie Mason, Marvin Mills, Sammy Newton, Emile Patrick, Stanley Porter, Jerry Reynolds.

Judy Rife, Joyce Ross, Ronald Ruffin, Timothy Russell, Erdis Smith, Warren Smith, Floyd, Kathy, Rudy, and Vicky Sutton, James and Yvonne Swanson.

Jerry and Billy Taylor, Leonard Taylor, Randy Triplett, Victor Walker, Darnell, Donald, Larry, and Tyrone Walters, and Christina and Paul White.

The Junior Boys' Red team, whose names were printed last week, and the Senior Boys' team are in the city softball finals. Those on the Senior boys' team are Wardell Poole, Ron George, John Turner, John Jackson, Tony Ayers, Jerry Taylor, Claude Mills, David Crockett, Don Bess, Larry Dixon, Vaughn Beloat, Rick Newton, Floyd Sutton, David Wicks and Melvin Daniels.

Those who have recently completed their physical fitness tests are Larry Chatman, Garry Franklin, William and John Croom, William Hysell, Ronald Ruffin, James Porter and Donald Walters.

Scioto Trail . . .

Scioto Trail Intermediate Boys' Softball team clinched the league championship by defeating Karns 12-11. Jeff Dodson was the winning pitcher and Jim Waldon helped his team by hitting a home run.

The Junior Girls' Softball team remained undefeated in the citywide tournament beginning this week.

Betty Hockenheimer has been selected Junior Leader of the Week.

The boys and girls are working hard on their production for the annual pageant. Anyone wishing to help should come to the playground at 6 p.m. any day.

Deshler . . .

Arts and crafts classes during the past week have made place mats, pot-holders, newspaper trees, lanyards and mosaic tile pictures.

Deshler Junior Boys' League B team cinched a seat in the city-wide finals by beating Karns and Lincoln, which were tied with them for the league championship. The team now goes on to meet its first finalist team, Sharon.

The White Sox downed the league-leading Tigers 7-6. Mike Gibson hit a home run with a man on base.

The Orioles downed the Twins 15-6 to take over first place in the American League. Joe Dreber and Charles Sherman hit home runs for the Orioles.

The first place Phillies, in the National League, downed the second place Red Legs, 16-8. Terry Driggs and Johnny Moehle hit home runs for the Phillies. The Braves whipped the Cardinals 12-11.

In action later on in the week, the Orioles downed the Tigers 10-2. Neal Miller pitched very fine ball, allowing the Tigers only one hit. The Braves downed the Pirates in a close 9-8 game. The Cardinals beat the Giants 14-7. Kevin Kane and Mike Ryan both had two hits to help the Cardinals win.

The Dodgers shut out the Cubs 14-0. Phil Gardner hit two home runs and Bobby Weber added another one to the cause. The Indians downed the Angels 7-5. Walt Myers hit a double and home run for the Indians. The Angels came back the following night to beat the Tigers, 14-13. Pat Coleman hit two triples to lead his team to the victory. John Grosse also hit a home run for the Angels.

In softball, Deshler's Junior Boys' team beat Karns 8-1 and then defeated Lincoln 14-10 to move into the city play-offs.

Aug. 13 is Junior Jet night at Jet Stadium. Aug. 12 is the eight and nine-year-old All-Star game and Aug. 14 is the 10, 11 and 12-year-old All Star game.

Aug. 15 is the Junior Jet banquet at Deshler. There will be a softball game for the parents, starting at 6 p.m. All parents of Junior Jet boys are cordially invited to attend.

The parents of the Junior Jet players are asked to donate a small dish to add to the pot-luck style banquet. Any type casserole, salad or dessert will be most welcome. Call Ronald Kirkpatrick for details.

The regular schedule of the Junior Jet League will end tomorrow with both the National and American League championships being decided on the last day of play. After the trip to Jet Stadium, new leagues will be formed with the same players and play will continue until the end of summer vacation.

League softball play has ended except for tournament activity. The Schiller Intermediate Girls, coached by Vivian Lloyd, won their league championship and played their first tournament game this week.

Schiller . . .

The annual free trip to Jet Stadium ,for all Junior Jet League ball players will be held this coming Tuesday evening. All boys going must wear their Junior Jet T shirts in order to gain free admittance to the stadium. The players are to meet with the recreation leaders and chaperones at 5 p.m. Tuesday at Schiller Park.

The annual awards banquet is scheduled for Thursday evening, Aug. 22. The Schiller Advisory Council will furnish free hot dogs and coke.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH this well-kept yard? According to the standards set by the German Village Ordinance, there are two glaring infractions of village atmosphere. The chain fence is as "verboten" as the newly-laid concrete sidewalk and walk to the house.

IS NEW GERMAN VILLAGE ORDINANCE ARBITRARY?

Ed Note: With the opening of the German Village Commission office in City Hall, controversy has again arisen over the German Village Ordinance requiring "certificates of appropriateness." The comments of this paper's readers are invited.

By JANE ROBINSON

When the German Village Society was formed the preamble to its constitution set forth its purposes:

"The preservation and restoration of the property in the German Village area and to the retention of its charm and unique old world atmosphere."

In Article II, dealing with its objectives, section D states the aim to "aid in securing just and equitable laws for the protection of the German Village area."

The German Village ordinance, which became effective in May by action of city council and is printed in its entirety herein, is clearly the realization of this objective.

But careful reading raises a serious question.

Does this ordinance meet with the intent of its founders?

It can first be criticized by the boundaries set. All factions seem to agree that political compromise excluded the area west of High-st, which, historically speaking, is within the core of the village. Some believe that the southern boundary of Nursery-ln was juggled to meet the demands of personal interests.

But it is upon the "certificate of appropriateness" clauses of the ordinance that hang the success or failure of German Village.

Such a certificate must be obtained before any structure within the village confines may be constructed, altered or demolished.

And just what is "appropriateness"?

Suitable, fit and proper are among Webster's definitions.

An obsolete definition is that which is set apart for a particular use or person.

While Frank Fetch, president of the society, and apparently the board members, are confident in the judgment of the commission appointed by the mayor, some members and residents of the area are leery and others openly critical.

The doubts seem partially based on the old adage which expresses the idea that what is "one man's meat is another man's poison."

And, as can be expected, some persons just plain resent being told, among other things what color they can or cannot paint their house, whether or not their awnings are acceptable or if a fence of their choice meets with the approval of the commission.

Accompanying this story are several pictures taken at random in the village.

They all show homes upon which considerable time and money have been spent.

It is highly probable that "certificates of a appropriateness" would not have been issued for the improvements shown.

The issue involved is whether the ordinance should be amended to give more leeway to individual tastes and less left up to what some feel is arbitrary judgment of the commission.

Several property owners have stated vehemently that they will defy the legislation if refused a permit to remodel their property when they see fit.

Others have stated their intention of proceeding with building plans without first seeking the controversial "certificate of appropriateness."

Following is a copy of the ordinance as it now stands. A slightly abbreviated form may be obtained by writing or calling the German Village Commission in City Hall.

Whereas, it is the intention of this Council and the purpose of this odrinance to promote the educational, cultural, economical and general welfare of the public through the preservation of the "German Village," as a historic reminder of early Columbus architecture; now, therefore,

Be it ordained by the Council of the City of Columbus:

Section 1. That the Columbus City Codes, 1959 as amended be supplemented by the enactment of Sections 3306.03 to 3306.11, inclusive, and Section 3306.99 to provide as follows:

"Section 3306.03. There is hereby created in the City of Columbus a historical district to be known as the "German Village" bounded and described as follows:

The area bounded generally by Pearl-st on the west; Blenkner-st and a 15 foot alley south of Livingston-av on the north; Lathrop-st, Brust-st, Grant-av, Jaeger-st and Blackberry-al on the east; and by Nursery-ln on the south; being approximately 221.5 acres and being more particularly described as follows:

Beginning at the southeast corner of Pearl-st and Blenkner-st;

Thence easterly along Blenkner-st to Lazelle-st;

Thence northerly along Lazelle-st to a 15 foot alley south of Livingston-av;

Thence easterly along said 15 foot alley south of Livingston-av to Briggs-st (13 foot right-of-way);

Thence southerly along Briggs-st to a 20 foot alley north of Jackson-st;

Thence easterly along said 20 foot alley north of Jackson-st to Lathrop-st;

Thence southerly along Lathrop-st to Beck-st;

Thence westerly along Beck-st to Brust-st;

Thence southerly along Brust-st to Sycamore-st;

Thence westerly along Sycamore-st to Grant-av;

Thence southerly along Grant-av to Frankfort-st;

Thence southerly along a 15 foot alley west of Ebner-st to Kossuth-st;

Thence westerly along Kos-

DO THESE awnings meet with your approval? This one issue has caused controversy in German Village as many residents of restored homes have used similar shades which do not conform to the tastes of some members of the German Village Society and Commission.

New Reeb Pupils Must Register

All students who did not attend Reeb Elementary School last year as well as kindergarten students who failed to register in the spring are asked to report to the building at 280 Reeb-av.

The office will be open daily from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. all month. George Zorich, principal, stated that all new students must bring their report cards if they have previously attended school, and that immunization records

Space Age 3Rs Have Sophisticated Sound

By BETTY DAFT

Confused about curriculum? Concerned to find th. 3Rs are hardly recognizable in their new guises?

Parents might wel. rejoice, rather than despair, when Johnny speaks of "programmed mathematics," or Janie reports that she is studying "structural linguistics"—for schools throughout the country are eyeing Columbus for "what's new?" in education.

Secondary school curriculum, ever changing in its approach to basic studies, shifts constantly as educators stay in tune with the times. The educational effort that will assure Columbus' Johnnies and Janes an understanding of the complex affairs of their fast-paced world is a continuing one.

Pilot studies on new methods of instruction are launched after intensive study, and results are carefully evaluated and revised before they are adopted.

The attitude of Columbus Schools on curriculum changes is outlined by W. Huber, director of secondary education:

"We stay alert to what is going on in the nation, and get into an advanced theory of instruction just as early as we are convinced of its worth. We do a great deal of study ourselves, have pioneered some advances, and we tailor others' ideas for quality learning.

"Descriptive diplomas, announced last spring, is an example. Unique and flexible, these diplomas will answer many questions that educators have been asking. They came about after four years of intensive study, and will be reported to big city curriculum directors in their conference in St. Louis this fall."

Pilot projects, under way in Columbus secondary schools at the present time include:

SMSG MATHEMATICS

Two-year experiments in SMSG mathematics, concerned with the basic structure of mathematics, was arranged with pupils moving from teacher to teacher each three-week period. Each instructor taught his specialty, with one covering composition and another literature. Closed circuit television was also used.

Benefits include better instruction, as teachers concentrate on special subject matter, students learn to listen, take notes and make outlines. Outside speakers can be used.

The method will be introduced this year at Brookhaven in health and physical education.

NOTEHAND

Notehand was taught experimentally last year at Eastmoor, Marion-Franklin and Whetstone, and is evaluated as especially valuable to college-bound students. The subject will continue this year.

PSSC PHYSICS

Tried at Marion-Franklin, West and Eastmoor high schools last year, as a new approach to physics, PSSC has met with success and enthusiasm and has been adopted for all city high schools this year.

CHEM CHEMISTRY

CHEM Chemistry, a laboratory approach to chemistry, has been a pilot study at Eastmoor and has also gained enthusiastic support. It will be extended this semester to ducted at Crestview and Franklin Junior High, have resulted in new books for all seventh and eighth graders. The text will be "somewhere between" old style math and modern mathematics.

Junk Yard Plea Alarms Mileusnich

"There will be no more junk yards on the South Side."

Those were the words of Mike Mileusnich, president of the Council of South Side Organizations, when questioned as to the council's attitude toward the establishmen of one more "salvage yard."

The question arose when the Board of Zoning Adjustment announced that it will hear the plea of Saul Holtun, 675 South Cassingham-rd, for a special permit, Friday, Aug. 30 at 2 p.m.

Holtun is seeking permission to maintain a non-conforming salvage yard at 1420 Fairwood-av. The address is now zoned as an R-2 single family residential district.

The CSSO president stated without reservation that the organization will resort to the courts before seeing another junk yard appear on the South Side.

The council has spearheaded an effort to gain the co-

Golden Wedding Club Reception Planned; New Members Sought

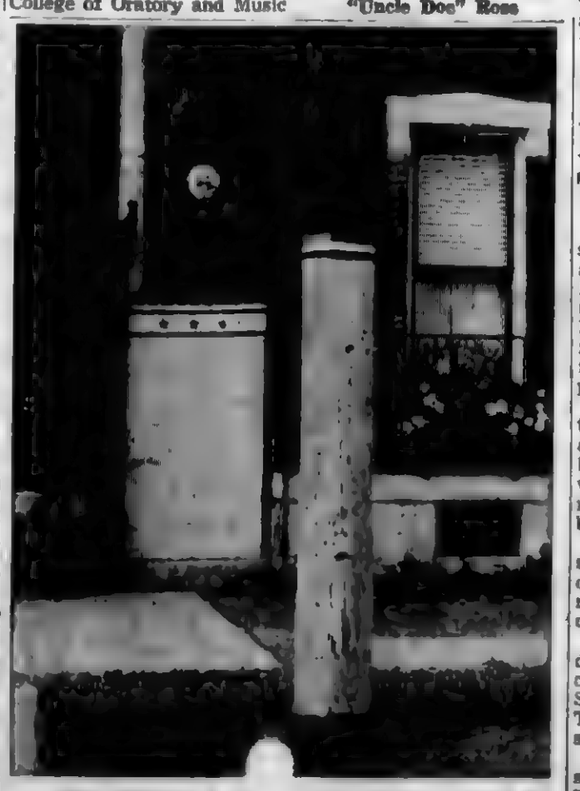
Plans are launched for the annual Hartley Newspapers-Shade's Restaurant Golden Wedding Party to be held Friday, Sept, 6, 2 p.m., at Shade's Restaurant in Canal Winchester.

All couples living in the circulation area of this newspaper who have been married 50 years or more are eligible to attend and may place their reservation by filling out the coupon found elsewhere in this paper and mailing it to: Society Editor, Hartley Newspapers, 2465 W. Broad-st, Columbus 4.

Speaker at this year's reception will be Dr. Galen Starr Ross, known to Hartley Newspaper readers as "Uncle Doc" Ross, author of the "Frosting on the Cake" column found on the editorial page.

Ross, 72, is head of the speech department at Capitol College of Oratory and Music in Columbus and has served as president of the college since 1944.

"Uncle Doc" Ross



Mrs. Helen Shade, owner of Shade's Restaurant, is preparing refreshments for the expected guests and in addition will award a cake to one of the couples.

Flower arrangements for the affair are again being handled by Mary Helen and Ray Sims, Jr., proprietors of Sims Florists on Rager-rd.

Each couple in attendance will receive a complimentary picture of themselves taken by J. Curtis Allen, who has studios at 2373 W. Broad-st. The longest-married couple will receive a formal studio portrait in addition.

Members of Hartley Newspapers staff will be on hand to pass out certificates to all those couples attending and to help people get acquainted.

Friends and relatives are asked to assist in filling out the coupons. Those couples who attended in past years are asked to again fill out a coupon. Coupon on Page 3.

THE UTILITY pole ...s been painted to match the red, white and blue gate between the two buildings above, and a grinning moon-face light hung upon the iron work. Could a certificate of appropriateness be obtained for a similar decor today?

Lower Asks New Students To Register

All students from grades seven through 12 who did not attend Marion Franklin Junior-Senior High School or elementary schools in the district last year are urged to report for registration anytime this month between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Those who will enter the seventh or eighth grades are asked to go to the Beery building, 2740 Lockbourne-rd, while the upper grades are to report to the senior high building, 1265 Koebel-rd.

Michael Lower, principal, stressed that a grade card or other proof of promotion is required as well as the student's immunization record.

Pupils from Smith, Heimandale, Clarefield, Alum Crest or Watkins Elementary Schools do not need to report. They were registered last spring.

Also, Lower pointed out, students from Parsons, Scioto Trail, Fornof and Stockbridge are automatically enrolled in the new Buckeye Junior High School and need not concern themselves with this preschool registration.

Vandalism At Fairwood Must Stop

It is high time that some of the parents of teenagers in the Fairwood Park area wake up!

Their children are headed for the juvenile court, and TROUBLE.

The vandalism in Fairwood Park must stop, and NOW.

The patience of J. Richard Lawwill, superintendent of the division of Parks and Forestry, is exhausted; and he is ready to act.

Since the park was opened two years ago, and especially since the opening of the restrooms, there has been a continual onslaught on the buildings, fixtures, sewers, and even the trees.

More than $750 of taxpayers' money — YOUR money—has literally gone down the drain.

That is the figure spent up until this week to clean out the drains that have been deliberately jammed, replace broken plumbing fixtures, repair broken doors and generally try to undo the damage done by youths who have no respect for public property and who have a sadly perverted idea of having a good time.

Young trees have been chopped down—not one, but dozens.

Interior of the shelter house has been so defaced with obscene comments that a neighborhood minister refused to allow his Sunday School class to hold a picnic in its confines.

Manhole covers have been removed and the storm sewers stuffed with debris of all kinds.

Picnic tables weighing several hundred pounds have been placed on sloping roofs, presenting a hazard to every passerby.

Fires have been built endangering the buildings and the entire wooded area.

Fixtures have been ripped off the walls, and entire rooms wall-papered with wet toilet tissue.

What was meant to be a recreation area for the pleasure of the community has turned into a hot-bed of delinquency.

And there seems no end to the appetite for destruction.

Last week all plumbing fixtures were replaced, warnings given out, and hope was high for the end of this senseless vandalism.

By the weekend, toilets were again stopped up and lavatory drains filled with soap and paper.

By Monday a heavy object had been used to break the bowl of one of the new commodes.

The park authorities are through with warnings. They have some names now, and are alert for any further offenses.

Parents, if you do not want your child in Juvenile Court, you had better try to instill in him or her a respect for public and private property.

What is going on cannot be regarded as childish pranks.

It is the acts of young people who do not know the difference between right and wrong.

Can you teach them before it is too late?

WIN $138 IN LUCKY JACKPOT MONEY

For the third week in a row there have been no claims against the rapidly growing "Confederate" money jackpot offered each week by this newspaper. Last week's 113 "Confederate" dollars has now grown to 138 "Confederate" bills.

To take home that much "Confederate" cash, which can be spent just like U.S. legal tender with any Hartley Newspapers advertiser, a reader need only to find the "Confederate" emblem hidden in one copy of a Hartley Newspaper.

This much money could be used to buy a major appliance, make a down-payment

Franklin County Fair Is ow Running At Hilliard

Everything indicates this going to be the greatest nklin County Fair in our year history." Those were words Tuesday morning of man who has been the ding hand for the golden Aiversary fair now under at the Hilliard Fair- Sund. Ray Dellinger, presi- t of the County Fair Board

Dellinger added that even ough the opening night fes- ties had been slightly dered by showers, the early e receipts and the record nber of entries indicated never before had there n a county fair of this scale ered at the Hilliard Fair- unds. More than 2,500 en- s had been received by the ning day of the fair

"If the weatherman gives us reak, we expect the finest nout we've ever had," he cluded.

Rain, along with several busand patrons and Ohio vernor Rhodes and his ily were on hand for the nday night exposition. The icial opening of the pro- am was highlighted by rib- n-cutting ceremonies pre- ed over by the governor and wife. Mrs. Rhodes snipped ribbon opening the main e to the fair grounds at p.m.

This was followed by the ving of 200 pieces of anni- sary cake, at the main en- nce, by members of the fair rd to first night visitors

Governor Rhodes, accom- nied by his family, State rector of Agriculture John ckhouse and State Finance rector Richard Krabach nt several hours touring plays and booths and greet- fair patrons. They joined h other visitors in seeking lter during rain showers which started about an hour after the opening ceremonies.

The rain, however, failed to discourage first nighters. Be- tween the showers the mid- way and outdoor exhibitors were crowded with enthusias- tic fair-goers.

A featured opening night activity was the 4-H Club talent show in one of the big fairground tents. The nearly three-hour show featured skits and acts by club members and the awarding of prizes to win- ning performers. (Lists of winners of this and other contests can be found on the inside pages.)

Tuesday activities included judging of livestock and 4-H Club competition.

The Wednesday program began at 8 a.m. with livestock judging and 4-H judging. Night harness racing in front of the grandstand began at 8 p.m. followed by a dance in the Youth Tent.

A schedule of coming events can be found on the inside.

On Saturday there is no charge at the gate for entrance to the grounds. A special 8 p.m. program, featuring the WLW-C Cavalcade of Stars, in front of the grandstand, will wind up fair activities.

Three Students On Deans' List

Three South Side students at Miami University were named to the Deans' List at Miami University, Oxford, O., for the spring semester. Achieving a grade average of 3.0 (straight B) to 3.49 for an "honor" rating was Carol A. Scheiderer, 1920 Ellsworth-av.

St. Stephens Sponsors Social Group Camping

Camping with a group of friends is a whale of a lot of fun, for almost anyone.

But if a group of strange kids are thrown together in camp for a week, before the week is over, often the time needed to break down the bar- riers is gone.

The camping program of St. Stephens Community House is unique in that it takes a small group of children, al- ready bound together by com- munity of interest, problems, association or perhaps even handicap, and offers them a week of outdoor living with- out the burden of social ad- justments.

The Community Camp in Vinton County is open to a number of organizations. There are 1200 acres of camp site available to those who wish to use a part of it.

St. Stephens Community House is among the organi- zations who have taken full advantage of it for its youth groups.

Fighting the perennial han- discap of lack of funds (the movement is financed largely by church, and civic donations), the summer camp groups can attribute much of their success to the year- round efforts of the unpaid, but dedicated leaders who throughout the year prepare the kids for the experiences of the give and take of camp living.

This year the program has been led by a young theologian John Stattmiller, 348 Kendall-pl and his sister

Taking these children, born to city living, and unacquaint- ed with the community life of camp, is a monumental job.

Experience has shown that they will return a group that has become a little closer to nature, a little better adjust- ed to the world, and a little better geared to meeting their own particular problems.

Still Time To Enter 'Big Catch'

Young fishermen under 15 still have a chance to get in on the big catch as the South- east Lions Club has extend- ed the annual Fishing Derby at Schiller Park until Wed- nesday, Aug. 21.

At 6:30 that evening mem- bers of the Junior Fishing Club will be given their awards and a drawing held for all present to determine who will win the grand prize— a boy's or girl's bicycle.

Actually, catching a fish is not a requirement for eligibil- ity for the bike, and everyone is urged to enter the contest.

Admission to the party will be by membership card which may be secured by registering with one of the playground leaders at Schiller Park.

Thurman Methodists Planning Lawn Fete

Food, fun and fellowship will abound at the lawn fete of the Thurman Avenue Methodist Church, Wednesday, Aug. 21, according to Rev. William K. Loy, pastor.

Sponsored by the Methodist Men, the entire church is working toward the success of the all-out effort to raise funds for the remodeling of the church kitchen.

Church officials say nothing much has been done to the kitchen since it was built in 1912, and all agree that it is "time for a change." The work is scheduled to begin this fall.

From 5 to 9 p.m. sandwiches, baked beans, cole slaw, watermelon, and ice cream and cake will be served. Homemade candy, cookies and pies will be sold to take home, and a bazaar table set up.

With a fish pond, darts, and several games such as ball in the barrel and wet sponge, children and adults will find entertainment of their choice.

Ten cent tickets are available now from church members, but can also be purchased at the church during the event.

Congregation To Vote For Educational Wing

The congregation of St. John's Evangelical Protestant Church, 59 E. Mound-st, is expected to authorize the building of a new Christian Education unit at a meeting on Sunday, Aug. 18, at 10:30 a.m.

The present unit was demolished by a fire on Palm Sunday and has been termed impossible to reconstruct. A layman representing the ruling body of the church will give the group's reasons for this action at the meeting.

Pastor Kutz will preach on "Every Day is Thanksgiving Day" at the Sunday Driver service from 8 to 8:35 a.m. and at the 9 a.m. worship service. The congregational meeting will replace the 10:30 worship service.

Miss Teeters was graduated in June from Eden Theological Seminary in Webstergroves, Mo., with a master's degree in religious education. She will return to St. Louis after the commissioning to assume the position of director of religious education in a church there.

Speaker at the service will be Rev. Elmer J. F. Arndt, a professor at the seminary.

Underprivileged Girls Attend Adventist Camp

Forty-one underprivileged girls between the ages of 10 through 16 years were among others returning home Friday, Aug. 9, from a five-day youth camp conducted especially for them at Camp "Mohaven", Brinkhaven.

The denomination has conducted annual summer outings for its youth since 1926. This was the church's first attempt to provide character building activities for those not of their faith in Ohio.

THEY ARE READY

HOLDING ONE of the program flyers put out to publicize the annual homecoming, Monsignor Edmund Burkley, pastor of the St. Marys Church, goes over the gala plans for the big event with his assistant, Father Charles Lang. Hundreds are expected to return to the old school grounds this Friday and Saturday, Aug. 16 and 17, to renew old friendships and enjoy the two days of entertainment planned.

Precious SIGHT

No price is too high to pay to protect the eyesight of ourselves and our children. Good eyesight is an absolute necessity in the earning of our livelihood, in the school work of our children, and in the enjoyment of all of life.

But there is another type of sight which in these times is often neglected — spiritual sight. We and our children need to be established and grounded in the love of God and His commandments, and to rely on Him. We need to meet His requirement of loving our neighbors as ourselves, thus making a better home life, community life and a better world. Psalms 34:8 reads, "O taste and see that the Lord is good: blessed is the man that trusteth in Him." Attend the church of your choice this Sunday.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH ... THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

When one relatively small church has had 14 of its young folks enter the ministry or allied fields, the thought occurs that there must be a source of influence for those teenagers within the church. So it is at the Southwood Church of Christ, where 11 boys have entered the ministry and three girls have studied in church schools within the past 12 years.

There have been many factors involved in the choice of life-work for these 14 young folks, but all have had one contact in common. That contact is Eleanor Tope, who has worked constantly and selflessly with the young people of her church.

The former Eleanor Jones was born in Shawnee, O., but moved to 317 Moler-st at a very young age when her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reese Jones, left the Perry County town. She attended Southwood Elementary, Barrett Junior High and graduated from South High School. She attended Cincinnati Bible Seminary, received a "pastor's assistant certificate" and one for "Bible School workers," before receiving a Bachelor of Sacred Literature degree in 1948.

Returning to Columbus, she immediately volunteered her services to her church as a teacher ir. the primary department and later received an appointment as superintendent of that department. Within a 10-year period this age group has grown from five classes, averaging 35 pupils, to nine classes of 90-100 attendance.

The welfare of the very young church-goers was also in her thoughts, and she was one of those instrumental in starting a nursery during Bible School and church services. Furniture and a public address system were donated by members to facilitate this feature. A trial run was quite successful, so a kindergarten teacher was added, to teach crafts and tell Bible stories to the older youngsters of the nursery. This project is now under the leadership of the Mothers' Club of the church.

With the primary and nursery age groups provided for, it was decided the teenage segment of the church should receive more attention. The church leaders appointed her to organize the youth. She was co-sponsor of the Junior and Intermediate groups for two years. Later she worked with the Intermediate and Senior groups. She has been active in some area of youth work since 1950.

This activity includes the weekly meetings, service for the church and community, plus recreational outings. A Valley Forge Freedom award was given to the senior Bykota C.E. group for outstanding service, as an example of the volume and quality of service given by the church's young people. Another honor was that one of the members was a runner-up in the "Endeavorer of the Year" national contest last year.

Many traditional activities throughout the year include a visit to a Bible college, caroling and white Christmas baskets at the Yule season, baking cookies for service men and Bible college students, and visits to state parks, etc. Many impromptu after-church outings are also held. One popular feature is "Destination Unknown," when church members act as hosts to the youth following Sunday night services. Skating and bowling parties are frequent and it is fortunate that Eleanor is very fond of these two sports.

Eleanor now works with the senior Bykota C.E. and one might wonder how the name was evolved. It is from the first letter of each word, "Be Ye Kind One To Another" and is the group's motto.

More proof of her selfless ness is evident from the fac. that she spends her two-week vacation each year by teaching at the Round Lake Christian camp, the Church of Christ service camp. She has done this for the past eight years. She has also taught in the Church Hobby Club and in the Vacation Bible School. She sings in the choir, occasionally serves as song leader, has been a member of the music committee, and serves as one of the church secretaries.

A more recent project has been the establishing of a Youth Retreat, in which three youth groups of the church participate.

Eleanor became Mrs. John Tope in 1961. She now resides at 1374 Molly-ln. She has worked as an accountant for 12½ years at the International Society of Christian Endeavor.

Her interest in young people extends beyond the confines of her own church, for she serves as an adult advisor for "Teens For Christ," a monthly Youth Rally for Columbus and nearby communities. This group has been meeting for three years and recently started on the fourth one.

A recent enjoyment for this tireless worker was a reunion with former members of the C.E. groups who have married and moved out of the area. It is planned to make the reunion an annual affair, so that the friendships can be continued.

With such a time-consuming schedule, it seems impossible that Eleanor has time for any community projects, but such is not the case, for she takes part in Kinder Key, the Heart Fund and Nephrosis drives.

The newly-elected officers of Southway Unit 144, American Legion Auxiliary, will be installed Friday, Aug. 16. The officers are Mrs. Helen Ross, president; Mrs. M. Austin, first vice-president; Mrs. M. Poetker, second vice-president; Mrs. O. Goodall, secretary; Mrs. J. Schwaigert, treasurer; Mrs. A. Schirtzinger, chaplain; Mrs. R. Shumate, historian; Mrs. R. Ross, sergeant-at-arms. Mrs. E. Rueckel, Mrs. Clara Davis, Mrs. W. Reese and Mrs. C. Kaiser are on the executive board.

Many area Lutheran women are currently in St. Louis, Mo., as delegates to the first Triennial Convention being held in that city, Aug. 15-18. Luther Leaguers of many area churches are currently at Kent State University, Aug. 15-18, for a state convention.

Camp Fire Girl families are reminded that Wednesday, Aug. 21, is the closing date for registrations for the Camp Wyandot Family Work weekend, Aug. 30 to Sept. 2.

NO ONE on Thurman-av has a more colorful garden than Mrs. Anna Haecker. Showing the results of over 40 years of tender, loving care which she has bestowed upon it, the garden is a patch-work of color from early spring till late fall.

Anna Haecker's Garden Envy Of Neighborhood

NAMED by early missionaries, the passion flower seems to represent the passion of Christ, with its fringe symbolic of the crown of thorns, the anthers like the mark of His wounds, and the leaf the symbol of the spear which pierced His sides.

From early April to late October the garden of Mrs. Anna Haecker, 31 Thurman-av, is a riot of color.

Forty years ago this native of the Black Forest area of Southwestern Germany and her husband began the creation of this garden, which attracts the attention of all who pass the yard.

Cared for by one who believes that flowers are meant for the great outdoors, Mrs. Haecker's garden never has the stripped appearance of those owned by gardeners who literally bring their gardens into their homes with wholesale cuttings.

Among the dozens of varieties she grows are some planted from seeds she has brought from her homeland. Among these is a calendula strain which she claims has unusual medicinal value.

By boiling the seeds in vaseline or a similar petroleum product, she believes what her mother told her—that local application of the resulting salve will heal any skin abrasion.

Another of her more interesting plants is the passion flower which centuries ago was given that name by the clergy who believed the blossom and the leaves were shaped in the shape of the symbols of the Crucifixion of Christ.

Mrs. Haecker recalled with amusement a trip to Italy a few years ago when the waifs of Rome descended upon her, begging for money for the passion flower blossoms which they assumed she had never seen before.

A familiar neighborhood sight as she works early and late in her gardens (one person nearby spread the unfounded rumor that she trims her grass with manicure scissors), Mrs. Haecker finds time to pursue her occupation of waiting table at banquets and conventions. Never having worked until her husband's death eight years ago, she entered this field, and soon found herself very much in demand.

In building a fashion wardrobe, strive for individuality. Avoid dressing like your best friend. Search for unusual fabrics and colors and interesting pieces of jewelry.

Playgrounds Busy With Softball, Pageant Preparation

The summer playground season is drawing to a close and with it comes the annual summer pageant, an event which has a cast of nearly 1,000 boys and girls, to be presented at Schiller Bandstand next Tuesday evening at 7:30. The theme for this year's spectacle is "The Circus."

Some of the acts to be presented are skating bears, the medicine show, lollipop parade, tumblers, magicians, midway rides and games and, of course, clowns. All of these will be portrayed by the youngsters from 46 playgrounds in the south half of the city. In addition to acting in the show, the children have made their own costumes and props which are needed in the act.

Music for the pageant will be provided by a circus band furnished through the courtesy of the Columbus Federation of Musicians. There is no admission charge and the public is invited.

Reports from the playgrounds follow:

Palsgrove...

Participants from Palsgrove Playground competed against approximately 2,400 other youths at the Central Ohio AAU Junior Olympics Track and Field Meet Aug. 3 at Whetstone High School, and came home with sixth place honors. This was a real fine team effort, and the Palsgrove area should be proud of the outcome.

Scoring points for Palsgrove were the following:

Gordon Newlin, fourth place, 50-yard dash for boys 11 and under.

Ricky Newlin, sixth place, high jump for boys 11 and under.

Ricky Newlin, Gordon Newlin, Clarence Porter, Herbie Henderson, third place, 220-yard relay for boys 11 and under.

Mike Williams, Roy Lamar, Paul Haynes, Robert Haynes, fourth place, 220-yard relay for boys 12 and 13.

Calvin Bradley, Alvin King, Lorenzo Garris, Larry Cumberland, fourth place, 480-yard shuttle hurdle relay for boys 14 and 15.

Gil Matthews, Frank Watson, Charles Wilson, Ronnie Lawhorn, fifth place, 440-yard relay for boys 16 and 17.

Gil Matthews, Don Griffin, Frank Watson, Charles Wilson, third place, mile relay for boys 16 and 17.

Brenda Thornton, fifth place, 50-yard low hurdles for girls 14 and 15.

With the Junior Olympics completed, attention on the playground has been directed toward the pageant which will be held at Schiller Center, Aug. 20. The theme of the pageant will be centered around circus activities and should provide a full evening of good entertainment for those who can attend.

Deshler...

Many interesting things are being planned for arts and crafts before the playground closes on Aug. 23. During the past week, the boys and girls have made baskets, novelty dishes, lanyards, jigsaw puzzles, potholders, blottoes, blow paintings and papier-mache animals.

Deshler's Intermediate Girls' Volleyball team, after winning the South Side championship, played last week in the city finals at Windsor Terrace. The members of the team were Virginia Watts, Casey Oddi, Shirley Hamilton, Wilma Lembrowski, Carol Denmen and Cheryl Mitchell. The team lost to Thompson in the quarter finals.

The Girls Intermediate Softball team played Heimandale last week and won 20-16. The girls played well in their last game of the season.

Watkins...

Headlining the news from Watkins is the Family Day Picnic tomorrow, Friday, starting at 5 p.m. Families should bring their own lunches. Kool-aid will be provided. There will be games for all ages with prizes. Everyone is welcome.

Yesterday Watkins held the Second Bicycle Race for the summer. There were two categories, one for children who have gears on their bikes and one for those who don't.

Next Monday there will be a playground track meet. Ribbons will be given for first, second and third places in all events.

Tuesday, Aug. 20, Watkins children will star in "Meet Me In St. Louis," which they will sing and act to. The pageant will take place at Schiller Park.

Next week the arts and crafts classes will sculpture and make trouser or skirt hangers and coasters.

Lincoln Park...

Lincoln Park is now the scene of the nation's No. 1 spectator sport, "sidewalk superintending," as construction for the new recreation center is underway. The youngsters expressed regret when their shelter house was torn down last week, but are anxiously awaiting completion of the center, which will feature an indoor track.

Parents are asked to caution their children about going near the construction area, where machines and dirt piles present the risk of injury.

The cast members of Lincoln's entry in the pageant next Tuesday have been busy adding final touches to their Candy Dance. A dress rehearsal was held Tuesday at Schiller. In the act will be Joanne Angus, Janet Angus, Elaine Smith, Jeannie Smith, Paula Lewis, Debbie Mills, Nancy Hughes and Gail Pennington.

The Junior Jet baseball program ended last week with an exhibition all-star game. The Orioles, American League champions, beat the league's all-stars 9-3, with a five-hit pitching performance by Oliver Hughes. In another game, called after three innings because of rain, the all-stars were trailing the "Has-Beens" — players of past years 3-2.

The Girls Intermediate Softball team, champion of league K, beat Schiller League J champions in a game at Schiller last week. Both clubs are playing in the city tournament this week.

10 Top Teens To Be Named

Ten teenagers (five boys and five girls) will be selected as Outstanding Teenagers from the Columbus Recreation Department's 81 playgrounds. They will be titled CRD Top Teens.

Requirements for candidate selection are: attend senior high school, be an active participant in the playground program, be of excellent character, have a good personality, and demonstrate leadership qualities.

The Recreation Department also announces that the ten CRD Top Teens will receive appropriate awards, and will be the guests of Gene Fullen, WTVN-TV, for dinner at the Kahiki Restaurant, 3583 E. Broad-st, Monday, Aug. 19, 6:30 p.m.

This is the next-to-last week of operation for the playground. The youngsters will close the season with a wiener roast and hay ride Saturday, Aug. 24, at Riverside Park. The outing is sponsored by the Lincolnettes.

Scioto Trail...

Boys and girls from Scioto Trail will take a trip to Lazarus to see a puppet show, "Hansel and Gretel," on Wednesday, Aug. 21. Please sign up at the playground if you wish to go. Each child will need a permission slip from his parents. Any parents who are willing to drive should be at the playground on Wednesday, Aug. 21, at 12:15 p.m.

Vickie Sahr has been selected Junior Leader of the Week.

Smith Road...

Smith Road will hold its second dance tonight, Thursday, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Boys and girls 11-15 are invited to come and dance to their favorite records. Refreshments will be served.

Gail Kaltenecker won the skating rally for the fourth time on Aug. 5. Every week the course is changed, so all contestants will have an equal chance.

Everyone in the pageant cast is hard at work trying to make "Frontier Fair" a big success. The arts and crafts class has been making the props, but more big cardboard boxes are needed.

Karns...

Karns Junior Jet leagues are in the final week of regular play. The teams are preparing for the final week play-offs.

Barry Miller continues to be among the league's hitting leaders. Barry is hitting well over .500.

In the National League, the heads-up play of several players has drawn the attention of the fans. Randy George, "Moose" Roehrenbeck, Dave Curtis, Jeff McMillan, and Doug Hysell have continued to play fine baseball.

Two Karn's Softball teams were successful in their first city tournament games. The junior team romped over Beatty 13-2. Charley O'Neil banged out four hits to lead Karns. Don Caldwell and John Dethloff got three hits each. The pitching duties were shared by Keith Brown and Donice Foraker.

The Intermediate nine slipped past Courtright 11-5. Rick Anderson pitched two-hit ball and struck out 12. Steve Brown aided his teammates with a homer and a single. Bruce Harris, Anderson, and Tom Foley also had a pair of hits each.

The Junior Girls brought Karns their first South Side championship of the year when they downed Scioto Trail 18-6. Patty Marshall was the winning pitcher. Debbie Topia and Besse Ward lead Karns at bat, while Janet Klopher and Carol Myers starred in the field.

The Karns Intermediate Boys' Volleyball team fought its way to the city finals, but lost the championship match to Sharon, two games to one. The Karns team members are Keith Bugos, Dan Hoffman, Mike Jones, Dick Roshon, Harold Russell and Tom Simeral.

Best Volleyball Teams Named

Results of the City-Wide Volleyball Tournament, held Aug. 6, 7 at Windsor Terrace, are as follows:

Intermediate Boys—Sharon Playground, first; Karns, runner-up.

Intermediate Girls—Whetstone, winner; Westgate, runner-up.

LOVELY LUZANNE, Cremolo quarter-horse, will be shown by her owner, Bonnie Rickelman, at the Los Caballeros 4-H Horse Show Sunday. Bonnie will be an eighth grader at Bloom Elementary this fall. In the foreground is Paula Whiteford, who attends junior high at Canal Winchester, and behind her is Nancy Pifer, student at Canal Winchester, who will also show.

Los Caballeros To Hold 4-H Horse Club Show

Los Caballeros will ride Sunday, Aug. 14.

There's no need to run for shelter—just head for the Willow Ridge Farm, northwest of Carroll off old Rt. 33, for the 4-H Horse Club show beginning at 1 p.m. sharp.

In case one's Spanish is rusty, Los Caballeros is the Senor's term for the "The Horseman" and the name adopted by the young people of the Horse Club founded in 1958 with Lt. Col. T. E. Rickelman as advisor.

Jim Fogle is the president of the present group made up of 28 boys and girls of Canal Winchester School District, all of whom own, as a condition of membership, either a horse or a colt.

Four ribbons will be awarded in each of the 12 events. The two boys and two girls who receive the largest number of points in the entire show will receive a championship and reserve championship.

Classes include halter showmanship and horsemanship for members of varying experience, English equitation and trail and open class, as well as several novelty numbers, such as musical chairs.

There is no admission to the event.

CACE Teaches Expectant Parents What To Expect

If you are expecting an addition to your family soon, the experience can be easier and more satisfying for you as the mother or as the father if you know what to expect and are prepared for the labor and delivery. Some of the questions in the minds of parents-to-be concern the money it will cost, diapers, types of anesthesia and their effects, hospital services, relaxing techniques, emotional changes, diet and infant care.

This need for information by expectant parents is recognized by the Columbus Association for Childbirth Education. This non-profit organization of volunteers, established in Columbus in 1954, offers several series of 10 weekly evening classes per year that include the subjects mentioned above.

To Fill Needs

These classes are tailored to the needs of the parents attending. Instructors are Mrs. Ruth Niekirk, R.N., M.S.N., and assistant professor of obstetrical nursing at Capital University, and Miss Dickie Corbett, R.N., instructor of obstetrical nursing at St. Francis School of Nursing, an Ohio State University graduate, and former Columbus public health nurse. Earlier this year, Miss Corbett attended the two-week Maternity Center Association Workshop at Youngstown.

Each of the class series is begun with a CACE open house, usually held at the Columbus Health and Safety Building on Washington-blvd. This open house is an introduction to the class content for prospective class members and provides a capsule presentation of the aims and programs of CACE. Next open house is scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 5.

Other services under the Columbus Association for Childbirth Education auspices include a Nursing Mothers Council, a library of childbirth information, and a CACE Newsletter. The Newsletter, containing CACE programs and helpful information, is sent to Columbus obstetrics, pediatricians, CACE members and interested persons. The Newsletter editor, John Ayres, 5143 E. Walnut-st, Westerville, will add interested people to this mailing list.

Purpose Stated

The Nursing Mothers Council of CACE is a group of mothers who have been successful at breast feeding and offer their moral support to the new nursing mother. The chairman of the council, Mrs. Jodelle Lorenz, 1177 Ashland-av, can be contacted at HU. 6-8343 for information about its services.

In all of its programs, CACE does not give any medical advice. The organization's aim, according to CACE president, Rodney R. Warner, 520 Stinchcomb-dr (AM. 3-8993), is to assist doctors in providing non-professional information for expectant parents.

"Our purpose is to help each couple prepare adequately for labor, delivery and parenthood," Mr. Warner reports. "We want to help families have a satisfying pregnancy and delivery and to make childbirth less worrisome than it's apt to be for the unprepared."

The Columbus Association for Childbirth Education is composed of volunteer men and women who believe that family life is enriched when couples are adequately educated for the experience of parenthood.

Steer Clear Of The 'Smear!'

This is the year of the all-important "local" elections. Candidates, for the most part, will be the man next door, the woman down the street or the fellow over in the next block.

Many of the potential government leaders will be "getting wet" politically for the first time. Their political theme song, "Hey, Look Me Over," is one each voter would do well to abide by.

Our "grass roots" candidates, generally speaking, will be honest, eager, enthusiastic and hopeful. They will have a desire to serve well if elected. Each will have been influenced — from within or from without — by a specific set of circumstances leading to declaration of candidacy.

The candidates have a responsibility to explain why they seek office; to make themselves available to the people they want to represent. They have an obligation to present their credentials and to make known their stand on all issues pertinent to the office they seek.

But the election process is a double-edged sword. There are important responsibilities and obligations incumbent on the electorate. A primary responsibility of citizenship commands that each potential elector secure and exercise his privilege to vote. Far too many citizens think of voting as a right rather than an obligation.

It is the serious duty of each voter to know the basic issues and to learn the stand of candidates in relation to such issues. This is not quite so difficult as some might imagine if we will only listen to both sides of each argument with an open mind.

Forget the excuses used during statewide and national campaigns that the candidates are distant and personally inaccessible. This just isn't so on the local level. Remember, instead, that the collective quality of those who represent us on the higher levels can be controlled by a "selective" vote in the "grass roots" elections.

Election campaigns will very soon shift into high gear. The campaign for office is like a sleek, new automobile. It can be a means of swift progress along the road to better government and an enlightened electorate. But, if operated in a reckless, wild or desperate manner, the campaign can be a vehicle of senseless destruction.

An election won at any cost is a great loss to the entire community. It is a sad fact of political history that all too many people of honesty, integrity and leadership ability are lost to public service. Why? Because they have been the victims of, or witness to, the "smear" tactic as a campaign weapon.

The voter would do well to focus his attention on the issues. Charges relating to a candidate's personal life, background and associations are valid only when presented in an open, forthright manner and substantiated beyond any reasonable doubt. It is not asking too much that candidates for elective office be granted the same protection under the law that is afforded those charged with serious crimes against society. Yet this basic, constitutional protection is all too often denied to the people from whom we hope to choose responsible government leaders.

It is unfortunate that some candidates, while proclaiming an "issues only" campaign, will allow supporters to engage in whisper and rumor techniques. A supporter of a candidate may knock his man's opponent on specific acts or issues. But if he begins his criticism with: "I understand that . . ." or "I wonder if it's true that . . ." — BEWARE!

This is the type of venom that results in a disillusioned and sad little boy asking an honest, loving father if he is a crook, a drunk, a bigot or a mental incompetent. (Is it any wonder that many men would rather protect their families than serve their community?)

A prime requisite for good government is that the voter be as honest and responsible as he wants the candidates to be.

As we said before, these are local elections and the candidates are close at hand. It is a golden opportunity for every voter to cast an intelligent, meaningful vote.

In short, we would advise: Know your candidates. Know the issues. Know what you want from government. Vote accordingly.

What Is Troubling The Christian?

Reading, listening, and watching history in the making during these troubled days and cognizant of the fact that with or without our personal consent we are acting out this history, every serious minded person must ask himself if the part that he is playing is in line with what he is confessing, whatever that faith may be.

For example, in the labor-management relationship (such as the railroad and featherbedding) the answer is to be found within the conscience of both the blue and white shirts. We live in an age of conflicts and the foremost of these is mental because people are living on a "dual moral" standard. The man in the white shirt on occasion "works out," even as the laborer on occasion becomes an employer. Then, listen to the conflict and dissatisfaction about wages, management, conditions for working and the condition of the work. We see again and again this "dual standard" not only in labor management but also in the student-teacher, parent-child relationship and even more pronounced in race relations.

Government by the majority may not always be right as is evidenced by the number of times the majority has been hoodwinked in the past. But then what minority group or individual citizen, directed and motivated by his own personal plans, desires, and intentions whether they be bona fide or not, has the right, privilege, or responsibility to sit in judgment of the established civil law?

Some years ago a poor immigrant left his home, wife and son to "make a fortune" in the new world. When he had made some money he wrote home to his wife. "Come over to me. I want to see you and my boy. I send money for your passage."

His wife took the first boat possible and started for her new home. One night as they were asleep there started the terrible cry "fire! fire!" Everyone rushed to fill the lifeboats. The last one was just pushing off when a cry of "there are two more on deck" arose. It was the mother and her son. "Only room for one!" The mother glanced down at the child clinging to her skirt. Snatching the child, she held him close for a minute, "Son, tell your father I——." The boy was lowered into the boat; the mother died at sea.

Nor can you live and be happy, free from conflict and strife, continuing on a "dual moral" standard. Christ, who out of even a greater love for us than this mother for her son, died on the cross, has given us this single moral standard. Love thy neighbor majority as well as thy neighbor minority; and love thy neighbor minority, as well as majority.

FORTUNATELY it was only a boy's bicycle, not his body, that was broken in this Broad-st traffic incident.

Possible Death Was Only Inches Away

The small headline on a Page 16 story in last week's editions of our Hilltop Record read: "Youth Slightly Hurt In Mishap." But for the sake of inches and a few precious seconds the story would have been on Page One with a death-black headline reading: "Hilltop Youth Dies Under Wheels Of Truck."

The incident occurred in the 2300 block of heavily traveled W. Broad-st, and involved a boy, a bike and a tractor-trailer outfit. Fortunately, the truck had stopped for a traffic signal.

The boy on the bike ran into the side of the tractor-trailer near the rear wheels. He made a mistake that could have been his last one.

The 13-year-old youth was released from Mt. Carmel Hospital after treatment for an ankle injury. He was cited by police for careless operation of a bicycle.

We assume the youth will be a safe cyclist if and when his riding privileges are returned. But the picture accompanying these words asks the important question:

Will the next careless boy on a bicycle get a second chance?

By "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

All genuine leadership is "adventure in audacity" and always has been. All progress is "adventure in imagination."

Henry Ford broke the Selden patents and changed the world. The Wright Brothers looked at a flying kite and built a plane that took off and flew for a short distance and landed without killing anyone.

Pasteur smeared some pus on a plain slide and looked at it through a most primitive microscope and understood what he saw. Someone felt a wrist pulse and understood what he felt, namely that there had to be a pump somewhere.

So it has been with every advance for the common good. Vaccination for smallpox and later research on hundreds of unfriendly invading organisms have brought to the world almost total universal escape from everything except cancer and one of these days some unafraid mind will lick this dreaded killer.

The Chinese had skyrockets ever since the discovery of gun powder. Then some mind wondered audaciously what would happen if enough back thrust were unleashed against normal atmospheric pressure—and lo and behold, we now have jets.

The whole amazing array of electronics was built upon the vacuum tube and the magnetic cell.

The list is endless. Now there are thousands of unafraid minds all over this world seeking the whyfor of the whatever and many of them see when they look; hear when they listen, and comprehend what they see and hear.

Every one of these amazing discoveries is neither magic nor superstition. It is the escape of some mind from superstition and acceptance of one more perfectly natural law that has always existed.

Variety . . . by I. F. Howell

For thousands of generations men lived without glory and died without hope. Now the pessimists tell us this still must be true. But an optimist would have another view.

The black and scarlet stains upon the pages of history cannot be erased. But, if we will, we can learn from them. By avoiding past mistakes we can make brighter the pages of the future. Now, if we will, we can make glorious the present and certain the immortal future, all simply by the choice of brotherhood and understanding to replace hatred and intolerance.

Court decisions in the past few years have aroused controversies culminating in bloodshed and the use of force. These are all the fruits of a ferment that have been growing in hearts and minds for too long. The end is not yet in sight, nor can anyone predict the form of the future. It's all a part of the slow search for solutions that has always seemed a sort of trademark of the human mind.

For many reasons an increasingly articulate social conscience is being heeded more than ever before, here, and in other lands. But still there is too much ignorance, prejudice, and ill will.

Laws and legal decisions against discrimination cannot destroy ill will or create good will. These are of the heart and mind. Civil and economic rights of minorities will be protected and enjoyed only to the extent that good will and understanding prevail over ill will and ignorance in the minds and hearts of more people.

It says here . . .

Brotherhood could be the brightest flower in a new garden of good will.

Prisons Hold Our Big, Bad Children

What makes a criminal?

Mostly arrested development.

Mostly baby reactions and childish attitudes inside adult bodies. The habitual con may be clever, occasionally even brilliant. But somewhere within him you're likely to find a kid who never grew up.

The boys who go from petty trouble to big trouble are generally filled with self-pity, self-justification and elaborate reasons why the rap is bum. What's the matter with them?

Jones

A sophisticated prison publication is "New Era," put out by inmates of the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth. Its wry slogan; "The Men's Indoor Entertainment Magazine." In its current issue a convict reporter interviews the prison psychiatrist, Dr. J. L. Baker, on what makes a convict.

Eliminating the few criminals who have minds so disordered that they have lost touch with reality, Dr. Baker says, the average prison inmate is sane and certainly knows right from wrong. But he hasn't been able to adapt himself to the social and legal demands of the majority of his fellow human beings because his motivation and judgment are faulty.

And these are faulty because of:

1. Low Anxiety Frustration Tolerance.

The criminal, claims Dr. Baker, is unable to experience frustration without over-reacting, without behaving as though the frustration were greater than it is.

Denied anything, the baby bawls or has a tantrum on the floor. Mature personalities, faced with a denial of something wanted, first bend every reasonable effort to obtain it and, failing that, learn to live with their disappointment. Crossed in love the mature man writes a sad poem, pampers his hurt feelings for a little while, and then looks for another girl. The immature man may shoot his rival, the girl or himself.

2. Poor Goal Formation.

What criminals want, Dr. Baker points out, is often not worth the cost. The immature man may want a Cadillac, while he lacks the education, the skill and energy necessary to put him in the Cadillac class. So he becomes a bookie or robs a bank. The mature individual may also want a Cadillac, but he is willing to study, work hard, and proceed to his goal in 20 years via a secondhand Ford a Rambler and a Chrysler.

The mature man likes "kicks." He gets a kick out of waterskiing, out of a basement hobby bench, out of taking the kids to Yellowstone. The immature man likes "kicks," too. He takes a pop of heroin.

3. Impulsivity.

The criminal can't figure the odds. He puts his money on long-shots. He makes snap decisions, says Dr. Baker, that sober reasoning would veto. The odds against a successful and long career as a forger or counterfeiter are overwhelming. The non-criminal may enjoy a round of the slot machines at Las Vegas, but he doesn't confuse that with a way of life.

Prison yards are full of people who think they "fell" because a detail went wrong. They resolve to correct the detail and "score" next time.

All these symptoms, Dr. Baker asserts, add up to one word — childishness. The child spends all his money, stuffs himself with candy, and gets a bellyache. He can't distinguish between short-range gratification and long-range satisfaction. The child doesn't understand temporary self-denial for eventual big benefits. Neither does the criminal.

The honest man calls attention to the dropped wallet because instinctively he likes a society that respects possessions. The criminal thinks only of the bills inside. The careful driver accepts the perpetual inconvenience of obeying traffic laws because he understands the carnage and tragedy that would follow general disobedience. The juvenile delinquent guns his hot-rod and imagines he is proving himself a personality.

Prison is a poor place to re-rail sociopaths. It's hard to untwist a twisted philosophy by surrounding it with twisted philosophies. The best cure for crime is the early prevention of the growth of criminal attitudes. That means the home.

Parents who are themselves immature are not likely to raise children who can stand the stress of life. But by wise upbringing normal, decent parents are likely to raise normal, decent sons and daughters.

Wise upbringing means just that — bringing children up from childhood to adulthood. It means the detection and discouragement of childish attitudes — selfishness, unreliability, willfulness, temper — beyond the age when they should be outgrown. It means giving the child steadily increasing responsibilities and steadily increasing rewards for discharging these responsibilities well.

A child needs love. He also needs correction and discipline. The love must be steady, a thing to be counted on. The punishment must be inexorable but fair. It's hard to make a man out of a child raised in cruelty, or neglect, or overindulgence, or whimsy. The child wants to place his feet upon a rock, not quicksand.

Children brought up with love and firmness generally yearn to become men and women. They seek approval and acceptance by adult society. They grow up to be prides and joys.

It's the overgrown babies who will break your heart.

LOCAL RUTH-GEHRIG COMBINATION

LOCAL SLO-PITCH hurlers have learned to respect the awesome bats of this pair of sluggers who could easily be described as a modern-day Ruth-Gehrig combination around the slo-pitch ranks. At left is Bob Swords, 57 S. Giffst, who has teamed with Virg Emswiler, a native of Reynoldsburg, to give William Miller Supplies and Ted Hysell Clerks the area's most potent one-two home run punch in history. Excluding the pair's final three games of the season, Swords had bashed out 58 four-baggers while Emswiler was close behind with 55 of the round trippers. These 113 HRs came in only 47 games, 40 of which either Millers or Hysell won.

Mind, Not Muscle, Key To Karate, Judo Study

What with our knowledge of judo and karate somewhat lacking, we were happy to accept an invitation by Bob Testa to visit his Bushi-Kai Association School of Self Defense at 2111 E. Main-st last week.

What we learned completely changed a number of mistaken notions we had about the two forms of defense. First of all, both karate (like boxing, since you strike a blow) and judo (like wrestling, since you grab and throw an opponent) are just that--defensive arts.

BOTH ARE USED exclusively to defend, with students taught that offensive karate is a dishonorable act.

Strength is neither a prerequisite nor a direct product of either karate or judo. The end results of both forms are coordination between mind and body, agility, extremely fast reflexes, physical fitness and self confidence.

Karate is a physical-mental development with the final goal directed at making the body do what the mind directs. The ability to think clearly and quickly is acquired almost automatically.

WE HAD ALWAYS associated karate with the fellow breaking a table or two in half with his bare hand. Atemi (or breaking) is the exhibition part of karate, something like the home run to baseball. It's only a small part of the whole.

Also enlightening is the ultimate goal of karate and judo. Not victory but perfection of character. The moral aspects of the art are stressed. The student first learns respect and courtesy.

For example, no one steps up on the karate platform at Bushi-Kai to begin a lesson without first bowing. A brief concentration period follows each lesson with the student reflecting on what he has learned. The white uniform worn symbolizes a purity of spirit.

Testa describes the response to the school as "fantastic." In less than two months approximately 200 students have enrolled for karate, judo or the physical fitness aspects (weights and steam room).

JUDO CLASSES instruct pupils from seven to 70 with karate instructions available to those over 14. The association guarantees progression through beginner's white belt and green belt to the brown (instructor's level) belt in 24 months, providing the student attends a mimimum of two classes per week.

Classes are conducted both day and evening with members attending as many or few classes as they wish. "So much of karate is form," says Testa.

"You don't have to wait for some one to jump you to get the benefits and enjoyment of these arts. Your development toward physical fitness, mental and physical agility and confidence produce satisfaction."

TWO OF BUSHI Kai's instructors — Fred Polacheck and Gary Tiktin — are first degree black belt holders, the latter only one of three men allowed to promote to the first-degree black belt level in Okinawan Shorinru karate.

While karate is form, judo is 75 per cent balance. Another instructor, Walter Soga, who specializes in judo, holds a third degree black belt.

Polacheck demonstrated the more difficult Kata's (forms) after his one-hour class period last week. He also demonstrated (vocally) the Kiai, the blood-curdling yell associated with karate.

THE KIAI IS useful physically (the exhalation provides a brief spurt of added strength) but moreso psychologically. If it is unexpected, it can unnerve an opponent for a split second--enough time to win a match.

Fred also demonstrated the "breaking" technique by solidly pounding a hardwood board, using the larger two knuckles of the hand. These, along with the other hard bones of the appendages (heel bone of hand and foot, are used to break objects with a snapping motion, all of the power achieved through technique.

Launching Ease Aids Current Boating Boom

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROB COCHRAN

While watching the boating jam on Griggs Reservoir the other day, I became amazed at the number of new boats and novice boaters. I saw all shapes and sizes — both boats and boaters.

Happily, boat designers seem to be getting back to more traditional lines, and the craft I saw were not jazzed up like the boats of a few years back. Glass seemed to be the most popular boat construction material, although there were a lot of aluminum boats in the smaller sizes. A good percentage of new boats continue to be made of wood.

I HAVE AN affection for wooden boats that the new materials have never won, and I looked up some statistics on the subject. Latest sales records reveal that of new boats 16 feet and larger, 26 per cent are made of wood. This is about the same or slightly higher than the last figure that I remember.

Boat building is a traditional craft in this country, and there is a fascination in watching the sleek lines of a boat take shape. For this reason I always enjoy a visit to the Hess Boats factory at Plain City.

While glass and aluminum are superior to wood in certain respects (and arguments continue about this), it is most pleasing to watch the construction of a wood boat. The molding of glass cloth and the application of the bonding resins just do not seem like boat building. It's the same with the riveting of metal boats.

BUT WHERE THE scent of wood and varnish is in the air, and shavings are on the floor the boat seems to be in the hands of men rather than machines. The hull is started with a keel and ribs of select oak, as boat builders have always begun. Power tools are used, of course, but you see that a good wooden boat is the product of craftsmen. A man works on a joint until it is right.

Whatever your choice in a boat, the people most responsible for the current boom in boating are those who receive very little credit. These are the trailer manufacturers. A few minutes of observation at the Griggs launching ramp will tell you that trailers have opened the door to this sport.

In running down the boating sales figures, I found the fact neatly hidden away — more than 200,000 boat trailers are sold annually in the U.S. As a comparison, there were less than 4,000 sold in 1947.

TODAY, IN the light of trailers and good roads, no one is land-locked. Your trailer is your dry dockage, and permits you to boat on a variety of waters. The trailer makers have kept pace with the fast-moving boating industry.

Some of the more recent innovations include self-activating surge brakes which need no mechanical hook-up with the car, tilting devices for easier launching, power winches which work off the car's battery and pull boats onto the trailers, and dollys or third wheels for hand-moving your loaded trailer.

Trailer hitches and lighting arrangements have been improved. And trailers have been "beefed up" to handle the bigger boats and heavier loads that today's boaters demand.

BOATING HAS reached a point in popularity where courtesy and common sense are needed on the water. Unfortunately, just the opposite often occurs on local reservoirs. The first cry of anger was heard some years ago from the fishermen, when boaters began buzzing them. But this was largely drowned in the roar of powerful motors. Now boaters are harassing each other. We will reach a point, I suppose, with what boating will need will be fewer boaters.

Nats Rap AL Stars In LL Tilt

The National League All-Stars combined 14 hits with six American League bobbles to win the Southwestern Athletic Association's annual All-Star game Saturday at Georgian Heights' LL diamond, 10-4.

A total of 36 players competed in the game which featured the finest baseball talent from the six teams of each division.

THE NATIONALS held only a slim 1-0 margin until they exploded for five runs in the fifth to take a commanding lead they never relinquished.

In that frame, the Nationals combined four hits, three walks and a AL miscue for the clincher.

Andy Watson (St. Christopher), Dwight Reinstetle (Georgian Heights) and Bill Ackerman (Valleyview) paced the winners at bat with two hits apiece. Longest hits of the day came on triples by the American's Buddy Wells (Scioto Trails) and the Nationals Frank Cheatham (Westside Kiwanis).

THE "MOST valuable player" awards went to Bill Ackerman (Valleyview) of the National League and Terry Blackburn (Scioto Swimmers) of the American circuit.

DIAMOND MEMORIES—PART III

Stolen Bases, Lineup Juggling, Wheat Field Keys To '04 Flag

(Third in a series of four)
By Charles F. Coon

The Franklin County League baseball race ended in a three-way tie in 1904, necessitating playoff games between Worthington, Groveport and Canal Winchester.

But even before the playoff games, the pace for the season had been set by a pair of unusual games.

THE FIRST GAME was an early-season battle (Apr. 16) between Groveport and Canal Winchester, Corwin pitched for C-W, striking out 14 but yielding 13 bases-on-balls. Coon, pitching for Groveport, fanned 12 and walked seven.

The final score looked more like a football game report as Groveport won, 31-12, to hand Winchester what proved to be its only loss of the season.

The most remarkable aspect of the game was Groveport's movement on the bases as the winners stole 23 bases while C-W pilfered none.

LATER IN the same month, Groveport traveled to Reynoldsburg to play a game on the site of the present Waterworks Plant in Reynoldsburg.

Reynoldsburg led, 1-0, when Groveport came to bat in the sixth inning. Needing a baserunner, the Groveport board of strategy instructed Weis (the team's biggest man but weakest hitter) to get hit by the pitcher (without making it appear too obvious).

This, he accomplished and Groveport went on to score two runs. However, the lead changed hands twice more before Reynoldsburg came up in the ninth trailing by two runs.

WITH ONE OUT, the Reynoldsburg team decided to "jump" the next batter in order to put a better hitter at the plate. The out-of-turn batter laid into the ball but his long fly was caught by the left fielder.

Discovering the Reynoldsburg juggling act, the umpire ruled that the man who was supposed to have batted was out as well as the man that batted in his position.

Figuring that the game was over both teams and the spectators walked up the road into town.

HOWEVER, THE Reynoldsburg captain argued with umpire Aldrich of OSU that only one of the batters was out. Aldrich altered his decision and word was relayed uptown.

Both teams and a crowd of spectators returned and Groveport lined up in the field. Coon's first pitch was hit high and foul behind third base and the game ended the second time — this time for good.

The first play-off game was scheduled for May 28 between Worthington and Groveport. Groveport won, 13-8, as Coon fanned 10, collected a homer and a single — and received word that he had won $50 from the Pennsylvania Grit (a Williamsport, Pa. weekly) for guessing the paid attendance of the first day of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition at St. Louis.

IT WAS A different story when Groveport and Coon faced Winchester, however, as C-W collected 14 hits and won 9-8 after Groveport had come back to tie the score with five runs in the top of the ninth.

Winchester traveled to

Pit Stops

Urbana's Neal Sceva was given "fits" by Bob Smith and Curt Kraft both of Columbus, in Sunday night's 25-lap super-modified feature, at the Columbus Motor Speedway but Sceva was able to outlast the pair to notch his fourth feature triumph of the season on the Williams-rd oval.

Smith and Kraft finished two-three, followed by Dick Diamond and Carl Busson, a newcomer from Marion running his first race in Columbus.

Those five, finishing in the order named, earned $100 in cash for Thomas Hiles, Jr., of Lancaster, in the speedway's game of "Total." This brought the number of winners, this year, to 18.

In Sunday's late - model headliner, Paul Parks, who finished fourth in the "Dayton 300" for new cars in the afternoon, drove to his second-straight feature and his fourth of the season at the CMS.

Parks driving a '60 Ford, beat out Keith Weaver, Merle McBride, Vern Schrock and Chuck Denny.

Friday night's race will get underway at 8 p.m., following the 7 o'clock time trials. Sunday, the super-modifieds and late-models will return.

Last Friday night, rains cancelled the scheduled Mid-Season Championship program for flying-stocks. The entire schedule will be run this Friday evening, including the two "Monza Style" 25-lap features, with the fastest qualifiers competing.

Another $100 in cash will be waiting in the game of "Total" for the fan or fans able to select the first five, in order, in the first 25-lap main event Friday.

GOLF ETIQUETTE--8

THE ETERNAL OPTIMIST

In theory, there's nothing wrong about being an optimist but in practice, especially on a golf course, good sense is much more valuable. Trying to play your shot from an impossible lie not only can be frustrating but also time consuming when others are waiting to play behind you. It might hurt the pride a bit to take a penalty shot occasionally but the odds for a better score and keeping tempers tranquil on the links are much better when you do.

East, Southside Boys Called To Little Buckeyes Meeting

All boys living in the South Side and greater East Side areas (including Bexley and Whitehall), who are between the ages of 11 and 14 and weigh between 85 and 115 pounds, are invited to attend the organization meeting of the Little Buckeyes football team Friday at 10:30 a.m. at the Johnson Park Jr. High playground.

Age requirements will include boys whose fourteenth birthday has just been reached. In case of rain, the meeting will be held at the same time and place Saturday.

TOM KRIEGER, director of the program, announces that this year's Little Buckeyes, last year known as the Chuck Wagon Cowboys, will continue the annual weekend campout when team members spend a weekend at a boys' camp.

For additional information, contact Tom Krieger at CL. 2-4655.

xterior Architectural racteristics Typical of man Village Houses —

Typical German Village Architecture is characterized by one and one-half story brick houses with grey slate, gabled roofs pitched at approximately 45 degrees to the horizontal and two and one-half story brick houses with hip roofs of similar character. Chimneys extending from the ridge line of roofs predominate. Most roofs have moderate overhangs with hanging gutters.

All facades of the houses are simple in composition, composed of areas of soft-burned red brick laid up in Common Header Bond with brick areas exceeding the combined door and window areas. Doors and windows are located from the corner of the structure a distance as great or greater than their width. Typical windows are double-hung with a height to wid.h ratio of approximately 2 to 1 and a single verticle muttin in the center of each sash. Most windows and doors have cut stone lintels and sills with Roman-Arched brick heads being employed above the smaller attic windows of the one and one-half story houses. Many of the stone lintels contain incised relief of various designs on their faces. Doors are usually of 4-panel design with an occasional use of glass and with a height to width ratio of approximately 2.3 to 1. Foundations are constructed of large cut stone laid in mortar.

Wrought iron fences, simple in character, boarding on the brick walks which in most cases extended to the cut stone curbing at the street, are erected at the front of most of the properties. In some cases, the iron fences completely surround the property. The brick walks are laid in herringbone and basket weave patterns. Cut stone steps with carved stone buttresses are found at the front entrances of some of the larger houses.

The general scale of the structures within the German Village and their relationship, one to another, is intimate. The dimensions of the typical house is approximately 16 feet to 18 feet by 30 feet to 40 feet. Many houses are located at the front of a 30-foot by 90-foot lot.

Building Inspector — 'Building Inspector' means the officer charged with the administration and enforcement of the Building Code, or his regularly authorized deputy.

"Section 3306.05. Limitation on Issuance of Building Permit. No permit shall be issued by the Building Inspector for the construction of any structure in the German Village or the reconstruction, alteration or demolition of any structure now or hereafter in said German Village, except in cases excluded by Section 3306.10 C.C., unless the application for such permit shall be certified under Section 3306.07 C.C. that no exterior architectural feature is involved or shall be accompanied by a certificate of appropriateness issued under Section 3306.08 C.C.

"Section 3306.06. Certificate of Nonapplicability of Chapter 3306.

Except in cases excluded by Section 3306.10 C.C. every person who applies for a building permit to construct any structure in the German Village or to alter, change the exterior color of or demolish any structure now or hereafter in said German Village shall deposit with the secretary of the German Village Commission his application for such building permit together with all plans and specifications for the work involved. Within one week, the commission shall consider such application, plans and specifications and determine whether any exterior architectural feature is involved. If the Commission determines that no exterior architectural feature is involved, it shall cause its secretary to endorse on the building permit application, certification of such determination and return the application, plans and specifications to the applicant.

"Section 3306.07. Certificate of Appropriateness.

No person shall construct any exterior architectural feature in the German Village, or reconstruct, alter, change the exterior color of or demolish any such feature now or hereafter in said district, until such person shall have filed with the secretary of the commission an application for a certificate of appropriateness in such form and with such plans, specifications and other material as the commission may from time to time prescribe and a certificate of appropriateness shall have been issued as hereinafter provided in this section.

Within one week after the filing of an application for a certificate of appropriateness, the Commission shall determine whether the proposed construction, reconstruction or alteration of the exterior architectural features involved will be appropriate to the preservation of the German Village pursuant to the purposes of this Chapter and whether, nothwithstanding that it may be inappropriate owing to conditions especially affecting the structure involved, but not affecting the German Village generally, failure to issue a certificate of appropriateness will involve a substantial hardship to the applicant and such a certificate may be issued without substantial detriment to the public welfare and without substantial derogation from the interest and purpose of this act. In passing upon appropriateness, the Commission shall consider, in addition to any other pertinent factors, the historical and architectural value and significance, architectural style, general design, arrangement, texture, material and color of the exterior architectural factor involved and the relation thereof to the exterior architectural factors of other structures in the immediate neighborhood.

"Section 3306.08. If the Commission determines that the proposed construction, reconstruction or alteration of the exterior architectural factor involved will be appropriate or, although inappropriate owing to conditions aforesaid, failure to issue a certificate of appropriateness will result in substantial hardship to the applicant and issuance thereof may be made without substantial detriment or derogation as aforesaid or if the Commission fails to make a termination hereinbefore prescribed, the secretary of the Commission shall forthwith issue to the applicant a certificate of appropriateness. If the Commission determines that a certificate of appropriateness should not be issued, the Commission shall forthwith spread upon its records the reasons for such determination and may include recommendations respecting the proposed construction, reconstruction or alteration. Thereupon the secretary of the Commission shall forthwith notify the applicant of such determination transmitting to him an attested copy of the reasons and the recommendations, if any, of the Commission.

"Section 3306.09. Notice of Demolition.

No person shall demolish any exterior architectural feature now or hereafter in the German Village until he shall have filed with the secretary of the Commission the permit application as provided by Section 4113.01, Columbus City Codes, 1959, a written notice of his intent to demolish such feature and a written statement that such feature is not historically or architecturally significant or otherwise worthy of preservation. Upon determination by the Commission of the accuracy of the application the secretary of the Commission shall forthwith issue to the person filing the notice of demolition a certificate of approval.

"Section 3306.10. Exclusions.

Nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent any ordinary maintenance or repair of an exterior architectural feature now or hereafter in the German Village, which involves no change in material, design, arrangement, texture or color; nor shall anything in this chapter be construed to prevent the construction, reconstruction, alteration or demolition of any feature which the Building Inspector shall certify pursuant to Chapter 4109 of the Columbus City Codes, 1959, as required for the public safety being an unsafe or dangerous condition.

"Section 3306.11. Severability.

The provisions of this Chapter shall be deemed to be severable; and, if any of its provision shall be held unconstitutional by any court of competent jurisdiction the decison of such court shall not impair any of the remaining provisions.

"Section 3306.99. Penalty.

Whoever constructs, reconstructs, alters or demonlishes any exterior architectural feature now or hereafter in German Village in violation of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than $50.00 nor more than $500.00."

Sec. 2. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Passed April 29, 1963.
GOLDA MAY EDMONSTON, President of Council.
Approved April 29, 1963.

'No Stopping' Ban Applied On Miller-av

Institution of a "no stopping" restriction on Miller-av, from Livingston-av north to the first alley, has been approved by the Columbus Traffic and Transportation Commission. The band will apply from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Columbus Chief Traffic Engineer John L. Gallagher told commission members that the street will be "laned" to separate turns at peak traffic hours.

In other action the commission approved the following traffic changes:

Initiation of one-way traffic (east) in Reeb-av from Parsons-av to the Wager-st parking lot (Lisle-al), and installation of stop signs for Lisle-al traffic at Reeb-al.

Changes calling for stop signs on Smith-rd, at Fairwood-av, Fifth-st at Kossuth-st, and Pearl-st at Deshler-av, and a yield sign on City Park-av at Columbus-st.

TEAM TEACHING

The team teaching experiment with English at South Central and Linden-McKinley high schools.

LANGUAGE ARTS

Structural linguistics and generative grammar are two new terms which have to do with usage in English. The approach is such a definite departure from traditional grammar that the experiments will continue in a limited way at Starling until conclusive results can be obtained.

Another pilot project in English, phase programming, being carried on at Central High as a laboratory type of language learning will also continue.

A class in composition has been under way at Eastmoor, with each student handing in a composition a week. The worth of the course of descriptive writing offers promise.

ART, MUSIC APPRECIATION

Walnut Ridge seniors met as a class for one period each week last year to learn concepts and appreciation of art and music. The course will be extended this year.

VOCABULARY BUILDING

A series of programmed lessons in vocabulary building, given in each junior high, has been revised and will become standard in all eighth grad classes.

BSCS BIOLOGY

BSCS biology, researched by the National Science Foundation, will be presented in hard-bound books for the first time this year. The laboratory-centered course will be taught at Whetstone and at Central high schools.

At the meeting this summer when the "parts dealers" as the men in this business prefer to be known, were guests of the council, several of the dealers promised to join in the South Side's effort to "clean-up."

Hartley Newspapers publisher each week. It is clearly placed in the space of an advertisement.

The finder must bring the entire paper containing the emblem to the Hartley Newspaper office, 2465 W. Broad-st, in person before the deadline at noon on Monday following publication.

To claim the entire jackpot the finder must be a paid subscriber to a Hartley Newspaper. If not, the "5" emblem can be turned in for $5 in "Confederate" cash, which also can be spent with any place of business advertising in a Hartley Newspaper.

In each of 20 separate copies of Hartley Newspapers there are emblems hidden like the one printed in this column. These "1" emblems are good for $1 in "Confederate" money if the finder will send the page containing the emblem to the Hartley Newspapers office before the Monday deadline. Finders need not be a paid subscriber or come in person to collect the winnings with a "1" emblem.

This contest is open to any reader of a Hartley Newspaper with the exception of employes, including carriers, and their families.

All money not claimed in this week's contest will be added to the jackpot offered next week. "Confederate" cash offered by this paper can be spent only with places of business advertising in a Hartley Newspaper during the week the money is claimed by a winner.

Local Goodyear Service Stores Celebrating 65th Anniversary

Max Bruckman, manager of the Goodyear Great Southern Service Center and Joe Childers, head of the Main and Hamilton Goodyear headquarters at 917 S. Hamilton-rd are joining a nationwide birthday party as the world's largest rubber company celebrates its 65th anniversary plan a series of unusual parties to accompany anniversary sales events which will run throughout the birthday period. In joint accord, the two managers said that their plans are to make this birthday into as large an event as a usual Grand Opening sale.

One feature of the local birthday celebration will be coffee and birthday cake served on a crystal plate to be kept by the friends and customers who come in on this Friday and Saturday, and on all Fridays and Saturdays during August.

Both stores will have special birthday prices on Westinghouse appliances, Goodyear tires and many car and home items throughout the stores.

Goodyear dealers and stores located all over the nation are a part of this 65th celebration.

In these 65 years Goodyear has grown from a little producer of solid rubber carriage and bicycle tires, with a total employment of 13, to a large diversified company with nearly 100,000 employes and retail network of 165,000 dealers and stores throughout the world. Net sales have grown from $8,246 to nearly $1.6 billion last year.

The store on S. High-st, at Great Southern, and the one, at Hamilton-rd, opposite Great Eastern, are two of the four Goodyear Service Stores in the Columbus area.

from Wednesday, Aug. 14, to Labor Day.

Both Bruckman and Childers have stated that they

LOOKING UP for a moment, from looking over future plans, are Max Bruckman (left), manager of Goodyear Great Southern Service Center, and Joe Childers, Main and Hamilton Goodyear head. Bruckman and Childers were completing final arrangements for Goodyear's 65th anniversary that began Wednesday, Aug. 14.

JUNIOR HUCKSTER

IT MAY BE "easy go" for young Nick, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Douridas, 2679 Lockbourne-rd, as there is a very inviting swimming pool nearby and visions of the State Fair filling his noggin. But it isn't "easy come." With his five brothers he has raised a first-class garden and is kept busy at his roadside stand as their crop of big, red, meaty tomatoes ripens daily. It's likely that his big brothers put him on "stand duty" because his grin lights up Lockbourne-rd better than a neon sign.

FOOD MARKETS THIS WEEK

Now's The Best Season For Cool Salads

By ESTELLE B. FRANKS

This week look for:

Fruits — cantaloupe, watermelon, peaches, plums, bananas.

Vegetables — tomatoes, sweet corn, snap beans, cabbage, all-purpose potatoes.

Protein Foods — fryers (whole), chucks and rounds of beef, ground beef, hams, medium eggs, tuna fish.

For a refreshing summer food, a cool salad usually fills the bill. That holds true whether you're inclined to "three squares a day," or just go in for nibbling. The fact is, there's nothing like a salad to tempt finicky appetites during the summer months.

Mrs. Franks

Vegetables are a sure bet for salad uses at this season. Such favorites as tomatoes, green peppers, cabbage, cucumbers, green beans and red beets are well suited for the purpose. The many kinds of home grown lettuce available provide great variety for the salad greenery. Fortunately, all these vegetables are in abundant supply now and prices are at the low ebb of the year.

Fruit salads can be a real spectacular in eye and appetite appeal. There's a variety for you to use now in melons — rosy red watermelon, cantaloupe and the unusual melons such as honeydew, Casaba, Cranshaws and Persian. Then there are peaches, grapes, deep-colored nectarines, many varieties of plums and many more. Don't forget blueberries. They will soon be gone.

For a nourishing salad that also suggests summertime, don't overlook tuna. There are almost 18,000 tons of tuna either in harbor waiting to be unloaded or enroute to coastal canneries. That's ¾ million cases of canned tuna. And the run of albacore and bluefin tuna is just starting. Frequent specials on tuna are a certainty during the rest of August and September.

Salad Making Is An Art

No other food you fix offers all the possibilities of creativeness as the salad. The important thing is to keep in mind the purpose a salad is to serve. If it's to be the main dish of your luncheon or dinner meal, you'll want to include generous amounts of nutritional protein foods such as meat, fish, poultry, eggs or cheese, along with salad vegetables. On the other hand, if your salad will serve as an accent to the main course, a tossed salad or wedges of fresh fruits on crisp lettuce with a tasty dressing will be just right.

Here are a few tips on how to make a salad appetizing and interesting:

- Select top quality vegetables and fruits. They look and taste best and provide the best nourishment.
- For variety, use salad greens other than lettuce. Try endive, romaine and spinach.
- Tear greens in fairly large pieces or cut with scissors. Larger pieces of any salad ingredient preserve the food's identity and give the salad body.
- Chill all ingredients before mixing. Add the salad dressing just before serving.

It's the season for salads, so enjoy them often.

Bases—

Worthington four days later for a makeup game which could decide the FCL championship. Worthington led 4-0 after six innings but couldn't hold its margin as Winchester came back. The regulation game ended in a 6-6 deadlock.

The score was still tied when C-W's first baseman, LeRoy Kramer, came to bat in the eleventh inning. Kramer hit a ball just inside the right field foul line.

NOW THE DIAMOND was laid out alongside a wheat field where the village school building now stands, northwest of town.

The wheat in this section of the field was almost kneehigh and while the fielder searched frantically for the ball, Kramer circled the bases with the run that earned C-W the win and the championship.

Do You Know Your Sports?

Rugby, the ancestor of American football, is actually an off-spring of soccer which came to life quite accidentally.

In 1823, a soccer player at England's Rugby College, angered with his inability to kick the ball, picked it up and ran over the opposition's goal line. Thus the sport's name.

THERE IS NO forward passing, interference or blocking allowed and the ball carrier must release the ball when tackled with play resuming automatically.

A "scrummage" (like football's scrimmage) occurs only after out-of-bounds plays and penalties. In case of injuries, no substitutions are allowed and a team must carry on shorthanded.

Lateral passing and kicking highlight the game, especially the latter since any free ball may be kicked. The rugby ball is oval and, like a football, can be kicked accurately. Record - 71 yards in 1962.

THE FIELD is 110 by 75 yards with end zones and goal posts just like football. A running goal, dropkick, free kick or penalty kick counts three points with conversions, scored in like manner, adding two more points.

Knee pads are the only equipment protection for the game with padless jerseys, shorts and cleated shoes completing the dress. Equipment cost is less than 20 dollars.

The game, which draws crowds of over 100,000 in Britain and Australia, is not nearly as popular in this country. However, close to 75,000 players participate in this country, especially in the northeastern colleges.

INTERCOLLEGIATE matches are scheduled in the Ivy League and the Eastern Rugby Union is composed of seven private clubs, from Boston to Baltimore, including four in the New York City area.

Central Ohio Horseshoe Queen

Horseshoe Tourneys Set Friday, Sunday At Sunshine

The Central Ohio Horseshoe Tournament will be held Friday from 6 to 10 p.m. at the Sunshine Recreation Center, 667 Sullivant-av.

Qualifying rounds begin at 4 p.m. and run until the tournament opens at 6. All qualifiers will be placed in either Championship, Class A, Class B, or Class C.

THE OHIO TOURNAMENT has been set for Sunday at the Sunshine Center with qualifying scheduled between noon and 2 p.m. State tourney play opens immediately following the qualifying and competition will be staged in four classes.

The Columbus Recreation Dept.-sponsored tourneys will award trophies in all four classes for each tournament. Competition is open to all shoe pitchers who have not received more than expense money for horseshoe competition, nor have ever competed as professionals in any other sport.

Winners of the state tournament will be eligible to compete in the National AAU Horseshoe Tourney, held Labor Day weekend in Salisbury, Md.

PRETTY 21-YEAR-OLD Miss Blanch Copley (pictured above) will reign as queen for both the Central Ohio and State Horseshoe Tourneys at Sunshine Center.

Adult Council Coordinates Programs

By SAMUEL D. STELLMAN, Ph.D., President

The Adult Education Council of Greater Columbus is a non-profit organization composed of a group of dedicated men and women whose primary purpose is to help adults improve themselves, their community, and increase their knowledge of the world about them through participation in adult education programs.

The Council attempts to coordinate the work of all those organizations which donate a large amount of their program to adult education activity. These organizations include schools, universities, libraries, private and public agencies, national organizations, individuals, and a number of business firms listed in the directory in this supplement.

Urges Participation

Aside from attempting to coordinate the existing adult programs, the Council encourages adult participation in the extensive adult education activities regardless of extent of educational background of the participant. Even though an adult has had no formal education or college training, there is something for him in the extensive programs being carried on in this area.

Whether there is an interest in technical training, hobbies, college courses, or "fun" courses, the Columbus resident has an opportunity to find the location of any or many of these activities through reading this Hartley supplement or by calling the Information Center of the United Community Council, CA. 8-5696.

The Council, at present, is attempting to help those who have had little or no formal education through the television program "Operation Alphabet." In addition the Council publishes directories of adult education classes, holds leadership training conferences, and conducts a 13-week television public affairs TV series.

The Council holds monthly meetings which are open to the public. It provides speakers for groups which wish to know more about adult education.

The purposes of the Council are:

To provide an exchange of information about adult education programs conducted in the Columbus area.

To provide a means for promoting the programs of various agencies.

To provide a clearing house of adult education activities and events.

To encourage research in discovering community needs.

To sponsor training programs for the development of leadership skills.

To be the official organization representing adult education in the Columbus Metropolitan Community.

Membership in the Council is open, by invitation, to individuals and organizations having a program based on broad interests in adult education.

Groups accepted into membership are entitled to have a representative and an alternate on the Council.

Superseded members may at their request be voted honorary members without voting privilege.

At present annual dues are $3 for all members.

The Case For Continued Education

(Glenn A. Rich, director of the Division of Elementary and Secondary Education, and Karl Kessler, Supervisor of Adult Education—both in the Ohio State Department of Education—present herewith a persuasive argument on the need for continuing education.)

The current revolution in technology spotlights the increasing need for continuing education in Ohio. This need exists for every person whether he has had any formal education or not. Continuing education is a necessary part of life because of the changes in the nature of basic decisions which one must make, not only for his own behalf, but for his family, friends, colleagues, and the public in general.

Many under-educated adults are not able to read road signs. The adult with only a minimum amount of education (less than five years of formal schooling) generally is not able to read or comprehend local newspapers. How can he decide what is fact or fiction?

One-Third Under-Educated

Adults who have less than a high school education find it difficult to obtain work because business and industry demand a certain level of education. The employee needs to have sufficient knowledge and communication skills to become an active and participating citizen within the community.

Of all persons 25 years of age or older, the 1960 census reports over 290,000 adults in Ohio who have less than a fifth grade education. The same source cites that there are at least 2,000,000 adults who have less than nine years of formal education and 3,000,00 adults who ha less than 12 years of education. This represents approximately one-third of the present population of Ohio.

Adults who need a high school diploma for employment should complete this requirement by attending formal classes. Public school adult education agencies should take the initiative to provide the services which are needed by so many people. All citizens of a community, private business and industry, governmental agencies, social agencies and organizations should also encourage participation in adult education programs.

Many high school graduates need additional secondary education courses to supplement what has already been acquired for self-improvement, as well as courses in the cultural aspects which contribute to individual growth and understanding. Parents often desire opportunities for directed and guided group discussion on the parent-child and family relationships. Personal growth in the understanding of human relations and citizenship should be encouraged.

More Leisure

The shorter work week, reduced travel time, high mobility, and modern media of communications all contribute to increased leisure time. Continuing education, therefore, should be strengthened and made as a part of the services of the community to give new and enriching experiences. Mandated retirement causes the creative talents and experiences of retirees to be "placed on the shelf." These talents should be of great value in continuing educational programs in instruction and discussion among individuals and groups.

The State Department of Education provides a leadership role in continuing education. This leadership includes the development attitudes among educators to understand that there is no terminal point of an education in a man's life. Training institutes for directors and teachers of adult education are conducted by the State Department of Education for the development of programs which are designed to help the adult to realize his full potential.

The very nature of the adult education program should be conducive to the development of a broad range of knowledge which can be used effectively in community leadership and to provide opportunities to study and research critical problems leading to a sense of personal satisfaction and accomplishment.

In addition to its leadership roles, the State Department of Education offers consultative services in the area of continuing education to boards of education, school administrators and personnel, adult education agencies, and citizens of Ohio. Through these services, in conjunction with other Divisions of the State Department of Education and other Departments of State which have responsibilities of continuing education, it is hoped that new programs will be developed and programs al-

South Western Schools Start Third Year Of Adult Programs

South Western adult education program begins its third year of operation this fall with a greatly revised program, according to Paul S. Noblitt, director. Offerings will include classes in 23 areas of study activity.

Heading the list of offerings will be a repeat of the course in illustrative art offered last year by Robert E. Mauck, well-known local artist and illustrator. Mauck's classes last year were very popular and this year will be expanded to include a course for beginners on Tuesdays and an advanced class on Mondays at Grove City High School.

The new schedule calls for elimination of Wednesday classes. All classes will be held on Monday and Tuesday evenings. Included this year are classes in Ballroom Dancing for Adults, Bookkeeping for Small Business, Bridge for Beginners, Ceramics, Cake Decoration, Education for Survival, Electronics Kit Construction, Hobby Woodshop, Knitting, Elementary Reading, Sewing, Shorthand and Typing.

For further information, call TR. 5-2318 and see advertisement elsewhere in this edition.

The program is designed to provide opportunities for adults to engage in worthwhile learning experiences. The South Western City Board of Education sponsors classes in four school buildings and on two evenings per week for this purpose.

The majority of the classes are located in the Grove City High School but Franklin Heights High School also houses a number of activities. A small group of classes is scattered between the Prairie Lincoln and the Prairie Norton schools.

Classes include academic, commercial, and vocational areas of study. Several recreational type classes are also offered as in the Western Square Dancing Instruction in Grove City High School and the Ballroom Dancing for Adults in the Prairie Lincoln School.

The adult education program in South Western has been successful from the beginning. Now in its third year of operation, plans are being made for expanded enrollment. Requests to date have exceeded those of last year and additional instructors and facilities are being scheduled to meet the demand.

ready established will be further strengthened.

Continuing education programs are inexpensive if existing public school facilities are used. Boards of education are permitted by law to budget for adult education programs and for leadership and administrative costs to assure quality programs-in adult education.

Budgets for continuing education should provide for administrative personnel on a half-time or full-time basis depending upon the extent of the program. Time should be provided for counseling, orientation, supervision, organization, in-service training of adult education instructors, coordination of activities, development of promotional materials, consultative services, advisory committees, and liaison with the board of education and superintendent of schools.

A combination of evening and daytime courses might be more suitable than only classes scheduled in the evening. The successful adult education program depends upon the attitude, support and cooperation of everyone concerned.

In the age of technology with its rapid changes, today's knowledge of education becomes obsolescent with the coming of tomorrow. To adjust to changes and to make a full and complete contribution to society, it is imperative that every person must continue today's education to meet the challenges of tomorrow. This is the case for continuing education.

Franklin U. Will Open Day Classes

Franklin University announced today that it will open day classes in its General College starting Sept. 3, 1963. Requests by students for day courses brought about this opening of day courses.

A two-trimester curriculum in business administration is being offered for persons interested in business. The schedule of classes will include Accounting I, English, Small Business Operation, French, Public Speaking, and elective courses. Experienced teachers will make up the teaching staff. Mr. Floyd Mason, CPA with six years' experience in teaching in the evening courses at Franklin University, will teach Accounting I. Mr. Ralph Howell, who has taught evening courses at Franklin University for many years and recently retired from Bexley High, will teach English and French. Mr. Joe Jacobs, long time teacher in Franklin University evening courses, a private consultant in the field of credit and a lecturer, will teach Credits and Collections and Public Speaking.

A two-trimester secretarial course will be offered to students wishing to become secretaries. Mrs. Martha Corrodi is the full-time teacher in charge of this program.

Enrollment is limited to thirty students in each curriculum. Additional courses will be added. The University

Three Different Study Programs Open To Bliss College Students

One of the most up-to-date colleges of its type in the country, Bliss College, 131 E. State-st, offers accredited courses of study in all fields of business and commerce.

Chartered by the State of Ohio to offer degrees, the school makes available three different programs to its students.

The School of Business, the oldest department of Bliss College, offers courses to qualify students in the fields of bookkeeping, stenography and for secretarial work. A main purpose of the school is to help the student to develop an insight into the business world and to sharpen his instinct to aid in a rapid advancement in his chosen field. All credits earned in this school may be transferred to the Junior College of Commerce.

Three avenues are open to the student desiring a diploma from the Junior College of Commerce. A student may major in higher accountancy, executive secretarial or business administration. Those completing the junior course of 12 months are awarded a certificate of proficiency and graduates of the senior course receive diplomas at graduation ceremonies.

A special course of 18 months of special accounting has been arranged for those who must cut their time to a minimum in order to enter the accounting field.

The degree, Bachelor of Commerce, is awarded to those students who successfully complete studies in the Senior College of Commerce. Work in the prescribed courses is given over a period of 12 quarters or 36 months.

This course offers the student more intensely commercial than that included in the usual commerce course offered by the average college or university.

Study at Bliss College is open to veterans, under the GI Bill, and any qualified high school graduate. Sports are also available at the college and in the past the Bliss Bookkeepers Basketball team has gained nationwide recognition. Two member of a past team were the first honorable mention All American players ever named from an American business college or university.

All persons making application to enter Bliss College are advised by trained counselor who will also answer any questions the potential student might have regarding the school or study programs.

Heavy Equipment Used In Al Win Training Program

On-the-job training and instruction in actual earth-moving conditions under the supervision of experienced operating engineers are features offered by Al Win Training, Inc., Plain City-Georgesville-rd, West Jefferson. The local school, part of a six-state organization, specializes in getting men ready for jobs on earth-moving projects.

During the course, which usually lasts 80-hours, students are trained to use construction equipment and actually work on earth-moving projects. Recent jobs include the installation of sewers, water lines and streets in the Stoner Subdivision of Grove City. Other projects included the removal of 17 acres of trees for a project, the building of a lake and excavation of basements.

Prospective students are contacted by a counselor who will advise the student on the programs and type of training offered. A new student may either pay for his tuition in lump sum or make arrangements for regular terms to cover the cost of instruction.

Classes can be arranged for either week-days or weekends, whichever is convenient for the student.

Since most construction firms are interested in only hiring trained heavy equipment operators, the school has been able to trace 70 per cent of the students who have been gainfully employed.

The latest in modern equipment is used in training programs and courses are offered in the operation of such machines as bulldozers, cranes and eukes.

True Meaning Of Education

William Feather said: "An education isn't how much you have committed to memory, or even how much you know. It's being able to differentiate between what you do know and what you don't. It's knowing where to go to find out what you need to know; and it's knowing how to use the information once you get it.

Ohio Technical Institute Turns Out Top Technicians

Ohio Technical Institute has led and is continuing to lead the way in modern technical education. Since its humble beginning in 1952, the school has grown to be one of the most widely recognized and respected technical institutes in the Midwest.

The new quarters of the Ohio Technical Institute at 586 Sunbury-rd provide 15,000 square feet of air conditioned classrooms and laboratory space, a complete reference library, and parking facilities for students.

Technical institute education is vital to our state's economic growth. In these days when the engineering schools are turning out graduates with very strong scientific backgrounds, the technical institutes must supply the highly trained personnel to perform the tasks previously done by engineers.

"At Ohio Tech, we foresaw this change in engineering education and prepared our curricula accordingly," declared OTI president, S. L. Oppenheimer. "As a result, our students have been highly successful upon graduation. Our people have had calculus, physics, semiconductors, and transistor circuits."

Ohio Tech was the first to teach pulse and digital circuits and the first to teach servomechanisms. This pioneering spirit at OTI has all been channeled into electronics engineering technology. Within the next year Ohio Tech will expand into a new technology which is currently in its infancy. The school will continue to grow to keep pace with the growth of science and technology.

Applications are now being accepted for all classes and anyone interested in starting classes this fall should contact the registrar's office at once by stopping in or calling 253-8749.

Public Library Affords All Adult Education Opportunity

"The true university of these days is a collection of books." — Carlyle.

As responsible adults, we seek to be good citizens, the best of parents, productive members of society, and growing individuals. We appreciate the necessity of current knowledge for effective fulfillment of these roles.

We know that "a molehill of slightly out-of-date facts" has a way of becoming "a mountain of educational obsolescence."

We realize that the "erosion of education" by the passage of time can apply equally to us whether we earned degrees at college, ended our formal educational experience with high school, or earned our "diploma" through experience and self-education.

We are aware that "keeping current" is a continuing process and requires taking advantage of the total educational resources available to us. It's such a staggering prospect that we sometimes wonder whom to turn to and how to get started.

Trust Education

Since the truest means of adult education is the receptive mind communing with the expert, the public library offers us an ideal opportunity to continue and enhance our store of knowledge throughout life's span.

the pursuit of knowledge and pleasure are books; musical and spoken-word recordings; current and back magazines, periodicals and newspapers; 16-mm. educational films; government pamphlets; and an almost endless variety of reports and brochures on practically every conceivable subject.

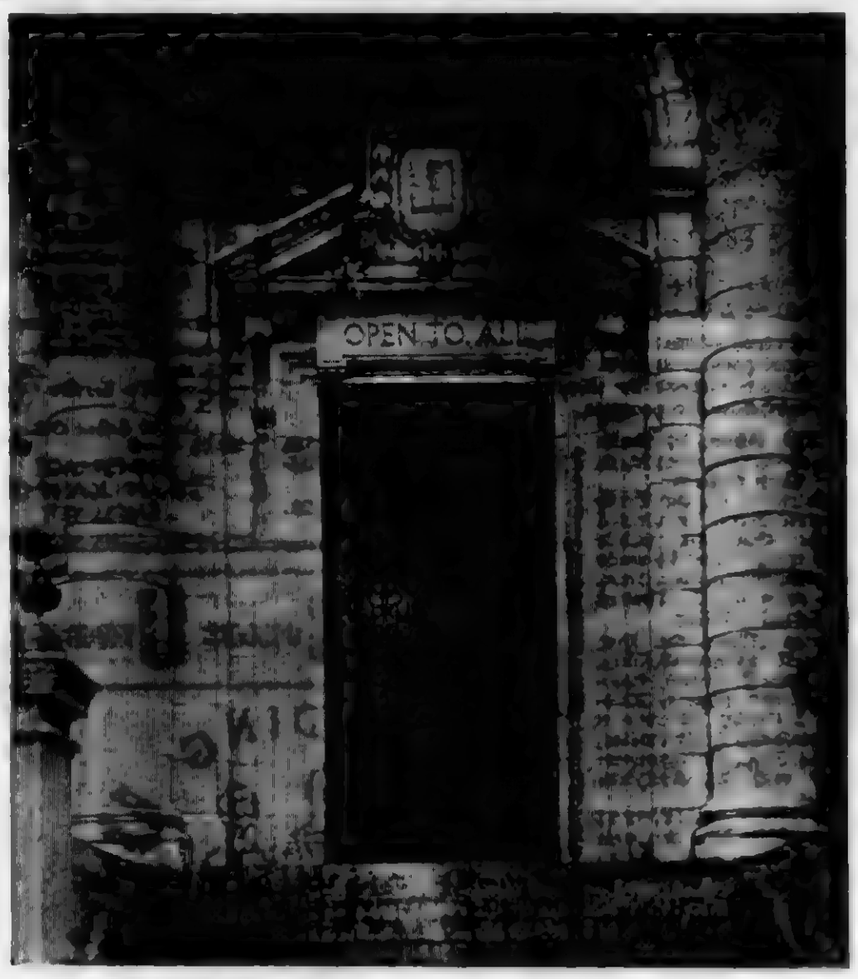
In the library, you set your own pace, review as often as necessary, and choose your own teachers. This community information center gives you the means of lifelong self-education by providing a wide variety of materials to stimulate thought, to develop understanding, to widen perspectives, to broaden interests, and to suggest alternatives.

Self-Exam Urged

If you are not already engaged in a lifelong learning enrichment program, start today with an assessment of the "total you."

Examine your intolerances, those areas of life in which you have closed your mind to growth. Check yourself for understanding in the cultural arts, the practical arts, and the humanities. Analyze your "bedrock philosophy," your personal creed, your orientation to God and your fellow man. Think ahead to the retirement years and remind yourself that you cannot suddenly develop an alert and inquiring mind, a taste for reading and creative and satisfying hobbies — for all these require years of nurture.

Consider all these things and you will be impelled to use the growth and educational resources available to you in the public library.



Learn More About Music

Music has been important to mankind throughout recorded history. Empires have crumbled to the strains of martial music played by the enemy. Highpoints in civilization throughout the ages have been accompanied by advanced forms of music.

Today, music plays an important part of our daily lives. We hear it as we shop. It is pined into our banks and restaurants. We listen to music many hours a week on radio.

But how much do you really know about music? Do you recognize the instruments, know something of the famous composers and the great musical groups? If you feel that a lack in your own musical background keeps you from getting the most out of the world of music, you'll be interested in exploring the offerings of the Fine Arts Room down at the Main Columbus Public Library.

Here you'll find more than 7,000 long play phonograph records you can borrow just like books. And you'll find books on every conceivable phase of music and musicians. If you love music, you'll love using the library's fine arts room.

Your library card unlocks all its resources to you. If you have a sincere desire to learn there is almost no subject too difficult for you to master through the aid of books, recordings, films, magazines, and other informational materials freely available to you at your Columbus Public Library.

If you have an immediate practical goal of building a boat, for example, increasing your personal efficiency, or establishing a small business, the experts who have written books are at your fingertips. outh Side Painter Gets First Taste f State Recognition

Seeing beauty in things as they are, not as a "dis- ion in one's mind," Mrs. Lorraine Rogers, 460 uth-st took up oil painting two years ago.

Her first subject was her son, and she did his rait for the pleasure of self-expression and with- thought of exhibition. In fact, when the "show" bit her she was ill-prepared, as she has been in habit of giving away her paintings almost as fast he completes them.

However, when touring the art festival at City this summer she gave a second thought to her k and with the encouragement of her family enter- a marine scene and an autumn landscape in the teur class of the State Fair.

When she received notice that the "Sailboat" had n second prize, she was amazed, flattered and ing with enthusiasm to keep on with her efforts.

Realizing the handicap of starting to paint with- any technical training, Mrs. Rogers hopes to as- ate herself with other local artists or join a class hich she can learn some of the basic techniques.

She explained that without any instruction, mat- such as mixing colors, which is routine to the experienced artist, become a major headache her.

With no serious ambitions to become a profession- orraine Rogers has made for herself a hobby from sh she draws enormous self-satisfaction, and at sh, according to the State Fair judges she is com- nt.

SELF-TAUGHT, Mrs. Lorraine Rogers was thrilled surprised recently when notified that she had won place in the amateur oil painting class at the pre- ew of the exhibits for the State Fair. Her art was ed in competition with more than 150 entries from er the state.

Adults Profit From Courses Provided By City Schools

A wide range of adult education courses is provided by the Columbus public schools in addition to the Evening High School, enrollment of which has doubled since 1926.

Considerable expansion has been made in the trade extension and apprentice courses and full direction of the School for Practical Nursing has been assumed. Employment and re-employment training classes in cooperation with the federal Manpower Act have been conducted. Classes for illiterates have been continued as have naturalization classes.

An entirely new venture—the Columbus Area Technician School — is being added this fall.

For Foreign-Born

English courses and Citizenship Preparation classes are conducted by the Columbus Evening High School for foreign-born students. For information call the school office at CA. 4-3243. Registration for the fall semester will be held Thursday evening, Sept. 5, or Monday evening, Sept. 9.

To meet the needs of adults and older youth the Columbus Board of Education provides an accredited Evening High School at 75 Washington-blvd. While it is chartered as a full four-year high school, with a primary purpose of giving to students an opportunity to earn a high school diploma, it also provides courses outside the usual high school offerings to meet the special needs of adults in varying circumstances.

Evening School Courses

Among those are Accounting of college level, Word Study and Rapid Reading, Art (including oil painting and design of professional level), Public Speaking, Medical Terminology, Mechanical and Architectural Drafting and Blueprint Reading.

The Evening High School also provides a broad offering of commercial courses, a variety of foreign languages and a wide range of Mathematics, and Sciences including Chemistry and Physiology.

More than 60 courses are scheduled for next semester, registration for which will be conducted Thursday evening, Sept. 5, and Monday evening, Sept. 9.

Among the new or relatively new offerings this year will be Penmanship, Creative Writing, Great Literature, Spelling and Personal Writing, and Foods and Meal Planning.

For further information call the Evening High office (CA. 4-3243) or write to Evening High School, 75 Washington Blvd., Columbus 22, O.

Shop Courses

Registration for the Trade Extension classes conducted by the Columbus Public School system must be made at 7 p.m., Wednesday, Sept. 11, in room No. 1, Central High School building.

Courses offered the first term will be Arc Welding, Tool Design I (basic), Electrical Theory (basic), Electronics I (basic), Electronics III, Metallurgy I, Hydraulics, Machine Shop, Refrigeration Theory and Oxy-Acetylene Welding.

Second-term additional courses will be Electric Small Motor Repair, Refrigeration II, Hydraulics II, Tool Design II, Metallurgy II, TIG Welding.

McGraw-Hill Book Company recently announced the publication of a new book, "Direct and Alternating Currents," co-authored by Samuel L. Oppenheimer, president of Ohio Technical Institute, and Jean Paul Borchers of North American Aviation.

The book is a text in Electric Circuits and Analysis, written for the engineering technician student. The book, in note form, has been in use by the students of Ohio Technical Institute for the past two years and is now available to the public and other technical institutes and colleges.

OSU Center For Adult Education Courses Offered At Several Levels

A recent Ph.D. graduate of Ohio State University, who majored in adult education, will return this fall to his native Ethiopia where he will become Associate Dean of University Extension at the Haile Selassie I University.

He is Dr. Solomon Inqual and he received his training in adult education through courses offered by the OSU Center for Adult Education. He also studied sociology and audio-visual methods of instruction. In his new position he will be supervising 15 training centers for teachers of fundamental and community education.

Other recent Ph.D. graduates who took their adult education training through the Center for Adult Education are Dr. Joseph Blair, who is now Director of Educational Services for the Nationwide Insurance Co. in Columbus, and Dr. Samuel Stellman, Assistant Executive Director of the Columbus Jewish Center.

In addition to those receiving Doctor's degrees, several students have received the Master's degree in recent years. These include nursing educators, "Y" directors, U.S. Armed Forces personnel, and others. Several persons who are working part-time in adult education enroll for survey courses to explore the field and to gain some of the fundamental skills.

RESEARCH SERVICES

Besides having a program of professional training, the Center for Adult Education engages in research and offers consultant services to agencies wanting to begin an adult education program or wanting to improve an already existing one. Organizations using the services of the Center recently include Girl Scout Council, Central YMCA, Columbus Jewish Center, Columbus Adult Education Council, State Department of Public Instruction.

The Center held its 14th annual Parent Education Workshop this summer. The workshop was co-sponsored by the Ohio Congress of Parents and Teachers. Forty-four officers and committee chairmen met for two full days to receive training in how to organize study groups and how better to discover and use various resources in preparing parent education programs.

Last year the Center received a grant of $55,000 from the U.S. Office of Education to conduct a research project on the educational needs of the aging in Columbus. Over 2,000 older persons have been interviewed and have indicated their preference for educational programs and services. This information will be analyzed, interpreted and published during the coming year. The Center has also conducted research into the educational needs of out-of-school youth. The results have entitled, "Educational Needs of Out-of-School Youth." Copies are free to responsible Ohio residents.

Other publications of the Center include "Improving Adult Education in Ohio's Public Schools," "Annotated Bibliography of Materials for Teachers of Americanization and Literacy Classes," both of which are free; and a "Handbook for Parent Education Leaders," the price of which is 50 cents. Copies of these publications may be had by writing the Center, 367 Arps Hall, 1945 N. High-st, Columbus 10, Ohio.

The Center for Adult Education is directed by Dr. Andrew Hendrickson, who is professor of adult education in the College of Education. He received his Ph.D. degree from Columbia University and was formerly Assistant Dean at Cleveland College of Western Reserve University. He is the author of the book, "Trends of Public School Adult Education in Cities of U.S.," and many articles in educational journals. For a period of eight years he was secretary-treasurer of the Ohio Association for Adult Education and is one of the founders of the Adult Education Association of the U.S.A.

Books Help You Do Better Job

The "butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker" of children's poetry fame all could have improved trade and made their jobs easier with the aid of a public library. Of course, they didn't have public libraries back in those days and practically all learning was the hard way—by trial and error. But you—no matter what your occupation—can turn to the advice of experts in books borrowed from your Public Library.

There are scores of books especially for the small businessman and for members of the various trades and professions. And, if you're an employe, there are books to help you acquire the knowledge you need to move up the ladder to a better job. If your job has you stumped, if you think you've come to a dead end in the matter of promotion, check for library books dealing with vocations and business advice. They can help you, too, in the critical decision of whether or not to change jobs by pointing out the hazards and advantages of other lines of work. Let your Public Library help you with your job!

Market Training Institute Offers Specialized Training

Featuring specialized training in the fields of electronic assembly, PBX receptionists and retail marketing, the Market Training Institute, 198 S. High-st, Suite 201, was established in the Columbus area two and a half years ago. Since opening its doors to students for this specialized training more than 600 graduates have completed courses.

According to Dwaine Ayotte, director of the local training school, there are now 48 branches of the Market Training Institute operated in the United States and Canada.

Ayotte pointed out that there are five teachers and three counselors employed by his organization. Courses are started on a regular basis and a student need not be a high school graduate to enroll. A free qualifying exam given to each applicant will determine if the student is eligible to take a course in his chosen field. The school is approved by the Veterans Administration, the Rehabilitation agencies and, by outlying welfare departments.

According to Ayotte a large percentage of the students trained at the school find jobs waiting for them at the completion of their

The PBX, receptionist course gives instruction in three different types of telephone switch boards and a course in typing.

Training in electronic assembly takes in NASA soldering techniques, study of schematic drawings, use of the color code, understanding of Ohme's law, study of spot tying and cable lacing. All graduates are qualified as a class A assembler.

The course in marketing gives the student an understanding of stock procedure, marketing of produce and proper check-out techniques.

Franklin University Serves Both Youth And Adult

Franklin University offers adults formal evening education in law, accounting, business management, industrial management, electronics, drawing, typewriting, shorthand and dictation, Day Programs in electronics, drawing, and college courses are offered for youth and adults.

A branch of the Columbus Young Men's Christian Association, Franklin University is located in the east wing of Central YMCA at 40 West Long Street. The University's offices and library are located on the second floor. The office is open until 8 p.m. so that adults may visit the University after working hours. Policies of the University are set by a Board of Governors composed of twelve business and professional men.

Franklin University's work with adults started before 1900, when the YMCA started classes in a few courses to help young men who were working during the days.

Formal Education

For the past 62 years Franklin University's chief work has been that of offering evening formal education to the adults of Columbus and Central Ohio. Enrollment for the fall of 1963 will be over one thousand students. The fall trimester starts on Tuesday, Sept. 3, 1963.

Both men and women attend Franklin University, which has been coeducational since World War I. Approximately one-fourth of the students are women. The University is open to all people regardless of race, creed, or national origin.

Evening students work during the days and attend classes on one or more evenings each week. Students may enroll for single courses, a certificate, or for degree programs. The University offers the junior college, or associate degree, and the college, or bachelor's degree, in the evenings. The associate degree may be earned in the day division of the Technical Institute or General College.

Employers Assist

Adults attend Franklin University to improve their education and to help them in employment. Some adults want to learn enough so that they may enter a new field of employment. Others want to upgrade themselves on their jobs or to keep up-to-date on their present job.

A few students are being retained for employment since their jobs were eliminated by automation. Many students are assisted by their employers who pay for one-half to all of the tuition if courses are completed satisfactorily.

Franklin University operates three trimesters each year. Trimesters are sixteen weeks long. If a student enrolls in one course, he attends class one evening each week from 6 to 9 p.m. The Fall Trimester traditionally starts the day after Labor Day. The spring trimester starts the first Monday of each year, and the Summer Trimester starts around May 1.

Four Divisions

The University is a non-profit institution of higher education, which is operated to help educate persons interested in improving themselves and to serve the community. Advisory committees' opinions, student requests, and employers' needs are used in developing curriculums and planning schedules.

Franklin University is composed of four divisions which are the Law School, the General College, the Technical Institute, and the Secretarial School.

The Law School accepts adults under 41 years of age if they are graduates of accredited four-year colleges or universities. The degree of Bachelor of Laws can be earned by attending class three evenings each week for approximately four years.

The faculty is composed of five full-time professors and 10 prominent lawyers of the local bar and bench who teach part-time. Enrollment varies from 100 to 120 students. Students work at full-time positions and attend evening class.

It is not unusual to find people who have earned advanced degrees enrolled and working for a law degree. four or five women are usually enrolled. The Law School has approximately four hundred living alumni. Many of these are prominent in the legal profession and in business.

Mature Adults

The General College accepts adults of any age. Mature adults who are not high school graduates are admitted as general students. Approximately 650 students attend this college during the fall trimester.

Some adults enroll for only one course, such as Principles of Real Estate. Other persons take enough courses to earn the associate or bachelor's degree. Courses in accounting, business administration, industrial management, English, foreign languages, phychology, social studies, and the like are available.

Many students attend the University to get the "know-how" for job advancement, others to learn new professions. Some students, graduates of other four-year colleges and universities, are learning new professions, keeping up-to-date, or simply taking courses in which they are interested. Students and graduates are found in responsible positions in local business, industrial, and governmental organizations.

Tech Institute

The Technical Institute of Franklin University offers programs in electronics and drawing to both youth and adults through day and evening courses. Its programs are designed to educate engineering technicians. Technicians are defined as persons who have had two or more years of education beyond the high school; who have studied mathematics, science, oral and written communications, and their specialty; and who have earned the associate degree.

These technicians are educated to be assistants to engineers and supervisors of craftsmen. Various groups have reported that from three to five technicians are needed to support every engineer. Currently technicians are in demand in many fields due to the increased use of complicated equipment.

The University discontinued its vocational education at the beginning of World War II. Since that time, the University has educated engineering technicians in electronics and formed by a staff of full-time instructors, together drawing. Instruction is per- with several part-time instructors, who are engineers, scientists and technicians working in local business, industries, and research institutions. Approximately three hundred fifty students attend this division. Graduates work locally, as well as in many parts of the nation.

The Secretarial School conducts day and evening classes for youth and adults. Certificate programs are offered, but students may enroll for one or more courses if they desire. Although this school is co-educational, most of its students are women. Many women who are reentering the business world after some years of absence attend this school to build up their speed in typewriting and dictation.

Nothing will help you define your interests quicker than to visit a library and browse through its many shelves. Or, merely offer a hint of your interest or need of the moment to the trained librarian on duty.

We Still Like It

While it is true that liars figure and figures can be made to lie, it is apparently true today that our courts can give about any kind of a decision and justify it.

PROJECT 33 WINS OKAY

The county commissioners gave unanimous approval Tuesday morning to the recommendation of the Rural Planning Commission that the land held by Project 33, Inc., be rezoned to AR 14-26.

This action, unless an appeal is filed within 30 days, winds up the zoning fight between local residents, joined by the Calvin Presbyterian Church, and those promoting Project 33.

Lowell Fletcher, president of the corporation which is

been reached before Fletcher's departure and the subsequent hearing before county commissioners. At a joint meeting with Jack Goudy, trustee of the church-owned property abutting the apartment land, the corporation agreed to pay one-half of the expense of a border planting between the two properties.

A meeting was also set up at this time for a meeting the day after Labor Day, at which time the landscaping plans of the project will be

The nucleus of a junior college in Ohio might very well be starting in the north wing of Central High School this fall.

Columbus Area Technician School, launched by the Columbus School System and acclaimed by educators and industrial leaders, will offer two years of college level training for high school graduates in the fields of electronics, mechanical and business data processing.

And, a full month before the school's first quarter has opened, Director Clint Tatsch has received urgent requests from industry to add six other areas to the curriculum.

"The need for technicians is immediate," he said. "I already have a request for a data processing technician to operate an installation being planned in India."

The school's success and its rapid expansion is assured by industry's demand for technicians. It is Ohio's legislators and its newly-created board of regents who will determine its future status.

If they accede to the government's request of 1958, authorizing federal aid to any state which will promote and conduct junior colleges or technology institutes, it is easily conceivable that the school could be the beginning of a new state education program.

Director Tatsch outlined possibilities for the Technician School's growth expected the immediate future:

"It will be expanded," he said with certainty. "It must, in order to provide the trained technicians so necessary in today's economic structure."

"An entire building will be needed, and soon." He speculated on a number of locations:

"Columbus schools was the first public agency to file a request with the federal agency for government land occupied by Fort Hayes. If this land should go to the schools, it would be a possible site for a new School of Technology. There are also a number of other possibilities.

"Ideally, to be of most benefit to the most people, the School of Technology should be operated on a 12-hour basis, with classes scheduled whenever they are justified by registration. And this is definitely in the plans for the future.

"But for the present, the school will operate on a strict, six-hour, noon until 6 p.m. basis, with no study halls."

The great gap between the "know-how" of engineers and scientists, and the "know-how" of skilled craftsmen has

Columbus Business University Grads Climb Ladder Of Success

When Ralph E. Hoffhines and W. L. Ohmert founded the Office Training School in January, 1911, they foresaw one of the great revolutions in this country's employment picture . . . the rapid and gigantic growth of our army of specialized office workers.

Today, the institution that has grown from the Office Training School — Columbus Business University— is enabling young men and women to fill positions of responsibility in many fields . . . from executive secretaries to senior accountant. Columbus Businesses. University graduates, thousands in number, are now in key posts in business, industry, commerce, government and the professions. They are found in the ranks of top management throughout the nation.

Many Courses

As our society and economy have become more complex, the areas of specialization for office personnel have expanded. The curriculum structure and faculty at Columbus Business University have grown to meet these ever-changing requirements. Courses include Commerce and Finance, Professional Acounting and Auditing, Business Administration, Office Management, Executive and Private Secretarial, Stenographic Business Machines, IBM Key Punch, Airline Reservations, Ticketing and Teletype, as well as the nationally famous Speedwriting shorthand and the Nancy Taylor course in charm and etiquette.

If you are planning a career for yourself or for some loved one, it will pay you to investigate the wide range of opportunities — from clerk-typist to accountant — in industry and business.

Every kind of business — from airplane makers to zipper manufacturers and from attorneys to zinc smelters — requires office workers. Men in all these fields will tell you that good office personnel is harder to find than well-trained, experienced technicans.

Columbus Business University is staffed and equipped to prepare young people to fill this demand. Proof of this is the fact that CBU is accredited by the Accrediting Commisison for Business Schools in Washington, D.C., and is chartered by the State of Ohio to confer degrees.

Free Placement

Personnel directors and management know they can count on Columbus Business University graduates to do the job, and they constantly look to the school's free placement service for people to fill vacancies.

Visitors are welcome to get complete details on CBU, its academic program, the many school-operated and supervised dormitories, the varied social and athletic program and most important how CBU training will mean higher earnings during the years ahead through a rewarding career in business. Columbus Business University, one of America's outstanding office training schools, is located in downtown Columbus at 208 N. High-st at the corner of Spring-st.

Junior College May Get Start At Central H. S.

The nucleus of a junior college in Ohio might very well be starting in the north wing of Central High School this fall.

The school's success and its rapid expansion is assured by industry's demand for technicians. It is Ohio's legislators and its newly-created board of regents who will determine its future status.

If they accede to the government's request of 1958, authorizing federal aid to any state which will promote and conduct junior colleges or technology institutes, it is easily conceivable that the school could be the beginning of a new state education program.

PROJECT 33 WINS OKAY

The county commissioners gave unanimous approval Tuesday morning to the recommendation of the Rural Planning Commission that the land held by Project 33, Inc., be rezoned to AR 14-26.

This action, unless an appeal is filed within 30 days, winds up the zoning fight between local residents, joined by the Calvin Presbyterian Church, and those promoting Project 33.

been reached before Fletcher's departure and the subsequent hearing before county commissioners. At a joint meeting with Jack Goudy, trustee of the church-owned property abutting the apartment land, the corporation agreed to pay one-half of the expense of a border planting between the two properties.

A meeting was also set up at this time for a meeting the day after Labor Day, at which time the landscaping plans of the project will be

Jewish Center Offers Meaningful Adult Program

The Jewish Center of Columbus is a United Appeals agency located on the east side of Columbus and serving a membership of over 5000 men, women and children. The Center is a family agency where every member of the family finds activity to suit his or her taste.

There are 2800 adult members at the Jewish Center and a great deal of adult education activity is conducted to meet the needs and desires of those adults who wish to enjoy their leisure time in meaningful classes, courses, concerts and lectures and physical education programs.

Trained Staff

The program of the adult department of the center is planned by a professionally trained staff in cooperation with various committees of interested members of the community. Through the democratic process of mutual exchange these committees take major responsibility for initiating, planning, and carrying out programs suggested by staff, members and other members of the community.

The Columbus Center is one of 320 Jewish Centers in the United States and Canada which are joined together through the National Jewish Welfare Board.

The local center is guided by a staff of trained professionals who are drawn from fields of education, social work, physical education and business.

Arts Are Central

For the courses and classes which are conducted, a special staff is drawn from all parts of the Columbus community. Instructors come from the universities, high schools, and professional personnel in the community.

The cultural arts have a central place in the adult educational program of the center. Classes are conducted in painting, ceramic tile, and sculpturing.

This year the arts program will be under the guidance of Francis Coelho, instructor at Ohio State University.

Art exhibitions, open to the public, are held regularly. Paintings, sketching and sculpture pieces of local and national artists are displayed. Matthew Baigell, teacher and art historian also from the faculty of OSU serves as consultant to the Center's art committee.

Gallery Players

The Center's highly regarded theatrical group, the Gallery Players, presents performances of professional caliber to the community at regular intervals. Richard Heer Oman, secretary of the Columbus Foundation, in a recent article in the Columbus Dispatch appraising the city's cultural assets, decried the lack of experimental theatre in the city and mentioned the Columbus Jewish Center as one of the few places in Columbus where worthwhile theatre may be ...

Among its series of plays during the past season, the Gallery Players brought a memorable production of Ionesco's "Rhinoceros" to Columbus for the first time. In the season to come, the drama group will present the Columbus premiere of "Gideon," the humorous but deeply moving drama by Paddy Chayefsky. A delightful comedy production of "Heaven Can Wait" will receive its premiere performance in Columbus. A full-fledged musical production with orchestra and chorus is also presented each season. This season's musical comedy presentation will be "Guys and Dolls."

Theatrical Training

The Gallery Players conduct workshops which are devoted to teaching drama techniques to would-be thespians or individuals with an interest in the theatre. Gene Gerrard, well known for his ability as an actor and director in the Central Ohio area, and also for his radio story-reading programs, will head a readers' theatre unit this season.

The group also sponsors a series of outstanding prize-winning international films that are open to the public. Following the presentation of the film, the audience is invited to remain and participate in a "kaffee-klatch kritique" in which the philosophical overtones and the cinema techniques of the movie are discussed. Harold M. Eisenstein, director of adult education for the Center, is also director of the Gallery Players.

Also in the cultural arts area is the Jewish Center Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Richard J. Suddendorf. New musicians are always invited to join the orchestra.

The orchestra rehearses every Thursday at 8 p.m. and gives two public concerts during the winter-fall season.

A choral group for men and women who can read music and enjoy singing rehearses under professional direction and also performs for the public.

Mrs. Nathan Nateman will be conducting a folk dance group which will be available for performances with community groups.

Concerts are presented for the public by other groups which are brought in by the music committee for the enjoyment of the community.

In keeping with the purposes of the Jewish Center, the Institute of Jewish Studies is conducted throughout the fall and winter season. Faculty for the Institute is drawn from the universities, from the local rabbinate, and from scholars in the community. Courses are conducted in such subjects as Hebrew language, history, Bible, philosophy, Zionism and sociology.

Family Education

One of the important areas for discussion is the Family Life Education sponsored by the center in cooperation with the Jewish Family Service. Lectures and discussions are held bi-monthly beginning in November on subjects dealing with problems affecting families, including teenage problems, marriage, and so forth. Book Clubs which meet alternate weeks are a part of the National Great Books program. These meetings are led by trained leaders.

A public affairs club meets for enlightenment. Speakers are invited from various fields to discuss current problems.

Democratic discussions are held on problems which affect all people from the United Nations to federal problems of controversy.

The Golden Age Club, made up of more than 100 people over 65 years, has classes in reading and writing, art, bowling, problems of the aging, and other aspects of aging which make the lives of our older people more enjoyable.

The Jewish Center is a non-profit organization. Howard Schoenbaum is president, Mayer Rosenfeld is executive director, and Dr. Sam Stellman is assistant executive director.

South Side Painter Gets First Taste Of State Recognition

Seeing beauty in things as they are, not as a "distortion in one's mind," Mrs. Lorraine Rogers, 460 Kossuth-st took up oil painting two years ago.

Her first subject was her son, and she did his portrait for the pleasure of self-expression and without thought of exhibition. In fact, when the "show" bug bit her she was ill-prepared, as she has been in the habit of giving away her paintings almost as fast as she completes them.

However, when touring the art festival at City Hall this summer she gave a second thought to her work and with the encouragement of her family entered a marine scene and an autumn landscape in the amateur class of the State Fair.

When she received notice that the "Sailboat" had taken second prize, she was amazed, flattered and burning with enthusiasm to keep on with her efforts.

Realizing the handicap of starting to paint without any technical training, Mrs. Rogers hopes to associate herself with other local artists or join a class in which she can learn some of the basic techniques.

She explained that without any instruction, matters such as mixing colors, which is routine to the more experienced artist, become a major headache for her.

With no serious ambitions to become a professional, Lorraine Rogers has made for herself a hobby from which she draws enormous self-satisfaction, and at which, according to the State Fair judges she is competent.

SELF-TAUGHT, Mrs. Lorraine Rogers was thrilled and surprised recently when notified that she had won second place in the amateur oil painting class at the preliminging of the exhibits for the State Fair. Her art was entered in competition with more than 150 entries from all over the state.

YWCA Offers Day And Night Courses For Men And Women

Meeting the personal needs of adults is the focus of the adult education classes offered this fall by the YWCA. Whether the need is vocational, cultural, recreational, practical, or social the YWCA has informal adult courses both evening and daytime, both for the employed woman or man, or the housewife.

Vocational courses have been added this fall to help persons upgrade their job performance or to attain new skills and executive proficiency. These include Job Training in Human Relations, Salesmanship, Business English, and Cake Decorating. Men and women may avail themselves of these vocational-improvement classes and receive certification, in cooperation with the Columbus Board of Education.

Of a more personal nature is a class called "A Long Look at Retirement," arranged especially for persons 40 to 60 years of age who need to plan now for retirement. Psychological, economic, spiritual, recreational and physical factors which lead to happy years ahead will be considered under the leadership of Rev. James W. Bidle, director of First Community Village. "Living in Depth" is a discussion-directed course led by Rev. Maurice Clark, psychological counselor, who will consider how one reaches for the deeper values of today's world in building a personal faith.

Of a cultural nature are the language classes of French and Spanish, and an "Art Lark" group, studying art appreciation via visits to local art exhibits under the direction of Mrs. Oliver Bemis, local artist and teacher.

The recreational needs are met by classes in bridge, ballroom dancing, swimming, and a physical fitness program.

Photography and Decorative design, held at the Central YWCA, are fo a hobby type while knitting, dressmaking, beginning sewing, tailoring, slipcovers and upholstery are home arts of a very practical nature. Housewives who want to learn to sew or who need help in more proficient work in dressmaking or tailoring will find YWCA classes personalized and taught by graduate home economists with vocational teaching experience. Slip-covering and upholstering are courses adapted both to home and professional use.

All these classes are held at the Central YWCA of 65 S. Fourth-st, some in the evening and some in the daytime, most being of an eight to nine-week duration, two hours a week. Both employed persons and housewives, men and women are invited to join the class of their choice to add "dimension" to life.

The Hilltop YWCA center has a full schedule, many of a craft or home arts nature such as rug-hooking, crewel embroidery, interior decoration, flower arrangements, furniture finishing. Oil Painting and the Joy of Speaking, and Cake Decorating are also included.

At the Wildwood Center in the Westerville, Huber Ridge and Worthington areas are interest groups in weaving, ceramics, hooked rugs, knitting, bridge.

This very full schedule of fall activities and course fees are given in detail in an attractive YWCA brochure which is available by calling the YWCA, CA. 4-9121.

The commodity cookery course teaches registrants to use surplus commodity foods with skill for economy and variety.

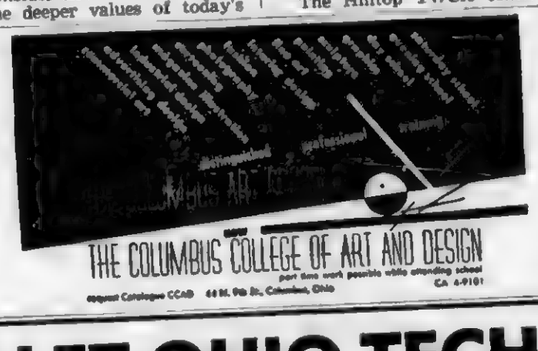
The beauty salon course teaches hair-care on a low-income budget and includes home permanents, shampoos, cuts and sets. The women do each other's hair.

The planned parenthood clinic provides information on planning one's family with confidence. Instruction and supplies are provided applicants at the clinic, which is operated in cooperation with the Planned Parenthood Association of Columbus.

Teaching area residents to plan and act with neighbors on common needs, such as problems of welfare, civil rights and community improvements, is another educational function at the Settlement House.

Initiative by groups within the Settlement, such as the South Side Family Council, and cooperation with all other community organizations, such as the Lincoln Park Community Council, Council of South Side Organizations, and the South Side Cooperative Association are encouraged.

Success in these two fields is exemplified by the Register-to-Vote Caravan; sending of delegations to city, county and state bodies to discuss issues; and visits to state senators and representatives and other officials.



The Strengthening the Family program of the South Side Settlement includes work with families in terms of their total living process and counselling for family difficulties; citizenship participation in programs for family protection; recreation, including dinners, trips and outings; and social living with other adults.

Courses offered in the Whitehall City Schools' Adult Education Program are based upon the desires and needs of the people in Whitehall and the surrounding areas, according to William W. Shipe, director of Adult Education.

Fees established for courses are the same for all enrollees regardless of residence and are based on the fact that 15 students make up a good class size and should thus support the salary of the teacher involved. Fees are payable at the time of registration.

Diploma Program

Each year many adults receive their diplomas from the Whitehall program and, to some, this means almost immediate advancement on their jobs. Some students have carried only a credit or two, where some have been working with vigor for several semesters. Some of the adults were formerly local people while attending high school; others come from every corner of the United States.

Special courses are offered for industrial plants and other groups as their desires are made known to the Whitehall City Schools. The school either furnishes the instructors or the plant can furnish its own. In either event, the school works with the planning group and furnishes the facilities so that the teaching goal may be attained.

Typical of such classes are: an electrical course for a large railroad, a water treatment course for municipalities in Central Ohio, a tool design course for a large industry, a course in blueprint reading and elementary machine shop, and public relations, salesmanship, human relations and other similarly specialized courses.

Regular Courses

Regular offerings include such courses for credit as American Government, American History, English, Algebra, Mathematics for Business, English for Business, Physical Science, Office Machine Operation, Typing (both elementary and advanced), Gregg Shorthand (both elementary and advanced), and Bookkeeping.

Credit courses run 17 weeks and meet twice a week for one hour and 45 minutes per meeting. Tuition cost for such a semester is $15 for each credit course.

Other course offerings for self-improvement or for recreational purposes include: French, Spanish, Woodworking, Basic Drafting, Dressmaking and Sewing (both elementary and advanced), Floral Design (both elementary and advanced), Interior Design, Ceramics, Painting and Drawing, Sculpturing, Dancing (both elementary and advanced), Slimnastics for Women, and Elementary and Advanced Bridge. A new offering this semester is Getting Ready to Be a Mother.

Key Punch Course

Also meeting with considerable response are Public Speaking, Basic Electricity, Investment Fundamentals, Law for the Layman, Promotion and Public Relations, English for the Foreign-Born, and First Aid. Cooking and Cake Decorating should attract welcome newcomers to the curriculum.

The Key Punch Course has proven to be a valuable training program for those who are ready for employment almost immediately upon graduation from the course. Recently, IBM key punch operators have been in demand.

Brochures are available upon request describing each course as to content, meeting times and cost.

The Whitehall Adult Education program is offered as a service to the community. It is a non-profit approach to helping people attain their high school diplomas and to improve themselves physically, mentally, and financially. Its motto, while used as humor, is centered around the Pennsylvania Dutch saying: "Too soon we get old: Too late we get smart."

Registration for the Fall semester will be accepted from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Whitehall-Yearling guidance office on Sept. 9, 10, 11 and 12. Classes will begin the week of Sept. 23.

Robert W. Crabbs is the superintendent of the Whitehall City School system.

Seventeen-week credit courses will be offered at the indicated times on the following evenings:

Mondays and Wednesdays, 6:30 to 8:15—Algebra, English for Business, Typing I, Mathematics for Business, Geometry, and Chemistry, and Mondays and Wednesdays, 8:15 to 10—High School English and Shorthand.

Tuesdays and Thursdays, 6:30 to 8:15—Shorthand II, American Government, General bookkeeping, Basic Drafting and Physical Science, and Thursdays, 7 to 9, Sewing and 8:15 to 10 — Typing II and American History.

Twelve-week courses are: Thursdays, Sewing and Dressmaking II, French and Basic Electricity; and Tuesdays, 7 to 9—Spanish, Public Speaking and Cooking; Wednesdays, 7 to 9—Sewing I, Promotion and Public Relations, and English for the Foreign-Born; and Mondays, 7 to 9:30—Woodworking and Hobbycraft.

Eight-week courses are as follows:

Mondays, 7 to 8:30—Elementary Bridge, Getting Ready to Be a Mother, First Aid, Floral Design (advanced), and Square Dancing; Mondays, 8:30 to 10 — Advanced Bridge; Tuesdays, 7 to 8:30—Floral Designs (elementary), Interior Design, Cake Decorating, and Slimnastics for Women.

Wednesdays, 7 to 9—Ceramics, Photography for the Amateur and Law for the Layman; Thursdays, 7 to 9—Painting and Drawing and Beginning Dancing; Thursdays, 8:30 to 10—Advanced Dancing, Investment Fundamentals.

A four-week IBM Key Course is offered from 7 to 9 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays and on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Skill ready for employment can be developed during this period.

Whitehall welcomes you.

New Tech School Starts

Applications for the new Columbus Area Technician School, sponsored by the Columbus Board of Education in cooperation with local area industries, should be sent directly to the school at 245 W. Broad-st, according to Clinton E. Tatsch, director.

The new school will train technicians for the fields of electronics technology, business data processing and mechanical technology.

Ninety students, 30 in each of the three training areas, will be accepted by the school, Tatsch said. "We are pleased at the interest which students are showing in our school," he added.

Applications for the technician school can be obtained from the school office, or by calling 221-3766.

Special Test

Standards for the school require that an applicant must be a high school graduate, have had a year of algebra and pass a test which is administered by the Board of Education.

CD Education For Survival Courses Set Again For Fall

"To recognize the possibilities of nuclear war in the missile age, without our citizens knowing what they should do and where they should go if bombs begin to fall, would be a failure of responsibility." President John F. Kennedy.

Civil Defense Adult Education is a joint Federal-state project. The Federal Government finances the program and is responsible for its overall planning and direction.

Within each state, the program is conducted under the direction of the chief state school officer of the State Department of Education by means of a contract with the U.S. Office of Education. In most cases the chief state school officer delegates the responsibility to a State Civil Defense Adult Education (CDAE) Coordinator.

The CDAE Coordinator and his staff work with school officials, community organizations, community leaders, and others to organize classes, inform the community about the classes, and to encourage attendance. The CDAE Coordinator and his staff also work with school officials in recruiting and training teachers for these courses. Instructional materials are supplied by the Federal Government. CDAE state staffs and local CDAE teachers are paid from Federal funds.

The realization that national survival depends on the knowledge and action of individuals led to the establishment of the Civil Defense Adult Education Program (CDAEP). This program is designed to give adult citizens a basic understanding of Civil Defense and the action they must take to fulfill their individual, family, and community responsibilities for defense and in times of natural disasters.

It alerts and informs the class participants about the hazards inherent in living in our nuclear age and provides them with the information necessary for personal and family protection in disaster situations. The course is made available to out-of-school youth and adults in communities throughout the country as a result of local, state, and Federal education leadership and cooperation.

The State of Ohio inaugurated the CDAE Program under the title "Education for Survival" on Feb. 1, 1962, and subsequently a State Coordinator, three Assistant Coordinators and a clerical staff have been employed. During the year that followed and up to July 1 of this year, 44 counties participated as a result of information being furnished school administrators. This resulted in 56 teacher training classes being organized whereby 918 teachers were certified to teach CDAE classes. Approximately 25 per cent of this group conducted 281 adult classes in which 7,279 adults were enrolled. Of these, 5,289 completed the full 12-hour course, "Education for Survival."

The following schools in Franklin County conducted "Education for Survival" classes which were taught by teachers who were trained by the CDAE staff of the State Department of Education in a teacher training class at Worthington, Ohio:

Bexley High School (3 classes), Dublin High School (1 class), Grandview Heights High School (1 class), Grove City High School (1 class), Prairie Lincoln Elementary School (2 classes), Upper Arlington High School (2 classes), and Westerville High School (3 classes).

As a result of these 13 classes, 187 Franklin County residents have received certificates in "Education for Survival."

It is expected "Education for Survival" classes will be offered in Franklin County again this fall. Therefore, anyone interested in taking the course should contact their superintendent of schools or Leonard G. Morse, Coordinator of Civil Defense Adult Education, G-4 State Office Building, Columbus 15, Ohio, Ca. 1-1265, ext. 8570.

Seeing beauty in things as they are, not as a "distortion in one's mind," Mrs. Lorraine Rogers, 460 Kossuth-st took up oil painting two years ago.

Her first subject was her son, and she did his portrait for the pleasure of self-expression and without thought of exhibition. In fact, when the "show" bug bit her she was ill-prepared, as she has been in the habit of giving away her paintings almost as fast as she completes them.

However, when touring the art festival at City Hall this summer she gave a second thought to her work and with the encouragement of her family entered a marine scene and an autumn landscape in the amateur class of the State Fair.

When she received notice that the "Sailboat" had taken second prize, she was amazed, flattered and burning with enthusiasm to keep on with her efforts.

Realizing the handicap of starting to paint without any technical training, Mrs. Rogers hopes to associate herself with other local artists or join a class in which she can learn some of the basic techniques.

She explained that without any instruction, matters such as mixing colors, which is routine to the more experienced artist, become a major headache for her.

With no serious ambitions to become a professional, Lorraine Rogers has made for herself a hobby from which she draws enormous self-satisfaction, and at which, according to the State Fair judges she is competent.

SELF-TAUGHT, Mrs. Lorraine Rogers was thrilled surprised recently when notified that she had won ood place in the amateur oil painting class at the pre- ging of the exhibits for the State Fair. Her art was ered in competition with more than 150 entries from over the state.

Junior College May Get Start At Central H. S.

By BETTY DAFT

The nucleus of a junior college in Ohio might very well be starting in the north wing of Central High School this fall.

Columbus Area Technician School, launched by the Columbus School System and acclaimed by educators and industrial leaders, will offer two years of college level training for high school graduates in the fields of electronics, mechanical and business data processing.

And, a full month before the school's first quarter has opened, Director Clint Tatsch has received urgent requests from industry to add six other areas to the curriculum.

"The need for technicians is immediate," he said. "I already have a request for a data processing technician to operate an installation being planned in India."

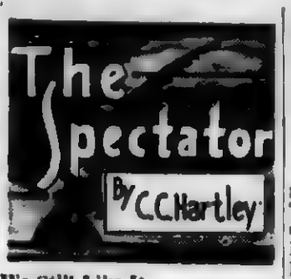
The school's success and its rapid expansion is assured by industry's demand for technicians. It is Ohio's legislators and its newly-created board of regents who will determine its future status.

If they accede to the government's request of 1958, authorizing federal aid to any state which will promote and conduct junior colleges or technology institutes, it is easily conceivable that the school could be the beginning of a new state education program.

Director Tatsch outlined possibilities for the Technician School's growth expected in the immediate future:

"It will be expanded," he said with certainty. "It must, in order to provide the trained technicians so necessary in today's economic structure."

"An entire building will be needed, and soon." He speculated on a number of locations:



"Columbus schools was the first public agency to file a request with the federal agency for government land occupied by Fort Hayes. If this land should go to the schools, it would be a possible site for a new School of Technology. There are also a number of other possibilities.

"Ideally, to be of most benefit to the most people, the School of Technology should be operated on a 12-hour basis, with classes scheduled when ever they are justified by registration. And this is definitely in the plans for the future.

"But for the present, the school will operate on a strict, six-hour, noon until 6 p.m. basis, with no study halls."

The great gap between the "know-how" of engineers and scientists, and the "know-how" of skilled craftsmen has

While it is true that liars figure and figures can be made to lie, it is apparently true today that our courts can give about any kind of a decision and justify it.

PROJECT 33 WINS OKAY

The county commissioners gave unanimous approval Tuesday morning to the recommendation of the Rural Planning Commission that the land held by Project 33, Inc., be rezoned to AR 14-26.

This action, unless an appeal is filed within 30 days, winds up the zoning fight between local residents, joined by the Calvin Presbyterian Church, and those promoting Project 33.

Lowell Fletcher, president of the corporation which is a wholly owned subsidiary of ... been reached before Fletcher's departure and the subsequent hearing before county commissioners. At a joint meeting with Jack Goudy, trustee of the church-owned property abutting the apartment land, the corporation agreed to pay one-half of the expense of a border planting between the two properties.

A meeting was also set up at this time for a meeting the day after Labor Day, at which time the landscaping plans of the project will be made available to the church ...

4 Out Of 10 Can't Read— So They Can't Get Jobs

By MABLE HARTMAN

Again the Hartley Newspapers in cooperation with the Adult Educational Council are beating their back-to-school tom-toms for the benefit of Franklin County adults. This issue is to alert the public to the diversified sources where any qualified adult, regardless of race or color may continue his education in a chosen field. "EDUCATION UNLIMITED" — dynamic words of mental imagery to call the discontented adult to action!

Yet, out of every 10 persons applying, at least four will be counted out. The shocking truth is that they cannot read. They are victims of the most colossal error-in-teaching-reading that has ever prostrated any school system in the history of education. They are the orphans of a storm that is still raging. The price that these near-illiterates are paying as they lumber through life in despair, is far too high for a proud country such as this United States to exact from its helpless ones.

In a newspaper item dated Aug. 1, 1963, President Kennedy urges all parents to make every effort to see that their children go back to high school in September to curb the growing "blight" of school drop-outs. The second paragraph of this short item contains the joker. Quote: "To combat the situation, Kennedy announced he is allocating $250,000 from his presidential emergency fund to help schools throughout the country provide services of guidance counselors during the month of August when they normally would be on vacation."

How woefully ignorant is our worried President of the facts (with few exceptions) causing these drop-outs! Why waste another $250,000 on more educational gobbledygook?

Another example of what President Kennedy regards as national blight, and rightly so: A news item dated Aug. 1, '63: Place—here in Columbus, Ohio—"of 586 applicants for police force jobs . . . 28 qualified."

Last year, deeply concerned over the wrong direction our public schools are taking in teaching young children to read, I called upon the parents of children who were having reading difficulties, to read "The Case For Basic Education" by James D. Koerner; "Tomorrow's Illiterates" by Charles W. Wolcutt and "Swiss Schools and Ours" by Admiral Rickover.

Once again I urge discouraged parents to read these books. They are all available in our public libraries. Those interested in forming a study group furthering the cause of basic education in our city, contact me through the Hartley Newspapers.

Let us make a beginning even though a small one to rid ourselves of this national blight. President Kennedy should be urged to put his $250,000 in a federal fund to pay the salaries of competent remedial reading teachers. There should be at least two of such in every public school in the country. Until this problem is tackled head on at the grass-roots level, tragic human beings will continue to trod their windowless tunnels of ignorance. The only light they can look forward to reaching somewhere along the way is the light in the window of some welfare agency, financed by the overburdened American tax-payer.

Free Course In Piloting Is Offered

The number of boating accidents recently in Ohio points up need for new skippers to take the free courses in piloting to be offered by the Columbus Power Squadron, starting at 7:30 p.m., Sept. 4, at Sisson Hall, Ohio State University, according to Paul Roush, commander of the educational organization which is a unit of the United States Power Squadron.

Husbands and wives are encouraged to take the course together and use the same textbook. It is not necessary to be a boat owner.

Anyone wishing to attend the classes is urged to make application to: Ralph E. Brock, chairman of the piloting course, 245 Larimer Avenue, Worthington, Ohio.

Junior College May Get Start At Central H. S.

By BETTY DAFT

The nucleus of a junior college in Ohio might very well be starting in the north wing of Central High School this fall.

Columbus Area Technician School, launched by the Columbus School System and acclaimed by educators and industrial leaders, will offer two years of college level training for high school graduates in the fields of electronics, mechanical and business data processing.

And, a full month before the school's first quarter has opened, Director Clint Tatsch has received urgent requests from industry to add six other areas to the curriculum.

"The need for technicians is immediate," he said. "I already have a request for a data processing technician to operate an installation being planned in India."

The school's success and its rapid expansion is assured by industry's demand for technicians. It is Ohio's legislators and its newly-created board of regents who will determine its future status.

If they accede to the government's request of 1958, authorizing federal aid to any state which will promote and conduct junior colleges or technology institutes, it is easily conceivable that the school could be the beginning of a new state education program.

Director Tatsch outlined possibilities for the Technician School's growth expected in the immediate future:

"It will be expanded," he said with certainty. "It must, in order to provide the trained technicians so necessary in today's economic structure."

"An entire building will be needed, and soon." He speculated on a number of locations:

"Columbus schools was the first public agency to file a request with the federal agency for government land occupied by Fort Hayes. If this land should go to the schools, it would be a possible site for a new School of Technology. There are also a number of other possibilities.

"Ideally, to be of most benefit to the most people, the School of Technology should be operated on a 12-hour basis, with classes scheduled when ever they are justified by registration. And this is definitely in the plans for the future.

"But for the present, the school will operate on a strict, six-hour, noon until 6 p.m. basis, with no study hails."

The great gap between the "know-how" of engineers and scientists, and the "know-how" of skilled craftsmen has

A $100,000 COMPUTER, second 1440 type in the nation, has been purchased by the Columbus Schools for use in the Business Data Processing section of the Columbus Area Technician School. The college-level course for high school graduates will open in the Central High School Building this fall. Clint Tatsch, director of the school, describes the model of the computer, from left: the console, controlled by the operator, that "prints what the computer is talking about;" card reader, that reads cards and stores information; main power source, and disc storages, that stores programs and repeats them when activiated from the console.

We Still Like It

While it is true that liars figure and figures can be made to lie, it is apparently true today that our courts can give about any kind of a decision and justify it.

If we are breaking a law when we sing the fourth stanza of "America," then I'm proud to be an outlaw.

The fourth stanza of "America" goes:

"Our Father's God to Thee,
"Author of liberty,
"To Thee we sing:
"Long may our land be bright
"With freedom's holy light,
"Protect us with Thy might
"Great God our king!"

Many Kiwanis clubs open their meetings with this stanza.

Let's sing it more often!

A Tip Of The Hat

A lady reports that while having her hair done at a local shop last week a policeman came in and with much pleasantness informed them that a car parked nearby was in a 4 to 6 "No Parking" zone and it was now past 4 p.m.

He asked if he could have the keys so he could move the car around the corner. The owner complied, he reparked the car, brought the keys back and his manner was so courteous that it indicated she had done him a favor by allowing him to move it.

Bless him. He must be every inch a gentleman.

PROJECT 33 WINS OKAY

The county commissioners gave unanimous approval Tuesday morning to the recommendation of the Rural Planning Commission that the land held by Project 33, Inc., be rezoned to AR 14-26.

This action, unless an appeal is filed within 30 days, winds up the zoning fight between local residents, joined by the Calvin Presbyterian Church, and those promoting Project 33.

Lowell Fletcher, president of the corporation which is a wholly owned subsidiary of the First National Investment Co., discussed the probable manner in which development of the acreage will be handled before he left on a vacation last week.

At least three builders have been considered as participants in a joint venture with Project 33 to erect the proposed apartment buildings. Although Fletcher believes it fairly certain the partnership will be formed with a nationally known firm from Washington, D.C., he stated certain conditions will prevail regardless of what company may join Project 33.

The first of these is that the project will retain control and management of the development, and, secondly, the undertaking will be privately financed and will be without FHA financing.

Apparently a truce had been reached before Fletcher's departure and the subsequent hearing before county commissioners. At a joint meeting with Jack Goudy, trustee of the church-owned property abutting the apartment land, the corporation agreed to pay one-half of the expense of a border planting between the two properties.

A meeting was also set up at this time for a meeting the day after Labor Day, at which time the landscaping plans of the project will be made available to the church authorities to facilitate a harmonious plan of landscape.

When the Rural Planning Commission held a hearing a month ago, the opposition to apartments on this land, located at Rt. 33 and Refugee-rd, was strong.

The developers of the property, represented by Attorney Harrison Smith, Jr., through him presented their point of view that the generally commercial atmosphere of the intersection made apartment dwellings necessary as a buffer zone between the corner and the land they hold to the east and plan to develop as one-family dwellings.

The area residents felt that apartments would bring into the area an undesirable transient element and that their homes would be depreciated by

Vandals Undaunted As Destruction Of Property Goes On At Fairwood

"Well, they've struck again."

With these words J. Richard Lawwill stood in the pouring rain at Fairwood Park late Monday and surveyed the latest acts of vandalism.

Howard Hickman, park patrolman, had been instructed, in view of the recent destruction in the rest rooms, to give the park extra surveillance. Nearly $1,000 has been spent this summer to repair the acts of senseless vandalism.

In accordance with this policy he checked the area at 6:30 p.m. and found nothing amiss.

When he returned at 9 p.m., "they had struck again."

In the ladies' part of the building water was pouring from underneath the wash basin, where connecting pipes had been torn out. The commode, which had been broken last week, had been hammered and shattered beyond any hope of repair. The backboard concealing the connections for a future toilet which was bolted to the concrete had been torn from its mounting and connections dismantled.

"It has taken tools — wrenches and crowbars — to do a job like this," Lawwill surmised immediately.

In the men's section of the lavatories, though there is evidence that wrenches had been applied to some of the connections, there was no apparent damage.

However, in what would indicate an act of immature defiance of basic rules of sanitation, the results of human defecation were left on the floor.

This is the park which employes of the Park and Forestry Division had spent the latter part of last week putting into immaculate condition once again.

"We used every known type of detergent to remove the initials and obscenities from the shelter house walls," Lawwill explained.

The rafters of the building had been scrubbed and painted. The fixtures that had been broken were repaired, and the drained and sewers cleaned out once again.

As Lawwill and his patrolman stood in the water covering the floor of the ladies' rest room, it looked as if the men could have better spent the time going fishing.

In accordance with Lawwill's policy to prosecute any

PARK PATROLMAN Howard Hickman summoned J. Richard Lawwill, superintendent of Columbus Parks and Forestry Division, when he discovered the water line leading to the lavatory in the ladies' rest room had been torn out Monday night between the hours of 6:30 and 9 p.m. More taxpayers' money went down the drain that night with the water which could not be turned off. Hickman was able to unstop the floor drain which has been jammed, lessening the flood which was shoe top deep at one point.

Jackpot Leaps To $162

The "Confederate" money jackpot offered each week by this newspaper has taken another big jump to 162 bills.

Only one hit for a lone "Confederate" dollar was claimed last week. Leslie Glover, 243 N. Lowell-rd, broke the three-week no-claims deadline. The $24 balance was added to the old 138 bill balance to enrich the jackpot to $162 in "Confederate" cash.

To hit the jackpot for the "Confederate" cash, which can be spent just like U. S. tender with any Hartley Newspapers advertiser, a reader need only find the "Confederate" emblem hidden in a Hartley newspaper.

To win the big money you must find the "5" emblem.

It looks exactly like the one printed in this column but is printed in a bright color other than black. It will be found on

Seeing beauty in things as they are, not as a "distortion in one's mind," Mrs. Lorraine Rogers, 460 Kossuth-st took up oil painting two years ago.

Her first subject was her son, and she did his portrait for the pleasure of self-expression and without thought of exhibition. In fact, when the "show" bug bit her she was ill-prepared, as she has been in the habit of giving away her paintings almost as fast as she completes them.

However, when touring the art festival at City Hall this summer she gave a second thought to her work and with the encouragement of her family entered a marine scene and an autumn landscape in the amateur class of the State Fair.

When she received notice that the "Sailboat" had taken second prize, she was amazed, flattered and burning with enthusiasm to keep on with her efforts.

Realizing the handicap of starting to paint without any technical training, Mrs. Rogers hopes to associate herself with other local artists or join a class in which she can learn some of the basic techniques.

She explained that without any instruction, matters such as mixing colors, which is routine to the more experienced artist, become a major headache for her.

With no serious ambitions to become a professional, Lorraine Rogers has made for herself a hobby from which she draws enormous self-satisfaction, and at which, according to the State Fair judges she is competent.

SELF-TAUGHT, Mrs. Lorraine Rogers was thrilled and surprised recently when notified that she had won second place in the amateur oil painting class at the prejudging of the exhibits for the State Fair. Her art was entered in competition with more than 150 entries from all over the state.

HERE COMES HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL -- 1963 EDITION

. . . BUT BEFORE KICKOFF, A PAUSE FOR EQUIPMENT, PHYSICALS AND PRACTICE

ALTHOUGH THE opening kickoff of the 1963 high school football season is still better than two weeks away, area coaches and gridders rolled up their sleeves and got down to work last week making preparations for the big Sept. 6 date. High on the list of new business was equipment issue. At left, Reynoldsburg Head Coach Marv Lutz completes a full issue to Raider senior letterman Bill Rathe (third, left) while Assistant Coach John Thompson and senior lettermen (from left) Tom Spires and Jay Carey look on. In center photo, Doctor John Stephens checks the physical condition of Franklin Heights gridder Mike Long while Falcon Coach Chuck Gilbert checks "A-OK" on the junior guard's bill of health. Last weekend brought the first practice sessions early Friday morning all around the area. At South (picture at right), Bulldog Head Coach Bob Jackson checked out the headoff timing of his quarterback Jerry Robinson, here shown delivering the pigskin to halfback Paul Pate. Area coaches will continue the two-a-day football workouts until school opens, hopeful of selecting a winning combination for their respective lid-lifters. (Photos by Jack Wittenmeier).

Jets In Final Home Stand, Atlanta 'Showdown' Friday

The Columbus Jets, still clinging to hopes of an International League play-off berth, conclude their current and final home stand with Jacksonville and Atlanta this week.

The Jets conclude a three-day, five-game series with last-place Jacksonville Thursday with an 8 p.m. single game (Jaycees Night).

A CRUCIAL four-game set with Atlanta's Crackers opens Friday evening at 8 with AFL-CIO Union Night. The Atlanta club will provide the opposition again Saturday evening and then help the Jets close out their '63 home season with a big Sunday doubleheader, starting at 1:30 p.m.

The Atlanta series should be particularly interesting since the Crackers are the team the Jets must replace in second place to nab a play-off berth.

Friday night's game will also feature pre-game ceremonies honoring WMNI sportscaster Joe Hill, who is currently in his 16th year of local baseball broadcasting.

Also of interest to local fans will be the Jet's attempt to establish a long-standing home run record.

Living-Color Feathers—They're For The Birds

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROD COCHRAN

"There's a robin in the yard and somebody has shot his tail off," was the telephoned plea. Rising to the emergency, I calmed the feminine emotions with the reassuring reply, "He probably hasn't been shot. This is the season for molting and feather replacement for many birds, and the robin has probably shed his tail feathers."

Feathers are a matter of survival to birds, and the loss of flight feathers can be disastrous. But nature usually handles this very well, and only a couple of wing or tail feathers are lost at a time. Only occasionally do you see birds with their tails missing, and these can still fly.

DUCKS AT THIS season, however, are a different matter. They become flightless as the molt progresses, and they resort to hiding tactics during this time. Most birds go along with life pretty much as usual.

There are some oddities in this matter of plumage. The young of several species do not look like the adults, and some males take on the appearance of females.

The bald eagle young wear their immature plumage for between four and five years, during which time they are dark or mottled in appearance. The white head and tail, the marks of adulthood, are slow in coming.

THE IMMATURE male orchard oriole looks like the female, except for a black throat patch, for three years.

Some of the water birds have complete changes of color. The young of little blue herons are white for three years, then they change to the slaty blue of the adult. The white ibis is another, being a brown and white mottled bird until gaining the pure white, black-tipped wings of the fully mature. Spoonbills are white for three years and then become pink. Certain gulls also follow this three-year pattern.

Juvenile plumages, the first to be worn, are often confusing since the youngster in many cases looks so unlike the parents. A young pine warbler, for example, is one of the most drab and indistinct looking birds, and causes many an observer to ponder his field guide.

MOST EVERYONE knows the male indigo bunting—he is a flash of brilliant blue against the green summer foliage. But with the coming of fall and winter he sheds his brilliance and resembles the brownish female.

With such familiar birds as the bobolink and goldfinch (wild canary) we observe seasonal changes even in the adults. The bright yellow and black of the male goldfinch and the striking black, white and buff of the male bobolink disappear in the fall and the two sexes of each species look alike.

Feather replacement is used as a tool by wildlife biologists, because the ages of certain game species can be determined by feather development on the wings. By examination of the wings the biologists can classify the birds into juvenile and adult groups. This is done with ducks, quail, woodcock and doves and the scientists usually rely on hunters to supply the wings for examination.

So much for the robin that lost his tail.

'Father Pete Open' Planned For Oakhurst C.C. Aug. 31

The fifth annual "Father Pete Open" will be staged Saturday, Aug. 31, at the Oakhurst Country Club.

Father Peter McEwan, who originated the tourney while stationed in Perry County, urges entrants to get their application blanks in early as he expects a large number of contestants since the affair will be held in Columbus this year.

FIRST PREFERENCE will be given to those who supported the tourney as long ago as 1950 and those who have played in former tourneys. Next consideration will be given to those entries which arrive earliest by mail from new[illegible].

Father Pete, recently appointed pastor at the new St. Stephen's Church, has sent a complimentary invitation to Jack Nicklaus and hopes to have Jack's wife, Barbara, present for the trophy presentation.

Trophies will be presented to winners in both handicap and scratch divisions, as well as various other categories. Entry fee is $6, which includes supper at the Country Club.

WIVES AND children of entrants are welcome to attend the tourney. Supper rates are $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for children. Banquet supper begins at 4 p.m. with trophy presentation ceremonies getting underway at 7 p.m.

The tourney, which originated in 1959 on a suggestion from old caddie buddies of various religions, has attracted such well-known local golfers as Art Todd, Fritz Schmidt, Carl Mengali, Eugene Riccardi and Don Stickney to name only a few.

Carbon-Copy Browns Preview 1962 Rerun

CLEVELAND, O. — The second-ever pro football doubleheader here Saturday evening was a colossal success as attested to by 83,218 fans who braved chilly winds and sprinkling rain to preview four of the NFL's '63 title contenders.

Oops, did we say four? Make that three since the Browns' home debut was anything but successful. It probably didn't do anything for advance ticket sales either.

THE FACT that the Brownies lost (21-7 to Baltimore) wasn't important. But how they did was.

Fans who were led by Cleveland press propaganda to believe that Blanton Collier's first edition would be different from Paul Brown's swan song effort soon discovered they were in line for a rerun.

Maybe Collier is saving his big salvos for the 'money games.' For Brownie fans we hope so, because the offensive explosion he displayed Saturday came off like a wet firecracker.

EVEN THEOUGH our 1943-model Boy Scout binoculars, the '63 Browns' football facts of life were in sharp focus:

1—Cleveland's leaky offensive line will still make Brown quarterback's Jim Ninowski and Frank Ryan poor risks for even the most liberal insurance companies this fall.

2—Jimmy Brown's running mate is still missing. Ken Webb, the latest replacement for a departed Bobby Mitchell, didn't exactly turn any heads. Webb, whose outside sweeps were to make Brown's inside propulsion more prosperous, got off one lengthy run and was heard no more.

3—THE BROWNIES' defensive secondary, known for its crisp tackles after the completed pass, is still sorely inadequate. Larry Benz, for whom the Cleveland tom-toms have been beating all summer, was the unsuccessful defender twice on Unitas' TD flings.

4—Cleveland still doesn't have the 'big' quarterback. Ryan is hobbled with a leg injury and Ninowski is still taking delight in removing his receiver's fingers at the knuckles with his bullet [illegible].

5—The Brown's 'ten-yarditis,' a malady which saw Cleveland's offense stall repeatedly within paydirt in '62, appears to be a chronic ailment.

6—COLLIER'S promise of a wide-open offense never came off Saturday. The 'draw' drew losses, Brown's unescorted end jaunts were largely unprofitable and rival defenses will still be wise to stack up for Jim's line thrusts.

In a nutshell, the '63 Brownie season appears long and lean.

Baltimore will go as far as Unitas' passes take them again, and Detroit's defensive line is still one of league's toughest, despite the impromptu departure of Alex Karras.

NEW YORK'S Giants are still all-Tittle. Sputtering through the first quarter with flat-footed Ralph Guglielmi at the reins, the Giants perked up like a scared puppy when Y.A. took over.

Tittle, whose pinpoint passing makes NY's ground game go, hit four of his first six, moving the Giants 80 yards to TD-land as soon as he entered the game.

Bad boy Sam Huff, Jim Taylor's friend, got off to a fast start by banging a pass receiver after an incompletion and then got the razberries everytime he made a tackle thereafter.

As for the doubleheader, football's attempt at trading stamps, it's still a long sit on hardwood seats. But then, 83,218 fans can't be wrong.

Although the marathon was approaching its sixth hour before they chased everybody home, halftime breaks were duly adequate, permitting mom time to write home to the kids and dad a chance to grab a clean shave.

South, M-F Scrimmage Saturday

By Art Kienzle

Residents of the South Side will get a good chance to view their two football teams Saturday morning when South and Marion - Franklin hold scrimmages.

The Bulldogs invited Newark's Wildcats into Mahaffey Stadium Saturday while the Red Devils travel to Watkins Memorial (off Route 40, east of Reynoldsburg).

SOUTH HEAD coach Bob Jackson was greeted by about 55 junior and senior candidates, plus some 30 sophomores Friday at the Rebs first '63 practice.

The Bulldogs practice daily from 8 till 10 a.m. and in the afternoon from 2 till 4 p.m.

Marion-Franklin will be under new leadership this year as Jim Harper takes over head coaching duties. Harper was head grid mentor at Licking Heights last fall.

GOLF ETIQUETTE—9

CONTROL THAT TEMPER!

CALL IT etiquette or just a simple way to shave off strokes but an even temper is a big asset on the golf course. The rule-of-thumb equation of the links is: 1 poor shot plus 1 temper tantrum equals a second poor shot. The course can be hazardous enough without flying clubs and blue air. Save your high blood pressure and ulcers for the office. You're out there to relax, remember.

What's The First Stop For European Tourist? Traveler's Answer – 'There's Only One Paris'

By JACK WITTENMEIER

Ah — Paree!

What better way to spend a vacation than to mingle with the nearly three million people that compose Europe's most fascinating city.

WHAT MAKES Paris so special? It lacks the tradition of London, cannot boast of the old-new contrasts of Rome and sorely lacks the intrigue of Berlin.

The magic of Paris is an indefinable quality which can only be felt. Paris is romance. Paris is history. Paris IS France.

And if you're traveling to the "City of Lights" in a 13-year-old Mercdes Benz over French highways (the worst in Europe), Paris is the end of the rainbow.

IF YOU ARE not extravagant, Paris is the cheapest major city in Europe to spend your time. Comfortable hotel rooms (off the Champs Elysees) are available for as little as two dollars per night.

Best transportation is the Metro (like New York's subway) which will get you anywhere you want to go quickly and least expensively (providing you can make the the ten-second stops).

Most Parisians understand English even if they do not speak it. The French are reasonably friendly toward American tourists unless you mistakenly attempt to reenter the Louve on a Metro ticket stub.

THE NOVICE visitor to Paris is probably smartest taking guided tours which can can offer a three-hour panorama of the major sights for less than $2.50.

Paris has something to offer for everyone. For the gourmet, there's the world's finest wines, sauces, fish and pastry to sample. (Stay away from the liqueur-centered candy unless you're a good drinker).

But for the patron of the arts, there's the budding young painters brushing away along the Seine and of course, the Louve—world's treasure house of masterpieces — where the Mona Lisa is just another picture hanging on a wall lined with the talented efforts of centuries.

WHEN THE magnificence of Arc de Triumphe and Eiffel Tower are masked in darkness, you might turn your interests to the Folies Bergere or Pigalle, lined with cabarets featuring more base entertainment. The Lido and Moulin Rouge are available for those with more depth to their wallets.

The sports-minded tourist can quench his thirst for excitement by dashing across Paris' continual Grand Prix—the Champs Elysees — where rush hour runs 24 hours a day.

Or—if you want to really go "French" you can join the sidewalk cafe crowd, who daily settle back with beret and wine bottle to watch the rest of the world pass by.

THE BEST TRIBUTE we ever heard paid to Parie was encanted by a Luxembourg brewery owner who had traveled all over Europe during his lifetime.

"If we could visit only one place while in Europe, what would you suggest?"

"There is only one Paris," was his immediate reply.

We drank to that.

Capital University Appoints Gronlund To Executive Staff

Robert B. Gronlund

President H. L. Yochum of Capital University has announced the appointment of Robert B. Gronlund as vice-president in charge of development. He replaces Edward Larson, who resigned from Capital's administrative staff to accept a position with Luther College, Decorah, Iowa.

Gronlund, 37, is a native of Duluth, Minn., and is a former executive with the American Lutheran Church, Minneapolis. He holds a bachelor of arts degree from Wartburg College, received in 1949, and a bachelor of divinity degree from Wartburg Seminary in 1953. He is now a candidate for doctorate at the University of Southern California.

An ordained minister, Gronlund served Newport Harbor Lutheran Church, Newport, Calif., from 1953 to 1956. For the next three years he was executive secretary of the Inter-Church Fellowship, a religious organization for students of Los Angeles City College sponsored by the Lutheran, Methodist and Presbyterian churches.

Gronlund served as assistant to the president and religion professor at California Lutheran College, Thousand Oaks, Calif. from 1959 to 1962. For the past year he has served as director of the American Lutheran Church Foundation at the church's headquarters in Minneapolis.

Yochum said that at Capital he will take charge of the university's $10 million "Decade of Decision" expansion program which includes the $2 million campaign now underway for the Columbus area.

A World War II veteran, Gronlund served with the 89th Infantry Division in the European Theatre. He was awarded the Combat Infantryman's Badge. Gronlund is married and the father of four children ranging in age from three to 11.

Yochum said the new vice-president will be on campus by Sept. 1. Capital officially opens its 1963-64 school year Sept. 3 with a staff meeting.

City Churches Will Be Studied

Presbyterian Women's Associations of Columbus will take "The Changing City Challenges the Church" as its theme for fall and spring study.

Programs will be planned in cooperation with the Development Committee for Greater Columbus, Columbus Board of Education and United Community Council. There will be bus tours, slides and local speakers.

Mrs. Ernest Roush may be contacted for further information.

Cadet Trains

Cadet Raymond F. Rudell, Jr., is participating in the Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps (AFROTC) summer encampment at Elgin AFB, Fla.

Cadet Rudell, son of Colonel and Mrs. Raymond F. Rudell of 182 Shook-rd, Lockbourne AFB, is observing and taking an active part in various phases of base operations during the encampment period.

A member of AFROTC program at North Carolina State College, he will be eligible for appointment as an Air Force second lieutenant upon graduation from college.

Jan. 30, 1835, President Andrew Jackson, was the target of the first attempt ever made to assassinate a U.S. chief executive. Jackson was attending the funeral in Washington of S.C. Congressman Warren Ransom Davis when a dissident, Richard Lawrence, failed in his attempts to fire two pistols at the president.

The idea of concentrating iron ores first was introduced on Minnesota's Mesabi Range in 1907.

Good Leaves For Arizona

Rev. H. Max Good, a former field evangelist for Cadle Tabernacle, and founder of "Wings of Prayer," a devotional-type program heard on a local station, is leaving Columbus for a new undertaking in Arizona.

After 25 years in the ministry here, Rev. Good will join the Phoenix Christian Committee in forming a national committee which will present a three-pronged program — cultural, educational and Christian.

The "Wings of Prayer" broadcast will be continued, originating from Phoenix. Rev. Good hopes to return to the Midwest on occasional preaching assignments.

Products And People Make 1963 County Fair Successful

THE PROPER STANCE is important when it comes to winning prizes in a county fair horse show. Delber Shafer, manager of Hill Farm, 7380 Scioto-Darby-rd, watches the trainers put this colt through its paces in preparation for judging of this important event.

FUTURE PUMPKIN PIES are stacked by Herman Wolpert, 222 Avery-rd, Hilliard, as he prepares his display for the judging of the produce. His entry was one of the more than 2,500 entries to be judged during the four-day, five-night event.

ALL EYES LOOK at Jerry Riebel, Johnson-rd, Galloway, as he carefully backs his farm tractor and wagon into a pre-determined position. Judges will then decide how well the youth rated in his efforts to overcome the competition in the Junior Fair Tractor Rodeo Thursday morning.

KING AND QUEEN of the Junior Fair, Julienne Scofield, 300 Davidson-rd, and Tim Woodruff, 2362 Alton-Darby-rd, enjoy watching fair visitors as much as the visitors enjoyed watching them in the Junior Fair Parade Friday afternoon.

Flath Elected To Exec Post

Robert P. Flath's election as first vice-president of the Executive Officers Council of the National Association of Home Builders was announced this week following his return from a meeting in Washington, D. C. Eighty executive officers of Home Builders Associations from 34 states just finished a five-day seminar in the Nation's Capital.

Flath is in his sixth year as executive director of the Home Builders Association of Greater Columbus, which is the 18th largest of 347 such associations in the nation. There are 399 members in the Columbus group which is affiliated with the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) and maintains offices at 42 E. Gay St.

Jack E. Stuart, assistant to Flath, also attended the meeting and an orientation school for new HBA administrators. Flath will assume his new responsibilities at the annual National Convention in December.

GARAGE PERMIT

Jerome Martin, 610 Colton-rd, has a permit to construct a two-car, concrete block garage valued at $1,400.

50th Franklin Fair Considered Success

Although the results are not yet official, it is the general opinion of fair-goers and officials that this year's golden anniversary Franklin County Fair was one of the biggest and best in its 50-year history.

From the hour of the ribbon cutting ceremonies at 6 p.m. Monday to the final program on Saturday evening, there was seldom a dull moment on the Hilliard Fairgrounds. More than 2,500 entries competed for prizes and recognition during the five-day, six-night event.

An estimated $8,500 was awarded in premiums for everything from flowers to produce and livestock. Members of the county 4-H clubs and the Future Farmers of America provided fair patrons with countless exhibits.

Attendance, although not yet official, was considered about normal because of the lack of attendance attributed to rainy weather on the first night and day of the fair.

Bluebloods of the animal world were well in evidence at the Franklin County Fair, and their owners walked off with an armload of ribbons and cash.

Really "in the money" was third time grand champion steer winner, Gary Johnson, 5800 Post-rd, Dublin. His animal, a 990-pound Angus, commanded the all-time high of $1 per pound and was sold to the Clarmont Steak House. The contending bidder was Clyde Montgomery of the M&M Restaurant, Hilliard. He purchased the reserve grand champion steer owned by Vic Tharp, Hilliard. The 930-pound animal sold for 45 cents a pound.

Grand champion 4-H market lamb, owned by David Flickinger, Hilliard was sold to Edward A. Huwaldt, executive vice-president of the Huntington National Bank. Price was 75 cents a pound.

LETTER TO EDITOR

German Village Law Stirs Reader Comment

To The Editor:

As an enthusiastic member of the German Village Society I am very grateful for the many advantages I now enjoy as on old resident of the newly created Historical Area. I wish to thank the South Side Leader for publishing the ordinance in your paper. This ordinance will insure the property values through the preservation of the German architecture with its old world charm. Thank you again.

Glen and Mary Bushong,
33 E. Sycamore-st.

To The Editor:

I hope the readers of the South Side Leader, particularly people living in the Historical Area of the German Village, understood the meaning of your article last week.

Let us remember that a great part of this area was designed as slum clearance about five years ago. If it had not been for the German Village Society and a generous press, half of this property would have been gone now and the other half threatened. On the contrary instead of a heap of unsightly rubble we can now live in a beautiful, clean and constantly improving area.

Agatha S. Allen

and all offenders, the city police were called to the scene.

An anonymous letter was received at the office of the South Side Leader this week describing the automobile in which teenagers have been seen prowling the neighborhood and allegedly raiding gardens.

The license number of this car has been turned over to authorities.

With neighbors, park authorities and local law enforcement officers alerted to the situation, it is against the law of averages that the vandals will go long undetected.

It is doubtful if there will be much sympathy shown when the offenders are caught.

an inside page of only one of the more than 72,000 Hartley Newspapers published each week. It is clearly placed in the white space of an advertisement.

To claim the jackpot the finder must bring the entire paper containing the "5" emblem to the Hartley Newspapers office, 2465 W. Broad-st, in person before the deadline at noon on Monday following publication.

A reader must be a paid subscriber to a Hartley Newspaper to claim the entire jackpot. If not, the "5" emblem can be turned in for $5 in "Confederate" cash, which also can be spent with any place of business advertising in a Hartley newspaper.

In each of 20 seperate copies of Hartley Newspapers there are emblems like the one printed in this column.

These "1" emblems are good for $1 in "Confederate" money if the finder will send the page containing the emblem to the Hartley Newspapers office before the Monday deadline. To collect the winnings with a "1" emblem, finders need not be a paid subscriber.

The contest is open to any reader of a Hartley Newspaper, with the exception of employes, including carriers, and their families.

All money not claimed in this week's contest will be added to the Jackpot offered next week. "Confederate" cash offered by this paper can be spent only with places of business advertising in a Hartley Newspaper during the week the money is claimed by a winner.

SELECTED AS the two honor campers from the Optimist Glee Club Camp, Larry Pack and Gregory Harness received their trophies from Jack Edmunds on the last evening of their week of camping.

Optimist Glee Club Boys End Week of Camping

Swimming at Lockbourne AFB, fishing, a counselor hunt and a fun track meet were part of the activities boys of the Optimist Glee Club Camp plunged into during their week of summer camp.

Nineteen boys attended the camp, which is sponsored jointly by the Downtown Optimist Club and the South Side Branch YMCA, and stresses a program that will aid in the development of a boy.

Parents were present the closing night of camp when the boys presented a program and an honor camper was selected from each cabin. These boys received trophies presented by Harry Anthony and Jack Edmunds of the Optimist Club.

Any boy who is interested in joining the Glee Club can obtain further information by contacting the South Side YMCA, 190 Southwood-av, or by calling 444-2151. Jim Young, director, stressed that anyone who can begin to carry a tune is welcome to try out, and the YMCA and the Optimists would like to see the Glee Club built up to about 50 voices.

The group meets every Monday evening for an hour during the school months.

Do You Know Your Sports?

(Eleventh in a Series)

The popularity of skin diving in this country is largely recent, spurred on by the national publicity heaped on Navy frogmen in World War II. Today more than six million Americans engage in the underwater sport.

The name — skin diving — has legitimate callings, tracing back to past centuries when men dove for pearls, sponges and sunken treasures, in skin only. Then, what is now considered sport was strictly business.

SKIN DIVING proficiency is largely dependent on equipment, which runs the gantlet from fins to complete rubber suits and self-contained breathing apparatus, developed in 1943.

Average cost is: fins—$7; mask—$3; snorkel—$1.50; rubber suit—$40, and scuba outfit (tank and regulator)—$125.

The rubber suits provide enjoyment on a 365-day-a-year basis for rabid enthusiasts who aren't leary of the chilly water temperatures.

SKIN DIVERS in Michigan report that pouring warm water inside their suits acts as insulation, allowing them to swim in a thermos bottle temperature.

The International Underwater Spearfishing Association in Los Angeles reports that skin diving has been a competitive AAU event for 13 years. The event alternates each year between east and west coasts.

Sgt. Griswold Transferred

S/Sgt. Duane M. Griswold, whose wife Monna is the daughter of Mrs. Martha Keller of 1217 Evergreen-rd, has been reassigned to a Strategic Air Command unit at March AFB, Calif.

Sgt. Griswold, a personal flight equipment supervisor, formerly was stationed at Lockbourne AFB. He is a graduate of Allentown (N. Y.) High School.

Pit Stops

Sunday night race fans were treated to one of the finest supermodified feature events ever run on the Columbus Motor Speedway oval with "Demon Don" Townsend getting the victory.

But for some 22 laps, it was anybody's race as Townsend, Bob Smith, Ali Smith, Neal Sceva and Tod Gibson actually drove side-by-side and bumper-to-bumper with the cheers from the fans drowning out the roar of their engines.

Only superb driving skill on the part of Townsend, who went into the lead on the third-lap, gained him his third feature victory of the year.

THE LATE-MODEL feature was also a thriller with veteran speed-pilot Paul Parks notching his third-straight win and his fifth feature this season.

Last Friday night, Don Gregory took both of the "Monza-style" 25-lap features, his seventh and eighth this year, to earn the "Mid-Season" Championship crown.

This coming weekend the flying-stocks will run a full program Friday night and the super-modifieds, along with the late-models, will return on Sunday evening for a program complete with a feature race in each division.

SATURDAY NIGHT, Sept. 7, MARC (Midwest Association for Race Cars) will bring in a lineup of stars for a program of New Car Races with a 100-lap Championship feature.

City Buys Properties For Route

Realization of the East Freeway, so long in the planning stage, moved closer this week with the announcement that demolition would be completed and construction under way from Parsons-av to Alum Creek by late winter.

The full route could be under traffic by late 1966 or early 1967.

At its completion, the $19,000,000 project will link the innerbelt, at Parsons-av, with the outerbelt, between Hamilton-rd and Noe-Bixby-rd.

Acquisition of land for the project is nearing completion, according to City Attorney John Young, with the city now owning 82 per cent, or 534 of the 634 parcels involved for three sections of the East Freeway.

In phase one of the freeway, from Parsons-av to Ohio-av, 184 of the 205 parcels have been acquired.

Work is progressing rapidly on phase two, extending from Ohio-av to Kent-st. Young reports, with 281 of the 336 parcels involved now owned by the city.

On phase three, from Kent-st to Alum Creek-dr, 24 of the 93 parcels involved have been acquired, 13 parcels are in the process of negotiation, 45 are in the preliminary title stage, and one is in the process of being appropriated.

The section from Parsons-av to Ohio-av will include connecting ramps with the innerbelt for both eastbound and westbound traffic, and a grade separation carrying 18th-st over the expressway. Cost of the project will be an estimated $4.2 million.

Middle section of the route, from Ohio-av to just east of Nelson-rd, will include an interchange complex with Miller and Kelton-avs, providing an "off" ramp to Miller-av and an "on" ramp at Kelton.

Costing about $8.9 million, the section will contain seven grade separations, including one to carry the expressway over the N&W Railroad at Nelson-rd, Ohio, Champion, Linwood, Miller and Kelton-avs will travel over the freeway, and Fairwood-av will be routed under.

The freeway section, from just east of Nelson-rd to the outerbelt, between Hamilton and Noe-Bixy-rd, will provide a ramp from Main-st to permit access for westbound traffic.

A relocation of Alum Creek-dr, between Main-st and a point about one-half mile south of Livingston-av, is also slated, with an interchange complex with Livingston-av and relocated Alum Creek-dr.

Cost of the section is estimated at about $5.9 million.

Suburban League Lineup Unchanged; Meet Monday

The South Suburban League, struggling to add at least two more members to its fold by the 1964 football season, held its first meeting of the new school year Monday night at Franklin Heights.

The four member schools—Franklin Heights, Pleasant View, Hamilton Township and Teays Valley will meet again Monday at 8 p.m. at the same site.

BY THE TIME of the next meeting, the four athletic councils hope to form a consensus of opinion as to which schools should be sent formal letters of invitation to the next meeting.

Preliminary feelers will be sent to those schools to see exactly who might be interested in the possibilities of joining the area's newest league.

A league spokesman reported that five area schools, including Reynoldsburg, have expressed interest in the new loop. The latter school had a representative at Monday's meeting but no commitments were made.

LEAGUE OFFICIALS feel that completion of the new outerbelt will solve distance difference which several of the schools listed as a disadvantage.

The South Suburban League was born last Dec. 13 when Franklin Heights and Pleasant View broke ties with the South-Central League, Hamilton Township requested release from the County League and Teays Valley quit the Darby Valley circuit.

The league hopes to have at least two more teams in its lineup by 1964 and would expand the loop to a maximum of eight teams.

When the Zoning Board handed down its recommendation for approval of the petition, they qualified it with the stipulation that AR 14-26 zoning would be established rather than the AR 8-14 which had been originally applied for. The AR 14-26 sets far more exacting standards for apartments built under its regulations.

No one appeared at the Tuesday hearing to present opposition to the proposal.

perienced the sad episode of a couple of wrens who built a nest in our strawberry patch and again in the raspberry patch and each time had their young ones snatched up by a marauding blue jay.

Not to be defeated, the couple moved into our garage and built a cozy nest in son Don's football helmet hanging on a wall near the door. Five eggs were laid and five babies born.

Monday the five young ones burst out of the nest like spontaneous combustion and into maturity. Our immediate problem was that of controlling Thomas Cat and removing him for the area until the wee ones are able to navigate for themselves.

Now the summer is brighter. We are happy with mother and father wren and their fine young family.

Senior Citizens Center

275 McDowell-st

Senior citizens are looking forward to Senior Citizen Day at the Ohio State Fair on Aug. 29. Many of them are practicing for the play that will be put on to entertain the senior citizens that will be on hand from all over the state.

Senior Citizen Day at the fair was originated by Edna Behmer, one of the staff members at the Senior Center. She plugged for many years to have one day to honor senior citizens, and this was started in 1959. This is the fifth annual show our center has produced for the fair.

Free shuttlebus ride tags will be available to anyone 60 years of age or older attending on Aug. 29. They can be requested in the tent area or at the center ahead of time. This will enable them to see the exhibits with very little walking.

Another nice donation for senior citizens will be free Pepsi-Cola and ice cream from the Westerville Meadow Gold Dairy Products.

Senior citizens will pay 75 cents admission at either gate at the fair, but the tent area is closest to the 11th-av entrance.

The program for senior citizens at the fair will be:

11-11:30 a.m. — Dance Review.

11:40-noon—All-Ohio Boys' Band Serenade.

Noon-1 p.m.—lunch period.

1:30-2:30 p.m. — Senior Citizens Show in the tent area.

Senior citizens may buy boxed chicken dinners at noon, but must buy tickets for the reduced price of $1.25 by Aug. 22 at the center. Arrangements have been made to have the lunch delivered at noon for those who have bought tickets.

Just 15 minutes a day devoted to reading will permit you to complete some two dozen books in a year. Since books are readily portable, chances are good that you can squeeze this brief "reading break" into your daily schedule.

Peace Corps Testing Set

The Peace Corps placement tests will be administered Saturday, Aug. 24, beginning at 8:30 a.m. The tests will be held in Room 204, Tonti Bldg., 34 N. High-st.

The non-competitive examination enables the Peace Corps to place prospective volunteers in an appropriate overseas situation. Everyone interested in becoming a volunteer must take the test, in addition to filling out a questionnaire.

Getting a piece of mind doesn't usually lead to peace of mind.

Must Meet Education Needs

It is almost a sure bet that arguments over the $250 million bond issue to be presented to Ohio voters on the November ballot will generate more heat than light. This is generally the case in debates involving partisan politics.

We would like to offer our comments before the prime issue — need — is submerged in the politically motivated side issues.

Of the $250 million to be asked, $210 million would be earmarked for education — $175 million for higher education capital improvements and $35 million for building programs in needy school districts. The remainder of the bond money would provide $25 million for state parks and management of natural resources, and $15 million for construction of state buildings.

The need for more money to meet Ohio's needs in the areas of public schools and higher education is so obvious that argument on this point is all but nonexistent.

The "great debate" centers on how best the need is to be met. And while the politicians jockey for favorable positions, the innocent children and young adults of our state suffer the dire consequences of delay.

We are not convinced that a bond issue is the best answer to the problem. We are not yet ready to absolve the General Assembly of charges that it was gutless and heartless in failing to take direct legislative action.

We are convinced, however, that a meeting of the needs in the vital areas of public and higher education must no longer be delayed. We are ready to recommend a "yes" vote for the bond issue.

We will continue to hear arguments that the bond issue is a hidden tax, a new tax and an increase in taxes. These arguments do not erase the fact that the need must be met.

If we end up paying more by the "bond" route than we would have by direct taxation, it will still be less than the price we will pay for continued vacillation.

If we do not agree with the attitudes and actions of our legislative and administrative leaders, we can always vote them out of office. Let's not adopt a course that will vote our children out of their rights to adequate educational opportunities.

Hunt Bargains For Best 'Stamp' Use

The question of whether or not trading stamps should be abolished is being discussed this month in the 1,600 Farm Bureau Advisory Councils.

The Farm Bureau Federation has neither endorsed nor opposed the use of trading stamps. But Bureau Director of Information C. Maurice Wieting passes along the following suggestions for those who trade where stamps are issued.

1. Watch for real bargains when you read the supermarket ads.

2. Shop around among the supermarkets for their "specials."

3. While in a supermarket, look for "specials" and other values in terms of price and quality.

4. Accept the trading stamps — as you will most likely do.

5. Use the trading stamps, or give them to your favorite organization.

6. At a gasoline station that offers trading stamps, ask for a cash discount instead of stamps.

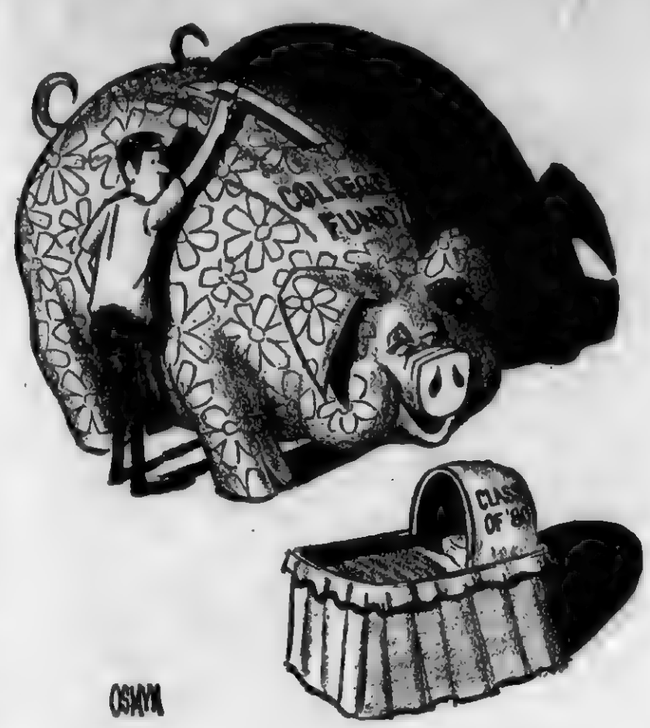
Frosting On The Cake

By "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

The "man to the moon" mania is cooling off rapidly all over this country. Informed citizens just can't see $40 billions going up in any such nonsense when they can't make ends meet from month to month now with this insane confiscatory tax robbery.



Increasing millions who are going to vote a year hence with more interest and astuteness than for half a century, are talking about how smart it would be to send a real constitutionalist to the White House, instead of sending some glory grabber to the moon or any other planet.

It is positively uncanny, as one looks back over the last 30 years of political double talk, how much better informed are the real Americans left with us than the so-called Ph.D. geniuses who have harped for too long, "so what? it is only money."

You can bet your almost last dollar that, of course, it is only money, but unless this insane federal squandering of our "hard sweat money" is stopped next year, what is left won't even be money.

Joe Doakes, a pretty decent guy, down through the years got hurt badly in the great depression, for far too long a time and his kids, now adults with their necks in a far worse noose, are waking up to the truth that all of this "pie in the sky" bunk is not doing anything for him at all. Joe is getting wised up through agonizing pain in the pocketbook nerve, as to just what this madness is doing TO HIM.

FOR THE BOOKS

Sculptor M. E. Cook designed and made it. It was dedicated to the children of Columbus in memory of George Peabody Munson. We mean the fountain-statue of Peter Pan that stands on the broad plaza before the Columbus Public Library at 96 S. Grant-av.

During a recent visit, Galvy Gordon, library publicity director, gave us some literature about it. From him and from it we learned much about the system.

Besides the Main Library there are 13 branches in Columbus and Franklin County. They are placed where they serve the most people. There are libraries in county villages, too.

Bookmobiles carry up to 5,000 books each. They make periodic visits to about 100 points in the county during school months, with more stops in summer. They are the only library service to many public and parochial schools in the county and some in the city.

The library owns more than half a million books, 7,500 recordings, about 1,000 educational films, thousands of early and current publications of every kind, has reference rooms, and other facilities.

Since the library is tax-supported, all these services are free to the people of the city and county. All responsible adults may get cards for themselves and their children. Your card is all you need.

Library people are trained for their jobs and are ready and eager to serve you. In this complex age, adults and children need to know more and yet more. Questions? The library has the answers.

The public schools under Supt. Harold H. Eibling cooperate closely.

Corporal Hitler and his Nazis once burned books in Germany so the people couldn't know. In Columbus, the library preserves them so that you may know.

It says here: If knowledge is power, your library is a power house.

Compassion

Recall with me the story of Christ's feeding of the multitude recorded in Mark 8:1-9. Four thousand persons have been listening to Jesus for three days and have had nothing to eat in all this time. Christ has compassion on them. He is concerned that if he sends them away hungry, they will pass out on the way home.

James Heil

Christ was a Lord of love, wasn't he? Here is the Savior of mankind, the Anointed One of Israel, concerned about people walking home hungry! We might think that the Christ would be above such things, but we find that time after time Jesus is concerned about the details of life. Whenever he confronts a lost soul, or a tired body, his first thought is to help. He always has time, whether it be for children wanting attention, or for a distraught woman tugging at his garments. Jesus could never rest in the sight of human need. He spent much of his life healing, curing, restoring sight, answering men in their need.

As Jesus expresses his compassion for his hungry followers, it is interesting to see the reaction of his disciples: "How can one feed these men with bread here in the desert?" The reaction: it's impossible! Perhaps they looked at Jesus as if he were out of his mind. Oh, how quick they were to point out the practical difficulties of such an idea.

But Jesus will have none of this. He replies, "How many loaves have you?" The compassion of Christ has now become a challenge: what have you got to offer? And with seven loaves of bread a multitude of four thousand persons was satisfied. The disciples had given of what they had.

This says a lot to me. I often look at the seemingly gigantic tasks facing me and say that they are impossible, they can't be done. I put things off. About those tiresome jobs which seem beyond my capabilities I often say in effect, "ignore them, perhaps they'll go away."

This is evading the challenge of Christ. He asks us for what we have; he expects what we have. The crowd may look overwhelming, and our few loaves of bread may seem insignificant, but Jesus calls to us, "How many loaves have you?"

FOOD MARKETS

Ohio Farm Products Reach Their Best

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits — Melons, seedless grapes, peaches, plums.

Vegetables — Sweet corn, tomatoes, all-purpose potatoes, peppers, snap beans.

Meats and Poultry — Fryers (whole), beef "specials," hams, wieners, medium eggs.

Ohio-grown foods offer the best eating of the summer right now.

During the coming week you'll have the opportunity to see these foods at their best. The abundance of colorful vegetables and luscious fruits from local farms will be on display at the Ohio State Fair. But it's equally true in the stores and at roadside markets — variety, good quality and the lowest prices of the year.

Mrs. Franks

Summer vegetable displays are outstanding. In spite of all the grumbling we've heard about the weather, we're having a good harvest. Sweet corn reached its peak in this area last week, but is still in good supply. It's been a wonderful year for beans — green, wax, lima and others — all are high in quality. Tomatoes are much improved in appearance and have unusually good flavor; they should be canned soon if you plan to save some for next winter.

Potato growers in Ohio say there will be a slightly larger crop than last year and that quality should be excellent. It seems to be an especially good summer, too, for salad greens. Green peppers, cucumbers, eggplant, summer and acorn squash add to the endless variety of summer vegetables.

Ohio fruit growers had their troubles from early freezes and frosts this year. However, reaching produce counters in increasing amounts are new crop apples and cantaloupes. The prune plum crop is above average but the grape crop promises to be only about 41 per cent of an average crop. Grape harvest will be late, probably starting in mid-September in Northern Ohio where most of our grapes are grown.

Fruits from other areas are filling fruit bins to overflowing . . . melons of every description, table grapes, nectarines and Bartlett pears, to name a few. There's a record crop of Thompson seedless grapes this year. California had marvelous grape weather so that table grapes —Thompson seedless, Ribier, Red Malaga, Cardinal and others—are 18 per cent above average in yield.

Still available in good amounts, but declining gradually from summer peak, are blueberries, peaches, watermelons and California strawberries.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Useful Screwballs Are Always Around Us

A friend has sent us a December, 1912, issue of Popular Mechanics. We started through it for laughs.

The nutty ideas. The stillborn "inventions." The wild-eyed money-making schemes. From the vantage point of half a century it is easy to point to the snake-oil and the moon-dreams.

Here's an ad from a New Yorker who says he has a design for a powerful four-horsepower airplane that he thinks can cross the Atlantic. Will someone put up the money to build it?

Here's a Pennsylvania man who has a "flexible steel automobile wheel" that doesn't need a rubber tire.

A Missourian wants agents to sell "a perfect washing machine for $3."

The magazine seems quite excited about a new rat trap called a "Ratapult." Baited with a piece of bacon rind, it features a powerful steel spring and a pneumatic re-winding device. "When the trap is sprung, an arm strikes the unfortunate rodent with enough force to break every bone in its body and hurls the carcass at least 15 feet away so that other rats will not be warned."

A Professor Berthsen of Germany claims he has successfully analyzed the hen's egg, and "by capturing and turning to various useful purposes the nitrogen in the atmosphere" hens will soon be obsolete and eggs will be produced by factories.

And a great new safety device is proclaimed with the invention of a water jacket to go around a motorcycle exhaust pipe. "By actuating a wire on the handlebars a steam whistle not unlike that of a boat is produced." The article didn't say whether the whistle was louder than a 1912-model motorcycle.

But what really jolts you about the old magazine is the number of good ideas. Most of the inventions dreamed up to make the ideas work were grossly impractical. It was a case of where inspiration was way ahead of the technology of the times.

Here is a picture of a thoughtful young man listening to the explosions inside an automobile cylinder by applying a doctor's stethoscope to the block. "It determines the condition of the engine by the sound." Well, of course, it would do no such thing. But maybe some kid who stared at that picture grew up to invent the modern engine analyzer.

The old-time movies hired piano players to play "Hearts and Flowers" during the love scenes and the finale of the William Tell Overture when the rustlers were headed off at the pass. But here comes automation. Popular Mechanics tells of one movie operator who fitted five rolls on a player piano and music suitable to the scene could be obtained by simply yanking a lever. It must have sounded awful, but it was the grandfather of the sound track.

Here's a device for pumping up an air tank on an automobile by utilizing "the jolts in the road." You have a cylinder and piston connected to the springs and as the car bounces down the highway the device fills the tank with high-pressure air "which can be used in re-inflating tires." Of course, the scheme was a failure because it tried to combine two dissimilar problems. But the modern shock-absorber is certainly a cylinder-and-piston and the auto air conditioner uses a compressor run, not by jolts, but, more logically, by the engine itself.

Here's a "noted German metallurgist," Prof. O. Trustedt, who thinks he has detected ore bodies deep in the earth by directing "wireless waves" downward at a slant. The waves, claims the professor, pass readily through dirt and rock but when they hit ore "they are deflected upward through the earth as a mirror casts back sunlight."

This, of course, is utter hokum. The professor was trying too many shortcuts. But a modern magnetometer can, indeed, detect ore bodies, even from an airplane. And sound waves bouncing off rock layers and reflected back to geophones have made possible the seismic geology that enables us to find oil.

"A boon to the motorist," says our magazine, is the speed circulating disc. By observing the time between two mileposts he can turn the device to estimate his miles-per-hour. Ridiculously simple, of course. A smart kid can make one.

But in the cockpit of a modern plane the pilot now thumbs a disc calculator that computes temperature and pressure gradients and gives not only true air and ground speeds but figures wind-correction angles. Just an extension of a good idea.

The extension of a good idea. Good ideas start with dissatisfaction with the status quo. Contented men invent nothing. The locomotive was born of discontent with the horse. To fly, man first had to dream of flying. He dreamed the wrong way for a long while. He kept trying to imitate birds. Then he looked again at the ancient kite and made a glider, and the marriage of the glider to the motor made an airplane.

Ideas that are nutty in one generation become practical in the technology of the next. Perhaps the best thing a modern inventor could do is haunt the musty stacks of old mechanics magazines in the basement of the public library.

College—

long been recognized in our country's industrial structure.

Forging a strong link in communication between our and will be teaching classes country's trained minds and its skilled hands is the pur-pose of junior colleges or in-stitutes of technology.

Graduate technicians, schooled to understand some of the "why" in an engineer's design, as well as the "how" that a craftsman knows, is equipped to make the plan workable.

"A technician is a transla-tor," Tatsch explained, "be-tween an engineer and a lay-man. He interprets what an engineer wants in terms the man on the floor can under-stand.

"The program calls for a unique instructor. He must be certified by the state to teach at college level, and must also have had experience in indus-try."

Tatsch's own professional background includes 18 years of industrial engineering in Columbus as superintendent of the Kilbourne-Jacobs Manu-facturing Co., methods engi-neer for Jeffrey Mfg. Co., time study manager for Co-lumbus Bolt and Forging Co., and process engineer for Dennison Engineering.

He has also been a member of the faculty of Ohio State University, director of the Manpower Training program for the State Department of Education and, before being named director of the Colum-bus Area School of Tech-nology, was coordinator of the Manpower Training program for the Columbus School Sys-tem.

Registrations For School Still Being Accepted

Enrollments are still being accepted in the Columbus Area Technician School, to be held at Central High School this fall.

All high schoool gradu-ates, regardless of age, who have had at least one year of algebra and can pass the placement test are eligible to attend.

The two-year college level course will offer associate degrees in the fields of busi-ness data processing, elec-tronics and mechanical tech-nology.

Graduates will be qualified to fill such jobs as lab tech-nicians, engineering assist-ants, junior process engin-eers, electronic technicians, systems programmer and systems analyst.

Classes will be held each week day, noon until 6 p.m., and cost will be $90 per quarter for residents of the Columbus School District, and $100 for non-residents. There will be an additional cost of approximately $30 a year for laboratory fees and textbooks.

Further information on registration is available from Clint Tatsch, director, Co-lumbus Area Technician School, 245 W. Broad-st.

Today's Outstanding Personality first saw the light of day in New York City, but luckily for the state of Ohio, she has made her home in the Buckeye State most of her adult life. Our profile today honors Agnes S. Merritt, 654 Wilson-av, undoubtedly one of the best known citizens of Columbus.

A teacher of math at Franklin Junior High, Mrs. Merritt is a holder of a Phi Beta Kappa key and is listed in the "Who's Who of American Women." She earned her first degree at Hunter College, then received her master's degree at Ohio State University. She taught in private school before accepting her present position in 1938.

Mrs. Merritt has worked diligently with the state's youth, to instill a sense of responsibility in taking an active interest in the operation of their government. As a member of the American Legion Auxiliary, sponsor of the Buckeye Girls' State, this led to her position as Dean of Government of the Girls' State, a post she has held since its inception 17 years ago. She has also written a book, "Ohio Government Digest", which is used in many schools in the state. She is in the process of revising it at the present time.

She belongs to the Business and Professional Women's Club and has served as its president. She has also been a state president and served as the national legislation chairman for two years.

A member of American Legion Auxiliary Navy-Marine 276, she has also been a state president of the Auxiliary. She is currently serving as chairman of the 12th district American Legion Auxiliary Scholarship Committee.

She belongs to Delta Kappa Gamma, an honorary teachers' group; Crittenton Home Service Board and American Association of University Women, as well as several teaching organizations.

Agnes is a member of the Executive Committee of the Ohio Women's Civil Defense Council. She holds a similar position on the Ohio Women's State Committee for Public Welfare, Health and Education. She is a past president of the latter group.

She has received many citations and awards for her work, such as "Woman of the Year" in 1956, from the State Federation of the Business and Professional Women. In 1956 Mrs. Merritt also received the "State of Ohio Citation for Outstanding Service to Youth" from the Secretary of State. She received the Freedom Foundation Award in 1961. Awards received this year include the one given her by the V.F.W. of Linden for her outstanding service to youth, and one from an educational group, Pi Lambda Theta, which chose her as its recipient of the outstanding education award.

Mrs. Merritt is the widow of Lester M. Merritt, who was a navy captain at Pearl Harbor. Her son Croft is the assistant service director of Columbus. She also has one grandchild.

She has little time for her hobby of reading, but manages to do it whenever possible. She has traveled extensively over the North American continent and has been abroad. She has related her observations and experiences while in Russia and satellite countries to many groups around the state. Her main hobby however, is working with young people, which she finds challenging. For her zealous, patriotic devotion, it has been an honor to include Agnes S. Merritt in our list of outstanding personalities.

The Luther League of Emmanuel Lutheran Church will hold a wiener roast at the South Side Y-Park on Sunday, Aug. 25. The Council Ring has been reserved from 2 until 7 p.m. Pastor and Mrs. Carlton Sutorius, of Emmanuel spent a vacation in Conover, N.C. The Columbus clergyman took part in the 70th anniversary of the Mt. Zion Lutheran Church while in Conover.

Members of R. T. King Chapter OES have completed plans for their Summer Festival to be held Friday, Aug. 23, at 697 S. High-st. Dinner will be served at 5 p.m.

The last full week of vacation will certainly be crowded with fun-time activities by these junior editions who can include a birthday celebration in their plans: Gregory Cunningham, Joyce Quidor, Judy Keller, Gloria Troiano, Wanda Crawford, Roger Caldwell, Dwight Jordon, Kathy Houston, Phil Fugate, Jr., Joyce Dorn, Doug Key, Tommy Lee Gall, Danise Skeen, Darlene and Carlene Ward.

Recognition should be given to these birthdayites of the teenage segment of the population: Phil Ikehorn, Carol Doran, Pat Dixon, Alice Dorn, Joe McGrath, Joe Poeschal, Diana Harlor and Jimmy Dayton.

Adults and near-adults to rate natal day greetings include Woody Moore, Sr., Mary Esselstein, Helen Scheiderer, Howard Henry, Marg Grissom, Bib Franz, Sr., Doug Leonard Edna Smith, Dick Rothwell, Opal Dames and Helen Hamilton. Belated greetings to Pauline Teetz, who celebrated an 85th birthday on Aug. 19.

Wedding anniversaries to be acknowledged include those of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Henry and Dianne and Lowell Moore. Special greetings to Harry and Marie Esselstein, who will celebrate 25 wedded years on Tuesday, Aug. 27.

Round Lake campers last week included Joe Spiker, Dave Coffman and Regina Sherrod.

Luther Leaguers of the area who attended last week's district convention at Kent State University include Laura Hepner, Christine Hepner, Susan Weber, Donna Miller, Carol Spiro, Karen Born, Linda Smith, Sharon McKiterick, Sue Ann Steffans, Pam Nelson, Sherry Hoskinson, Sharon Chase, Judy Smith, Susan Snyder and Rick May.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hagelbarger, who became the parents of a little girl recently.

Rev. and Mrs. Ellis Wesner, with their children Mark and Marlene, enjoyed a "back home again in Indiana" vacation, visiting relatives and friends. The residents of Southwood, to show no partiality between "home" state and adopted state, then spent the remainder of their free time by touring "beautiful Ohio" in a camping manner. We think it's very thoughtful of the Wesners to restrict their vacation to states that have inspired the two aforementioned songs.

St. Ann's Guild 42 will be entertained by Mrs. S. J. Telerski in her home, 1441 Linwood-av, tonight (Thursday) 8 p.m.

The known ailing list includes Mont Middlesworth, Charles Sherrod, who was scheduled for skin grafting last week at Children's Hospital, and Emma Lewis, now in Alum Crest Hospital, who had the misfortune of falling and hurting herself recently.

Wedding congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Berman Coey, now residing in Reynoldsburg. Mrs. Coey was the former Betty Baldeser, of 835 S. 18th-st before the nuptials were read.

The known ailing list includes Robert Thompson of 640 Woodrow-av, who underwent an eye operation in University Hospital, The 15-year-old youth will enter South High in a few weeks; John Helgle, 720 E. Moler-st, a well-known bowler, has been hospitalized in St. Anthony's Hospital and would be cheered immeasurably by get-well cards.

Amelia Henkleman is now home after a back operation in St. Anthony's. Viola Weaver is making nice progress following surgery at University Hospital; Mrs. Harry Friebis had the misfortune of breaking a bone in her foot; Kyle Osborne revisited the hospital again as a patient and was home again at this writing; Jack Rinehart had a second operation at Mt. Carmel and is doing well; surgery at St. Anthony Hospital was a recent experience of Linda Armitage, who is doing nicely at the present.

South High students will now address Miss Karyl Merle, a faculty member, as Mrs. Davidson, following her June 22 marriage to Lt. Walter Davidson in New York state. The air force officer and his bride now reside at 1065 Arness-av. Both are Capital University graduates.

Good wishes for many years of wedded happiness are extended to these young couples, all of whom will be participants in wedding ceremonies on Saturday, Aug. 24: Sylvia Ann Joseph, 411 S. Harding-rd, who will become the bride of Morris Jordon, 793 E. Kossuth-st; Janet Evans, 897 S. Ashburton-rd, the fiancee of Dennis Robertson, 847 Oakwood-av; Barbara Wald, 982 Marion-rd, who will become the wife of Michael John Sweeney, 226 Berger-al.

Four-Year Enrollment Prediction Comes True

Columbus Schools' four-year "guesstimate" of its student population growth, made in 1958-59, has proven so accurate that this fall's enrollment of 98,000 plus, finds housing, teachers and textbooks in adequate supply.

Gauging their needs by the four-year forecast, schools have been able to keep in step with the exploding increase with no additional operating funds. In November the school board will ask for only a renewal of the 15-mill levy.

A new four-year building survey, to be started this fall, will chart the school system's course until 1967.

The 98,000 students returning to school next Wednesday, Sept. 4, will include 5,000 more than last spring, smashing for the 16th consecutive year, all previous enrollment records.

Half-day sessions are planned on opening day, with full days of instruction starting Thursday.

Kindergarten and evening high school classes will convene the following Monday, Sept. 9.

PAROCHIAL SCHOOLS

Next Wednesday will also mark opening day for all Columbus Diocesan Schools.

Registration figures show an increase of 1927, making a total enrollment this fall of approximately 35,600.

New teachers, schools and textbooks, added in proportion to new students, will swell the system's faculty to more than 3,500, the number of buildings to 144, and textbooks to an all-time high.

Five new schools, opening their doors for the first time this fall are Buckeye Junior High and Moler Elementary in the South Side, Eastmoor Junior High, east, and Valley Forge and Devonshire Schools, north.

Textbooks have received special attention during the past year, and W. W. Miller, assistant superintendent of instruction, reports that more than 58,000 pupils will be using at least one newly-adopted book.

We're Going To Have A Wedding

Comes Sunday afternoon and we're going to have a wedding in our family.

For months now we've all looked forward to it and the household has been a beehive of activity.

There have been the long conversations about the announcements and whom to invite, the maid of honor and attendants, their dresses, flowers, wedding gowns, a place for a reception and a hundred other matters not to overlook a tranquilizer for mother.

Fathers don't have much say in these matters. So far the father of the bride has been given two assignments. He must be at the church on time and be prepared to pick up the bills.

I've found but one man less important than the father of the bride—the father of the groom.

A well planned wedding can be a beautiful affair and one that most young ladies and their mamas look forward to with delight, but if I had my way I'd simplify some of the wrinkles that have become "the way it should be done."

Jokingly of course, I've said that, instead of sending out invitations, it would be a more practical thing to sell tickets to a big streamlined reception with a little more of the floor show flavor and throw out the colored punch and mints. Of course the entire net proceeds would go to the newly wedded couple to get them off to a good start.

This would eliminate another problem—that of whom to invite to the wedding. As

Mrs. Richard Donavan

Mrs. Donavan To Head Area U-A Canvass

Mrs. Richard Donavan, 297 Markison-av, has been appointed area chairman for the South Side for the 1963 United Appeal campaign.

Her appointment was announced by Mrs. Robert L. Harrison, vice-chairman of the United Appeal residential campaign.

Mrs. Donavan will have the responsibility of organizing and recruiting the large staff of volunteers necessary to successfully carry out the residential section of the 1963 campaign.

In the campaign, beginning Oct. 14, hundreds of volunteers cover each home in Franklin County, soliciting in one drive for 65 agencies that are served by the United Appeal.

Mrs. Donavan, the mother of two children, has been an active worker in previous United Appeal campaigns. Her other activities include church work and active participation in PTA.

Who's For Chicken And Corn?

The annual chicken and corn dinner of the Council of South Side Organizations will be held at the Y-Park Thursday, Sept. 5, at 6:30 p.m.

Mike Mileusnich, retiring president, announced that at this time officers for the coming year will be elected.

City officials who will be guests at the affair include Mayor W. Ralston Westlake, Safety Director Al Giles, Councilman Robert Southwick, Service Director Ernie Stork, Richard Lawwill, who is director of Parks and Forestry, John L. Gallagher, traffic director, C. Howard Johnson, who is director of public utilities, Police Chief George Scholer and Nick A. Barack who is recreational director.

Office Closed Next Monday

Offices and the switchboard of Hartley Newspapers will be closed next Monday, Labor Day.

Because of this is it requested that stories for the sports, church and society pages be submitted by Saturday. Early copy for classified and display ads will be appreciated.

Press times for all papers remain the same.

WHAT'S IN YOUR WAY? THE SSBIA WANTS IT!

It's Going! Going! Going! But it's not gone yet.

What? The time left for you to settle down and figure out what you're going to haul out to send off to the big auction.

What auction? The seventh annual root-tooting, razzle-dazzle bargain day of the year when Joe Ronson stages the South Side Business and Industrial Association sale.

When? The hammer will begin to fall at 6 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 17, and the clamor will go on as long as there's anything left to sell.

Where? At the brand new Steelton Merchant's parking lot, which will be dedicated that night. (For more details on the dedication see story on page 1.)

With thousands expected at the auction, used to raise money for South Side civic interests, the association's big problem is to find enough to sell.

They'll take anything and everything. There's always someone who wants what you don't, with the possible exception of cracked ping-pong balls.

Ronson, the perennial chairman of the affair, mentioned a few of the things that always go like the proverbial hotcakes, including anything that has wheels, from trikes to cars, and anything a family can wear, eat, sit or sleep on, listen to, work or play with or burn for fuel.

Following is a list of the committee members who are using their homes and businesses as collection stations. Any items that a donor cannot bring to one of these points will be picked up if the owner will call Ronson or any other committeeman:

Joe Ronson, chairman, 1208 Parsons-av, HI. 3-1580; Cliff Antes, 1108 Sycamore, 252-9332; Ernie Barta, 2524 Dover-rd, BE. 5-1382; Leo Dietlin, 1336 E. Gates, HI. 4-2841; Howard Hoernle, 747 Parsons-av, 433-4613; Lou Whitacre, 158 Southwood, 444-4041; Sam Skunza, 1142 Lockbourne-rd, HI. 4-9205; John Marshall, 1197 S. 22nd-st, 443-1031, and Fred Kreutz, Jr., 3427 Hamilton-rd, TE. 7-7039.

South Side Civic Group Gains Candidate's Ear

Representatives of the Marion-Franklin Area Cavic Association have at last found a sympathetic ear when presenting their case for additional recreational facilities on the far South Side.

M. D. Portman, candidate for city council, has reversed the usual political procedure of taking his platform to the people and is interviewing his potential constituents to learn what they want from their legislative body.

The civic group, which was formed last spring, has gone on record with the belief that lack of organized recreation presents a possible opportunity for the growth of juvenile delinquency spawned by idleness.

According to the statement made by Portman after meeting with the group in the southeastern section of the city between Lockbourne and Alum Creek-dr and bound on the north by Refugee-rd, and on the south by Williams-rd, he is in accord with their thinking.

"While our present city government leaders vacation and procrastinate, children are drowning in creeks and unguarded pools, playing in the streets or on hot, unsupervised vacant lots," he stated.

He reviewed the fact that the children from approximatly 1,000 homes in the area

Fornof Toastmaster At Steelton Dedication

Councilman William Fornof will be on hand at toastmaster when one more step towards the rejuvenation of the South Side takes place Tuesday, Sept. 17, at 8 p.m.

But he'll be only one of thousands expected at the dedication of the new Steelton Merchant's Parking Lot, located one block east of Parsons-av, between Innis and Marion-rd on Wager.

Besides Mayor W. Ralston Westlake and other city officials, the lot will be filled with countless bargain hunters, as the ceremony will interrupt the annual auction sponsored by the South Side Business and Industrial Association.

After Father Frank Reihl of St. Ladislas performs the ceremony, Miss Judy Robinson, selected as Miss South Side in the CSSO annual Fourth of July celebration, will cut the ribbons. Thus the dream that South Side businessmen have been nursing for the past decade will become a reality.

Band music will be provided and rides for the children and food for everyone are scheduled as added attractions.

Robert Horowitz, general chairman of the dedication, explained that all the funds raised by the festivities will go for sending children to camp and for the good of the South Side. His associate chairman is John Marshall.

St. Paul's Elementary Reopening

St. Paul's Lutheran School, which began as a kindergarten in 1951 and since 1960 has been adding grades, will open its doors again on Wednesday, Sept. 4 as a complete elementary school of kindergarten and six grades.

This year there are 107 pupils taught by four teachers. Mrs. C. Paul Brobst teaches kindergarten, Mrs. Sterling Oden teaches first and second grades, Mrs. Henrietta Garverick fourth and fifth grades and Mrs. F. B. Hart fifth and sixth grades.

The sixth grade of the 1963-1964 school year will be the first to graduate from the school.

St. Paul's School is the only Lutheran parochial school in Columbus. There are perhaps over 1600 Lutheran Day Schools in the United States, most of them being operated by the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, and the Wisconsin Lutheran Synod.

A REAL CHAMPION, as his sire and dam before him, Champion Major Herman stands with his owner, Mrs. Carl Bowen, with whom he has formed a mutual admiration society. He is the son of Helles Sylvi, better known as Jan to the Bowens who owned her also, and of Champion Deacon of Vinler.

HERMAN IS NO GERMAN

ALTHOUGH HE'S 'AT HOME' IN THE VILLAGE

By Jane Robinson

Herman, over at 49 E. Sycamore-st, is really quite a guy.

Of course, he's big as a horse, but it's all muscle and he's as handsome as ever.

He always has been a little temperamental, and since his retirement about a year ago, like most men, has become somewhat demanding of the time of the people he lives with, Madge and Carl Bowen.

But, at least he's still self-supporting. Mr. and Mrs. Bowen saw to that when they made him available as a sire.

When Champion Major Herman, as his papers read, left the ring in March of 1962, there was no real future for him. He had already won enough ribbons, trophies and points to earn himself a permanent claim to fame as one of the top five Great Danes in the United States.

Standing 36 inches high at the shoulder, Herman weighs 200 pounds and at six years of age, loves to swim, romp and, above all else, ride in the family car. This car, Mrs. Bowen laughed, he regards as his own and is highly protective of it, and is equally indignant if it leaves the premises without him.

Herman, long accustomed to the strenuous life of a champion with "Big Bill" Aston, 1924 Alsace-dr, his handler, showing him over eight or nine states, does not take too well to solitude.

Although never forgetting his good breeding as far as to stooping to the canine trick of destroying furniture or clothing, he doesn't feel it beneath his innate dignity to cut a few capers if left alone longer than he deems reasonable.

Mrs. Bowan still recalls the time she returned home after several hours' absence to find every garment in the house carefully removed from its hanger and piled, not too neatly, on the living room floor.

His mistress dispelled the common notion that, in addition to looking like a horse, a dog of Herman's size eats like one. About a quart of dry dog food mixed with broth and meat is the daily ration that satisfies him—except for his very "unsecret" addiction.

He is "mad" about sunflower seeds and could not care less what his whim does to the Bowen garden.

The gigantic dog was forced into retirement when, while being run in an open field, he severed an artery on a broken bottle. Although the injury

AMONG THE HUNDREDS of ribbons, trophies and awards Herman won during his stellar career in the ring is the "Best in Show" from the Chicago show in 1960. With 218 Danes from all over the country it boasted the largest number of entries on record. The Columbus dog was rated third top Dane in the country that year.

MISS MAUREEN KELLEY

Miss Kelley Will Be Bride Of Mr. Wilson Next Spring

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Kelley, 122 Obetz-rd, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Maureen Kaye, to Mr. Leslie Earl Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl H. Wilson, 2977 Palmetto-st.

Miss Kelley is a graduate of Marion Franklin High School and is employed by Great Southern, J. C. Penney Co. Mr. Wilson is a graduate of Ohio State University and is also employed by Great Southern, J. C. Penney Co.

Mr. Wilson will begin a two year tour in February, as a second lieutenant in the United States Army.

The wedding will take place some time in April.

FOOD MARKETS

September Good Time For Food Shoppers

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Vegetables — tomatoes, sweet corn, green peppers, snap beans, squash.

Fruits — watermelons, cantaloupes, seedless grapes.

Meats and Poultry — fryers, steak "specials," ground beef, wieners, ham, medium eggs.

Other — tuna fish, cheese, ice cream.

September's late show of summer vegetables and fruits will offer Ohio-grown goodness until frost catches them. Topping the list of fresh-from-the-garden variety are tomatoes, sweet corn, snap beans, lima beans, beets and cabbage.

Mrs. Franks

Salad greens like onions, Bibb lettuce, green peppers and cucumbers are good quality . . . many of these succulent vegetables like cooler weather and the rains have given them quite a boost.

Do you still plan to do some canning or freezing? If so, the sooner the better, for quality of most vegetables begins to slip when the peak of harvest is past. Tomatoes, from the late crop are good for canning and juice making now as well as for meals, although cool nights has slowed up the ripening. Many varieties of beans are exceptionally good.

Obey That Impulse—Buy A Watermelon

Go ahead and obey that impulse—buy one of the big watermelons you see stacked wherever fruits are displayed. All good things must come to an end—and the end of watermelon season is in sight along with cooler weather. Besides, 28 to 30 pounds of watermelon for around 60 cents will make inexpensive desserts for the Labor Day holiday coming up. Cantaloupes, too, are good buys and many of them in markets now are Ohio-grown. Shipments of Indiana and California melons will also be heavy during September—quality is excellent.

The first Tredonia grapes—the purple ones that look and eat much like Concords—are on roadside stands and Concords will follow by mid-September. Bartlett pears are coming in greater amounts, although the total U.S. crop will be smaller than usual. Some russeting is evident, but this doesn't hurt the fruit. Varieties of apples change rapidly now: early McIntosh are here but the Wealthy is probably still the least expensive apple for cooking purposes. Watch for Ohio's Stanley Prune plums this month. Northern Ohio fruit growers report that the plum trees are a sight to behold in nearly all orchards.

Meats for the Rest of the Year

Meat men say that for the rest of the year, production of red meats is expected to be three to four per cent larger than last year. Most of the increase in supplies of meat in the weeks ahead will be in beef, they say. Although some increase in the general level of beef prices is likely this fall, September prices will be below the high level that prevailed at this time last year. Pork will not be scarce, but neither will it be abundant enough to bring many specials on fresh cuts or a general lowering of prices. The heavy supplies of broilers headed for market in September will give other meat rough competition, thus keeping prices from rising much.

Don't Flunk The Course!

How many times have you heard the old saying, "Life is a university?" There's a lot of truth to it, you know. But an awful lot of people are flunking the course.

If you shut your mind to new thoughts, to new facts and ideas, then you're not getting the most out of the university of life. Learning should be a lifelong process. It keeps us young in spirit and thought. It helps us master life's problems as they come along.

If you find that you've been going stale lately—stuck in the same old rut of thinking or drifting aimlessly—maybe you need to grab hold of yourself and start off in the right direction.

The best direction for a person in your shoes is toward your nearest Public Library. There you'll find the books and magazines to put you back on the track. You will find new interests and rediscover old talents. Learning can be fun and profitable, too. Especially if you're learning at your own speed, with nobody pushing you. Use your library card to get more out of living. Use it often!

The Columbus Regional Blood Program of the American Red Cross states that 55,000 pints of blood were collected in 1962.

GOOD WILLY SAYS . . .

'Where There's A (Good) Will–There's A Way'

THE CYCLE OF THE TRICYCLE begins here. Unloading the articles are from left, Ronnie Abdon, Charles Turley and Elbert Jackson. Soon the tricycle will be turned over to another department to be repaired, painted and priced. As soon as it is all shiny and new looking—back to the truck it goes to be transported to one of Goodwill's stores.

"GOOD AFTERNOON, GOODWILL INDUSTRIES," is the sound you will hear when you dial 294-5181. The cheerful voice belongs to Mrs. Clyde (Ruth) Zweifel. Ruth developed polio when she was seven years old, but that didn't stop her from graduating from high school and finding a job. She learned about Goodwill in a newspaper story in 1945 and applied for work. In 1958, she was selected Goodwill Worker of the year. Ruth is married to Clyde

"59 CENTS," thought Lomina Thomas as she tossed this article into the proper bin. Being four feet, two inches tall has its limitations, but Lomina devised a strong arm and deft pricing ability to meet the requirements of this job. Perched on a stool, Lomina sorts through basket upon basket of clothing and determines what each article is worth. Reminiscing a little, Lomina recalled the time she did the twist with "Flippo."

By JANET MICHAEL

Late one evening a man in his late twenties climbed onto a crowded downtown bus. It had been a long day, going from one place of business to another in search of a job. That day proved no different from any of the rest—he was still unemployed. The reason—he only had one leg.

No one wanted to take a chance on hiring an unskilled, handicapped person. By some strange coincidence, he sat down beside a man using one hand to balance a lunch box on his lap, the other sleeve was rolled and pinned at the seam. They struck up a conversation. The second man was employed by Goodwill, the first man did not even know what Goodwill was. The next day the two went to work together, and for the first time in his life, the man on crutches worked and learned a trade.

This story or a similar one has probably happened in nearly every city in the United States. Still there are hundreds of people who have no concept of what Goodwill really means and how its rehabilitation program works.

A person seeking work at Goodwill must first be evaluated through a series of tests, to determine his potential abilities, followed by a training period at which time he learns a skill. Job demands and pressures must be met in order to compete with the more fortunate people in the business world. Suppose a man choses to be a carpenter. The day he turns out a table that doesn't wobble, has been sanded smooth and neatly painted, he is eligible to take his place in the community as a carpenter's helper.

George Evans, 1331 Edgehill-rd, executive director of the local industry for the past 17 years, said, "Even with as much publicity as Goodwill has had, some things still need to be clarified. Goodwill is a non-profit, charitable organization that trains and employs handicapped people and prepares them for work in the community, and," he continued, "donations are tax deductible."

Items which the agency can no longer accept are gas refrigerators, glass jars, heavy overstuffed furniture, home canned food, hot water tanks, radiators, appliances with motors, pianos, scrap metal, wooden iceboxes, newspapers, magazines and cardboard.

However, in order to further handicapped people in their training and work adjustment programs, the following repairable articles are urgently needed: beds, bicycles, books, business machines, cameras, clothing, clocks, crocks, dishes, dolls, draperies, curtains, gas or electric dryers, electrical appliances, electronic equipment, electric refrigerators.

All types of usable or repairable furniture, household items, ice skates, jewelry, light upholstered furniture in good condition, mattresses, National Geographics, office supplies, photographic equipment, pillows, radios, electric or gas ranges, record players, roller skates, rugs, shoes, sporting equipment, springs, storm and screen doors in good condition, television sets, toys, games, washing machines and wheel toys.

Recently 53 collection boxes were distributed throughout the city, conveniently located near churches and schools, at neighborhood intersections, or in shopping centers, where clothing and small items may be deposited.

For further information concerning work, club tours or for pick-up of articles, write to Goodwill Industries of Central Ohio, 1331 Edgehill-rd, Columbus 12, or call 294-5181.

Announce the First Worship Service of a New

INTERRACIAL CONGREGATION

SURE HANDS OF THE SURGEON

A child walks . . . an arm is straightened . . . a growth is removed . . . these and many other things are the result of the fine work of the surgeon. This is an occupation and a labor worthy of appreciation.

A star . . . a new born baby . . . the world itself . . . these and many other things reveal God to us. "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth his handywork."

Psalm 19, 1

God has wrought a great work. Let us show our love and appreciation by worshipping him in Church each Sunday

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH . . . THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE . . .

St. Joseph's Guild Sponsors Tournament To Aid Children

A King Pin Torurnament, sponsored by St. Joseph's Guild, will be held at Fiesta Lanes, 1291 W. Lane-av, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 28 and 29. The proceeds will be used to assist exceptional children at the Columbus State School.

Bishop Clarence Issenman will roll the first ball to get the tournament under way at noon. James Steer, of WTVN-TV will be master of ceremonies.

The tourney will be in three divisions—Men, Women and Junior. Single game donation will be $1.

Churches and civic groups have been invited to sell tickets and receive a percentage of all sold for their own treasury. Tickets are available from St. Joseph's Guild members and most civic groups.

St. Joseph's Guild for Exceptional Children was organized two years ago to assist the chaplain of the State School, Rev. Ralph Karl.

The exceptional children have unusual educational needs and require special health programs. They depend upon the chaplain and St. Joseph's Guild for glasses, crutches, dentures, corrective braces, particular clothing, good grooming articles and other items not furnished by the state.

The guild also furnishes volunteer members to assist with the teaching and education of these children.

Accept Students At Evening H.S.

Registration dates for the fall semester at Evening High School are Thursday evening, Sept. 5, and Monday evening, Sept. 9, according to an announcement just released by G. B. Newton, principal.

This school provides adults and older youth the opportunity to expand and review their education to enrich life and to increase their employability through a wide variety of courses.

For detailed information you should call CA. 4-3243 or stop at the school, 75 Washington-blvd., across the street from the Veterans Memorial.

Senior Citizens Center

775 McDowell-st

Senior Citizens always looked forward to Fridays and the afternoon programs planned for their interest.

During August they were suspended for vacations, but September has an interesting variety of programs planned.

McGuffey readers are familiar to most senior citizens in this area, and they bring back nostalgic memories. The program at 2 p.m., Sept. 6, will be conducted by a committee of McGuffey students, Kenneth Abbot, Mrs. Mertis Reese and Chalmers Parker.

Secretary of the local McGuffey Society, Mrs. Anne Clark, will conduct a spelling bee using words from the readers.

Members are urged to bring a favorite poem or story from a McGuffey Reader.

GOOD WILLY SAYS . . .

'Where There's A (Good) Will–There's A Way'

THE CYCLE OF THE TRICYCLE begins here. Unloading the articles are from left, Ronnie Abdon, Charles Turley and Elbert Jackson. Soon the tricycle will be turned over to another department to be repaired, painted and priced. As soon as it is all shiny and new looking—back to the truck it goes to be transported to one of Goodwill's stores.

"GOOD AFTERNOON, GOODWILL INDUSTRIES," is the sound you will hear when you dial 294-5181. The cheerful voice belongs to Mrs. Clyde (Ruth) Zweifel. Ruth developed polio when she was seven years old, but that didn't stop her from graduating from high school and finding a job. She learned about Goodwill in a newspaper story in 1945 and applied for work. In 1958, she was selected Goodwill Worker of the year. Ruth is married to Clyde

By JANET MICHAEL

Late one evening a man in his late twenties climbed onto a crowded downtown bus. It had been a long day, going from one place of business to another in search of a job. That day proved no different from any of the rest—he was still unemployed. The reason—he only had one leg.

No one wanted to take a chance on hiring an unskilled, handicapped person. By some strange coincidence, he sat down beside a man using one hand to balance a lunch box on his lap, the other sleeve was rolled and pinned at the seam. They struck up a conversation. The second man was employed by Goodwill, the first man did not even know what Goodwill was. The next day the two went to work together, and for the first time in his life, the man on crutches worked and learned a trade.

This story or a similar one has probably happened in nearly every city in the United States. Still there are hundreds of people who have no concept of what Goodwill really means and how its rehabilitation program works.

A person seeking work at Goodwill must first be evaluated through a series of tests, to determine his potential abilities, followed by a training period at which time he learns a skill. Job demands and pressures must be met in order to compete with the more fortunate people in the business world. Suppose a man choses to be a carpenter. The day he turns out a table that doesn't wobble, has been sanded smooth and neatly painted, he is eligible to take his place in the community as a carpenter's helper.

George Evans, 1331 Edgehill-rd, executive director of the local industry for the past 17 years, said, "Even with as much publicity as Goodwill has had, some things still need to be clarified. Goodwill is a non-profit, charitable organization that trains and employs handicapped people and prepares them for work in the community, and," he continued, "donations are tax deductible."

Items which the agency can no longer accept are gas refrigerators, glass jars, heavy overstuffed furniture, home canned food, hot water tanks, lockers, appliances with motors, pianos, scrap metal, wooden iceboxes, newspapers, magazines and cardboard.

However, in order to further handicapped people in their training and work adjustment programs, the following repairable articles are urgently needed: beds, bicycles, books, business machines, cameras, clothing, clocks, crocks, dishes, dolls, draperies, curtains, gas or electric dryers, electrical appliances, electronic equipment, electric refrigerators.

All types of usable or repairable furniture, household items, ice skates, jewelry, light upholstered furniture in good condition, mattresses, National Geographics, office supplies, photographic equipment, pillows, radios, electric or gas ranges, record players, roller skates, rugs, shoes, sporting equipment, springs, storm and screen doors in good condition, television sets, toys, games, washing machines and wheel toys.

Recently 53 collection boxes were distributed throughout the city, conveniently located near churches and schools, at neighborhood intersections, or in shopping centers, where clothing and small items may be deposited.

For further information concerning work, club tours or for pick-up of articles, write to Goodwill Industries of Central Ohio, 1331 Edgehill-rd, Columbus 12, or call 294-5181.

"59 CENTS," thought Lomina Thomas as she tossed this article into the proper bin. Being four feet, two inches tall has its limitations, but Lomina devised a strong arm and deft pricing ability to meet the requirements of this job. Perched on a stool, Lomina sorts through basket upon basket of clothing and determines what each article is worth. Reminiscing a little, Lomina recalled the time she did the twist with "Flippo."

SURE HANDS OF THE SURGEON

A child walks . . . an arm is straightened . . . a growth is removed . . . these and many other things are the result of the fine work of the surgeon. This is an occupation and a labor worthy of appreciation.

A star . . . a new born baby . . . the world itself . . . these and many other things reveal God to us. "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth his handywork."

Psalm 19, 1

God has wrought a great work. Let us show our love and appreciation by worshipping him in Church each Sunday

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for men and of His demand for men to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about men's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH . . . THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

St. Joseph's Guild Sponsors Tournament To Aid Children

A King Pin Tournament, sponsored by St. Joseph's Guild, will be held at Fiesta Lanes, 1291 W. Lane-av, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 28 and 29. The proceeds will be used to assist exceptional children at the Columbus State School.

Bishop Clarence Issenman will roll the first ball to get the tournament under way at noon. James Steer, of WTVN-TV will be master of ceremonies.

The tourney will be in three divisions—Men, Women and Junior. Single game donation will be $1.

Churches and civic groups have been invited to sell tickets and receive a percentage of all sold for their own treasury. Tickets are available from St. Joseph's Guild members and most civic groups.

St. Joseph's Guild for Exceptional Children was organized two years ago to assist the chaplain of the State School, Rev. Ralph Karl.

The exceptional children have unusual educational needs and require special health programs. They depend upon the chaplain and St. Joseph's Guild for glasses, crutches, dentures, corrective braces, particular clothing, good grooming articles and other items not furnished by the state.

The guild also furnishes volunteer members to assist with the teaching and education of these children.

Accept Students At Evening H.S.

Registration dates for the fall semester at Evening High School are Thursday evening, Sept. 5, and Monday evening, Sept. 9, according to an announcement just released by G. B. Newton, principal.

This school provides adults and older youth the opportunity to expand and review their education to enrich life and to increase their employability through a wide variety of courses.

For detailed information you should call CA. 4-3243 or stop at the school, 75 Washington-blvd., across the street from the Veterans Memorial.

Senior Citizens always looked forward to Fridays and the afternoon programs planned for their interest.

During August they were suspended for vacations, but September has an interesting variety of programs planned.

McGuffey readers are familiar to most senior citizens in this area, and they bring back nostalgic memories. The program at 2 p.m., Sept. 6, will be conducted by a committee of McGuffey students, Kenneth Abbot, Mrs. Mertis Reese and Chalmers Parker.

Secretary of the local McGuffey Society, Mrs. Anne Clark, will conduct a spelling bee using words from the readers.

Members are urged to bring a favorite poem or story from a McGuffey Reader.

Tax Dept. vs. Athlete Or Long Division Revisited

The poor underprivileged athlete, who has been categorically listed among the victims of the long form for as long as we can remember, has now been taken under the wing of the Federal Government.

While most of the Washington analysts were keeping their eyes on test-ban treaties and Haitian uprisings, a couple of weeks ago the tax-burdened ballplayer slipped in the back door with a 40 million dollar special tax relief package.

THE PROPOSAL, which would enable ballplayers to average their taxable income over a five-year period in computing their tax donation, will save the "strike-it-rich" kid from suddenly finding himself in the high bracket after a lean income period.

The remedy was explained to us thusly: Joe Doaks is earning $10,000 per year for the last four years. His income suddenly shoots up to $100,000. Instead of paying tax on the full 100 thou, Joe totals his five-year earnings, divides by five and then pays out taxes on $28,000.

But how about the strapping, 18-year-old bonus kid right out of high school who poured cement and filled ice-cream cones for his livelihood.

MORE THAN LIKELY, he hasn't been filling out a form, so his average can't be figured retroactively. The tax boys must then look into their crystal balls and speculate.

If the kid gets his bonus in a lump-sum figure and falls flat on his BA face the next season, who makes up the difference?

We had always given the tax boys more credit for foresight. If they think they've got problems now, picture the situation in five years when the big slugger sits down with the government score keeper.

WHY THE BIG difference in income indicated here in column four?"

"Well, I was benched because I was watching too many strikes and I batted only .216. I had to take a cut in salary."

"Yes, well that should have been entered in column four A. What's this here about 1966?"

"I started out with the Athletics but I got traded for $25,000 to the White Sox. But they sent me down to Indianapolis. The commissioner ruled that the trade was illegal so I wound up with Seattle on the coast."

"THOSE FIGURES should have been inserted on the back of page 3." What's this in the added income column?"

"There was this shaving cream ad I did but they cancelled out after two weeks 'cause I was sent down. The bubble gum people sent me a contract but that runs thru 1970."

"Let's see, divide by six years — What's this here about gambling? You can't average an income on gambling."

"The general manager said I was the biggest gamble his club ever made."

"WHAT ARE ALL these figures here?"

"Those are my batting averages for the five years. Look at '67. I was really hitting the cover off the ball and — hey where ya' going? Don't you want to see the rest of the figures?"

Of course, maybe we shouldn't be so hard on the system. After all, it also lists authors as liable to "average." Authors should include sportswriters and everyone knows we'll take all the help we can get.

BITS OF WIT (T)—

In case you've been scoffing at our little 'Golf Etiquette' series this summer, consider this:

Disabling golf injuries increased by 3,000 to a total of 18,000 in 1962, the Nationwide Insurance Co. reports.

Better than 10,000 of the injuries occured when the victim was hit by a golf ball, with an additional nine percent felled by swinging clubs.

HEAT PROSTRATION got to ten percent while overexertion sent another seven percent to the club house feet first. The remaining percentage was attributed to golf cart accidents.

Although the rate was only seven per cent, insurance officials warn that the increasing popularity of the carts plus the recklessness of their drivers might easily result in a sharp upturn in disabling accidents in this area.

Some days it just doesn't pay to get out of bed.

Ground Game South Strength In Scrimmage

By ART KIENZLE

The South High Bulldogs saw their first opposition of the '63 season Saturday as Newark's Wildcats held a slightly ruling hand in a two-hour scrimmage battle.

Although Newark outscored South in TDs, 4-2, the Rebs led in ground-gaining yardage, 264-214.

BUT NEWARK took the show in the end as the 'Cats led in total yardage, 319-266, thanks mainly to nine completions in 16 aerial attempts. South made two of 10 tosses.

The first down statistics also went to the Wildcats, 17-13, with all of South's coming via the running game.

Bulldog offensive standouts were Jerry Robison, Harry Strauss, Wayne Baker, Jim Walker, Phil Hartway and the Pate brothers, Paul and Lloyd.

OTHERS TURNING in good performances were Herb Ware, Joe Cook, Jim Reinhardt and Roger Peer.

Don's Inn Grabs Lead In Old Timers League

Don's Inn thumped Schoenlings Monday night at Southview, 40-6, in a make-up game in the South Side Old Timers League. Don's went to the plate for a total of 44 hits.

Duquesne knocked over Arena 20-12 and Planks bested Old Landmark, 26-10, sparked by Herb Russell's six RBI's.

Don Kirby did an outstanding job of pitching for the Bow Wow by holding Deibels to one run in a 10-1 victory.

JIM CAMERON of Don's led the home run hitters with three round trippers followed by teammate Jerry Greuter with two four-baggers. Other home run hitters were Dick Kelly, Herb Russell, and Jerry Spires, of Planks; Duke Hinton, Walt Hoffman, Don's Inn; Bob Townsend, Old Landmark; John Puchik, Ray McVay, and Jim Amburgey, Duquesne.

Duke Hinton of Don's hit seven for seven at the plate followed by teammates Walt Hoffman and Bill Goodwin with six for six, and Chuck Raymond of Duquesne with five for five.

DUQUESNE SCORED four runs in the bottom half of the seventh inning to insure its 7-5 win over Bow Wow Tuesday night in the South Side Old Timers League.

Old Landmark scored its MANITOULIN ISLAND, ONTARIO — On the doorstep of our tent is Manitowaning Bay, a rather sizable chunk of water where Georgian Bay ends and the North Channel begins. We haven't fished yet, but expect to tomorrow.

This is a large island, more than 100 miles long. By coming up here for a few days we unexpectedly recaptured a handful of July, for the farmers are just cutting their little fields of oats. On this family camping trip we are mostly exploring around and enjoying the spectacular scenery. This country demands that you take a few days and just sit and look. While not far in miles, this is a long way from central Ohio.

I DO NOT believe you can get to Manitoulin in a single day from your area, except by air. The shortest route is up the Bruce peninsula, crossing into Ontario at Port Huron north of Detroit, to Tobermory and then taking the ferry to the island. There is a ferry leaving Tobermory at 7 p.m., which docks at South Baymouth at 10 p.m., but you would miss the scenery and a most interesting boat ride.

There are seven campsites on Manitoulin, all of them private as there is no government park on the island. We are staying at one called Green Acres, which is about six miles south of the village of Little Current.

This is a new camp in its first year of operation, and has an ideal location with campsites in the trees bordering a large beach. The owners, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Dunlop, are new at the camping business, but are most friendly and helpful. They have even told me where to fish in the morning.

THE FISHING here is apparently good. All the campers I've talked to have had plenty of fish to eat. I do not expect to set any records, but the reputation of this area (Columbus) is in good hands. The largest fish caught in recent days was a 12-pound pike taken by Robert P. Walcutt, 91 N. West-st, Westerville. Walcutt checked out just a day or so before we arrived, so I'll have to call him when I get home to see how he caught such a nice fish.

Pike seem to be one of the main species here, and I have seen several being cleaned in the six to 10-pound class. Trolling spoons and drifting large perch minnows seem to be the accepted method of catching them. Good stringers of smallmouth bass and perch are also in evidence.

According to Burton Dunlop, the best fishing chances for a newcomer to the area are in two inland lakes near here. Bass and Pike Lakes are nearby, and Bass yielded a 20-pound muskellunge last weekend. The call of the big water is too much, however, and I'll be fishing around the islands in this end of the bay.

I'll give you a report next week after we are back home.

GOLF ETIQUETTE—10

JUST A FINAL REMINDER...

BEFORE WE shake hands and head for the clubhouse this summer, we'd like to leave one final reminder of golfing etiquette. Flags are for flying so whether you're elated over a birdie or just plain disgusted because that three-foot putt didn't drop, remember to replace that flag so the next guy has the same chance you did at a hole-in-one. As we bid a joyful farewell to our golfing "goof-off" as he takes his poor manners elsewhere, please remember—next time you play golf or another sport, try to give the other fellow the same consideration you'd like to have him give you.

Karns Softball Teams Win City Championships

The Karns Playground Junior and Intermediate Boys' Softball teams repeated as city champions as each gained victories late last week in the tournament finals at Sunshine Park.

The Intermediates backed the one-hit pitching of Rick Anderson with two big innings to down Glenwood, 9-5.

ANDERSON CLIMAXED a season of brilliant pitching with his fourth one-hit performance. Rick earlier recorded a no-hitter and only once gave up as many as five hits.

Pat Parker, Ed Roehrenbeck and Mike Fisher took care of the heavy hitting in the final game.

Parker had four hits while Fisher and Roehrenbeck had three each. Tom Foley, Steve Brown, Doug Parker and Dick Rings also came through with timely hits.

BRUCE HARRIS, Jim Ryan and Tom Simeral played important roles defensively in the final game.

The Junior Boys scored three runs in the first inning when Don Caldwell socked a home run with two aboard as Karns toppled Sharon, 8-3.

Caldwell, Jim Tiedt and Dave Rings each collected a pair of hits for the winners. Mike Jones, Chuck Miller, Jack Parsons, John Dethloff and Keith Brown also came through with key hits.

Brown's pitching was backed up by the stellar defensive play of Jan Herrman, Charlie O'Neil, Red Parker and Don Foraker.

BULLDOG BOOSTERS 'KICK OFF' DRIVE

WITH THE '63 grid opener with Chillicothe eight days away, the South High School Boosters Club will "kick off" its annual Membership Drive, Saturday, Sept. 7 with students making a door-to-door campaign to collect Bulldog Boosters Membership dues are one dollar and the students will be around from 5 till 9 p.m. on Sept. 7. Proceeds help all phases of student life at South, not only athletics. Last year's drive helped purchase a new football scoreboard. Above, from left, are John Whitacre, Karen Nethercline and Mr. Whitacre of Whitacre Florists purchasing Booster Club membership cards from Roger Peer.

Pit Stops

Super-modified speed-pilot Bob Smith snared his third feature win of the season and Paul Parks, driving a '60 Ford in the late-model division, made it six features for the year and four-straight in Sunday night's races at the Columbus Motor Speedway.

This week the flying-stocks will be back. Friday night and Sunday evening the Williamsrd oval will hold the Labor Day Championship races for both the super-modifieds and the late-models, with a big championship feature in each category.

TIME TRIALS both nights will begin at 7 and the first race will start at 8 o'clock.

In the raceway's game of "Total," for the fans, there will be $560 in cash Friday night for those who can pick the first five, in order, in the stock feature.

On Saturday night, Sept. 7, the MARC new cars, 1961 through 1963 models, piloted by such stars as Jack Bowsher, Jim Cushman, Paul Parks, Ralph O'Day, Harold Smith, Dick Dunlevy, Mike Klapak, Iggy Katona, Dick Freeman and others from Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan and Illinois, will be at the Southside oval for a program, complete with a 100-lap championship feature.

LAST FRIDAY night Sonny Pencil of Urbana grabbed his second feature of the season. He beat out Don Gregory, Jim Woods, Whitey Dodson and L. T. Cornette.

South Hi Boosters Sponsor 'Opening Game' Bus Sept. 6

The South High Boosters Club has a plan to help Bulldog followers kick off the '63 football season in grand style.

The Booster Club has chartered a bus to Chillicothe on Friday, Sept. 6, to enable South supporters to follow their team to their grid opener.

THE BUS will have at 6 p.m. and all those wishing to make the trip can purchase tickets at the South High cafeteria or send $2.50 and a self-addressed envelope to: Mr. John Martin, 1320 Fairwood-av.

Mr. Martin, the vice president of the Boosters Club, reports that the $2.50 includes both bus and game ticket and invites all Bulldog supporters to help get South High's gridders off to a successful '63 campaign.

THE 'FEARLESS' ONE

STARTING NEXT week, the 'fearless' one will once again begin his weekly forecasts of future predictions on area high school football results. With a new crystal ball (which looks strangely like a football), the splendid swami determinedly declares he will better his 141-59-6 record of 1962.

Grid Previews Next Week

With the opening high school kickoff just better than one week away, you're probably wondering who's playing for your favorite eleven this fall and who's on that '63 schedule.

We'll have the answers to all your questions next week when the Hartley Newspapers' sports department presents, "High School Football Preview—1963" with all the news and the names who will make the news during the upcoming grid season.

Also on tap for the fall season is the return of the "Fearless Predicter" who has dusted off the old crystal ball for another try.

Look for "Football '63," next week in this newspaper!

What's Goin' On At The ~~Pool~~ ~~Hall~~ Billiard Parlor?

Ladies Bring Respectability, New Image To An Old Sport

I got the word the first time I ever talked with Max Friedman about "pool." ("We don't call it pool anymore, it's billiards.")

What Max was really saying was that the game with the 15 balls and six pockets has and is undertaking the biggest reformation since Professor Harold Hill paraded his 76 trombones through the streets of River City.

IN A WORD, respectability has come to the billiard parlor.

Max, who manages Buckeye Billiards at Sullivant and Demorest-avs on Columbus' Hilltop, has opened a new insight into the game.

Along with other billiard parlor operators all over the country, he is trying to erase the stigma of the old time pool hall by enticing the public with plush, family-type surroundings in his establishment.

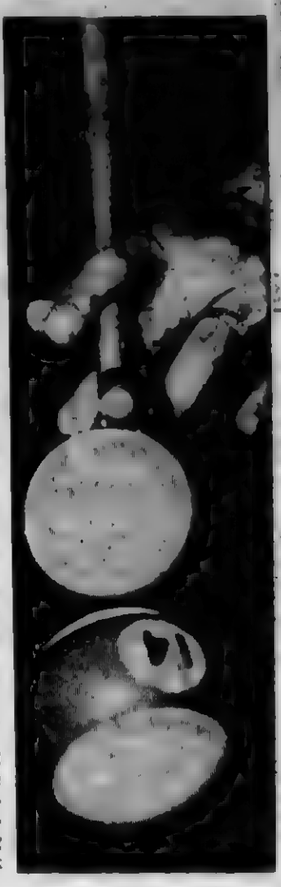
GONE IS the spittoon and smoke-filled parlors with the back room "hot wire" for the horserace gamblers. In its place are lines of attractive tables resting on wall-to-wall carpeting.

The billiard parlor's new face is not exactly a unique approach. The sport of bowling made the same transition, exchanging its unsavory "alleys" for ultra-modern, air-conditioned luxury "lanes."

Today bowling is the greatest participation sport in the country and the invasion of the gentle sex has largely made it so.

Bowling lanes themselves, like Lincoln Village Lanes where some of the pictures on this page were taken, have hopped on the bandwagon and installed billiard tables in line with the policy of giving the public exactly what it wants.

LIKEWISE, BILLIARDS' attempt to woo the female is guided by the same hope which nurtured pin-spilling. Make the game suitable for the lady and then sit back and count the profits.



All over the country, women have fallen in love with the game. The reason is simple enough. It's cheap, it's competitive and it's less demanding than other sporting outlets for the housewife who has a busy home schedule.

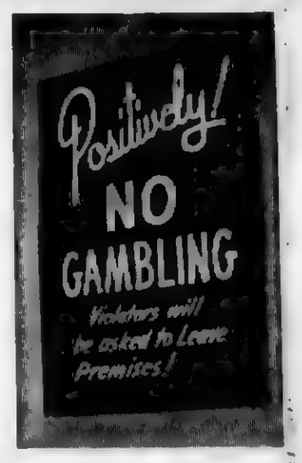
And the kids are no problem. Many billiard parlors have TV sets or playroom facilities to keep the small-fry entertained while Mom pockets a two-railer.

INSTRUCTIONS are provided for beginners, and managers are encouraging the formation of leagues along the same lines as those at the bowling lanes.

It's hard to tell where the gals will pop up next. First it was the golf course, then the bowling lane, and now the billiard parlor.

But the fellows don't seem to mind having the little lady along for a little competition and business hasn't been better. So, if you're thinking this new "invasion" by the female is just a passing fancy, better guess again. The gals look like they're here to stay.

TAKING A BREAK from their daily chores as housewives, these four women (above) find the quiet and comfort of the billiard parlor an ideal mid-day setting for "getting away from it all" for awhile. From left to right are: Mickey Schoenbaum, 2808 Fair-av; Mrs. Paul Callif, 28 S. Roosevelt-av; Mrs. Sherwood Walker, 672 Kellner-rd, and Mrs. Sidney Levoff, 2653 Fair-av. Instruction is important to the beginner. Billiard parlor managers like Max Friedman (below) demonstrating the proper cue grip to Mrs. Levoff, provide the know-how for the ladies, who seem to learn quickly and try harder to improve than men.



LADIES' AID? — The old billiard crutch isn't as popular as it might have been in the past. The gals, who go all out to sink that tough shot, take every possible advantage to get a good line on the ball as Vickie Plow, 2307 Norton-rd demonstrates at the right. The rule is to keep one foot on the floor but as has always been the case, the ladies are sometimes allowed certain concessions.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES —Gambling and all other unsavory aspects of the old time pool hall have disappeared forever in the "new-look" billiard parlors. Management gets the word across in no uncertain terms as picture at right points out. Equipment is also a part of the game of billiards. High heels are fine evening dress but they aren't much help at the billiard parlor. Heels and purses are exchanged for flats and cue-stick when my lady steps up to shoot.

Story By Jack Wittenmeier

It Went In . . . So Near, Yet So Far . . . Concentration

CLOSE-UP VIEW — Little Sue Callif gets close-up if not unobstructed view of mother's shot for eight-ball in game of rotation. The problem of what to do with the children has been licked by many billiard parlor proprietors with the introduction of TV for the kids. Others have converted storage space into playrooms which keep children happily occupied while mother concentrates on difficult job of sinking tough bank shot.

EXPRESSIONS ARE a big part of any sport and billiards is no exception. At the left, Mrs. Walker registers surprise as her shot drops smuggly into the corner pocket. Jill Pfeifer, 5311 Sullivant-av, tries a little facial "English" as she watches a narrow miss in the center photo. At right, Marie Reeder, 354 Bliss-blvd, is a picture of concentration as she readies another shot. Notice the feminine touch with the two-fingered grip on the cue stick in the background.

The council candidate expressed the idea that these residents in the southeast, as taxpayers, are getting short-changed when their repeated pleas to city hall go unheeded.

The residents of the area in question have been seeking influential support for their demands. A candidate, until he is elected, doesn't pull too much weight.

The residents, however, seem to at least have found a sounding board for their demands.

disturbed his stance for some time, he probably could now again be shown, but Mrs. Bowen is content to let him lead the life of Riley.

He undoubtedly would agree with her decision. It's not too bad with a master who happens to be in the wholesale meat business, and a mistress who allows him to sleep wherever he pleases, including her bed.

Were Woodrow - av and Southwood-av named for men, or for the fact that woods once stood on the site of the streets? How did Markison, Welch and Frebis get their names? Where did Col. Jaeger build his home on S. High-st? When did the greatest influx of Hungarians, Serbs and Crovations take place?

These and countless other questions keep popping up to plague this writer as she digs into the early history of Columbus' South Side.

Still other posers for this amateur historian: who were the original inhabitants of the stately homes facing Schiller Park? Where did Curtis LeMay live while on Welch-av?

Thanks to the gracious permission of Miss De Witt of the Columbus Public Library, we have been able to do much research on the subject and have learned much about the earliest days of the area south of Broad-st.

Although we've learned a lot about this section, from 1802 on, we're sure that interesting events took place in still-standing buildings and houses that long-time residents know about, but of which we are ignorant. That's where we hope the readers will help to fill the gap, so to speak.

We've had our friends engaged in a novel pastime this summer, called "Dig up the abstract." For those who do likewise, they'll probably discover their home is in the Refugee Tract. This land was set aside for Canadians and Nova Scotians who helped the fledgling colonies against Britain during the Revolutionary War and thereby become refugees from their homeland.

A rough placment of this long, thin strip finds it starting at the Scioto River and extending almost to Zanesville. The northern boundary is Columbus' Fifth-av, the southern boundary not quite to Frank-rd. The Congress Lands adjoin the southern boundary and continue to the Ohio River.

Also, many home owners will probably discover that their land was originally owned by the Merion family, pioneer South Siders who owned from 1,800 to 2,000 acres, sizeable even for those days. Perhaps the reader wonders what will be done with this historical data. As program chairman for the South Side 'Y' Mother's Club, we thought it would furnish an unusual program just a mite different from the ordinary type of meeting. There's such a wealth of early-days material that some of it could be used in this media, also.

So dear reader, if you believe you have an item that could be incorporated in our sit-down tour, drop us a postal card, with "South Side History" on it, your name, address and phone number. We'll call you as quickly as possible. Our address is 1411 S. Sixth-st, Columbus, 43207.

LOOKING THROUGH the woods down on the site of the proposed lake is Larry Hines, who is coordinating the project for the participating land owners. Hines is working on his doctorate at Ohio State in the Department of Rural Sociology where he is doing research in outdoor recreation. The woodland bordering the lake will become a picnic area.

NEW WATER RESORT AREA PLANNED FOR ASHVILLE

A pilot program of the U.S. Department of Agriculture to permanently divert crop land to recreation area promises to give the Southeast a 130-acre lake.

Planned for diversified family recreation, the Teays Lake project will be zoned for such water activities as swimming, boating, fishing and water skiing and acrobatics, as well as camping and picnicing.

With the help of coordinator Larry Hines, seven landowners with property 20 miles south of Columbus and five miles northeast of Ashville have contributed acreage to the private venture to be started next year.

Part of the federal government's overall plan to reduce surplus crops, the new park area is planned as an ultra-modern outdoor resort with an international theme, Hines explained.

Aware of the brand-new government aid available, the group applied for approval of the site and received the green light late this spring.

Though the corporation that will be formed will sell memberships to families and eventually lots for private cottages, there will also be a shelter house and picnic area available by reservation to non-members.

Part of one of the farms around the park area will be open for the pleasure of the children unaccustomed to rural life, and an educational exhibition from all over the world will be on display.

Under the federal grant which will partially finance the new recreation area, the Department of Agriculture will contribute all technical assistance, engineering and planning. The government will also make an "adjustment payment" to the land owners to compensate for the period when the land will be idle and non-productive. (Hines pointed out that it is anticipated that it will take the lake about a year and a half to fill from surface runoff water.) Finally, a share of the actual construction is assumed by the government.

Hoping to draw memberships from Grove City, Columbus suburbs and Circleville, the owners predict the facility will be open in the spring of 1966.

Anyone interested in family membership may contact Hines, Rt. 2, Ashville, for further information prior to being placed on a preferential list.

Jackpot Reaches $187; Money Contest To Close

With $187 in the jackpot the Hartley Newspapers Confederate Money Contest is drawing to a close.

No new money will be added to the jackpot after this week. In the meantime, some lucky subscriber to one of the Hartley Newspapers could win the entire amount of $187 if his copy of this week's paper contains the special stamp showing the $5 Confederate Money emblem.

It looks exactly like the one printed in this column on one of the inside pages in one of the display ads.

If your paper contains this emblem in special color bring the entire paper to Hartley Newspapers office, 2465 W. Broad-st. in person before noon next Monday. To win the entire jackpot the reader must be a paid subscriber to one of the Hartley Newspapers. If not, the "5" can be turned in for $5 in Confederate cash which can be spent with any place of business advertising in one of the Hartley Newspapers this week.

If the jackpot is not claimed this week further announcements will be carried in next week's paper.

The far-flung readership of Hartley Newspapers was brought to light this week in a letter received from Gary Shively, son of Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Shively, 3584 Smiley-rd, and enclosing a section of July 3rd paper containing a $1 Confederate stamp which entitles him to one Confederate dollar. Gary is with the Air Force near Madrid, Spain.

Optimist Physicals Saturday

All boys interested in playing in the Football Program—whether they be registered or not—should be at the American Legion Hall, 77 S. Franklin-st. at 2 p.m. Saturday to receive their physicals.

Boys not signed up can do so at this time or by contacting Jim Daniel, 554 Scioto-Darby-rd. (TR 6-4501) or Glenn Brockmeyer, 150 Linda-rd. (TR 6-7592).

Eighth graders are asked to follow through until it can be decided if they can be worked into the program. If they cannot, they will be notified and the registration fee will be returned. The program is open to boys in the Scioto-Darby School District.

The coaches will call all boys to the first practice, although some boys will be asked to go through a screening process to determine in which league they are qualified to play.

Beulah Park Opens Sept. 7, Special Features Planned

Many special features will mark the 19-day fall race meeting at Beulah Park, starting Saturday, Sept. 7 and running through Saturday, Sept. 28.

As usual the highlight of the autumn season will be the running of the $10,000 added Ohio Championship at a mile and a sixteenth. The race is set for Saturday, Sept. 21 and it will be the nineteenth running.

DURING THE final week of the meet, there will be two other specials to attract the fans. First running of the Beulah Kindergarten Handicap for two-year-olds is scheduled Wednesday, Sept. 25 with a purse of $3,000 hung out for the first year performers who will go five and a half furlongs.

Finally, on the last day of the meeting, the second running of the Beulah Park Special will be staged at a mile and a sixteenth and with a $4,000 purse established.

The Special is limited to horses which have started twice at the meet for a claiming price of $1,500, and thus it offers a rich opportunity for the ordinary plater who is the background of the sport.

President Robert Y. Dienst has set 2:15 as the daily post time except on Fridays when the first race will go at 3 o'clock.

Quarter horse races on Fridays, will be held at 2:15 prior to the regular program.

Do You Know Your Sports?

(Last in a series)

One of the few uniquely American sports is the game of volleyball, enjoyed today by more than 20 million people, both men and women, in this country.

The game, number one conditioning sport for American businessmen, was originated in 1895 by a YMCA physical education director in Holyoke, Mass. for men of middle ages and over.

IT'S POPULARITY increased until today when it is listed as an entry in the Pan American Games with Olympic recognition just around the corner.

The game, played with two opposing teams of six players or less, has a reputation for being slow and sowewhat dull.

Volleyball, however, which demands quick starts and stops, jumping and twisting, can be played as fast as the competitors wish to make the game.

THE SKILL IN the game involves well-placed serving ponents with teamwork all-important for victory.

Strictly an aerial game, points are scored when the ball is served over a net and hits the floor inbounds or after the defensive team fails to return the ball over the net in no more than three attempts by striking the sphere with palm or fist.

Points can be scored only by the serving or offensive team. When the serving team fails to return an exchange, its serve is forfeited. A game is won when one team scores 15 points but the winning margin must always be two points.

VOLLEYBALL COURTS, which can be constructed both inside and out, run 30 by 60 feet, halved by a net three feet deep with the top of the net eight feet of the floor.

Inflated rubber or leather balls, 26-27 inches in diameter and weighing 9-10 ounces, range in price from two to 20 dollars. Nets, stakes and poles cost from five to 60 dollars.

The U.S. Volleyball Association is located at 301 E. Martin-st, San Antonio, Tex.

George M. Cohan, 64, Broadway song and dance man, died of cancer Nov. 5, 1942.

'Touch Of Indianapolis' Set For State Fair Track, Sept.2

Local racing fans who have always had the urge to visit Indianapolis Speedway and see the fast Memorial Day "500" will get to see a modified version at this year's 110-th Ohio State Fair.

Scheduled for tops in racing thrills on Labor Day, the 50 mile "Buckeye State 100" Championship Race will see several Indianapolis "500" veterans traveling at a two-mile-per-minute clip to take home the trophy and a share of the $5,000 prize money.

A SPECIALLY - PREPARED surface on the track in front of the grandstand will remain virtually "dust-free" throughout the 100-lap grind.

Special equipment will gently disc, grade and bank the entire track surface. Then a liberal flow of calcium chloride will be worked in to this loosened top surface, assuring State Fair management of a dust-free race.

Time trials for qualifying heats will be run at 10:30 a.m. with the championship race getting underway at 4:30 p.m. Early entries include a host of speedway veterans, indicating that the State Fair's first "Buckeye State 100" race will be hotly contested from start to finish.

WOULD GO WITH FOUR TEAMS

Suburban Fixes Schedule, Installs Officers Tuesday

The four members of the South Suburban League officially ratified the loop's constitution Monday night at Franklin Heights High School and thus committed themselves in writing to the new league.

Installation of new officers and the scheduling of games for the '64-'65 seasons will be the tangible points of new business for the loop's next meeting, set for Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. at Franklin Heights.

THE LEAGUE, composed of charter members Hamilton Township, Teays Valley, Pleasant View and Franklin Heights, will go ahead with only a four-team setup if necessary although a six or eight team loop is desired.

The future success of the loop could possibly hinge on the reaction of a number of schools which are being contacted this week.

If definite commitments are not made by next Tuesday evening, a league spokesman admitted that scheduling could become difficult.

FRANKLIN HEIGHTS' Bill Rogers will be installed as the loop's first president Tuesday. Hamilton Township's Don Vansant will serve as vice-president.

Tickets On Sale For Agonis Fete Planned Sept. 18

The Agonis Club's annual kickoff dinner for the OSU football team will be held at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 18, at the Grandview Inn. It will be the only public appearance of the entire 1963 Ohio State Football team and coaching staff.

As he has done in the past, coach Woody Hayes will introduce his probable starting line-up for the Sept. 28 opener against Texas A & M in Ohio Stadium.

THE BUCKS will be in their third week of fall practice when they gather at the Grandview Inn so Hayes should have a pretty good idea by that time who will comprise the nos. one and two units.

Lenny Dee, one of the nation's most accomplished organists, will share feature billing on the program and provide the musical entertainment immediately following the dinner hour festivities.

The annual kickoff dinner was a complete sell-out last year so the general public is advised to get their tickets early. The $3.00 tickets are on sale at Dunhill's and Richman Bros. Central Ticket Office downtown, the Gloria Restaurant 2195 Riverside-dr, and Carl's Knotty Pine, 1765 W. Third-av in Grandview.

Francis "Moose" Machinsky, outstanding tackle on Ohio State's 1954 national championship team, and longtime Agonian Bernie Hodapp are co-chairmen of the '63 kickoff dinner.

OPEN ALL DAY LABOR DAY

Bless Those Salt Mines!

Labor Day can hardly be termed a day of rest from labor. It is, for most of us, a day away from labor by which we earn our daily bread. But a day of rest? Hardly!

Labor Day is double-header baseball games, the last "official" family picnic and the trip back from "grandma's" house. It is the end of a long, exhausting but enjoyable weekend.

Labor Day represents the final "big day" of the season for the amusement parks and resort areas. It is the last fling before the trek back to school, and the beginning of the end for a summer that has been very easy to take.

Labor Day—for those directly concerned with the laboring man, the union movement and the national economy — will show a serious, somber face. Brave words on both sides of the labor-management issue will again far outweigh courageous deeds.

And, sad but true, it is safe to predict that the Labor Day weekend will be a very unsafe time on the nation's highways. Despite warnings and pleadings, hundreds of Americans will have marked their last holiday on earth.

But for most of us, the day after Labor Day will be one of the most welcome days of the year. We can get back to our jobs and begin to recuperate from doing too much of what we thought would be relaxing.

AMF Off Key

Representatives of the American Federation of Musicians have aptly demonstrated that there is such a thing as "legal shakedown." They have forced Ohio State Fair management's agreement to a $3,403 contract whereby musicians will NOT play at an event where they are neither needed nor wanted.

Operators of the annual horseshow at the State Fair have switched from an orchestra to an organist for background music. Orchestras, they say, frighten the animals, while organ music has a soothing effect.

When informed of the change, the union representatives hit back—low and hard. Their edict, in effect, was this: "If you don't sign a contract for the horseshow, we won't furnish musicians for the nightly grandstand show." The fair management had little choice but to capitulate.

As a result, 11 musicians will attend each performance of the horseshow. They will not work. But they will be paid.

We commend to the attention of the musicians' union representatives two appropriate quotations. Grover Cleveland said: "A truly American sentiment recognizes the dignity of labor and the fact that honor lies in honest toil."

"Honest labor," said Thomas Dekker, "bears a lovely face."

But a shakedown (legal or otherwise) is ugly and "a truly American sentiment" will surely recognize this non-musical performance as a flagrant abuse of responsibility and trust.

Labor Day: When Working Is Fun

Frosting On The Cake

By "UNCLE DOC" ROBB — U.S.A.

With nearly 70 millions of steadily employed workers and our approaching a gross NP of 500 billions, it's about time for many of the constant crabbers to change their tune.

Thirty years have gone by since we started to dig ourselves out of the "great depression," which was worldwide and not the fault of Herbert Hoover, as then so loudly proclaimed by the un-thinking.

If the late and great Al Smith had been elected in 1928, he too would have been unhorsed by this cyclonic and devastating "psychological tailspin" that ended an era of 100 years of orthodox expansion and development of the only free people in the history of the world.

This "hectic interlude" has lasted longer than anyone was willing to believe. More people got hurt more terribly for a longer period than ever before in our entire national existence as a free people.

Then a generic morale boost became a glimmer on the horizon of despair. No other people ever behaved as marvelously as our masses behaved in those years. There were only two food riots and millions of families got together and ganged up on all the trouble, doing the best they could with what they had left.

It is to their everlasting credit that all genuine Americans—regardless of color, class, creed or race—rode out the terrible strains day by day and we survived as a free people while the rest of the world really sank into anarchy and panic.

You just can't keep the American people down forever. It is time for work to become important and private enterprise be allowed to make some money and keep more and more of it for the real "common good." If our persistent professional Socialist hell-raisers don't like the American Way of Life, why don't they go to Russia or China and make a security bargain with slavery? You don't see anyone getting "crushed in the rush" for the boat, do you?

Sees Little Public Support For Wilson-rd Extension

To The Editor:

At a city council meeting July 29, the Holly Hill Civic Association requested the defeat of the proposal to extend Wilson-rd from Broad-st to Sullivant-av for traffic reasons. Other immediate property owners likewise opposed this extension for an excellent reason, the "quick-take" legislation for land acquisition. All points were well taken and council refused to pass these proposals.

It seemed that although many good points were brought out as to why a road should "not" be so constructed, there were no apparent reasons "for" such a move.

On the surface, it would appear that a road from Sullivant to Broad at Wilson would be ideal to alleviate the burden of traffic on such side streets as Demorest, Wicklow and Southampton. It would look like an ideal easy access to our own area for a straight shot to the Great Western Shopping Center.

It is the personal desires of just a few to ultimately link Wilson-rd with Alkire-rd. This point alone would lead you to believe that a master plan is in the offing, but this only looks good on paper. Secondly, you have two schools which someday will serve Holly Hill and Georgian Heights and probably part or all of the Westgate Manor Apartments. Where would this road be constructed—right in the school yards between the areas served and the schools!

The extension would run through the most populated area on the Hilltop.

There is no public support to amount to anything for such a road. Only a select few and possibly some heavy industries which would have a shortcut truck access to southern routes and, of course, the shopping center which will have even greater competition with the advent of two more large discount centers on Broad-st, west of Georgesville-rd.

We understand that already the city has paid several thousand dollars for a survey for the first leg of this road, which in itself is a waste and only a token of what will have to be spent from all the funding authorities, city, county and federal.

We would be the last to ever stand in the way of progress, but it is obvious that progress is not being made or even attempted in this misconceived nightmare of concrete strips which is trying to be shoved down the public's throat as a "planned program."

We feel that great foresight was shown by the city council in turning down this ignominious plan. We are sure that support can be gained by those who will be the recipients of this highly impractical super highway. We feel it necessary for the safety and welfare of our children to enlighten officials at all levels of government and the public of the hazards which will confront us if we stand idly by and let such a demon be born.

Defends 'Rights' March

To the Editor and the Citizens of Columbus:

August may well be the month that the nation may some day look back upon as the time when responsible individuals recognized the urgency and necessity that promoted the most unique demonstration of the human spirit this nation has ever known. When the American Negro begins his walk to the Capitol this Aug. 28, he should be carrying with him every American's hope.

He will be a living symbol of the historic struggle of mankind. Since man first came out of the caves of ignorance into the light of reason and understanding he has had to be forever on guard to better himself and his community lest he should fall prey to those near him who stood ready to deprive him of his God-given rights.

The time is here when we must — individually — take a stand. We must respect all men's opinions and beliefs as do the foundations of this country—so I am just asking you to declare yours. I am hopeful that you will write to your senators and representatives urging them to support strong Civil Rights legislation.

Civil Rights today is not just a term — it is a must. The future of our community, as well as the future of this nation depends upon the attitude the American people take toward this noble cause.

We in this community must begin immediately to prove to all our citizens that this nation will no longer tolerate the disgraceful attitude that a portion of our citizens are subjected to daily. I am sending this letter to you with the sincere hope that you will join with me in promoting the dignity of the human soul.

Guest Pulpit . . Home Should Be Center Of Loyalty, Service

Ephesians 2:1-4: For he is our peace, who has made us both one, and has broken down the dividing wall of hostility.

We are a people alienated from God and separated from each other. This can be portrayed most vividly in our family situations. If we could look honestly at ourselves we would see that we do not really listen, understand, or accept our husband's wife's, children's points of view. Rather we impose our own upon them.

Robert Parr

When we use the home as just a place to eat and sleep it becomes like a cold hotel. When all that is talked about or thought about by the head of the house is "Where can I get that extra dollar" the home becomes like a business concern. The children get to know an executive rather than a father. Mothers and fathers no longer take time or responsibility to educate their children.

When there is no time given to recreation within the family, the recreation goes on, even though undirected. In school the children are told to read good books that will expand their horizons—will let them grow intellectually. When they come home all they can find to read is a comic book or a sex magazine.

In Sunday School the children are told that they should read the Bible and have daily devotions. But when they get home everyone is too busy in the long day to take five or ten minutes to enrich their spiritual growth. We find that we are alienated from each other in our families. Do we really make recreation, music, literature, or church a part of our family life?

As a parent you go to the edge of the swimming pool, sit in an easy chair and say "Go on!" When we expand this principle to every other area of our life, it is no wonder that so many children fail to realize the wonder and beauty of great music, great art, great literature, and especially of great faith. Too many of us are sitting at the edge of the pool saying "Go on!" instead of getting into the water and saying "Come on."

God has made marriage and the family and the home the center of society. As we read the Ten Commandments we note that the middle commandent deals with the home. Numbers one to four are related to loyalty to God. Commandment five deals with the home, while numbers six to 10 relate to service to our neighbors.

Thus we find even in the comandments that the home is the center of our loyalty to God and service to our neighbors. Theology and ethics are brought together in the home or not at all.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

Negro Student Capacity Vital Question

Do Negro students, on the average, turn in a lower academic performance than white students because of inherent differences in capacity?

Or can this be blamed on poor environment and social deprivation brought about by white bigotry and intolerance?

These are bald and brutal questions. But perhaps the welfare of both white and Negro children in America demands that we have the honesty and the courage to find the answers.

Jones

A few weeks ago Federal District Judge Frank M. Scarlett turned down an injunction suit brought by parents of a Negro child to force the integration of schools in Savannah, Ga. In his opinion the judge cited the testimony of various witnesses.

First was Dr. R. T. Osborne, professor of psychology and director of the Student Guidance Center at the University of Georgia. He said that the city of Savannah since 1954 has been giving the California Achievement Battery and California Mental Maturity Test to all students in the sixth, eighth, tenth and twelfth grades. The first tests reading comprehension, vocabulary and mathematic reasoning. The second is an I.Q. test, i.e., correlation between mental and chronological age.

In reading, according to Dr. Osborne, Negro students averaged two years behind white students at the sixth-grade level and dropped to three years difference at the 12th grade. In arithmetic at the 12th grade the average white pupil in Savannah was working just above 11th grade national norm, but Negro pupils were at the 8th grade level. In I.Q. at the 10th grade white children tested an average of 103 and colored children 81.

Similar test results all over the nation are generally conceded even by the strongest advocates of integration. But, they point out, reading comprehension, ability to handle numbers, and even I.Q. itself are affected by home environment. The child brought up in surroundings where dinner table conversation is puerile, where vocabulary is sparse, where there are no books, etc. is not likely to be as stimulated mentally as a child raised under greater sophistication.

But another witness in the Savannah case doubted if environment could make as much difference as the tests showed. Dr. Henry E. Garrett, emeritus professor of psychology at Columbia University, asserted that the spread shown in the Savannah tests is equaled in the North. He claimed that "the differences are greater than can be spanned in a single class" and that it would be necessary either to drop the level of achievement to a point where education would be ruined for the average white child, or to raise it to a point where the average colored child would be frustrated and left far behind.

Dr. Ernest van den Haag, professor of Social Philosophy at New York University, tackled the theory that integration will diminish race tensions and race consciousness among children. He said:

"Studies made of actual intermixing of groups in classrooms confirm the predicted result that an increase in cross-group contacts increases pre-existing racial hostility rather than ameliorates it. This group tension is greatest where obvious group identity criteria exist, such as physical appearance or variations in learning rate. Such groupings prevent a class having a natural homogeneity, multiply disciplinary problems, and decrease attention to study."

But what about the superior Negro youngster, the one who may rank well above the white average? If you assume that the pace in all-Negro schools will be slow isn't it unjust to subject any superior child, white or black, to such environment?

Not so, said Dr. van den Haag. In a Negro school the superior Negro becomes a leader in a group with which he will always be identified. Put into an overwhelming white school this identity is lost and the faster achievement pace will diminish his own accomplishments. Worse yet will be the effect on slower Negro children in their own schools. Not only will they be deprived of their ablest classmates, but the sense of inferiority will be heightened by the fact that only the smartest can move in with the whites.

Now it must be noted that Judge Scarlett is a Southerner, that several of his expert witnesses were Southerners, that, however honest and sincere their testimony, they may have unconsciously tried to rationalize deep-seated prejudice. The integrationists can also muster distinguished expert testimony to the effect that there are no inherent differences between the races.

But we had better learn the truth quickly, because the truth will soon be apparent for all to see. It will not be changed or covered up by orthodoxy on either side, by the smug assumption that the Negro never can achieve equal performance, or by the emotional rebuttal that to even entertain the suspicion of inherent differences is to plead guilty to bias and anti-Christian thinking.

Significant tests can be made — tests comparing Negro and white children of equal economic status in areas where segregation has never been practiced.

If it can be proven that differences vanish, the American white man has a lot of atoning to do. If differences won't, we may be on the way to the ruination of many school systems — a tragedy to children of both races and a source of steadily increasing hatred.

We'll never gain anything by mulishly claiming that what isn't so is so.

UP IN THE AIR

The traffic plane project in Columbus is a joint effort by individuals and organizations to serve the public in trying to help sovle acute traffic problems.

The plane, a Helio Courier, is taken up during morning and evening rush hours by one of three pilots employed by its private owner. It is based at Don Scott Field. In about an hour the 85-mile flight covers all parts of the city at 1200 to 1500 feet altitude. Sometimes guests are invited, and this observer was happy to be one on a recent morning flight with Officer Don Gallagan and Pilot Ronald Wright.

One of three regularly assigned police officers is always aboard. They are veterans in traffic work. Their primary job is to observe traffic conditions and to report to police headquarters. Also, every few minutes, they are switched over to WBNS radio for broadcast to the public.

The officers are Sergeant Frank Peterfy of the Traffic Bureau; and from the Public Information Office, Don Gallagan and Steve McDonald.

The program is underwritten by private commercial interests, including a casualty insurance company and a food store chain.

Those people know what they are doing and do it well. No one will ever know how many vexed motorists are saving time and tension by heeding what they hear from the traffic plane.

It says here . . .

Knowledge sometimes saves trouble.

New Columbus Insurance Co. To Open Offices

A new fire and casualty company, licensed by the Ohio Department of Insurance last week, has selected Columbus as the site of its home office and will begin operations around Nov. 1.

E. F. Landthorn, executive president of the Automobile Club Insurance Co., Columbus, was elected president of the newly formed Save-T-Risk Insurance Company at a meeting of shareholders held this month in Columbus.

Under the charter granted by the Secretary of State, the company, officials said, has broad fire and casualty powers. For the present time, however, it will concentrate on full coverage automobile policies.

The company will specialize in issuing low cost merit-rated automobile policies by direct mail to Ohio residents with good driving records. Landthorn said, "The purpose of our company is to provide quality insurance to responsible policyholders at minimum cost by utilizing modern merchandising methods and permitting the motorist to save through safety." Home offices will be located at 3181 W. Broad-st.

Seek Cause Of Saturday Trash Fires

The Columbus Fire Prevention Bureau is investigating to determine the cause of two Saturday afternoon trash fires which occurred about three hours apart at the rear of two Parsons-av stores.

A 2.29 p.m. blaze behind Hoermle's Appliances, 1894 Parsons-av, damaged the side of the store and ignited the attic before firemen extinguished the trash fire.

A second fire, behind Moore's, 1880 Parsons-av, was out when firemen arrived on the scene shortl yafter 5:30 p.m.

Captain Donald Werner of the Fire Prevention Bureau said investigators are checking the possibility that the blazes were started by children playing with matches. Employes at Hoermle's had reported seeing children in the area when the fire was discovered.

Battling Brothers Prison Bound

Eight months in the city workhouse and fines totaling $275 were set Thursday in the case of two brothers involved in a traffic accident and scuffle with police officers.

Ronald B. Hatfield, 23, of 659 S. Fifth-av, and his brother, Douglas, 21, were both found guilty of charges coming from the fight and auto accident.

Police said a car driven by Ronald struck a car driven by Rev. Silas Church, of 875 Lock-av, near the intersection of Parsons-av and Oak-st Wednesday, Aug. 21.

After the collision police said Hatfield tried to leave the scene and struck a parked truck. Rev. Church then forced the Hatfield auto into a driveway.

Rev. Church said the brothers attacked him when he said he was going to summon the police. While being taken to prison the brothers assaulted police office Billy Keys in the rear of an ambulance cruiser, according to the police.

Traffic Death Manslaughter Charge Filed

A traffic manslaughter charge has been filed by Columbus police against S. Sgt. Richard Waldron, 28, 4129 Abby-ct, as the result of an Aug. 20 fatal traffic crash on Hamilton-rd north of Refugee-rd. Waldron is assigned to the 301st Organizational Maintenance Squadron at Lockbourne Air Force Base.

Killed in the crash was Fritz Ickert, 49, Mt. Vernon, a passenger in the second car involved in the accident. He died of head injuries.

Police report that the accident occurred when Waldron pulled out of the north bound traffic lane to pass another car and crashed head-on into a car driven by Leo Van Rhoden, 54, Mt. Vernon. Ickert was a passenger in the Van Rhoden car.

Waldron, Van Rhoden and Vernon Gray, 46, Mt. Vernon, all remain in Columbus hospitals with injuries sustained in the accident.

Waldron is listed in "satisfactory" condition at St. Anthony Hospital with fractured ribs, chest injuries and a fractured left arm. Hospital attendants at Doctors Hospital report that Gray is in "bad" condition, suffering from head injuries. Van Rhoden is reported in satisfactory condition at Riverside Hospital. Moling & Associates Offers Security Guard Service

Moling & Associates, Inc., 2427 E. Main-st, was formed to give the best possible investigation and security guard service to all types of business.

Most people think that the security guard's only job is to keep persons from stealing merchandise. This is only part of his job and as Richard Moling, president and general manager of the firm points out, most of his guards are responsible for looking after machines, making bank runs, and keeping a constant check on the plant and store fire system. Many people's lives depend on the responsibility of the security guard and he should know how to handle any emergency which might arise.

Moling & Associates is one of the largest investigation and guard services in the country. Moling, with a staff of about 100, has broken the organization into two districts—Northern and Southern Ohio—and has recently moved guards into Indiana.

Some other services offered by Moling are lie-detector tests, finger-print service, photography (still and movie), and trained investigators for every need.

Moling also said that his firm is insured and bonded, has international affiliations, and is never closed. The firm is a member of the Ohio Association of Private Detective Agencies, and a member of the Associated American Detective Agencies.

Atlas Moving Reports Increase In Business

Atlas Van Lines, Inc., today reported a 16.5 per cent increase in revenue from long distance shipments of household goods during the quarter ending June 30.

William Earl Moore, chairman of the board of United Moving and Storage, Inc., 345 E. Fifth-av, said the 16.5 per cent jump in revenue — $2,667,316 from $2,290,415 in the same quarter of 1962 — is only the beginning of what has been billed as a record summer in the moving business.

"In view of the bright business outlook, there is every reason to believe that expectations of a bigger-than-ever summer bulge in the moving business will hold true," said Moore.

Nearly 500 local moving firms are affiliated with Atlas and make their long distance shipments under Atlas' interstate authorities.

Medick Ford Appoints New Vice-President

C. W. Medick, president of the L. E. and C. W. Medick Co., announced the appointment of George Krieger as general manager and executive vice-president of the Medick Ford, 2691 N. High-st.

Krieger, a former FBI agent, is also president of Krieger Lincoln-Mercury. He is a past president of the Columbus Automobile Dealers Association and is also a member of the Ohio and National Automobile Dealers Associations, Chamber of Commerce, Columbus 100 Club and the American Marketing Association. Krieger is a graduate of Ohio State University.

Krieger was also named a winner in the Ford Motor Company contest for high sales performance on new Ford cars and trucks during a 60-day period. He and his wife will travel to Hawaii for a week's vacation with all expenses paid. The couple leaves Aug. 25.

GEORGE KRIEGER

Two-For-One Admission At Ohio State Fair, Sept. 2

Sept. 2, Labor Day, has been set aside as "Labor and Industry Day" at the 110th Ohio State Fair. Governor James A. Rhodes recently signed the proclamation and stated that "all families shall be admitted at the rate of two persons for one admission ticket."

The governor voiced his belief that every Ohioan owes it to himself and his family to visit the State Fair at least once, and preferably several times. In addition, the Buckeye State should pay a special tribute to labor and industry, over and above the national observance of Labor Day.

Fair-goers will be able to see a complete fair on Labor Day this year. Families visiting the exposition's center on the last day of the fair will see virtually the same areas of interest as they did on the opening day.

17-Year-Old Will Be Tried As Adult

A 17-year-old Columbus youth will have to stand trial as an adult for stealing a car late last month according to Juvenile Court Judge John Hill.

He said James Donaldson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Donaldson, 601 Seymour-av, will have to undergo a psychological examination before his case is presented to the grand jury. He added the action is being taken because "juvenile authorities have done as much as they can with the youth."

Donaldson was shot in the chest by a police officer when he fled from the stolen auto. He has denied being involved in the theft according to police.

Escapees Sought For Robbery

Police are searching for two escapees from an Alabama Prison Road gang in connection with a $2,000 robbery of the Modern Finance Co. office at 535 E. Whittier-st.

The pair were identified as James Glover and James Phillips both 30 years old.

It was learned the two men had gone to a home on Wagner-st and been driven by the couple who lived there to an east side location. The couple claimed they did not know the men had just committed a robbery.

C-W Preens For Parade

Someone should have put the people down in Canal Winchester wise.

They're residents of a sleepy little village that hasn't changed much since the days of the old Erie Canal and shouldn't get any ideas of grandeur.

But no one did, and evidently they just didn't know any better.

So, do you know what they've done?

They get together and have put together a Labor Day celebration that would make the efforts of many a city a hundred times Canal's size look sick.

They haven't left out a single ingredient of what it takes to make a big, loud, colorful and spectacular festival. Queens and barbecues, dances and baseball games, history on parade and music on the march — take your choice—they are all yours.

They've really shot the works, and for miles around Monday the people will roll into town.

When the aerial bomb whistles through the air at 2 p.m. sharp, Guy Bigum, town marshal, will lead off the parade, followed closely by the American Legion color guard and the Mount Vernon Civil War Drum and Fife Corps.

As the 87th Fighter Interceptor Squadron shrieks through the skies, the nationally acclaimed drill team from Lockbourne AFB and a Marine Corps unit will parade.

The streets will be filled with a mile of floats alone, bands and drum corps and a gleaming display of more than 50 antique cars.

Competing for spectators' attention with the almost professional clowns of the Columbus Shrine will be four local business men who "have really let their hair down." There are, understandably, no plans to reveal their identity.

According to usually reliable informants, the local Lions Club will have to be seen to be believed, and other equally uninhibited groups, both local and imported, such the the Bexley Hillbillies, will be at their best.

The three queens, Little Miss, Junior Miss and Miss Canal Winchester, will be chosen at the pool Sunday afternoon and wear their crowns Monday.

From noon on the school grounds will be the site of the Booster-sponsored concession stands with the odor of barbecued chicken, beef and pork filling the air.

After the parade is over, putt-putt, the Little Leaguers and the amusement booths at the school are guaranteed to keep everyone in a carnival mood until the fireworks begin at dusk.

The whole town is issuing an invitation to come and join the fun.

Boy Scouts will be in charge of parking, and all committee members wearing white jungle hats will be ready to direct spectators to the nearest parking area.

The parade route will be closed to parking from noon until 2:30 p.m. The area east of the swimming pool has been set aside for parade viewing from their automobiles for those unable by age or infirmity to join the crowds lining the streets.

Commercial Zoning Asked For Section Of Blacklick Area

Madison Township's residents, always ready to look a rezoning application squarely in the eye, will have a chance Thursday, Sept. 19, to scrutinize the latest application from Blacklick.

The Rural Zoning Board will meet that night in the Groveport firehouse at 8 p.m. to hear the plea of the Ohio Holding Co. to change the zoning classification of a part of Blacklick Subdivision No. 4 from residential to general commercial.

The section in question lies north of Asbury Manor on the east side of Hamilton-rd on Harbor-blvd.

The Holding Co. is seeking permission for a shopping center, apartment buildings and twin singles. Robert E. Albright is the company's legal representative in the matter.

This subdivision is part of the acreage developed by William Davis.

Paul Ricart, as agent for the Ricart Realty Co., had received a recommendation for approval on his application for rezoning of 32 acres off Rt. 33 north of Canal Winchester from Regional Planning Commission. However Rural Zoning Board did not completely go along with the proposal when the board sat Monday night in Groveport.

Though Ricart's plans were definite enough in regard to his intention of transferring the automobile agency and garage now operated by Ricart Ford, Inc. in Canal Winchester to the site, the board apparently was not satisfied with the indefiniteness of his plans for the rest of the acreage.

Represented by Counsel Harrison Smith, Jr. the residents of the nearby Berwick residential area were put on record as believing rezoning of the entire tract was unnecessary for any of the possible uses mentioned for the land to which they would not object. One of these involved the building of a fishing pond.

The board passed the case along for hearing by the county commissioners with the approval given for rezoning of only 12 acres of the plot. It will take an unanimous decision of the trustees to reverse the board's stand. That hearing will be scheduled in about three weeks.

The rezoning application of Lester Van Buren, 1537 Truro-av, will be heard by the Rural Zoning Board at the Brice Firehouse Thursday, Sept. 17, at 7:30 p.m.

He has asked general commercial classification for two and one-half acres located north of E. Main and east of Brice-rd.

No definite commitments have been made concerning the eventual use of the acreage that is now zoned commercial, according to Mrs. Thelma Handy, clerk.

Registration At Dance Studio To Begin Sept. 12

The Georgia Gay Studios of dance, 776 E. Whittier-av, and in the American Legion Hall on Zettler at Livingston-av, are accepting students for the fall season.

Classes are offered in ballet, tap, toe, modern jazz and acrobatic dancing. Students may enroll by calling HI. 3-1813 or 237-7521. Miss Gray will be at the American Legion on Thursday from 3 to 5 p.m. for new registrations and personal interviews.

Instruction begins at the Whittier studio on Sept. 9 and at the American Legion on Sept. 19. Classes are personally taught by Miss Gay.

Youth Sentenced To Reformatory

Judge Henry L. Holton has sentenced Bennie Ray Towns, Jr., 18, of Berkley-rd, from 10 to 25 years in the Mansfield Reformatory. Towns pleaded guilty to a charge of armed robbery in the County Criminal Court.

Towns admitted taking $34.40 from taxi driver Fredrick H. Igel, 907 W. Mound-st, after getting in Igel's cab and having him drive to an address on Kent-st.

Hints Out On Theme Of Floats

With the theme of "Our American Heritage Living Pictures of Our Past," every street in town has entered a float which will be interspersed with those of church and civic organizations.

A sneak preview of the titles of these projects which have been built with cloak and dagger secrecy should titillate the imagination of all.

A few bring a quick visual image of treasured bits of American history, such as the "Spirit of '76," "Iwo Jima," "Spirit of St. Louis," "Landing of the Pilgrims" and the "Wright Brothers' First Flight."

But how will "Let Freedom Ring Forever," "The Freeing of the Slaves" and the "Pioneer Spirit" be portrayed?

And what about "WPA Days," Mountain Dew" and "Young Love"?

Certainly there will be a steamboat involved in "Fulton's Folly," but will a chestnut tree be spreading in "The Village Blacksmith"?

The floats will be judged on closeness to theme, workmanship, originality, color coordination, visual impact and adequate identification of street and title.

Come and see if you agree with the judges.

It now stands we have to be so careful that people don't get the impression that they receive an invitation just for the sake of a gift in return. And then there's the problem of where to start and where to stop on a wedding invitation list.

Anything more that I might say about streamlining a wedding might get me an invitation to stay home comes next Sunday. Actually, I'm only joking and I'll have as much enjoyment out of the affair as everyone else.

To A Flower Girl

This past week I ran across this little poem by Otta Louise Chase which so aptly describes our "flower girl."

Littlest girl in the wedding,
You're wide-eyed and winsomely sweet,
Fair as the flowers you're spreading
To cushion the happy bride's feet.
Littlest girl in the wedding,
Time rushes rapidly by,
In a trice it is you who'll be treading
That aisle where the bride's flowers lie.

The Gay Philosopher Says: "A lot of young people today ask for big salaries when they start to work because they figure they'll have to work harder than everybody else since they don't know anything about the job."

Why do we wait till a person's gone,
To send him flowers galore?
When a single rose would have meant so much,
If we'd taken it to his door?

Women Voters League Seeks Informed Citizen At Polls

The League of Women Voters is engaged in adult education with a distinctive purpose. Through study and discussion, it seeks to inform its members to the end of active participation as citizens. Then, through its organization and its individual members, it seeks to promote the informed and active participation of all citizens in government.

In a recent speech, Mrs. Robert Phillips, president of the League of Women Voters of the United States, said, ". . . as more and more citizens become knowledgeable, the more the very fabric of self-government is strengthened."

The League of Women Voters of Metropolitan Columbus is an organization open to all women of voting age in the community. A five-dollar annual dues fee brings the member regular newsletters on the local, state and national affairs of the League. Likewise it gives the member the opportunity to vote or express her opinion on current and future studies the League undertakes.

Topics Studied

The metropolitan Columbus League counts some 450 women as members. These members are organized into 15 units, of a geographic or meeting-time character. The units operate as monthly discussion meetings where the progress or the results of specific study topics are presented and assessed. The intensive study required to present a topic for such discussion is undertaken in separate groups which any member can join.

For the League year, 1963-64, particular topics for the LWV of Metropolitan Columbus include two on the national governmental level (1.) the U.N. and (2.) the foreign economic policy; one on the state level (Ohio finance); and two at the local level (1.) public welfare and (2.) local government structure and organization.

Any woman interested in membership in the League of Women Voters is invited to contact Mrs. Sidney Voris, membership chairman, at 235-3833.

WWI Veterans To Meet Sunday

Veterans of World War I, Barracks 461, will meet at Veterans Memorial, 250 W. Broad-st, Sunday, Sept. 1, 2 p.m., in room 201.

The Auxiliary will roost in room 203 at the same time.

Plans are being made for the national convention to be held in Detroit, Sept. 22 to 26.

"A husband can easily become his wife's favorite author—by writing checks."

Anti-Defamation League Offers Three Year-Round Education Aids

The Anti-Defamation League was organized in 1913 by B'nai B'rith, America's largest and oldest Jewish fraternal order, to cope with the then prevalent pattern of anti-Semitic stereotypes on the comedy stage of vaudeville.

In the half-century since its inception, ADL has broadened its scope and approach into a multi-faceted program of human relations and inter-religious education. The league maintains 25 regional offices throughout the United States.

The Ohio-Kentucky office is located in Columbus, maintaining several services for the use of organizations in this community. Adult organizations in Columbus are invited to avail themselves of the following ADL services:

AUDIO-VISUAL LIBRARY — A total of more than 100 titles of films, filmstrips and recordings on human relations subjects is available for loan, with only a nominal charge for postage and handling, to all interested groups. Requests for materials should be submitted at least two weeks prior to desired date of showing to insure availability.

PUBLICATIONS LIBRARY — The ADL publishes more than 100 books and pamphlets on the subject of human relations. A complete line of materials is stocked in the Columbus office to service requests, from the immediate area, for such materials, promptly. Some of the authors of ADL's publications are Dr. Benjamin Spock, Gordon Allport, the Overstreets, William O. Douglas, Ashley Montague, Charles P. Taft and John F. Kennedy.

SPEAKERS — At no cost to interested groups, the ADL provides qualified speakers either to accompany a film, or independently, on human relations or inter-religious subjects. Especially recommended is the "Rumor Clinic," an audience participation program dealing with the subject of rumor and how it is transmitted.

In addition to these year-round services, the ADL, in cooperation with three other volunteer agencies, has, since 1958, been co-sponsor of an annual five-day Institute on Human Relations. The institute, held under the auspices of the College of Education and the School of Social Work at Ohio State University, invites the attendance of interested individuals from the field of education, social work, public service, industry and labor. Institute scholarships are available through B'nai B'rith and other sponsors.

Inquiries regarding ADL's Adult Education service and Institute on Human Relations are invited. Complete listings of the league's resources and information on speaker services may be obtained by writing to Anti-Defamation League, Dept. AE, Suite 610, 82 N. High-st, Columbus 15, Ohio.

The Spectator
By C.C. Hartley

Dear Patty:

It's the day after the wedding and time to relax and reflect and a time to be strengthened in a faith that the steps you have taken have been good ones and will bring you the good life that each individual must find for himself.

The good life is good only when it centers around love. In fact it is love.

That was a long walk down the aisle yesterday and a slow walk . . . it provided time enough for a thousand things to pass in review.

I remember back when Dr. Chet Cramer brought you out in the hall at Mt. Carmel and tapped your little pink bottom and caused you to cry and then said, "She's healthy."

And it is fresh in my memory how you chased Herkermer, our cat, across the lawn down in Florida during the war and got thorns in your bare feet.

Then there was the time you, like most youngsters, decided you would leave home. This was at the ripe old age of about six and you packed your little suitcase and took off across the back field. We watched you and how you pondered over the matter as you sat down to rest on top of the hill and then came traipsing back home, a much happier girl.

We were really glad when you played in the high school band for the last football game that fall but had to pinch ourselves again and recall that we would still be going to these games for another 12 years until Don and Kathy graduated.

You'll learn parents have a lot of worries about their children but our worst scare was when you were hospitalized a couple of years ago and for a week or so it was touch and go. But faith and prayers brought you through to restored health and happiness.

Now you are embarking on a great adventure and already you and Bill have had more advice from so many quarters than you can ever consume.

Sure, marriage is a matter of give and take. And there

WHERE THE MOHAWK school grounds used to be is now the roadway for the freeway. Principal Carey M. Pace looks over the barriers to the point on Sixth-st where a foot bridge will be built this fall giving access to the grounds from Parsons-av.

PACE SUGGESTS ROUTES FOR MOHAWK STUDENTS

With trucks leaving the area immediately north of Mohawk Elementary and Junior High School every 30 seconds, safety regulations are a must for children attending school there.

Usual routes from the north and either east or west of the school are cut off by the freeway construction, explained Carey M. Pace, principal.

With sidewalks torn up and increased traffic Fifth-st has became an unsafe approach to the school.

He has suggested alternate routes until the proposed bridges are built at Sixth-st and at Grant across Fulton.

Students living north of Fulton-st and east of Sixth-st should cross the construction area at Washington-av, walk south to Donaldson-st, following Donaldson west to the school.

Those living north of Fulton and west of Sixth should cross the construction area at Fourth and then follow Livingston-av east to the school.

Though the fences formerly separating the school grounds from Fulton-av have been moved south to protect the students from the excavation, teachers will also be posted to prevent any child from entering the hazardous area.

Pace added that until the new school grounds east of the building are available in about two years, outdoor activity will be very limited.

Society Reports X-Ray Findings

A total of 132 free Christmas Seal Chest X-Rays were taken in the Leader area on Aug. 10, the TB Society reported.

The cruiser was located at the corner of S. High and Frankfort. Findings included two cardiac conditions of the total 132 X-rays taken that day.

'64 Relief From Stench Called For South Side

Next summer the age-old controversy as to what causes the unpleasant odors in the vicinity of the Scioto River and Frank-rd may be resolved.

For years opinion has been divided as to whether the accusing finger should be pointed at the city's sewage treatment works or Inland Products, the rendering company also at Frank-rd and the Scioto River.

Carl Bass, president of Inland, has reported that the $1.5 million program his company has initiated to build a new plant with a completely new chemical process is now two-thirds completed.

When the new operation goes into effect, according to Bass, there will be no odors, offensive or otherwise, emanating from the plant.

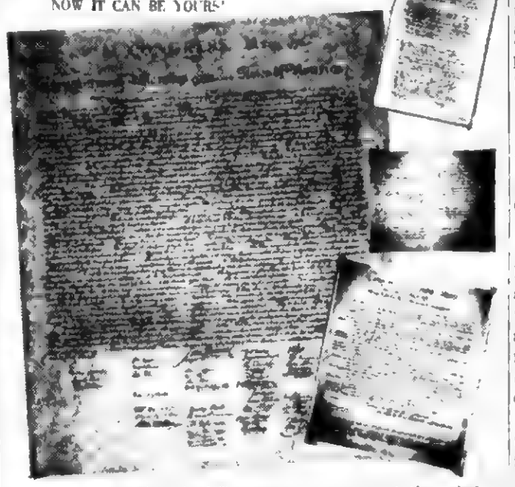
The schedule, previously delayed by failure of equipment ordered from all over the world to be delivered on time, called for June 1, 1964 completion. After that date Inland odors should be a thing of the past, Bass states.

Customarily, complaints dry up to nothing in winter time when atmospheric conditions do not prevail that carry the scents that South Side and South East noses have become so sensitive to.

The operation of the Inland involves rendering of fat from waste products of packing houses and butchers for soap and industrial uses as well as the manufacture of a high protein supplement for poultry, hogs and cattle.

The dumping of activated sludge into the lagoons has also been suspect of the summer stench. These lagoons cover about 15 acres. According to Eugene Nagel, chief engineer of the Columbus smoke regulation division which controls air pollution, hot, dry weather leads to a flood of complaints to the disposal plant.

When the humidity is quite low, evaporation from these lagoons is increased and thus the odors can be scattered by air currents over a wide area.



Within a year to a year and a half, a pilot program will be started at the plant by which the sludge will be incinerated rather than dumped, Nagel explained. This procedure is expected to do much for the customary summer attack on the public's long suffering olfactory nerves.

It has been suggested that as a stop-gap measure the system used in the South-West and the West to arrest evaporation in reservoirs of drinking and irrigation water might be utilized. This method sprays from the air a fine film of oil over the storage area which prevents undue water loss.

It appears to be the consensus of city officials that the expense of utilization of this method is prohibitive, although it appears that those "down wind" on some of those hot days think money of relatively little consequence.

The Americana Historical Antiqued Document Collection

NOW IT CAN BE YOURS!

America's Historical Documents represent the wisdom of the ages . . . the dreams of a young nation fighting hard for its beliefs and convictions and standing firm against aggression on every rostrum and battlefield. Every American has a patriotic obligation to bequeath to the next generation all the richness of its traditions. When the hallowed phrases which sparkle our history are extracted from their context they often become catch phrases having lost much of their true meaning. When a child is handed the documents . . . on heavy, antiqued parchment . . . which actually looks and feels hundreds of years old . . . then they become real. They spring to life as something wonderful and glorious . . . and The Declaration of Independence, the Bill of Rights and all the rest become childhood treasures to be read and remembered always.

As one re-reads the words of the documents, he feels the nearness of Americans of long ago . . . is with them in their struggle for freedom. History becomes an adventure

Mrs. Wilson Wins $5,000 TV Jackpot

Mrs. Ralph Wilson, 3475 Noe-Nixby-rd, was announced as a jackpot winner on the "Seven Keys" television giveaway program last Friday morning. The show is broadcast over WTVN, TV-6, in Columbus.

According to studio officials, the gifts won are worth about $5,000.

She will be given her choice of an automobile or a full-length mink coat. She may, however, elect to receive the value of either in cash. Among the other prizes that will be hers, and cannot be taken in cash, are a console piano and toys.

Mrs. Wilson stated that she believed that she had mailed three cards in to the program for selection the week her name was drawn. (Contestants submit their names on post cards, and if their name is drawn, the number of the key which they have written on the post card is tried in the lock of the "jackpot box." If it fits, a winner has been determined.)

Pastor Of New Christian Church Invites Interracial Congregation

IT'S AN OPEN door policy for the new congregation in the old Christian Church at Wilson-av and Fulton-st. The pastor, William Hansen, hopes to build a membership for the church that will be completely interracial.

The Christian Church at Wilson-av and Fulton-st will open wide its doors to a brand new congregation when the frist service is held at 10:30 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 8.

William G. Hansen, pastor of the new group, explained that the Christian churches of Columbus have formed a sponsoring committee which will support the new church in its infancy. Carl Magnuson of the Northwest Christian Church is the chairman of this committee.

The building became available to the new congregation when a new church was built farther east for its former tenants. Once the center of the homes of its members, the church was given up after the migration of many of its members to the east made its location increasingly impractical.

Rev. Hansen stressed that welcome awaits people of all races at the new church

"We want our church to be an interracial one," he emphasized.

To date about 100 families in the area have expressed interest in becoming affiliated with the new church. Through the help of other Christian churches, the Sunday schools, both for children and adults, will be completely staffed from the opening Sunday. Class begins at 9:30 a.m.

Hansen, who was born and educated in Iowa, attended Drake Divinity School and has done a year of post graduate study at the Universities of Heidelberg and Goettingen in Germany.

He has held pastorates in Cincinnati and Barnesville and came to work in the Columbus field this June.

He lives at 1286 Geers-av with his wife and son

Barrett Junior High Introduces A New Approach To Homework

Emphasizing that pupils must study at home if they are to succeed in school, Ken Olbert, principal of Barrett Junior High School, is enthusiastic about the introduction of "Homework Assignment Notebooks" in the school.

"It may prove to be one of the most significant innovations in the school's history," he stated

The book is designed to help the student keep a careful record of daily assignments so that he may wisely and effectively prepare for them.

Pointing out that it is generally believed a student must spend as much time studying as he does in the classroom, he believes at least an hour and a half or two hours of home study should supplement supervised study periods at school.

The success of the book depends upon the joint cooperation of the teacher, the child, and the parent, Olbert claims.

Before the child can utilize such a study help the teacher must provide clear and concise assignments. Olbert also believes it important for the teacher to be available before and after school hours for individual pupil help.

The student must listen carefully and copy the assignments and guide himself into proper study habits by following the lessons. He should also use his "ready-made outline" for review

Once informed of what is expected of his child, the parent can contribute to the academic success by showing his interest and encouraging proper use of the notebook. It also is the obligation of the parent to provide a well-lighted, quiet place for study.

Olbert believes that with the tool of the notebook properly used, and a desire for learning and academic progress, there should be marked improvement in the achievements of the students.

SENSENBRENNER OPENS CAMPAIGN

Westlake City Administration Is Charged With 'Indecision'

Former Columbus Mayor M. E. (Jack) Sensenbrenner has labeled the administration of Mayor W. Ralston Westlake as indecisive and lacking in leadership. The Democratic candidate, defeated by Westlake in 1959, has called for "intelligent public leadership that will let the people of Columbus in on what's going on."

Sensenbrenner officially opened his bid to return to the mayor's office before a Tuesday luncheon press conference gathering at the Southern Hotel.

"Columbus is at a critical period in its history just because of its tremendous growth," Sensenbrenner declared. He called for leadership that will assure that "the people of Columbus grow with the city," and that growth will be "a blessing, not a curse."

"Obviously," Sensenbrenner said, "this is no time for indecision and incompetence in one of the city's key positions of leadership the mayor's office.

"I'm going to tell it the way it is," the former mayor said. "And the way it is can be summed up in one word: Indecision.

"Indecision cost the people of Columbus over $100 million in assets that would have been developed if the State Office Building complex had been built in the Market-Mohawk area adjacent to Ohio's capitol."

Sensenbrenner charged: "Westlake's indecision blocked the project, and forced the erection of two wings on the present State Office Building This destroyed two beautiful downtown river-front parks, with their trees and grass, some of the last grass spots in downtown Columbus. For this, I think the mayor ought to be remembered as Westlake the Woodchopper."

The Democratic standard-bearer also charged that Westlake's action in blocking the state-office complex construction "lost to the city a golden opportunity to build a central data computer center — a center that could serve, 24 hours a day, industrial, research and civic organizations as well as all the many operations of state and city government."

Sensenbrenner criticized the Westlake administration for failure to construct the Southeast sewage plant, failure to implement a recreation program approved by the voters in 1960 and creation of "a deplorable parks program."

"Get this," Sensenbrenner told the press gathering. "Six city swimming pools were authorized three years ago; not one has been built."

He described the parks situation in the following terms:

"Holton Park is terrible, dirty, with the streams full of debris. Glenwood Park is one-third jungle; the southeast corner badly needs cleaning up. McKinley Avenue Playground is barren and empty no trees, no bench to sit on, no playground equipment. Fairwood Park and Weber Road Park have nothing. Walnut Ridge Park needs 40 more acres of high ground and a shelter house."

Other areas that Sensenbrenner termed as failures due to indecision included:

A three year delay in paving of a parking lot at Children's Hospital; ignoring recommendations of all engineering studies in deciding to build the north outerbelt north of Worthington, a decision Sensenbrenner says will cost motorists about $7 million annually in out-of-pocket expenses; a hold-up of programs on a Master Plan for the Central Ohio Community, with progress being made despite the city administration, not because of it, and plans for the relocation of the Olentangy River-rd that will, "if the city administration and its backers have their way," split the OSU agricultural campus and block university development plans.

"Westlake's indecision," Sensenbrenner said, "resulted in the death of the city's Community Relations Commission

Patricia Hartley And William Jones Say Marriage Vows At Glenwood

The altar of Glenwood Methodist Church was decorated with sunburst arrangements of white majestic daisies with emerald foliage, and was flanked with woodwardia palms and seven-branch candelabra for the Sunday wedding of Miss Patricia Anne Hartley and Mr. William Earl Jones.

Rev. Warren Bright and Rev. Joseph Shellhaas officiated at the 2:30 p.m. marriage service, Sept. 1.

Mrs. Warren Armstrong was the vocalist.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. C. Carlton Hartley of 1370 Wilson-rd, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Everett Jones, 5949 Timberbrook-ln.

The floor-length bridal gown of imported Chantilly lace and silk mist was designed with molded basque bodice and sabrina neckline accented with pearls and crystals and long, tapered sleeves. Chantilly lace-edged redingote of silk mist, over the lace skirt, continued into a chapel train.

A petite crown of crystal held her fingertip veil of French illusion and she carried a clutch bouquet of yellow duchess glamellias with accents of California ivy.

Mrs. Bill Woodcox served as matron of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Miss Susie Jones, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Virginia Cornell, and bridesmatrons were Mrs. Joseph Thaler and Mrs. Richard Dipman.

Miss Kathleen Hartley, also a sister of the bride, served as flower girl.

Attendants were identically gowned in street-length frocks of pale yellow nylon sheer over taffeta, with scooped necklines and cap sleeves. Bell skirts featured floating panels in the back, and embroidered daisies accented the midriffs and were repeated on the panels.

Each carried a sheath of yellow daisy chrysanthemums with garlands of California variegated ivy.

The flower girl wore a floor-length gown styled identically with the ones worn by the other attendants, and carried a white nylon basket with yellow daisies.

Mr. Howard Hicks served as best man, and guests were seated by Mr. Don Hartley, brother of the bride; Mr. Joe Jacobs, Mr. Michael Clabaugh, Mr. Jon Le Favour, Mr. Don Hughes and Mr. Don Grube.

Donnie Jones, cousin of the bridegroom, served as ringbearer.

Hostesses for the reception, held at Nationwide Inn, were Mrs. C. W. Hartley, sister-in-law of the bride; Miss Karin Lindfors, Miss Sharon DeWolfe, Miss Janet Peters and Miss Debbie Jones, cousin of the bridegroom.

The new Mrs. Jones is a graduate of Hilliard High School and attended the University of Hawaii and Ohio Wesleyan University, where she was a member of Alpha Chi Omega Sorority. She is now enrolled in the School of Journalism at Ohio State University.

Auction, Rummage Sale and Hot Meals Offered By Obetz Methodist Groups

The Methodist Men of the Obetz Methodist Church will hold an auction Saturday, Sept. 7, 10 a.m. on the church lawn. Tools, furniture and appliances have been gathered for the sale.

Major pick ups were made on Labor Day and will continue to be made during the rest of the week. Anyone having items is invited to telephone 491-2070 or 491-0466 for pick up.

This project was initiated last year and is slated to be the annual fund-raising project for the men. Proceeds last year went to redecorate the church sanctuary. In conjunction with the auction there will be a rummage sale and food sale by the Women's Society.

Auctioneer will be Roy Featheringham of Harrisburg.

MEMBERS OF GROVEPORT Lutheran Church preparing meat for the annual ox roast are, from left, Charles Barrett and Norman and Marie Zitzke. A finger lickin' good time will be had by all who indulge in the feast to be held west edge of Groveport, Saturday, Sept. 14.

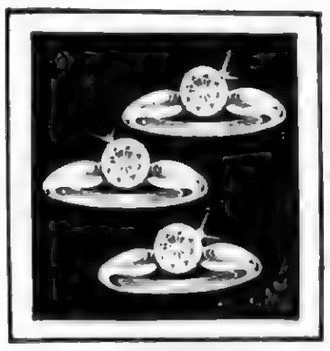
Only U.S. territory where Christopher Columbus ever set foot is Puerto Rico.

7th Annual Ox Roast Coming Up

Only a big tent will stand on the future site of the Groveport Lutheran Church at the west edge of Groveport Saturday, Sept. 24, when the congregation holds its seventh annual ox roast.

But the funds raised at the event will go to the building fund and bring the new church a little closer.

H. M. (Pete) Everhart will supervise the pit, and the pies served will all be baked by women of the congregation.



Maurice Palsgrove and Chuck Rohr are general co-chairmen, and Dorothy Lipfert and Mary Campbell are the chairmen in charge of food.

Dinners, which will be served from 4 to 8 p.m., rain or shine, will cost $1.50. Extra sandwiches will be sold at 50 cents each. Carry-out dinners also will be available.

Marguerite Fleming, Today's Outstanding Personality, was undoubtedly one of the best loved faculty members that ever taught at South High School. While at the Ann-st school, this dramatics teacher introduced many innovations, which were later adopted by teachers everywhere. Her endeavors brought many awards to the school as well. We are happy to report "she is still going strong" in the common vernacular.

As an English major, she received her A.B. at Illinois Wesleyan University. Her M.A. degree, in speech and education, was earned at Columbia University. Her undergraduate alma mater conferred an honorary doctorate upon her in 1955. She has constantly participated in workshops, such as those held at New York University, where the studios of CBS, NBC, etc., were opened to the participants for observation and rehearsal.

She has attended other workshops at Wisconsin, Ohio State, Sarah Lawrence College and Northwestern. She has been the recipient of fellowships from the Rockefeller Foundation, Sarah Lawrence College, Radio Workshop, Ford Foundation and Production Workshop of National Association of Educational Broadcasters at University of Illinois.

Her first teaching assignments in Illinois found her teaching English, history and public speaking. While in Portsmouth, O., she taught dramatics and held the position of Dean of Girls. She doubled in dramatics and radio while at South High School. She was a pioneer in the use of radio for high school education, and this foresighted vision proved to be a springboard for bigger and better things for this dynamic instructor.

Leaving South and Columbus friends reluctantly, she moved on to the state of Missouri, where she was a radio constultant for Harris Teachers' College at St. Louis. She then was the associate professor of education from 1947 to 1949. It was a natural step into television, so next we find her on the planning committee of KETC, as a member of the Mayor's Committee to present evidence by the St. Louis educators as to the importance of using a channel for non-profit and educational purposes. That the committee did a convincing job is evident in the fact that Marguerite has been in charge of the television programs for the St. Louis Board of Education since 1950.

This task is only a small portion of Miss Fleming's career, as her title is assistant director, Division of Audio-Visual Education of St. Louis. In addition to her television work, she is the manager of radio station KSLH. A recent addition to her tasks is the program "Challenge" on KMOX-TV. She also is a member of several education committees pertaining to radio and television, both nationally and in Missouri.

She has held many national offices, mostly in the educational field. However, she was the national director of the Alpha Gamma Delta camp for underpriveleged children from 1925 to 1930. Other national offices have been: secretary of Association for Education by Radio, first woman director on the Board of National Association of Educational Broadcasters (1953), Board of Trustees, Junior Town Meeting League of Wesleyan Press (1950-1959), trustee, Illinois Wesleyan University (1959-1962), convention manager, NAEB, when it convened in St. Louis in 1957.

She received the Distinguished Citizen's Award in 1959 from Alpha Gamma Delta. Other honorary societies include Delta Kappa Gamma, Altrusa; American Women in Radio - Television, and National Association of Administrative Women, of which she was a member of the board in 1957.

She is listed in the A.E.R. Journal, Scholastic Magazine and "Who's-Who of American Women."

She gives many talks each year, as she did while still in Columbus. Her many Columbus friends are elated that her yearly stint at OSU's annual Radio-TV Institute brings her back to Ohio's capital for a short while at least.

Her dramatics classes, while at South, presented such well-known works as "You Can't Take It With You." "The Late Christopher Bean," "Pride and Prejudice," "Charleys Aunt," "Our Town,' "The American Way," "Taming of the Shrew," "Ah Wilderness," "Washington, the Man Who Made Us," as a few examples of the mature productions chosen. One-act plays were given constantly to utilize as much talent as possible.

She presented many pageants, both at the Ohio State Fair and for PTA and educators. Her South High radio pupils won first place in the U.S. in the Scholastic Magazine Contest and were awarded a gold microphone. Other honors included first place in a tri-state contest held in Cleveland, and first place in the Players' Club Contest. She was director of the Dramatics Art Guild of the South Side YMCA.

Marguerite's hundreds of friends are happy that she has achieved such success, but are only sorry that it has taken her away from Columbus.

These younger school students will undoubtedly tell of their birthdays in the "sharing" sessions of the brand new school year: Jeffrey Cunningham, Jimmy Bowe, Deborah Thacker, David Copper, Deborah Cook, Mary Coverdale, Ramona Williams, Deborah Dear, Patricia Gallichio, William Scarberry, Barbara Haven, Tracy and Terry Wilkins.

Late summer birthdays will be observed by these adult friends and neighbors: Marianne Kane, Betty Snoke, Bessie Penrod and Madge Reynolds.

Wedding vows in past years bring anniversary dates to be remembered for these couples: Margaret and Walter Miller, Don and Nancy Jones, Jack and Bea Karch, Judy and Harold Walters, Walter and Pauline McCain, Eileen and Otto Waidner and Beverly and Don Wallace.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sauer and son, Larry, 711 E. Mithoff-st, enjoyed a two-week visit with their son, Dick, and family recently in Durham,

Back to School...

As Summer Vacations draw to a close, and thoughts turn to the ways and needs for returning to school, give some thought to locating a church near your college or university.

Attend services regularly, worship the Lord in His house. Give a good accounting of your worship life, as well as your studies.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for men and of His demand for men to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

1963 High School Football Preview

No Title In Sight But '63 M-F 11 Improved

Marion - Franklin, winless in eight City League attempts and 1-9 overall last fall, has a new coach this season.

The name is Jim Harper, in case you haven't heard, and Jim, who got into a habit of winning football games at Licking Heights, hopes to stay in the same rut at his new assignment.

THE RED DEVILS, who probably won't pick up any good odds on capturing the City League pennant this fall, should be improved this time around.

Harper has 12 returning lettermen, enough to fill each starting spot with a veteran but beyond that point it's strictly touch-and-go.

The line size should be respectable (average 190) with John Jackson (185) and Mike Hanarahan (170) back at the ends Ted Ayres (204) and Gene DeBolt (190) available at tackle, Jeff Granick (168) and Larry Gaffin (185) set for guard duty and Dan Bennett (211) ready to go at center.

ALL - CITY SELECTION George Bobst (170) figures in Harper's quarterback plans while Erwin Andy (216) is back at fullback.

Three lettermen and a sophomore speedster are battling for the two halfback nods. Harper will have to choose between Kenny Ray (160), Don Meuser (150), Skip Sheridan (175) and sonh Oliver Winfield, a 5-10, 175-pound newcomer.

Of Harper's remaining 53 candidates, most promising are defensive specialists Gary Reynolds (214) and Larry Warner (190) and Mike Dourides (155), hustling Bennett for the center spot.

OVERALL OUTLOOK finds M-F with a backfield with more speed than last season but a team basically lacking in depth.

Harper lists Central and Eastmoor are solid City League contenders.

'Now Or Never' Outlook Seen For Senior-Studded Reb 11

South High boosters, who have been waiting for a serious City League contender for longer than they would care to admit, might find the long drought coming to a close in '63.

A spirit of optimism is running high this fall on the Bulldog premises from head coach Bob Jackson right on down to the greenest freshman.

THE REASONS for the enthusiasm follow:

1 — 12 returning lettermen in Jackson's 60-man squad.

2 — only four departures from the Rebs' '62 number one team.

3 — a sizeable, mobile line and a quick, if not flashy, backfield.

4 — a strong '62 finish.

5 — 19 seniors in the first 22 team members.

IN SIMPLE language, if South "intends to rise again," this is the year.

Looking down his line, Jackson can see seniors Joe Cook (170) and Ritch Howard (6-2, 185) back at the ends.

Also encouraging is the return of all seven tackles and guards. Available at the former slot are seniors Jim Walker (6-3, 230), Bob Bohn (6-0, 180) and Jim Rinehart (5-8, 185), a defensive tackle and offensive guard.

THE RETURNING guards are seniors Roger Peer (5-10, 165), John Whitaker (5-9, 180) and Wayne Baker (5-10, 180). Harry Strauss (5-10, 168) though not a starter last fall, provides an experienced hand at center.

In the backfield, speedy Paul Pate, a 6-0, 180-pound senior halfback, should provide the offensive spark with senior Mickey Simmons (6-0, 180) providing additional veteran support at another halfback.

Lloyd Pate, a 6-0, 176-pound junior, who called an end spot home last season, is the likely fullback starter.

JACKSON IS pinning a good deal of his hope for an improved season on his quarterback candidate, 6-0, 160-pound senior Jerry Robinson.

Besides his lettermen, Jackson will be counting on good support from 5-10, 155-pound senior defensive halfback Bill Hartway, junior end Bob Maust (5-10, 160) and senior halfback Don Collins (5-9, 155).

In all, Jackson has a senior ball club which lost five of its last eight '62 games by a mere six TDs.

THE LINE (180 average) is mobile with good depth at tackle and guard (five first guards almost equal in ability).

The backfield, though lacking depth and blinding speed, should be more than adequate.

South, though improved, will be playing likewise improved City League opposition. Central, with its momentum, and Eastmoor, with its "big boys," will be the teams to beat, according to Jackson.

1963 Season Dawns Brighter For Vet-Loaded Crusaders

Rosary coach Bud Trapp, suffering through a lean freshman season in '62 (1-5-1) with a crop of green sophomores, pinned his optimism on 1963.

'63 arrives for Trapp and his Crusaders a week from Friday at Amanda. And the young mentor will have 19 lettermen back to meet the test.

TWELVE OF the 19 are only juniors, so the Green and White could still be a season away as far as title aspirations go but '63 seems almost sure to bear more fruitful results than last season.

Biggest reason for Trapp's enthusiasm is a speedy, experienced and depth-blessed backfield where seven returnees are available.

Key figures seem to be senior halfbacks Don Spurlock (170), whose early season injury last year put the Crusaders in the hole, and speedster Butch Michesl, an All-County performer who racked up 900 yards in nine games last fall.

JUNIOR RANDY Butler (165), also slowed by injuries last season, seems set at quarterback with Kenny Parrell, a 160-pound junior, the likely fullback starter.

Additional backfield depth comes in the form of juniors Billy Hasbrook (145), Bryce Bradford (155) and Vic Morton (155).

The line, though lacking in total depth, has at least one letterman at every position.

Tackle seems as secure with four returning vets. The two starting nods should fall to either seniors Chuck Sutphen (165) and John Zizek (190) or junior Joe Zizek (185) or sophomore Vince Phillips (165).

Three more lettermen are back to end spots in junior Jim Groce (155), junior Joe Haley (145) and senior Ed Roehrenbeck (6-0, 170).

AMONG THE non - lettermen, junior Mike Bush and soph Leo Ross (145), both ends, should see a lot of action.

Along the line, Rosary will average 170 pounds, an increase of 13 pounds over '62. But the line lacks real depth past the starters with only 28 boys out.

The backfield situation is strongest with both depth and better-than-average speed present.

AS FAR AS his County League opponents go, Trapp sees Hamilton Township, Reynoldsburg and West Jefferson as the biggest roadblocks to Rosary success hopes.

Veeley '63 Promise: 'We Won't Be Last'

The 1962 statistics on Aquinas' Terriers show the final Irish won-loss mark at one win, seven losses. But if you look close enough, you'll see that five of those seven setbacks are racked up under "ineligible player."

In other words, W-L records are sometimes misleading just as the fact that the Terriers have eight lettermen returnees this fall isn't exactly accurate.

TWO OF THE six won't be seeing any action at least until the Irish are well into their '63 slate. Victims of broken arms are veteran linemen John Wise (220), a tackle, and Mark Marchi (185), a guard.

Aquinas Coach Jim Veeley doesn't expect either back for duty until late September. The twin injury has trimmed Veeley's experienced line corps down to three with tackles Dwight Sage (210) and Ron Dembinski (200) and guard Roger Gentile (200) the only veteran linemen remaining.

Al Sheridan, a 165-pound junior, is a likely replacement for Marchi.

Veeley's biggest sophomore find seems to be Brad Nielsen, a 6-3, 195-pound tackle.

The backfield situation isn't much more secure with only two vets back. Paul Reiner (180), who quarterbacked the club last season, has been switched to fullback with senior Jim Faiella, a good passer, inserted in the signal calling spot.

ONLY OTHER returnee is Jim Fritter (160) who should be teamed with either ex-defensive guard Dave Boyd (195) or senior Jim Vincent (150) at the halfback openings.

In all, Veeley lost seven linemen and six backs from his '62 club. Biggest losses are fullback Jim Fortcamp, halfback Mike Welling and guard John Valentine.

Veeley, who will carry 12 sophomores on his varsity, plans to start nine seniors when his club is sound again.

OVERALL, THE backfield lacks experience and is short on speed. The line will be short in height but will carry average weight (180 - 185 pounds). The end position will be weak and a lack of depth could be costly.

On the brighter side, Aquinas should be tough defensively. "If we can score, we'll be respectable," is the way Veeley puts it.

"From what I've heard from the other City League coaches, I don't think a single CL team will lose a game this year," Veeley replied when quizzed on the loop's top clubs this fall.

"EASTMOOR WILL be real tough but if everybody stays healthy, we expect to be right up there. We won't be last."

Hawks Face Chicago 11 In Milk Bowl Saturday

A fitting "opener" for the local 1963 football season will be provided Saturday evening at West High's Magly Field when two Little League football champions—the Westgate Hawks (43-1-1) and the North Austin (Chicago) Boys Club (22-1-2)—clash in the first-ever Columbus Milk Bowl.

The Hawks, co-champs in the Ohio Boys Football Foundation last season, will carry local hopes in the battle against the nationally-known Boys Club, edged 12-7, in the Little League Shine Bowl in Florida last year.

KICKOFF TIME is 8 p.m. and tickets will be available at the gate at one dollar apiece. WLW-C sportscaster Jimmy Crum will provide play-by-play for the fans at the game.

Benefits from the game will go into the Hilltop YMCA's fund to provide boys with a swimming pool.

One of the many colorful sidelights of the game will be the appearance of OSU great Chic Harley's nephews, who play the end spots for the North Austin team.

AMONG THE SPORTS personalities present at the Milk Bowl will be ex-Notre Dame All-American and Heisman Trophy winner Johnny Lattner, who serves as a coach for the visitors.

Dons Vs. Dukes For Old Timer Championship

Don's Inn won the championship of the second round in the South Side Old Timers League Tuesday by defeating Arena, 16-9. Jerry Grueter of Don's led his team to victory with two home runs.

Jerry Pritchard and Bill Morin led the Arena team, both hitting three for five at the plate. Walt Hoffman hit three for four for Don's Inn, followed by teammate Don Murnane with two for three.

Don's the second round winner at 8-1, will meet first-round champ Duquesne (7-2) for the league championship. Time and place will be announced later.

Ohio Race Entries Stack Up For Motorcycle Competition

Entries for the Ohio State State Fairground's half-mile Motorcycle Championship races, to be held on the Ohio flat track, Sunday, Sept. 8, are coming into the Golden Arrow Motorcycle Club in fine shape.

The 10-event program which will be highlighted with a 30-lap (10 mile) championship feature, is being sponsored by the Golden Arrow Motorcycle Club in association with the Central Ohio Heart Association "Heart Fund."

HEADING THE list of Expert class entrants, is George Roeder of Monroeville, who captured the championship last year in a great exhibition of riding skill.

He'll get competion from such top riders as Cincinnati's Pete Andriot, always a close contender, but, so far, never a winner, Joe Messaros, Gordon, O., George Salo, Roseville, Charles Jones, Portsmouth and Curtis Zeiter, Mansfield.

The progam will also have fine riders in both the Amateur and Novice Classes.

THERE .WILL be three races in each of the Amateur and Novice classes and four events, including the Ohio State Championship feature, in the Expert class. Only Ohio riders will compete in the Expert feature, while any and all AMA licensed competition riders can ride in the other events.

Time trials will begin at 10 a.m. the day of the program and the first race is scheduled for 2 p.m.

Ticket gates will open at 7 a.m. There will be no advance sale of tickets.

ROBERT A. GLEICH, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip J. Gleich of 335 Sheldon-av, has been promoted to lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Air Force. The colonel, a graduate of St. Mary's High School, is a communications staff officer assigned to Scott AFB, Ill.

'Slim Pickins' Feared For St. Marys Eleven

After enjoying one of its best football seasons in many a year in '62 (7-2), St. Marys may be in for a "dry spell" this fall.

The reason seems to lie in the fact that Ram mentor Ray DeCola has only seven returning vets in a small 30-man squad.

EIGHT STARTERS from the '62 club won't be back this season and DeCola will be working with a young ball club.

Key graduation losses include backs Tim Sauer and Mike Gray along with linemen Tom Sauer, Bob Yates and George Maurer.

Injuries and transfers have claimed four other '62 performers — Paul Tyus, Frank Perdue, Phil Brunney and Roger White.

DeCOLA'S returnees include linemen Jim Duemey (guard), Andy Allen (tackle) and Steve Gassman (center) along with backs Bob Ruscilli, Jack Gassman, Tom Parsons and Jim Yates.

The latter two vets should give St. Marys good quarterbacking material but Ruscilli is the lone returning halfback with Gassman stationed at fullback.

Most likely replacements for DeCola's departed starters seems to be Roger Whaley (170) and Paul Stickle (165) at the ends, George Lowery (190) at tackle and Nate Writesel (160) at guard.

THE GENERAL consensus finds St. Marys with no better than average weight on the line but with good backfield speed. Experience and lack of depth could be costly in the long run.

DeCola, scanning the '63 County League lineup, finds Reynoldsburg, Hamilton Township and newcomer West Jefferson the most likely contenders with arch-rival Rosary greatly improved over last season.

AAUN Seeks Support For World Body

The Columbus Chapter of the American Association for the United Nations is a volunteer, non-profit, non-partisan organization of Franklin County citizens.

Its more than 500 members believe in and give support to the purposes of the United Nations. Membership is open to all who wish to help build an effective public opinion for a peaceful, though diversified, world through United Nations' cooperation.

The local information center is on the second floor of the YWCA, 65 S. Fourth-st. The local chapter is affiliated with the Ohio Division, as well as with the national AAUN, whose offices are at 345 E. 46th-st, New York City, near United Nations headquarters and the Permanent United States Mission to the United Nations. There are also Columbus and Ohio, and national divisions of the Collegiate Council of the United Nations.

Speakers Available

National directors include Herman W. Steinkraus, former president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and former director of the National Association of Manufacturers; David L. Shillinglaw, lawyer, former state commander of the Illinois American Legion; G. Hinman Barrett, New York City investment broker; Oscar de Lima, president of the Roger Smith Hotels Corporation; Andrew Maloney, vice-president of the Bankers Trust Company, New York City; and Sen. Maurine Neuberger, U.S. senator from Oregon. Among other national figures on the board are Paul G. Hoffman, James J. Wadsworth and Ralph J. Bunche.

Educational programs of AAUN distribute as widely as possible information about work of United Nations and intergovernmental, specialized agencies related to it.

The national Speakers Services from New York supply speakers to any interested group in the United States. The Columbus AAUN Speakers Bureau last year filled requests for 75 talks before various clubs and service organizations. Local speakers are qualified by study of their "Speakers' Notes" received each month from UN headquarters, by attendance at special closed CBS telecasts from New York and by group briefings by experts. Many Columbus speakers are professional men and women of wide experience.

Global Visits

AAUN cooperates with United Nations Associations in other countries through the World Federation of United Nations Associations. Mrs. Stanford Ackley, currently president of the Columbus chapter, has visited with UN Association officers in the capitals of Italy, Iran, Pakistan, India and the Philippines. While on spring vacation Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Edwards, who were among the founders in 1952 of the Columbus chapter, attended a meeting of the Mexican Association for the United Nations.

The Columbus chapter cooperates with other educational organizations throughout the year under the liaison chairmanship of Mrs. Harold L. Harding, and joins with 40 other organizations and hundreds of individuals in staging a community celebration of UN Week. The UN Festival this fall is being planned for the Youth Center and Arts and Crafts Buildings on the north side of the Ohio State Fairgrounds on Oct. 25, 26 and 27.

During the Ohio State Fair, an exhibit and literature booth will be held open in the Buckeye Building, under the direction of State President Mrs. Harry Polster and Rev. George Kennedy, minister of the First Methodist Church of Athens, O.

Public Lectures

The program committee, currently chaired by Dr. Meno Lovenstein of the Ohio State University faculty, brings distinguished persons to lecture during the year at public meetings.

Members study means by which the United Nations may be further developed to meet needs of an ever-changing world. They meet in homes for Area Advisory Council discussions several times yearly. Recommendations from these forums are sent to the Commission to Study the Peace, a research affiliate, and to the biennial conventions of chapters of the American Association for the United Nations. Policies that will help make United States membership in the United Nations effective are suggested to the governmental agencies concerned.

Don't say it can't be done! You need read only 15 minutes a day to finish 24 books during the year. Have a librarian at the Columbus Public Library get you started on the kind of books you prefer

Canal Winchester Puts Best Foot Forward On Gay Day

The bands played, the floats rolled through the streets and Canal Winchester and its guests had themselves a time.

It was Labor Day and for the fourth year the community had pulled together to present a parade that drew 10,000 spectators.

Though the theme of "Our American Heritage" was followed fairly closely, some individuals and organizations gave full sway to their imaginations, and the parade was never fell to sameness.

After winding through the streets for two hours, bands, floats, antique cars, bicycles and entries ranging from a shrieking pig on a leash to wee sprites in pony-pulled carts assembled at the stadium of the local high school for judging.

With each residential street entering its own particular version of what depicts the American scene of long ago, the steam boat "Fulton's Folly," built by Trine-st won first place among the residential entries.

Second and third places went to E. Columbus-st residents' "Statue of Liberty" and "Let Freedom Ring" of Jennings-dr. West Waterloo, Karamer and Hocking-st entries all won honorable mention.

Taking first place in the church and organizational class was the float of Violet Grange of Pickerington depicting the statehood of Ohio.

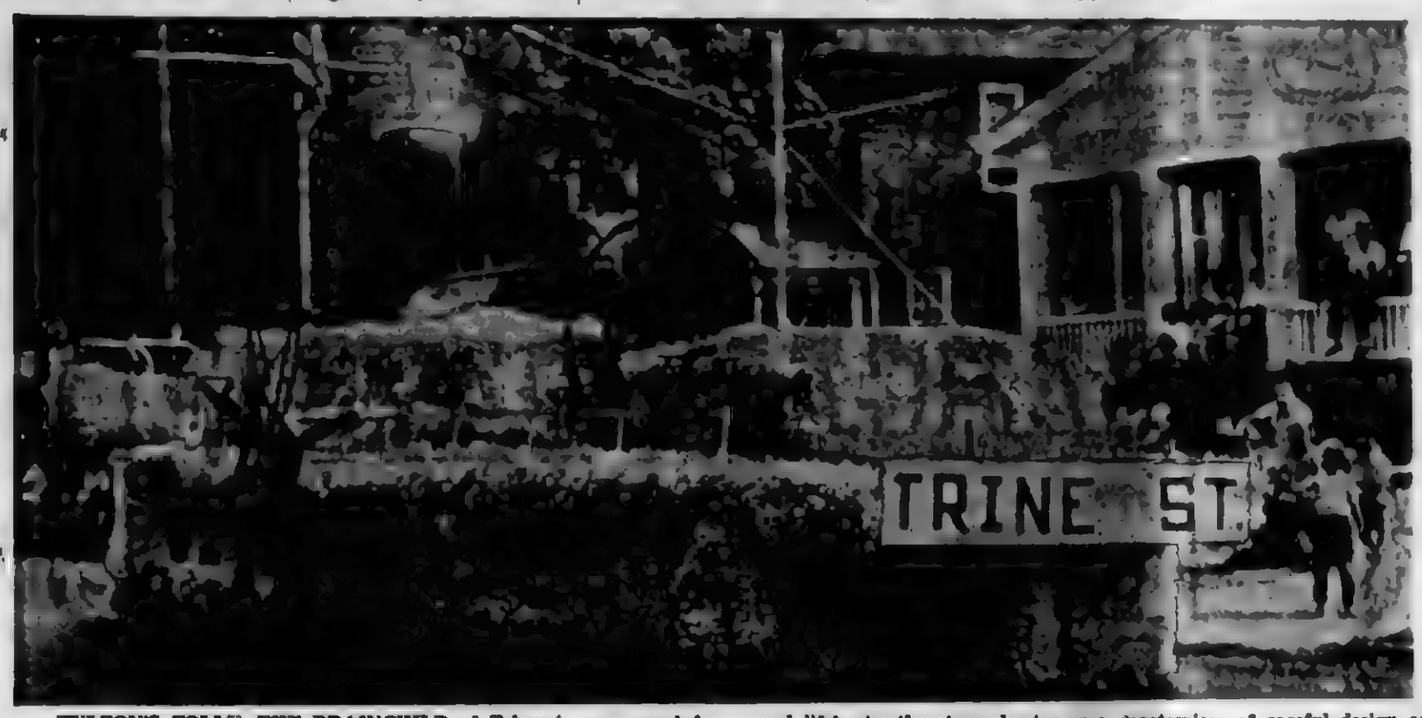
The quote from the Scripture "The Earth is the Lord's," was the theme of the Methodist Church float which took second place and the Knights of Pythias won third with their tableau of Thomas Jefferson writing the Declaration of Independence. The Needles and Pins 4-H club, the local Lions and the Madison Grange all received honorable mention.

In the commercial class Winchester Auto Parts was awarded first place for their float evidencing the evolution in machinery. Taylor and Son won second with their humorous portrayal of the "Early American Home" and the horse-drawn hearse of long ago entered by Grimes-Fiser Funeral Home took third.

Honorable mention went to Bolenbaugh Hardware, the Bank of Canal Winchester and the Columbus and Southern Electric Co.

Individual honor went to the float carrying the lovely Cleopatra and pulled by six harem beauties. Second in the class was "Miss Tylor" with the Bexley Hillbillies taking third. Honorable mention went to the cars carrying Elliot Ness and Al Capone's gang, complete with machine guns and a body protruding ominously from the trunk. The Pony Express and Keller Pony Farm entry also were given honorable mention.

Trophies for all first place winners were donated by the Canal Winchester Bank.



The Super-Duper Market of Canal Winchester gave cash awards to the children's entries.

They included, with winners given in order of placing, Best bike—Steve Craig, Fred Lerch and Eleanor Conoway; Best Animal and Child—Mike Griffith, Linda Teagardin and Carl Teagardin; Most Original Child—John and Randy Stemen, Doug Leupold and David Schacht.

Cutest Child—Terry E. Tenalia, Glenn Beachy and Tim and Greg Detty; Best Pony and Rider—the Harrison Sisters, Barnhart and Bill Griffith; Best Cart and Pony—Richard Conner, Harold Benson and Paul Wiggins; Funniest—Mark Hartman, Vicki Wood and Janice Conrad.

Judges for the many classes included Herman Houck, Karl Allen, Bill Woodward, Dr. Carl E. Sifvert, Dr. Jonathan Busby, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Andrews, Mr. Wayte, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Keefer, Lee Bollard and Robert Waggman.

Parade chairman was Del Conley.

FULTON'S FOLLY, THE BRAINCHILD of Trine-st, was awarded first prize in the residential class of floats. Complete with side wheels and lifeboats, the steam boat was a masterpiece of careful design and workmanship, closely adhering to the theme "Our American Heritage."

AND HERE IS the long and the short of it. Ranging widely in stature but not in beauty, three queens were selected to reign over Canal Winchester's Labor Day celebration. Little Miss Canal Winchester, Sharene Timmons, clutches her trophy, while Junior Miss Patty Aberts looks quite grown-up, but not so much as Sandra Fiser, Miss Canal Winchester. Sandra recently moved to the village after her father became associated with the Grimes Funeral Home.

OFF TO WEST WATERLOO-st was bound this covered wagon, drawn by six sturdy oxen. The street's entry won an honorable mention from the judges and an ovation from the crowds. Complete with a flea-bearing hound, gun-totin' outlooks and jug-thirsty pioneers, the float outdid that of the street's arch rival, E. Waterloo-st.

Queens Weep When Chosen C-W Royalty

Do all queens cry?

Well, down in Canal Winchester they do.

Last Sunday afternoon, after the anxious moments when the judges were deciding who would wear the tiara of Miss Canal Winchester were over Sandra Fiser emerged with the coveted title.

But the attractive, statuesque blond didn't appear very happy about it. Fighting tears and with her long and attractve legs trembling, she was crowned by last year's beauty queen, Cheryl Petty.

And Patty Aberts, eighth grader who was chosen Junior Miss Canal Winchester, took her honor just as hard. Being younger, the pert young miss didn't seem as embarrassed by her tears, but she was just as "shook."

Only Sherri Timmons, winsome first-grader who became Little Miss Canal Winchester, was able to take the whole thing in her stride. Although she was obviously happy with the whole affair, she never lost her poise.

The three queens were crowned at the edge of the Canal Winchester pool as part of the Labor Day weekend celebration.

With Jerry Rasor of WLW-C and Jerry Fagan spelling each other as masters of ceremony, more than 50 of the village's fairest paraded past the judges.

In the contest for Miss Canal Winchester which was open to local high school girls 13 and over were the queen and the two first and second runners-up, Linda Moore and Marcia Oyler and Mary Jo Drumheller, Patty Drumheller, Faye Ryther, Cheryl Aberts, Patty Marion, Kitty Wood and Debbie Rose.

The young ladies from 10 to 12 years old seeking the Junior Miss titles were queen Patty, the first and second runners-up, Debbie Hartman and Alice Cotton, and Jennifer Hartman, Patty O'Connor, Nancy Hanson, Suzie Cotton, Carol Fisher, Deanna Hempy, Sharon Carruthers, Jeanne Moore, Debra Morehart, Jan Williamson and Sharon Lee Vance, Peggy Bigerton, Marcena Taylor, Ronda Hanna, Cheryl Wood, Karen Burke and Christina Bauchmeyer.

The small, pocket-size editions of queen hopefuls included Jennifer Loucks and Polly Jo Hanna who came in second and third after queen Sharene. Others entering the Little Miss contest which was limited to young ladies from six to 10 years old were Debra Root, Velta Jacobs, Linda Knowlton, Cynthia Jane Moore, Sue Crist, Sue Root, Debra McKeen, Donna Crist, Kathleen Fagan, Colleen Fagan, Pamela Moore, Melody Hartman, Debra McKinney, Sandra Root, Janet Hanna, Sandra Bean, Linda Cunningham and Vickie Wood.

Judges for the event were Mrs. Ivola Nonemaker of Noni's Charm and Modeling School, Sam Tiberi of Tiberi Coiffures, Charles Chesher, trainmaster of the C and O Railroad, and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Roberts.

Brothers Set House Afire

Two young brothers have learned their lesson about playing with matches. Kevin and Clifton May bought 20 books of matches with a dime given them by their father, Clifton May, intended for ice cream.

The extra-company fire caused $1,000 damage to the interior of the home at 1300 S. Pearl-st, firemen reported.

The boys told fire investigators they were striking matches in a first floor closet when a dress and a pair of trousers caught fire. The flames spread rapily through the closet and up a stairway.

Kevin told investigators that a friend advised him to buy the matches and play with fire. Following the purchase, Randy, one of the May's daughters caught Kevin and his brother playing with the matches.

The sister warned the boys against playing with fire. She touched Kevin with an extinguished but still hot match to emphasiize the lesson, firemen stated.

The boys' bicycle lay charred along with other debris on the dining room floor. Firemen commented that this would not be forgotten soon.

WHAT SHE LACKED in glamour, the "Queen of the Nile" made up in girth. This extroverted group ran away with first prize for individual floats. Though identities are not being released, there is a persistent rumor that "Cleo" rose from her couch Tuesday morning and headed for "her" office at the Ohio State Employment Service.

To Host Tea

Mrs. Arthur L. Smith, 3091 Watkins-rd, will be one of two hostesses at the annual Christmas Seal Campaign Contest Tea, Sept. 8 at the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts.

The tea, which is scheduled from 3 to 4:30 p.m. will honor design contest entrants and their guests. Joseph Canzani, dean of the Columbus College of Art and Design, will award prizes to the winners at 3 p.m.

The local contest, co-sponsored by the TB Society and the Columbus College of Art and Design, closed Sept. 4.

Two Area Men Commissioned

Two South Side men were commissioned 2nd lieutenant during summer quarter commencement at Ohio State University Aug. 23.

Hans Duerr, 626 E. Mithoff-st, was commissioned in the Army Ordinance Corps. David H. Phillips, 719 Parsons-av, was commissioned in the Air Force Reserve.

Both men completed four years' training in the university's ROTC program.

U.S. Superfortress bombers carried out their first raid on Yokohama, Japan, May 28, 1945, in World War II.

Former Localite Is Blue Ribbon Winner At Fair

Mrs. Joseph Bruno, 4177 Hickman-rd, blue ribbon winner for cake decorating at the Ohio State Fair this year, is the former Miss Shirley Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Cox, 726 Blacklick-st, Groveport.

She is a 1950 graduate of Groveport High School.

Mrs. Bruno's prize winning cake was a scale model replica of the Columbus Police department.

New Fish Tale Version: 'They All Got Away!

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROB COCHRAN

"The best scenery this side of Yosemite!"

Speaking was Robert Walcutt, 91 N. West-st, Westerville, and we were talking on the phone after our return from Manitoulin Island. We'd both camped at the same place and had a lot of notes to compare. We differed on one point though, he caught fish and I didn't.

I DID NOT even go fishing. The day that I was going to try it, the weather turned bad — too bad to go out. Our plans were to move on the following day. We must have set some sort of record. We went to Georgian Bay and didn't even wet a line.

Bob Walcutt set a better record. He caught plenty of fish — a nice 37-inch, 12-pound pike, along with a lot of smallmouth bass and some small pike. Maybe the fish have something to do with his enthusiasm about the place. The Walcutts have camped on Monitoulin Island on three different trips. "We like it better each time," says Bob.

Our travels took us northwest out of Little Current, through some magnificent country. We passed Indians picking currents, and stopped to sample some of the plentiful fruit.

THIS WAS A mistake for they were quite tart and bitter.

SOON, THE best of the scenery was over and we sped along toward Sault Ste. Marie. We camped that night west of the city on a spectacular point jutting out into Lake Superior called Point Des Chenes.

This is one of the finest campsites we had ever seen, although the wind was whistling in off the water and swimming was out of the question. After setting up the tent we spent some time following the road to its end at the lake shore and finding an Indian fisherman with three whitefish for sale. We purchased one of these and had a feast our last night in Canada.

We struck on south the next morning and camped in the lower peninsula of Michigan our last night out.

IT HAD BEEN A strange and wonderful vacation. Who ever heard of going to Canada and not fishing? But we did live in the birch trees and white cedars and on the blue water for a few days. Loons woke us up in the mornings with their quavering calls. Arctic terns flew over our heads, and sea gulls begged our table scraps.

We hiked over unfamiliar beaches and hills, explored foot trails and fence lines. Our souvenirs include some large crystals of quartzite, some wave-smoothed bits of iron ore and some dingy white feathers.

It was one of the best trips we ever made.

A Football Definition? Difficult—But We'll Try

Friday night introduces what is most likely the "favorite" sport to most of Central Ohio. Football 1963 kicks off another season on the high school football fields.

In keeping with the spirit of the season, 31 high school previews on area teams appear scattered among this week's seven Hartley Newspapers.

But what is this thing football that becomes a living, breathing part of millions of Americans each fall? Can it be defined?

What IS football?

Football is the veteran coach's smile and quiet reminiscence as he gazes across the field at his freshman counterpart trying so unsuccessfully to mask the heart-fluttering anxiety of his first kickoff.

Football is the long, admiring stare of the small fry when his hero passes by at halftime.

Football is the fuzzy spinning of a hard tackle, the scream of abrasive leather on a crisp autumn night, the powerful pumping of calf muscles hardened by long hours of practice.

Football is the frustration of a missed assignment, the anguish of a fumble, the disappointment of a loss.

Football is the courage of the 130-pound halfback, the exuberance of the starting freshman, the silent, satisfying contentment of a job well done.

Football is labored breath, evidenced in the crisp, chill of an October evening. Football is frozen feet on a Friday night, an extra pot of coffee for a Sunday coaches' meeting and Thursday "dress rehearsals."

Football is a cheerleader's enthusiasm, a father's pride and the Booster stand's welcome cup of hot chocolate.

For a few, football is longer hours behind a typewriter, forgotten meals and a newfound agility when loss of limb and camera seem imminent.

Football is the skinny, dirty-faced kid next door with the peeking kneecaps where denim used to be. Football is teamwork, maturity, sweat, tears and a million and one intangibles.

What is football? Football is a way of life. Your favorite team requests the pleasure of your company Friday night at the nearby ballyard. Start living!

'Fearless' Predictions

A new season, a new kickoff and admittedly, a few stabs in the dark highlight the first edition of predictions on the area football games. But . . .

Psst-Bushy Tail-Beware-1963 Season Opens Friday

An estimated quarter of a million hunters are expected to take to the Ohio woodlands at daybreak Friadyf ortheb at daybreak Friday for the opening day of squirrel season.

This was the estimate from Dale Whitesell, Division of Wildlife, who also reported that division fieldmen predicted the squirrel population would be about the same as last year, and maybe slightly higher in some areas.

HUNTING HOURS are daylight to dark. The daily bag is four squirrels with not more than two days' limit in possion after the first day. Squirrel season is opening statewide about a week earlier than in 1962.

Squirrel hunting is zoned again this year. The zones are shown in detail on the Hunting Law Digest issued with each license. In the north zone, the season extends to dark, Nov. 2, in the south, it closes at dark, Nov. 16. On all public hunting areas, squirrel hunting is permitted through Dec. 31, a liberal extension over past seasons.

Once again, if you do not have a place to hunt, remember that there are almost 500,000 acres of free public hunting lands available. Write to Publications, 1500 Dublin-rd, Columbus, 43212, sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and request Publication W-77, which lists all of the public hunting areas in the state.

HUNTERS ARE urged to take proper care of game while in the field. Squirrels should have the entrails removed as soon as killed in order to insure sweet, untainted meat. They should be allowed to cool before being put into the hunting coat.

A 1963 hunting license will be needed to hunt squirrels. The old 1962 license expired Aug. 31. If they hunt on private land, hunters are urged to be sure to get permission from the landowner.

"Squirrel hunting may be dangerous and each year sevdangerous and each year several casualties are reported," game officials emphasize. "Be careful, protect your life and that of others."

'Blue Plan' Good Idea

In the weeks and months ahead Franklin Countians will hear a great deal about the "Blue Plan"—a program of great import to the Central Ohio community.

This comprehensive planning program will assist the total community to examine existing circumstances, determine future goals and objectives, and develop means for attaining these objectives.

The "Blue Plan," for which federal assistance is available, provides for continuing review and revision of comprehensive planning in the light of changing circumstances. It will provide planning to strengthen all local communities within Franklin County without infringing upon the local autonomy of any community.

Under the plan, duplication of effort will be replaced by unity of action. And it seems likely that the plan will be put into action soon.

We strongly urge all residents of Franklin County to listen closely as details of the "Blue Plan" are brought to public attention.

We have learned as a nation that isolationism is a luxury we can ill afford in this day of shrinking distances between nations. Let us now realize how much more important it is that we are not isolated from each other at the county level by a series of imaginary "boundary-walls."

We suggest an "open mind" approach to the "Blue Plan" in all communities as the beginning to the solution of planning problems in each community.

School: No Middle Ground

This is the week of mixed emotions. It is the time when the neighborhood suddenly goes quiet during the hours of 8:30 a.m. to about 3:30 p.m.

It is a happy few days for Mother and—we must truthfully report — a sad occasion for most of the children. It is the end of late television viewing for the small fry and the beginning of interruption of earlier programs for homework assignments.

We are talking about "back to school time." It is the time when Mom hoists the victory flag for having survived another summer, while the children lament the swift passage of time between June and September.

But while our sympathy leans in Mother's direction, we have some words of consolation for the kids. It won't really be long until Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's Day holiday; Easter vacation will not be too long after that, and after that—why June is just around the corner!

How's that for a quick school year?

New Worlds to Conquer

Americanism

On page one of today's editions we have announced an offer whereby subscribers to Hartley Newspapers may obtain copies of documents marking historical milestones of our American heritage.

We are "waving the flag" again, and we are not in the least embarrassed. We believe that our country's continued greatness must be protected by a constant rededication to the basic concepts of freedom.

When we find our capacity for patriotism becoming dulled we need a shot in the moral fiber to withstand the artful propaganda which the enemies of democracy set out to trap the unwary.

The vital force of our national inheritance is ingrained in every word of the Declaration of Independence. To feel the full impact of the words we must stand side by side in memory with the great Americans who breathed life into it.

The spirit is ours when we sit by candlelight in a quiet nook and look over the immortal Abraham Lincoln's shoulder as he pens, en route to Gettysburg: "It is for us the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work . . ."

The spirit is ours when we recreate the eventful 24 hours in the life of Francis Scott Key preceding the birth of the "Star Spangled Banner." As the cannon of the British Navy poured death into Fort McHenry, Key suffered through the long night and by the dawn's early light beheld the sight which brought a prayer to his lips and the words of the ever-living National Anthem from his inspired pen.

Are we to do it without a thrill because we hear it so often? Perhaps. But there must come a time when the inspiration of the moment brings to the singing of our National Anthem the poignancy which makes the eyes misty with the love for our country whose principles we revere.

Showing our love of country is one of the best guarantees that we will continue to have a free country to love.

Variety . . . by I. F. Howell

A lady in Helena, Ark., sent a mimeographed program of the "Battle of Helena Centennial July 4, 1963."

The first event was an artillery salute at 4 a.m. Other events include a battle re-enactment, a marker dedication, an "Old South" parade, and a wreath-laying service at a Confederate cemetery. The lady wrote at the bottom of the page, "Ya'll come. This time we may lick the Yankees."

A century after the tragic War between the States, the once bitter feelings in North and South have been replaced by a more charitable attitude on the part of both. In our four wars and other troubles since Appomattox, the young men of North and South and East and West have marched as comrades-in-arms, as friend and friend, and not as foe and foe. Some may have been surprised, but have learned that most of the rest wear neither wings nor horns, are neither saints on earth nor unmitgated scoundrels. All are Americans, as indeed were their fathers a century ago, even though some may have been misguided about the chief inviolate, fundamental features of our democracy.

In the now 50 states of our Federal Union we celebrated the Fourth of July as the nation's birthday. May 30 is our Memorial Day in the North. Our friends in the South have an earlier one honoring their dead. And why shouldn't they? After all, a man in Gray was just as brave as one in Blue, and his life was just as precious. Death recognizes no one army's banners over those of another and the gods of battles raise no flag but their own.

It says here . . .

By the sacrifice of too much blood and too many tears, we are "one nation indivisible." By God's grace, even yet, in this good land, we may establish "liberty and justice for all."

Guest Pulpit . . Seek 'Perfect Pearl Of Great Price'

In the 13th Chapter of Matthew, we find that Jesus used familiar parables to His hearers to explain to them the nature of the Kingdom of Heaven.

At this point, let us consider the one told in the 45th verse of this chapter in which a merchantman was a collector of pearls. Among the ancients, pearls sold for fabulous prices. It was necessary for the pearls to be perfect and the least imperfection lessened their worth and value.

Rev. Clay

This merchantman knew pearls; he knew "his" own! They were imperfect, so much so that he could not sell them and did not, seemingly, want them. No doubt he had them in stock for a long time. Thus, he was tormented, unsatisfied, worried, and discontented — which forced him to go seeking satisfaction.

Jesus related that the man went out seeking perfect pearls. Behold, he found one pearl of great price! He knew its perfection, its worth and that it was better than what he had. So he sold all of his pearls and bought the "One Pearl of Great Price."

Readers, you and I, as we consider and inspect pearls in our minds and souls, we may find many imperfections as to why life is not full of satisfaction, peace, joy and contentment.

Paul says in Hebrew 12:1: "Let us lay aside every weight and the sin which doth so easily beset us." Jesus is the "Perfect Pearl of Great Price!" Revelation 3:18 states "I counsel thee to buy of me gold tried in the fire." Also, Matthew 7:7 states "Seek and ye shall find."

Jesus located the Kingdom by saying one day in Luke 17:21 "The Kingdom of Heaven is within you." Amen!

Frosting On The Cake

By "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

The long haul toward any worthy goal is neither unique nor avoidable. But it does get so many ambitious men and women down before the journey even gets half way started.

Air castles in Spain are often the moment of inspiration for sound projects. At least, the spark of a great purpose has to be there to get anything worthwhile started.

Then comes the "long haul," and thank Almighty God that in the beginning the forward look is not too dismal.

Costly and heartbreaking mistakes are the common and inevitable lot of all pioneers. But the stout souls grow under pressure and as Harry Truman once said so succinctly, "If you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen."

Great artists in concert and drama are so often publicized as "overnight sensations." That is for the birds. Every great mind and every brilliant talent that finally blossoms into glorious triumph has "traveled the trip" that few have the slightest idea about.

So what? This. Learn by experience and profit by practice and honorable persistency of purpose. Never whine or complain about the rocky roads, but build your own paved highway day by day, week by week, month by month, year by year.

THIS WEEK'S FOOD MARKETS

Loads Of Grapes Are Headed For Market

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:

Fruits—seedless grapes, cantaloupe, apples (cooking varieties), prune plums.

Vegetables—snap beans, green peppers, potatoes, sweet corn, tomatoes, squash.

Other Foods—fryers, beef "specials," ground beef, medium or small eggs, tuna.

Fresh grape season is here. And the supply picture looks good for the three largest months—September, October and November.

California, where over 90 per cent of the grapes in this country are grown, will harvest a record of 3¾ million tons, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Thompson seedless and Flame Tokays are the two varieties that will be in heaviest volume during September.

Mrs. Franks

There are two basic types of grapes, European and American. The European, commonly called Western or table grapes, are suited to growing conditions along the Pacific coast. The American or Eastern grapes are known mostly for their use in juice, jams, jellies and wine, but are also well liked as table grapes. They are grown principally in Pennsylvania, Michigan and New York.

In Ohio, we normally produce about one-half of one per cent of the U.S. grape crop, but this year the crop is smaller than usual. The Ohio Crop Reporting Service estimates only about 41 per cent of an average crop as a result of the late frosts in May. However, in Ottawa County the grape crop looks good.

If you like the Eastern grapes, watch for them during September and October. Fredonias—blue-black, multi-use grapes—are in the markets now and Concords will come later this month. And, if you're lucky, you may find the Delaware—a light red, small, juicy and very sweet grape, considered the highest quality of American type table grapes. The Niagara—an amber-to-white grape that is sweet and juicy may also be found occasionally at roadside markets.

Western table grapes that will come to market from now through November are Thompson seedless, red and white Malaga, Ribier, Tokay and Almeria. Abundant at Thanksgiving and Christmas time will be Emperors, the leading table grape.

Regardless of the variety, select grapes that have bright, plump, fresh looking berries that are firmly attached to the stem. High color, characteristic of the variety, usually indicates well developed sugar content and flavor. The Thompson seedless are sweetest when they begin to turn amber.

Clusters of chilled colorful grapes stand on their own laurels as a snack, appetizer or dessert, yet they combine perfectly with other fruits. Grapes make many salads even better. Try combining some of the bargain seedless ones this week with cubed ham or chicken for a luncheon salad.

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

LETTER TO A FRESHMAN . . .

Dear Frosh:

So you're going to college. Your parents and their adult friends have told you you are lucky. And they are right. But a college education isn't what it was 25 or 30 years ago. It's better. And generally, it's harder to achieve.

Jones

There are still a few easy schools, places where they are likely to pass anybody with a discernible pulse. But these are getting rarer. The old-time "country clubs" that used to receive you with open arms after you'd been fired out of the Ivy League are getting pretty peeksniffish. They've got waiting lists.

Some of the big state universities still have to take anyone who has a high school diploma. And because some high schools are pretty awful, the universities enroll a lot of freshmen who aren't ready. But they have a gimmick. They throw out the loafers and the staggerers after a semester. It's sad to be bounced out of college, particularly in these days when there aren't many colleges you can bounce to.

Remember this: The first 90 days are critical. If you're on top of your work by Christmas you'll probably survive. Don't let the glamor get you.

You may not have made the college of your choice. Maybe you flunked the entrance exams, or perhaps your dad couldn't pay the freight. So you're enrolled in the home town school or in some little place so undistinguished that they still play football for fun.

Quit feeling sorry for yourself. Any college can be a good one. There's more information in the library of Hootenanny Tech than you'll ever get into your head. The great universities with their distinguished faculties are fine. It's exciting to sit in on a lecture by a world-famous professor, and a big-name diploma can be handy in job-hunting.

But ordinary quiz sections in the famous schools are often taught by assistants who know less than the full professors who would teach you in a small school. And if the great universities boast a disproportionate number of alumni in "Who's Who" don't forget that a lot of these grads had fathers with money and influence. The boys advanced, not so much because they were better taught, but because they had a running start.

You will soon start getting acquainted with professors. Professors are human beings. They come in all sizes and shapes. Some are not very bright. Given enough persistence, almost anybody who is literate can eventually win a Ph.D. And some are marvelously intelligent and delightful people.

Just remember Will Rogers' remark: "Everybody is ignorant, only along different lines." Professors are not all-around oracles. One of the greatest of modern minds, Albert Einstein, probably came to more naive political conclusions than the corner bootblack. If you cover yourself with a doctor's hood you can stand out in a heavy rain of facts and never feel a drop.

But an able professor is a joy. If you really want an education, avoid the clods. If someone tells you that Professor X is an easy grader, try Professor Y. The best teachers do just that. They teach. They are not interested in providing day nurseries for young men who have retired prematurely and for young ladies who are merely husband-hunting.

College is a bringing-out process. It will not make a bad person good or a good person bad. If you are born intelligent it will bring out your intelligence and if you are born a bum it will bring out your bumness. There are no "college drunks." There are only people who revealed themselves as soon as parental restraints were removed.

But college can be a shocking experience. Some youngsters are brought up with a lot of beliefs that won't stand the light of academic inquiry. The first class in geology or sociology or political science can be pretty upsetting.

And out of this upset is born the college radical who seeks to compensate for his confusion in hot-eyed activism, or the college cynic who sneers because he is, for the moment, without convictions. Time usually cures both diseases.

Look at it this way: You climb a hill. The world looks different. But it is not a different world. What you see is merely an enlarged horizon, a broadened perspective. The points of the compass have not been repealed. There are still eternal truths and lasting values and good things worth fighting and dying for. The fact that all Greece can be seen at a glance from a jet plane hasn't rendered obsolete what earth-bound Plato taught in Athens' little Agora.

College is not the only way to get an education. The world abounds with effective self-taught men and women. College is merely the easiest way to get an education. It hands you carefully programmed and in logical sequence the fruits of man's discoveries.

College is a great privilege. Don't just accept it. Seize it.

Seek Members For Boys' 'Y'

Boys' Branch YMCA is now accepting memberships for boys 8-17 in the following activities:

Swimming instruction classes from non-swimmer to varsity swimmers and life saving is being given by the scientifically designed YMCA graded swimming program. This fall the swimming program will include a special "speed" swimming class for boys interested in competitive swimming. The pool is hygenically controlled, properly heated and ventilated, and qualified supervision is always present.

The gymnasium program stresses coordination, alertness and physical fitness by use of selective exercises, tumbling, active games, relays and gymnastics, including trampoline. All classes are followed by a recreational swim.

The "Y" is in the process of organizing a coed gymnastic club. This club meets every Friday evening for girls interested in competitive gymnastics, diving, ballet, and cheer leading. More information about YMCA activities is available by calling the Boys' Branch at CA. 4-1131.

Complaint Is Lodged By Sawyer

A petition circulated for Frank Peters as a candidate for the Hamilton Local Township School board has been challenged.

Walter G. Sawyer, 7002 Lockbourne-rd, according to a spokesman of the Franklin County Board of Elections, filed the complaint which will be heard next Monday by the Election Board.

If the complaint is validated by the hearing, Peters' name will not appear on the ballot in November and the field will be limited to R. J. Claybaugh, Robert Hufford and Herbert Gibbs. Two seats are open this year.

Supporting Sawyer's claim is an affidavit signed by Stanley Warning of Lockbourne, stating that the petition that he signed was in the hands of Ralph Roof of 5057 Lockbourne-rd.

The petition was notarized to the effect that the circulator was R. J. Claybaugh.

The spokesman for the Board of Elections stated that it is contended that Roof in fact circulated four petitions, two of which were for Peters and the others for Claybaugh.

Such procedure of circulating petitions for more than one candidate is not contrary to law, but the name of the circulator must agree with that name appearing on the paper as the circulator.

Huntington Bank Seeks Rezoning For New Site

If the Canal Winchester zoning board acts favorably on the application scheduled for hearing ... Thursday night, the village will be on its way to boasting of a new bank building.

However, it will sacrifice a landmark if the construction takes place.

The Huntington National Bank has asked to be heard on its request for commercial zoning classification of three lots on the northeast corner of High and Columbus-sts.

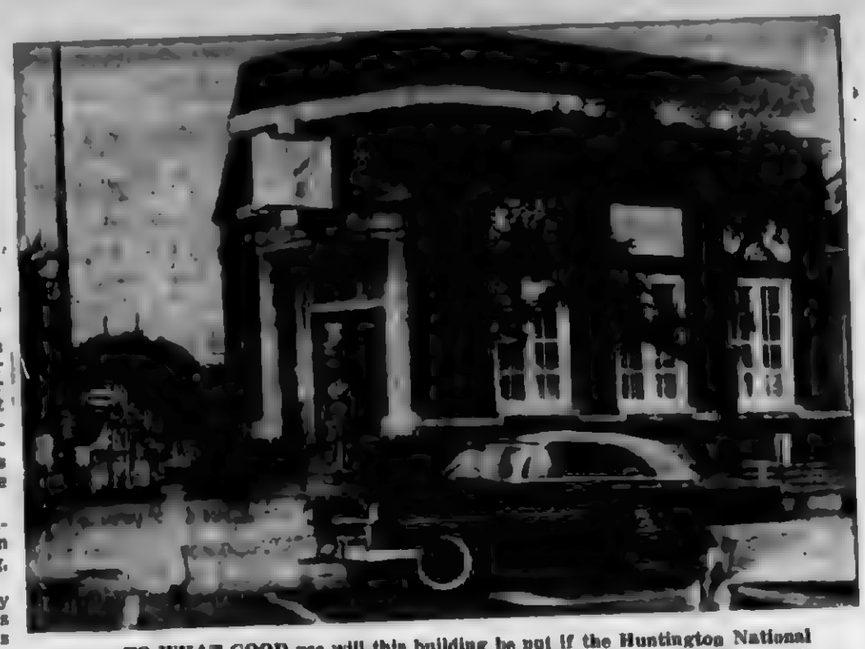
If, after the series of legal steps necessary, the request is approved by council, the Canal Winchester branch of the bank will be relocated on lots 8, 9 and 10, Dove Cove Addition.

The old Wheeler Hotel, now the home of Paul and Helen Shade occupies one of these lots and two residences formerly owned by Margaret Jones of Columbus but recently acquired by Huntington National, occupy the other lots.

Rex Davis, Huntington vice-president, explained that though the old hotel site is now zoned commercial, some doubt exists as to the exact boundaries between the properties. For this reason the bank is seeking confirmation of the commercial classfication for that lot as well to avoid any future confusion.

After the zoning board hears the case it will then make a recommendation to the village council. If council should tentatively approve a rezoning procedure, a public hearing would be scheduled, advertised and held. Only after these steps could the zoning become an actuality.

With negotiations in preliminary stages, the bank has no firm plans, but it is generally conceded that it wishes to build a bank, with drive-in facilities and a parking lot for its customers.



Though a contract exists between the Shades and the bank, it is contingent upon approval of the rezoning application.

Mrs. Shade who manages the well-known and popular Shade Restaurant next door to the proposed site asked that it be emphasized that the restaurant is in no way connected with the proposal, and is not and will not be for sale to the bank or anyone else.

Rumors have been persistent concerning the disposition of the present bank building, a block to the northwest.

Davis stated emphatically that the bank has no plans for its use or disposal at this time, and that it cannot seriously consider any offers until it is a fact that a site for a new building is available.

Asked what would happen if the zoning request was turned down, Davis agreed with the statement of another officer of the institution that they would have two residences for sale immediately.

TO WHAT GOOD use will this building be put if the Huntington National moves? That is the question that residents of Canal Winchester are asking each other. According to bank officials it is too early to discuss the matter as they have not yet received council approval for the rezoning of a proposed site.

Campaign—

... at a crucial time in the history of civil rights and racial relationships. He said that the commission met only once during the first three years of the Westlake administration.

"Indecision — and lack of leadership — has been painfully evident in connection with water service to the people of Columbus and adjoining communities," Sensenbrenner charged.

"For the tipoff on what's going on, all you have to do is look at the water rate survey that J. S. Sawvel, consultant, submitted to the city."

Sensenbrenner quoted passages from a story and an accompanying editorial that appeared in Hartley newspapers of July 10. The story dealt with a letter from Sawvel to Columbus Finance Director C. Wayne Freeman in which the consultant said he was "convinced that the adoption of the proposed rates, together with the proper publicity, will enhance the political stature of the present administration and will be a 'feather in its hat.'"

"The Development Committee for Greater Columbus," Sensenbrenner continued, "has pointed out that the Sawvel report doesn't include cost-of-service data. But this respected committee's objections have been brushed off. And to this day nobody knows what the service costs are."

Sensenbrenner also criticized the city's plans to dump sludge from the McKinley-av water plant into Franklin Lake, a spring-fed, 28-acre lake off McKinley-av, and owned by the Marble Cliff Quarries Co. "The lake," he said, "could become an important addition to the city's parks and recreation facilities. The administration would ruin it for that purpose."

Sensenbrenner told the news conference gathering that, during his six years as mayor "Columbus grew more in square miles than it had grown in all of the city's 120 previous years." He said his administration's "planned program of annexation" more than doubled the size of Columbus in six years.

In nearly four years, Sensenbrenner charged, the Westlake administration has added only four and one-half square miles.

"While I was mayor," Sensenbrenner said, "the city built three recreation centers, improved garbage and rubbish collections, and started a program of rail crossing elimination. . . Also while I was in office the city installed its first traffic light synchronization system, and was the first city to get federal civil defense funds for that purpose.

"In 1958 we established the Department of Finance which set up an investment program that has saved and earned the city more than $1 million.

"When the present mayor was a councilman, he voted against the establishment of the department. And yet when he became mayor, he retained the department, but has done nothing to expand its functions.

"During my administration, the Negro was given deserved recognition. I formed a Commission on Community Relations which met regularly and remained active as long as I was mayor."

Sensenbrenner listed a campaign platform that calls for the following:

1. Let the people in on what's going on.

2. Work closely with Regional Planning Commission in developing a Master Plan.

3. Establish a top-flight industrial and professional commission to work with the governor and the Ohio Department of Development to attract new industrial plants — and thence more jobs, more economic security and growth for the city.

4. Invite Ohio State University, Capital University and Battelle Memorial Institute to play a more active part in the community.

5. Upgrade the Traffic Engineers Department so as to be able to cope with mounting traffic and parking problems.

6. Push a program to extend sewers, water and other municipal services as rapidly as possible to newly annexed areas. Work with the Scioto Water Conservance program to help assure an adequate water supply in the future for Columbus and Franklin County.

7. Recommend a study to determine the feasibility of joint city-county services in several areas, such as health, which has been recommended by the Academy of Medicine.

8. Help develop adequate, common-sense welfare and health programs. Push vocational counseling and rehabilitation programs.

9. Expand park and recreation facilities to meet the leisure-time demands of the people.

10. Form special police squads in a campaign to make the streets of Columbus safe for people, at night as well as in the daytime.

Sensenbrenner said that the program he set forth is one of leadership and action. "We've got to have the help of an informed citizenry to carry it out," he said. "But it can be done. We can, with leadership, citizen participation, and forthright action . . . make a dramatic breakthrough. We can make our All-American city one of the best known, best loved, most respected, and most thoroughly enjoyed home towns in the whole United States."

Suspend Permits

The Ohio State Liquor Control Commission handed down the following decisions on July 24, affecting the following places of business:

A 14-day suspension, beginning Tuesday, Sept. 3, of the liquor permit issued to Sabre Jet, Inc., 413 Marion-rd, for selling and furnishing beer to minors on the premises. The date of the violation was Nov. 3, 1962.

A second 14-day suspension, beginning Tuesday, Sept. 17, of the liquor permit issued to Sabre Jet, Inc., 431 Marion-rd, for the sale of intoxicating liquor to a person in an intoxicated condition. The date of this violation was Apr. 5, 1963.

A 70-day suspension, beginning on Tuesday, Oct. 1, of the permit issued to Sabre Jet, Inc., 431 Marion-rd, for allowing improper conduct in and upon the permit premises on May 18.

Two charges of violations against the Sabre Jet, Inc., were dismissed by the assistant attorney general without prejudice.

The Dione quintuplets were born May 28, 1934, at Callender, Ontario, Canada.

Spectator—

will be some trying times. Everything will not be "slick as a whistle."

But it can be a beautiful adventure if you resolve that "he who loves the most, lives the most."

Right now you are on Cloud Nine.

Just keep that cloud floating along. Don't let it drop down in the fog.

Never believe that there will come a day when the honeymoon is over. Don't be influenced by some "friends" who tell you it will be different some day.

Believe ... believe that it will never change ... except to grow

And as you believe ... it will be.

Maybe Sir Hugh Walpole summed up what I'm thinking and certainly he expressed it far better than I can do ...

"The most wonderful of all things in life, I believe, is the discovery of another human being with whom one's relationship has a glowing depth, beauty and joy as years increase. The inner progressiveness of love between two human beings is a marvelous thing. It cannot be found by looking for it and by passionately wishing for it. It is sort of a 'Divine Accident.'"

ARTHUR BOLENBAUGH IS

A Man Whose Hobbies Turned Into Vocations

WITH JUSTIFIABLE pride, Arthur Bolenbaugh holds up a branch of a heavily-laden Red Delicious tree. Each apple without blemish from fungus or insects gives mute testimony to the meticulous care with which he attends his orchard.

"HER MAJESTY" and the crane arrestingly posed on one leg by the Mexican artist J. Pinali are at the far right of Bolenbaugh's valuable collection of carved figures. The monk from Pakistan on the top shelf stands next to the ebony head from Africa. Don Quixote, the tall figure at the far right, complete with his lance for tilting with windmills, is another valued example of Mexican art. The ducks are from Madagascar.

By JANE ROBINSON

High on a windy hill, southeast of Canal Winchester, lives an octegenarian who disproves an old proverb.

Arthur Bolenbaugh is Jack of all trades and master of each.

To most of the villagers of Canal Winchester he was long known as the proprietor of the local hardware store, operated by his father before him.

To his neighbors down on Chestnut hill off Betzer-rd, he is an orchardist, devoted to the production of fine fruit.

At the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond his name appears with that of former deans.

The research world recognizes him as a chemist in the field of agricultural fertilizers and sprays.

And slight-seers know him as the dreamer who first had nine long curving terraces built around the site of his future home before the four leveled structure known as "Overlook Apartments" began to rise against the landscape.

In his living room is a small plaque that reads; "I like to see a man proud of the place in which he lives. I like to see a man live so that his place will be proud of him."

Those words of Abraham Lincoln are apt as there is certainly ample reason for mutual pride between Bolenbaugh and his home.

A bachelor, this remarkable gentleman had never had a home of his own until the late 1950's, when he began upon a dream of many years to build upon the crest of the hill where his 20-acre orchard lies.

As excavation for the lower levels of the sprawling building was made (at some points it is 150 feet long and uniformly 40 feet wide) tons of sandstone were removed.

It is this stone that was used for the terraces almost surrounding the home that lend so much to its beauty.

As the building rose slowly (it was a pay-as-you-go project) the many facets of Bolenbaugh's life were taken into consideration.

The practical businessman included two spacious apartments for rental to help make Overlook self-supporting. Deep within the heart of the building is a storage room with a capacity for 4,000 crates of apples and an adjoining packing room.

Off his own quarters on the top level is a laboratory which is small, but carefully equipped for his research.

With an enthusiasm usually found only in a man decades younger then himself, Bolenbaugh is determined to perfect the non-toxic combination insecticide and fungicide he believes must be developed. (Many of the chemicals used for protection of fruit today are so poisonous that vegetation under the trees are killed by it, operators can apply them only when protected by gas masks, and Federal law prohibits their use near harvest time.

Still another side of the World War I captain came to light when Francis Bitler one of the younger men to whom the retired hardware merchant has sold controling interest in the store, spoke of his associate.

"Mr. Bolenbaugh has always given graciously and generously in every way to the welfare of the community," he said.

Though at last away from the problems of a retailer, it is with unflagging interest that he encouraged the construction of a parking lot adjacent to the hardware store, by Bolenbaugh's and Conrad's Market.

"Safe and convenient parking is necessary in any village," he said.

"Mr. Bolenbaugh has always been behind anything that is good for the community," Bitler explained.

Obviously gaining a great deal of satisfaction from his role as a fruit grower, this gentlemen who has such difficulty in keeping his hobbies from becoming full-fledged vocations, evidenced only one regret.

Asked whether he would advise a young man today to go into hardware or horticulture, he ruefully commented, "I only wish I could tell youth to do as I have done — start an orchard. But is just isn't practical."

He was referring to the financial struggles a fruit grower must face today with rising costs and prices not keeping pace.

He laughed when asked to confirm that his home "was not the house that apples built."

"I'm afraid not," he said.

No, the show place sprawling on the plateau believed to be the second highest spot in Ohio was built from the stuff that dreams are made of, with the help of the savings of a clear-headed business man who for 40-years operated a hardware store on the principle of the Golden Rule.

Trying to find a category for this versatile character is like chasing quicksilver.

Only one fact emerged after talking with him several hours.

In Fairfield county, high on a windy hill, lives a contented man.

SILHOUETTED against the huge picture window, the "gentleman of the hills" overlooks the valley to the South. On clear days one can see 15 miles towards Lancaster and Buckeye Lake.

FIFTY WOODS FROM all over the world were used to make the mosaic over the fireplace in Bolenbaugh's spacious living room. Tulipwood from Africa, teak from India, holly from Argentina, lacewood from Australia and thuya burl from the Holyland are but a few of the rarely seen woods in the mural.

BUILT WITH THE sandstone excavated for the sprawling four-leveled Outlook Apartments, the terraces surrounding the structure have allowed it to blend into the landscape. The circular drives allow entrance to Bolenbaugh's fourth floor apartment at its own level, or from the subterranean elevator.

WANT THE INSIDE STORY? HERE'S THE FACTS, MAM

The Biggest Auction Ever Held Coming Up

BY JANE ROBINSON

Put your ear to the ground next Tuesday shortly before 6 p.m.

The rumble you'll hear will be the thousands of people hurrying from every direction to the big auction the South Side Business and Industrial Association is holding down at the new Steelton parking lot that will be dedicated at 8 o'clock that night.

But there are odd sounds in the air right now.

They are rumors flying about the "Big Night."

Your community newspaper has tried to chase those rumors down.

But with rumors like quicksilver, to get the absolute truth, it is recommended that everyone come and see for himself.

For what it is worth, here is what our research showed.

RUMOR: The Kennedy family will be there.

FACTS (AS YOUR EDITOR FOUND THEM): Well, they better be with a Caroline, a Jacqueline, 12 Johns, (as well as five Jacks) and 11 Bobs in the phone book, it's reasonable to believe the Kennedys will be represented. But it's a fact that Mayor Westlake, George Hoermle, Bill Fornof and half of City Hall will be on hand.

RUMOR: A free turkey dinner will be served to everyone who comes.

FACTS (AYEFT): Since Thanksgiving is only 10 weeks away the committee decided against this. But there will be hot dogs and pop, cotton candy and popcorn for everyone at a price you can't pass up.

RUMOR: Miss Universe is being flown in to cut the ribbons for the new parking lot.

FACTS (AYEFT): With flying weather always uncertain it was decided to play it safe and rely on local talent. The ribbons will be snipped by Judy Robinson, South Side's own contribution to "A More Beautiful Columbus" who was selected as queen of the annual CSSO beauty contest last July 4.

RUMOR: A Cadillac convertible, a supersonic jet, a half-dozen mink coats and a trip around the world will be given away.

FACTS (AYEFT): Slightly exaggerated. But every 30 minutes the auction will be stopped and one or more prizes will be given to those with the lucky numbers.

RUMOR: Withdrawals from savings accounts in local banks by bargain hunters have the financial world tearing its collective hair.

FACTS (AYEFT): Absolutely unfounded. It won't take folding money, just piggy-bank change to pick up some of the greatest bargains ever offered on the South Side.

RUMOR: The Coliseum has been drafted into use to store the thousands of items that are pouring in daily to be sold and include the Hope Diamond, a crocheted cuspidor and seven baby kittens.

FACTS (AYEFT): This story was especially difficult to trace down. Fairground officials have not released any information as to the rental of storage space and SSBIA committees are evasive in their answers, claiming only that there's everything from clothing to automobiles cached away.

RUMOR: Joe Bronson, chairman of the auction and Robert Howitz, general chairman of the dedication, and his co-chairman, John Marshall, deserve all the credit for making this dual event a huge success.

FACTS: (AYEFT): Typical of a lot of gossip that is half-truth. These gentlemen have worked day and night to put this auction and dedication over, but they've had lots of help from practically every member of the SSBIA and the Steelton Merchants. Furthermore, all their work will go for nothing if YOU don't show up on the red letter day, Tuesday, Sept. 17.

See page 5 for list of committeemen who are collecting donations.

'REACH!'

It's no holdup when you place a Hartley Newspapers Want Ad. Its small cost is a sound investment. And you'll be surprised how far an ad can "reach." Mrs. John Canfield recently rented her house to a Chicago man returning to Columbus. He called long distance after subscribing just to get the Want Ads. Call BR. 4-1155 today.

Our Apologies . . .

In this space in our Aug. 15, 1963, issue we printed a photograph showing the well-kept front yard, with fence and walk of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Jones, 800 Mohawk. This was done in connection with an article on the new German Village Ordinance.

We wish to make it amply clear that Mr. and Mrs. Jones were perfectly within their legal rights when they installed the fence and sidewalk and that they still may lawfully maintain them. If any other impression was given, it was wholly unintentional. We certainly did not wish to cause anyone any embarrassment. If we did, we sincerely apologize.

PLEDGED TO THE PRINCIPLES set forth by the founder of CSSO, "Cap" Hoover, the new officers of CSSO were sworn into office by Mayor Westlake last week. From the left are Jim Wagner, executive secretary; Howard Henry, secretary; Michael Lower, president; Jim Marshall, first vice-president; Howard Storch, treasurer and Louis Dimel, recording secretary. On the nominating committee were William Neno, Paul Stecker and Richard Gramlick.

61 YEARS A BRIDE

A BOUQUET, a gift of Sims Florists, was awarded to Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Scott Simms, 207 E. Welch-av, at the Golden Wedding Party. Married in 1902 they were the longest married couple present. Dr. Simms is 95 years young.

Michael Lower Takes Over CSSO'S Gavel

When Michael Lower took over the gavel from retiring president, Mike Mileusnich, at the installation of officers of the Council of South Side Organizations, he accepted a post that carries not only responsibility but a pledge.

From the standing ovation given to the founder of the CSSO, Cap Hoover, at the annual chicken and corn banquet preceding the ceremony last Friday night at the South Y Park it was evident that the group is dedicated to upholding the principles he set for the organization to follow.

In the audience were such personages as Mayor W. Ralston Westlake, Councilmen George Hoermle, Bill Fornof, R. E. DeVore, Robert Southwick, Police Chief George Scholer and a host of others.

But the honors went to "Cap", long-time Y director, who got the CSSO off on the right foot back in 1940 and whose example has been an inspiration to everyone who has attempted to fill his shoes.

The above is representative of the genuine admiration for Hoover expressed by members and guests alike during the brief introductions.

Reviewing the progress that has been made on the South Side during recent years, "Cap" praised the group highly because they have gone after what they wanted, but in a "gentlemanly way."

"If we haven't gotten what we wanted just when we wanted it, we haven't twisted anyone's arm nor lost our dignity," he pointed out.

It was plain that the thanks he gave to the council for continuing the principles upon

UNCLE DOC TELLS A STORY

WHETHER ON THE PLATFORM or mingling with the guests, Dr. Galen Starr "Uncle Doc" Rose, president of Capitol College of Oratory and Music, holds the floor. Here he speaks with Mrs. Florence Rostofer, Groveport, guest at the Hartley Newspapers-Shade's Restaurant fourth annual Golden Wedding party last Friday in Canal Winchester. At the left is Miss Janet Michael, Hartley society editor, who with Mrs. Helen Shade, far right, handled the arrangements for the party and acted as a hostess. For more pictures and details of the affair see Page 3.

Frank Fetch Again Tapped As President

Frank Fetch, known to many as "Mr. German Village," will again head the slate of officers to be installed at the quarterly general membership meeting of the German Village Society Inc., Sunday, Sept. 15. The members will convene on the patio of the office at 624 S. Third-st, at 7 p.m.

Other familiar names include Col. William Allen, who moves up from sergeant-at-arms to vice-president, and Miss Marie Warren and Mrs. Dorothy Fischer, who will again serve as secretary and treasurer, respectively.

A new face will be seen when Emil Rueckel takes over as sergeant-at-arms. A change from last year's slate was necessitated by the resignation of Arthur E. Remmerts who is now vice-president.

Fetch reported that Rueckel' resignation was due to other demands on his time. Ralph Long was appointed to fill out the unexpired portion of Rueckel's membership on the board of trustees from which officers are selected.

With 300 members, according to Fetch, the society is not actively seeking new membership.

However, he stated, any person who is genuinely interested in the goals of the society which is stated in the constitution "as the preservation and restoration of the property in the German Village area and to the retention of its charm and unique old world atmosphere" is invited to attend the meeting Sunday. Applications for membership must be approved by the board.

Film will be shown of the 1963 annual German Village Tour and refreshments served.

IN FRONT OF the office of the German Village Society they helped to found stand Col. William Allen and Frank Fetch, right. Though Fetch has filled the chair of presidency since the beginning of the organization, Allen has just stepped up to the vice-presidency from sergeant-at-arms. Allen also will fill the newly-created post of private tour chairman. The men explained that groups of varying size are constantly asking for tours of the village and its restored homes, demanding a chairman to make the necessary arrangements.

All Invited To Fairport Hootenanny

With the talents of Spook Beckman and the melody of The Yeomen as entertainment, the Hootenanny at the Fairport Shopping Center on S. Hamilton-rd this Thursday, Sept. 12, has a lot to offer.

And it's all for a good cause.

The affair, which is from 7 to 10 p.m., is sponsored by the Peck-O' Wee Ones Foundation, Inc., for the benefit of uneducable children living in its children's home. For further details on the work of the foundation see story and picture on page 5.

Otto C. Heinzerling, director, has announced that there will be gifts for all the children, prizes and games for everyone and square dancing.

Heinzerling urges that everyone who loves folk music, a good time and has a place in his heart for handicapped children turn out for the evening of fun.

Area Students Have Day Off September 20

Friday, Sept. 20, will be a special day for area school students, because there will be no school, and an important day for their teachers, because that's the date of the 92nd annual convention for the Central Ohio Teachers Association in Columbus.

While the students are enjoying their day off from classroom work, the teachers will be listening to talks by outstanding educators and discussing how schools can keep in step with the rapidly advancing "space age," as it affects the overall educational program.

The day-long convention will open at 9:30 a.m. with a general session at St. John Arena on the Ohio State University campus. Nearly 12,000 educators from 13 counties in central Ohio are expected to attend.

In carrying out the convention theme "Horizons of the Space Age," association officials have engaged Dr. Jerry C. McCall, staff assistant to Dr. Wernher von Braun, to make a major address at the convention's general session.

Officials have also invited Col. John H. Glenn to share in the general conference session. Although the illustrious Buckeye astronaut has indicated a "warm desire" to be present, he has been unable to make a firm commitment in cooperation with the National Aeronautics and Space Agency. Meanwhile, the Central Ohio Teachers Association waits in hope.

At noon the teachers will divide into 36 groups to take part in discussions covering a wide range of educational topics. Discussions will emphasize new ideas, promising trends in the educational world, and gearing the schools for new responsibilities in the "space age."

Adult Education Slated At Groveport Madison

The Madison Local School Board is planning to offer an adult education program this fall for the first time.

With registration yet to come plans are still tentative, but call for classes once a week from 7 to 9:10 p.m., which would probably be held on Tuesday nights.

The courses would continue for 12 weeks, and although no credit would be earned, a certificate would be awarded for completion of each course.

An $8 registration fee would be required and a minimum of 12 students must enter before a class is actually offered. Teachers would be drawn from the present faculty.

According to Phillip K. Williams, executive head, nine courses of instruction are being considered for the curriculum, including art, bookkeeping I, drawing, men's physical conditioning, sewing, shorthand, speech, typing and wood working.

None of the courses would be open to students currently enrolled in the high school.

Williams is planning to advertise pertinent details of the program immediately so that classes can begin by Oct. 1.

REPORTS FOR DUTY

William S. Scott, interior communications electrician fireman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Scott of 3984 Woodbridge-rd, recently reported for duty aboard the guided missile light cruiser USS Springfield, flagship of the Sixth Fleet and currently undergoing yard overhaul in the Brooklyn, N. Y., Naval Shipyard.

Woman Hurt In Groveport Crash

A two-car crash early Saturday on Groveport-pk, half a mile west of Groveport, resulted in rib and head injuries to a Lancaster woman, and lesser injuries to a man from Groveport.

Sarah Edwards, 32, of Lancaster, was hospitalized at Mercy Hospital after a car driven by Norma Romine, 42, of RFD 1, Carroll, was struck in the rear by one driven by Edward Brooks, 40, of Groveport, according to the Ohio Highway Patrol.

Brooks was treated and released at the hospital for head cuts.

Patrolmen report that both autos were eastbound, when Brooks attempted to pass and struck the rear of the other car. The autos then collided again after swerving to opposite sides of the road.

IN MEDITERRANEAN

Jack M. Britton, boilerman second class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred F. Britton of 601 Lehman-st, is serving aboard the destroyer USS Harlan R. Dickson, an Atlantic Fleet unit slated to return to the U.S. Sept. 5 after six months duty with the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean.

Sweden and Finland provide 40 per cent of the newsprint used in Europe.

MORE FORTUNATE than some of their home-mates are these two little girls at the Peck O' Wee Ones Children's Home. At least they are not doomed to spend their lives in a crib. Here they are introduced to the wonders of swinging by Director Otto C. Heinzerling.

AT THE PEAK O' WEE ONES HOME THERE IS

Tender, Loving Care Given To The Helpless

"I wept because I had no shoes. Then I met a man who had no feet."

Certainly there can be no better therapy for anyone dissatisfied with his lot in life than a visit to the Peck O' Wee Ones Children's Home at 4216 E. Broad-st.

There are living 15 wee souls, all of whom have been adjudged so severely mentally retarded that they are uneducable.

It is not a school — for these tots there is no learning.

It is not a hospital — for these children there is no hope.

It is only a haven where these "wee ones" can be kept clean, comfortable and the fortunate few who have some understanding given the love and tenderness that can allow them a degree of security.

After a life-long career in the Navy, Otto C. Heinzerling and his wife established this refuge, four years ago, pouring their time and money and hearts into the care of the small living tragedies that were brought to them.

Last year the home was incorporated as a non-profit organization with Heinzerling as its director.

A trip through the home is shocking to the uninitiated.

In one room lay three infants that few could ever forget.

First was the several months old little girl, looking very much like most little babies. That is, she looks normal until one notices the tumor-like sac at the back of her neck which houses her brain. The skull itself is empty.

Across from her lies a four-year-old boy with the body of a six-month-old baby. He cannot swallow, so is fed through a permanent tube into the digestive tract. He is without intelligence, because of oxygen starvation. During birth his brain was so severely damaged that in four years his only response has been to some bells hanging on his crib. He will never grow, mentally or physically.

The third occupant of the room is also four years old. But his body is dwarfed and the baby-like neck and shoulders can never support the man-sized head.

Their medical diagnoses in this home vary widely: cerebral palsy, congenital malformation, mongoloidism, microcephalism, epilepsy, etc.

But the prognoses are heartbreakingly alike. For these children who never had a chance, there is only custodial care until their eventual death.

For some it may come mercifully soon. But others may live a lifetime imprisoned by minds and bodies that are useless to them.

In the meantime Heinzerling, who by anyone's standards is a dedicated man, and his staff work tirelessly to do what they can to alleviate the suffering and try to bring a little happiness into the lives of those who aren't completely beyond the realm of emotion.

The funds paid to the foundation by the parents or a sponsoring organization for the care of these children are not adequate to cover the needs of the home. In the continuing struggle for the equipment needed the Foundation has scheduled a Hootenanny (publicized on page one) this Thursday night at the Fairport Shopping Center.

Everyone who turns out will be buying help for the helpless.

IN FRONT of the children's home for severely retarded children stands Otto C. Heinzerling, director of the Peck O' Wee Ones Foundation, Inc. Only having been incorporated as a non-profit foundation within the past year, the organization is not yet eligible for United Appeals membership and must supplement its income with benefits such as its Hootenanny at Fairport Shopping Center this Thursday evening.

which it was founded were sincere, and that the pledges of the officers to continue were heart-felt.

Among the advances listed by CSSO members and Mayor Westlake were the miles of sewer and water lines, street lighting, the Lincoln Park sub-station and recreation center, which are under way, the city parks and new schools and churches.

The annual affair was well attended with representatives from practically every organization of the South Side. The guest list included, in addition to those already mentioned, Fire Chief Walter G. Strickfaden, Safety Director Albert G. Giles, Service Director Ernest H. Stork, Parks and Forestry Superintendent J. Richard Lawwill, Traffic Engineer John Gallagher, Recreation Director Nick Barack, Howard Johnson of the Public Utilities Commission, Mike Mileushnich and Ed Dumaree.

Some might think all the dignitaries showed up because the CSSO banquet is famed as offering the "best eating of the year."

However, it rang more true when Mayor Westlake stated that they liked to come year after year because here the people were "just a little bit more sincere, just a little bit more friendly."

MEET NEW OFFICERS OF CSSO

The men who will serve as the officers of the CSSO are well-known to most South Siders.

But just to keep the record straight, following is a list of the organizations they represent and their occupations.

President Michael Lower is a representative of Kiwanis and is principal of Marion-Franklin High School.

First vice-president John Marshall, member of the South Side Business and Industrial Association, is advertizing manager for the Skyhawk.

Second vice-president Leo Gaffin of Gaffin's Greenhouse represents the Marion Franklin Civic Association.

Secretary Howard Henry is active in YMCA work when not on duty as a mail carrier.

Recording Secretary Louis Dimel is retired but still vitally interested in Y activities.

Treasurer Howard Storch of the Ohio National Bank is a member of both the SSBIA and Lions.

Executive Secretary James L. Wagner represents the Y of which he is the director and also the Lions.

The southernmost capital city in the world is Wellington, New Zealand, and the northernmost is Reykjavik, Iceland.

Information about NFA is available from Jeri Jones, BR. 4-0098.

PRECISION FLYING AT ITS best will be seen next Saturday when the sparkling red, white and blue jets perform an "aerial ballet" at Kiwanis Kids' Day at Lockbourne. In the formation pictured the fighters maneuver so tightly they appear to be a single craft. Never during the breath-taking performance will the planes be more than a mile from the spectators.

THUNDERBIRDS TO FLY AT KIWANIS KIDS' DAY

Lockbourne Throws Open House

Children of the area will join the 51 million spectators who have been thrilled and awe-struck by the Air Force's supersonic Thunderbirds when the "aerial acrobats" perform at Kiwanis Kids' Day.

One of these "Kiwanis Kids" will be chosen as honorary Base Commander. (See coupon on this page which will enter your name in the drawing.)

The gates at Lockbourne AFB will open at 11 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 21, and the Thunderbirds will go into action at 2:30 p.m.

Flying with the wingtips of the F-100 Super Sabres overlapping three feet and "broomstick" clearance vertically, the crack flyers will hit speeds of 1200 miles per hour at low altitude immediately over the crowd.

All Central Ohio is invited to watch and wonder as the planes are taken through a sequence of loops, rolls, whifferdills, corkscrew changeovers and cloverleaf turns.

The entire program at Lockbourne planned for this 10th annual Kids' Day begins at 1 p.m., and before 5 p.m. when the exciting day is over, the kids will have been introduced to all the jet aircraft at the base, had their first look at a long-range supersonic missile designed to intercept enemy aircraft and missiles, and watched the famed sentry dogs in action.

Radio and television stars will be on hand and every half hour prizes will be given away.

Don't forget to fill out this coupon and mail before midnight, Wednesday, Sept. 18.

Ohio BSA Council Leaders Will Train

A "Show and Do" training experience which will involve practically all members of the professional and veteran volunteer scouters of the Central Ohio Council, Boy Scouts of America, will be held for all interested scouters at Camp Lazarus Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 14 and 15. Professional and veteran volunteer leaders have been recruited as instructors and helpers for this council-wide general training effort.

Registration will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday and the exercise will end at noon on Sunday. Each candidate for the course should bring his own Saturday lunch. The $2.50 fee charged each participating individual will cover take-away literature, Saturday afternoon, Saturday evening and Sunday morning training and an outdoor evening meal and Sunday morning breakfast.

Scout leaders of the council may contact the general chairman C. J. Cooper, AM. 2-5742, or the local council office, CL. 3-5513 for any information. Show and Do Training meets a requirement for both the Scouter's and Scoutmaster's Keys and each scouter in the council is urged to attend by Stanley Smith, chairman of the council training committee.

There are all kinds of hobbies to enter for this show, the only exclusion is that they must not be perishable. They will be exhibited in the west wing of the gallery.

The opening will be Friday at 7 p.m.; punch will be served and a dance orchestra will play.

The Senior Center will be closed on Friday, Sept. 13, at 6 p.m. so that our members can all attend the Hobby Show opening and dance at the Art Gallery.

The Friday afternoon program Sept. 13, at 2:30, will be the Senior Center's members own program entitled "Do You Remember?" This should be fascinating to those who remember when they wore high button shoes; used a hair receiver on their dressing table and when they did their hair up in the complicated fashion similar to the present-day style.

Interracial Congregation Attends New Christian Church Services

When the Christian Church at Wilson-av and Fulton-st opened its doors to a new interracial congregation Sunday, Sept. 8, 120 prospective members entered.

According to the pastor, William G. Hansen, he was more than pleased by the response to his plea for all races of the neighborhood to join together to form a new membership.

"Family after family came to me and asked to be entered as members," he reported.

Plans were made to form a new congregation under the program of the Ohio Society of Christian Churches when the church membership that had formerly occupied the building moved to new quarters farther east.

The turn-out was especially gratifying to Hansen and the sponsors of the church as they are faced with the problem of a rather fluid neighborhood caused by the relocation of families by the nearby freeway construction.

During the worship hour at 10:30 a.m., which followed both adult and children's Sunday School classes an hour earlier, the Youth Choir of the Woodland Avenue Christian Church sang. Led by Wesley Cardwill, they presented two Negro spirituals.

With a congregation a reality rather than a dream, the church is planning to launch programs immediately for children and teenagers, to enable the church to be of greater service to its community.

Stressing the interracial hue of those attending the first services, the pastor stated that both the white and Negro races were equally well represented.

"SUFFER LITTLE children to come unto Me." When the first Sunday School class was held at the new Christian Church at Wilson-av and Fulton-st little ones of the neighborhood were taught their lessons by a guest teacher.

Man's triumph over a Menace to Life...

Sharks have always been man's enemies in the sea. They are a danger to the shipwrecked, and occasionally threaten the lives of swimmers along our coastal waters. Sharks are only one of the many dangers that man faces every day. The world, today, is in a turmoil and we must be alert and on guard for the enemies' moves. Now is the time to trust in the Lord and to seek His help.

"Unto thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul. O my God, I trust in thee; let me not be ashamed, let not mine enemies triumph over me."

Psalm 25, 1-2

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

IRISH, DEVILS FALL

Rebs, St. Marys Open On Impressive Notes

by ART KIENZLE

A standing room only crowd was on hand Friday at Chillicothe as South High's eleven opened its '63 season with a 14-0 win.

The Bulldogs showed a strong running game as they outgained the Cavaliers, 165-126.

ALL OF THE Rebs' scoring came via the Pate combination—brothers Paul and Lloyd.

Paul broke a scoreless tie on an eight-yard off-tackle play with six minutes left in the first half. He also notched the extra points on the same exact play.

Junior back Lloyd got into the act with four minutes remaining in the game as he raced 66 yards after intercepting quarterback Steve Campbell's pass.

South won the first down battle, also, 10-6, but missed in the total yardage department by five yards, 199-204.

QUARTERBACK Jim Yates' pre-game remark about "big things coming in small packages" proved prophetic Saturday night at Central as St. Marys completely demolished Dublin, 36-6.

The biggest "small package" Ram coach Ray DeCola unveiled in his '63 opener was a fleet-footed freshman halfback—Mike Hodge.

Hodge not only scored what proved to be the winning touchdown on a 53-yard pass play from Yates but left a host of Shamrock tacklers grasping at thin air all through the evening.

DUBLIN TOOK the opening kickoff and marched to the Rams' ten where the St. Marys' defense held and forced a field goal attempt which fell short.

No serious threat for either team developed until Yates, who tore apart Dublin's pass defense all evening with precision passing, hit end Paul Stickel with a deflected TD pass that covered 40 yards and the first six points of the game.

Dublin charged back on the kickoff with Mark LaValley lugging the pigskin 80 yards on the return to set up Mike Calhoun's score several plays later.

BUT THE RAMS went ahead for keeps the next time they took possession as Hodge took Yates' flip, cut to the sidelines and then back to the center of the field, picking up blocks and, in general, shifting and weaving his way through half the Dublin defense.

Fullback Jack Gassman, who scored another Ram TD on a 35-yard dash, kept the Shamrock defense honest with his bull-like charges through the line.

St. Marys, who scored twice in both the second and third periods to bust the game wide open, added the icing with Yates' three-yard end run TD that ran the count to 28-6 with 2:45 remaining in the third period.

Halfback Tom McDonald completed the Ram scoring with a 43-yard gallop around end with 6:18 left to play.

Parma Senior 24, Aquinas 8

THE QUARTERBACK-end combo of Stan Jankowski and Al Ambros proved to be more than an injury-riddled Aquinas eleven could handle Friday night as the pair clicked for two TDs.

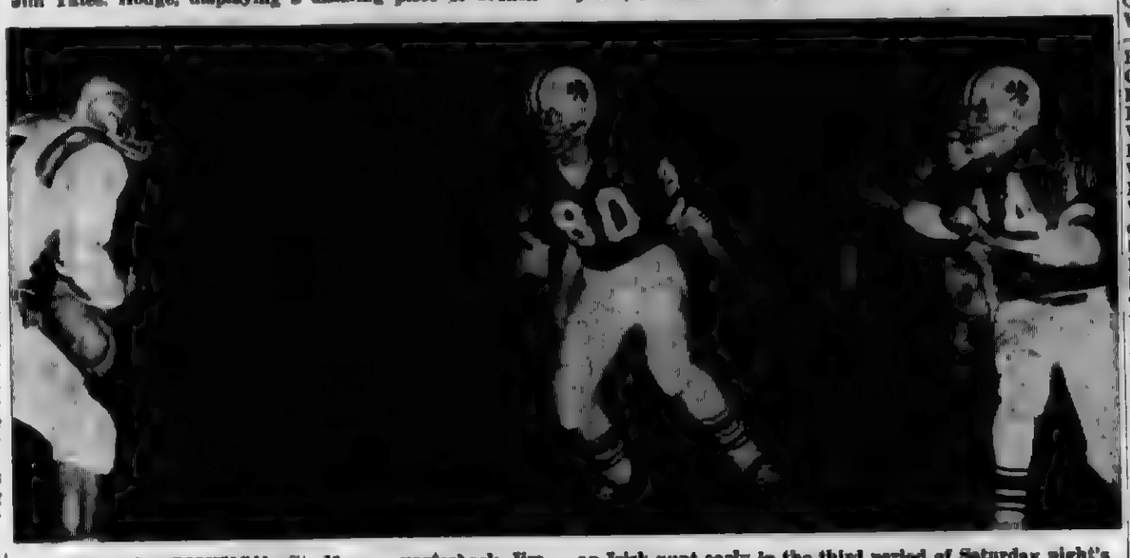
The Terriers, in the hole 18-0, scored before the end of the first half on quarterback Jim Faiella's short plunge but couldn't find the end zone again.

Jim Fritter added the Irish conversion on a flip from Faiella.

Marietta 28, M-F 6

JIM HARPER'S opening appearance as head M-F grid mentor was spoiled Friday at Marietta as the hosts put his Red Devils on ice with a strong passing game.

Biggest thorn in Marion-Franklin's side was Marietta end Bob Kane who raised same with the Devil secondary as he picked off three scoring strikes from quarterback Randy Ward (four, 13 and 34 yards).



Lone bright spot for the losers was Ervin Andy's 43-yard dash to paydirt in the final stanza.

FRIDAY NIGHT'S schedule finds Rosary (0-0) opening its season at Amanda (0-1), Aquinas (0-1) entertaining Watterson (0-1) while South (1-0) welcomes Arlington (1-0).

St. Marys (1-0) completes area action Saturday evening at Central by hosting University (0-0).

COLLISON COMING!!—St. Marys quarterback Jim Yates (left) and Dublin tacklers Jim Tracy (80) and Mike Calhoun (14) steer into a collision course as Yates returns an Irish punt early in the third period of Saturday night's game. Yates returned 20 yards before being sidetracked by the Shamrock defenders.

ONE THAT MISSED—St. Marys end Roger Whaley (33) leaps high into the air in vain trying to reach an end zone aerial from quarterback Jim Yates in Saturday's opener vs. Dublin. Yates didn't have the same trouble later, riddling the Shamrocks' secondary for two overland scores with his precision passing. Defending for the Irish is Greg Peck (40).

'Fearless' Predictions

The "fearless one," banned from the office after last week's calls, wired in this week's picks from his hideaway in the hills of Southern Ohio.

Hunter Vs. Squirrel Or Invitation To Breakfast

INSIDE ON THE Outdoors By ROB COCHRAN

It was still shadowy in the woods when I saw the first movement of the day. All of a sudden a branch on a big hickory nut tree began to jump and thrash around, telegraphing to all in sight or hearing that a squirrel was eating breakfast This is what I'd been waiting for, and I began to stalk the feeding squirrel.

Heavy ground cover in the unpastured woods made the going noisy. Leaves and cobwebs brushed my face, but I kept my quarry located. A mosquito buzzed around my ear, but I suppressed the urge to swat it. Finally my destination was reached. I had only to look out from behind an oak tree, and the squirrel should be in easy range.

THE .22 RIFLE came up, and I looked intently in the scope for the squirrel's dark form. There he was! Now where were those crosshairs? I blinked my eye, and it all came in focus. The crosshairs were on his shoulder, now squeeze slowly. Foliage seemed to muffle the crack of the small-caliber rifle, but the squirrel fell as planned. The squirrel hunting season was open for me.

It was a day late this year, for I missed the opening last Friday. But I was in the woods before the sun was on Saturday morning.

After the hunt, it is somehow difficult to explain how you can get all excited about shooting a squirrel. It had been a fair chase — his eyes and ears were sharper than mine, yet I had seen him first. The stalk had been legitimate, for I had gotten where I had to without too much commotion.

My aim and shot were as flawless as I can get. Taken separately, these do not seem like much. But taken together they are squirrel hunting, and my heart still begins to pound when I see that shaking hickory branch in my mind's eye.

THE SQUIRREL HUNTING season now in progress seems to be about the same as those for several years past, as far as numbers of squirrels in this area are concerned. I'm basing this only on my observations, and the remarks of several hunters whom I talked to over the weekend. The better woods have a satisfactory squirrel population, but the nutcrackers are sparse in some areas.

It is doubtful if these late litters add much to the squirrel population, but there is a humane question involved. Some hunters do not open the season because of this danger, and do their hunting later on.

SQUIRREL HUNTING, as is the case with other outdoor sports, is popular for two main reasons. Going hunting is traditional in this country, and habits are not easily broken. Secondly, hunting squirrels gives us an excuse to take a day's vacation and forget our jobs and other concerns for a few hours. The chance to get outdoors, walk around in the woods when rays of sunlight seep in and the wild world wakes up is important to many people.

These are the real reasons for hunting — tradition and restful recreation. If the squirrel population can stand the earlier opening, and the game biologists say it can, then we should take advantage of the longer season and work in a couple of more trips for squirrels this year.

North Side, South Side— All Around The Loop

Believe it or not, when the surprising '63 version of Chicago Cubs dropped right out of contention in the NL pennant race early last month, the biggest wave of relief known to that city since the last sizzle of the big fire, swept through the North Side of the windy city.

That's the word "official" from some visiting friends of ours who live in the shadow of Wrigley Field and are Cub fans of the rabid classification.

"WE ALL KNEW they would fall flat eventually," they added contentedly. Observing the shock on our face, they were quick to add, "You have to understand something about Cub fans."

"Just by the very nature of being a Cub fan, you develop a deep love for the underdog. They (the Cubs) have been the underdog for so long, it just comes naturally."

"Look at it this way. If the Cubs ever win the pennant, it would spoil the magic. There just wouldn't be any sense going out to the ball park."

"THE BLACKEST day of the season came in June when they moved within percentage points of first place. You have never seen so much panic in one city since the crash of '29."

It was so easy for us to see why the Cubs did so well at the gate this season. There were the few naturally who came out to see if Dick Ellsworth could actually win 20 games (he did) and others who just turn out to watch the ivy grow (it did).

But the majority, we're now convinced, were there waiting for the inevitable collapse. When it took so long coming, more and more Cub fans trudged to the ball park. They were understandably concerned. Their "image" was in danger.

THAT'S THE WAY it goes on Chicago's North Side — home of the only major league club with a head coach and athletic director, the place where the underdog is shrined with reverence.

And a word of warning. Don't ever mention the word "White Sox", in North Chicago. A trip to Cominsky Park to root for Yankee, Tiger or Indian (never the Sox) is still considered a "patrol behind enemy lines" for the native North Sider.

Relations are at least peaceful outside of the baseball season now that the pro-football Cardinals have moved on to St. Louis.

THE RULE OF thumb still remains: North Side — Cub and Bear fan; South Side — White Sox and former Cardinal fan. Not only doesn't the "twain" meet, it's downright unpatriotic to think of it any other way.

Of course with "hot lines" between Washington and Moscow and the friendly international badminton games the order of the day lately, there's always hope for improved relations in this city divided.

But for the present it's still North Side vs. South Side.

We guess that's why Chicago's called "that wonderful town."

Dukes Cop '63 Crown

Duquesne was crowned champ of the South Side Old Timers Slo-Pitch League at Southview Sunday afternoon after defeating Don's Inn, 6-5.

Duquesne, coached by Webb Michael, went to the plate for 13 hits. Bill Groezinger, Virg Emswiler, John Fuchik, Al Andrews and Bob McGinnis all hit two for four for Duquesne.

Don's Inn, coached by Marvin Young, started a rally in the bottom half of the ninth inning. Don's scored two runs to close the gap to 6-5, but the rally was stopped short by Duquesne.

Duke Hinton hit the lone home run of the game for Don's.

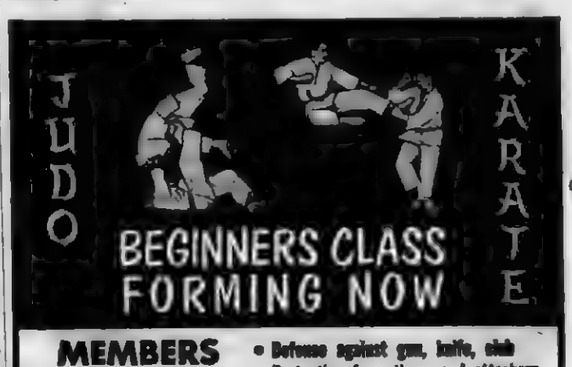
Boys Club Cops Babe Ruth Title



The Westside Boys Club rode to the Central Ohio Babe Ruth title on the strong arm of Pete Eyer.

Eyer gave up only two hits, three walks, and farmed eight in beating the Swan Club, 4-0, at Wolfe Park last Tuesday.

Jerry Francis hit a solo homerun in the first inning to provide a 1-0 lead for the Boys Club and things stayed that way until the sixth.

In this game the Boys Club was playing without the services of regular third baseman Bill Holt, due to illness, and regular second baseman Dusty Hoover due to an injury.

Mile Of Pipeline To Give Service To Glenbrook

Work has begun on the extension of gas lines to the new Glenbrook subdivision at the intersection of Petzinger and Zettler-rds. At a cost of $15,500, the lines are being laid for the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. by the Logan Construction Co.

Elden H. Davis, central district manager for the fuel company, stated that more than a mile of pipe line is involved in the project. The pipe will be laid east along Petzinger-rd from an existing line at Kingsrow-ct and along E. Haven-dr, Arrowhead-ct, Easthaven-ct, Wadworth-dr and Rochelle-pl in Glenbrook.

Davis stated construction is expected to be completed by Oct. 1.

Citizen Or Resident?

Tuesday, Sept. 17, is "Citizenship Day." Citizenship, of course, is a 365-day-a-year responsibility. But the "Day" affords us the opportunity to inventory our "citizenship stock."

As in any businesslike inventory, we should record our assets and our liabilities.

We can count as assets our love of country, our support of duly constituted authority, our respect for the rights and opinions of others and our desire to live in a clean, progressive community. We must recognize as liabilities such characteristics as self-centeredness, intolerance, intellectual laziness and lack of civic pride.

We should remember as we take our inventory that when there is no room for improvement, there is no way to go but down. It is equally important to realize that we should not give up the job of being good citizens simply because we are not perfect in the task.

How many people, for example, will use the excuse that they "don't trust any politicians" in denying themselves the right and privilege to vote? Some people have repeated this line so often that they actually believe it. But some honest meditation by these same people would reveal the true cause of their apathy: a selfish, lazy, "let George do it" attitude.

But citizenship requires more than merely showing up at the polls to mark a ballot. It demands a conscientious effort to cast an intelligent vote. This requires a little time and effort. But there is the guarantee of personal satisfaction and protection of the freedom that is our birthright only because it was won by the blood of those who knew the oppression of tyranny.

Citizenship — in its fullest sense — is a balance of many responsibilities and many rewards. But the obligation to assist in selection of those who will administer the "government of the people" is certainly of prime importance.

It is not too late to qualify as an elector in the November General Elections. Thursday, Sept. 26, is the deadline for voter registration. If you are not now a qualified elector it is a good time to consider this question: Are you a citizen, or do you just reside here?

'Home' Mirrors Family

Before we move we go "house" hunting, but after we have settled we invite people to our "home."

Rooted in the spiritual experiences of life, a "home" is the family gathering place; the source of training, inspiration, protection and hope for the children; the arena of heartache and of triumph for the parents.

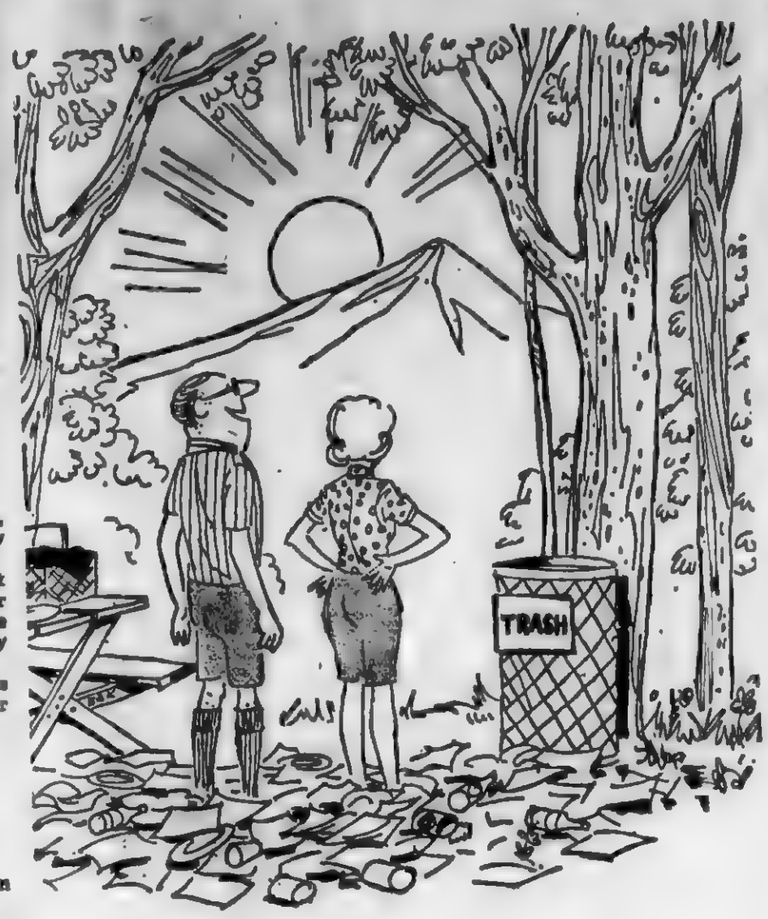
It is also where a wife and mother desires a washing machine that will always work, and possibly a dryer if the budget can take the strain. It is the structure where father adds kitchen cupboards as a testing ground for the two rooms to be "finished off" upstairs.

Thus a "home" is a reflection of its inhabitants, constantly changing with the images of those who grow physically and spiritually within its boundaries.

The most beautiful home constructed by the most skillful builder does not achieve its full potential for beauty with his final touches. It is, instead, a structure that must be re-done, re-shaped or altered to faithfully reflect the personalities of those who reside within.

During National Homes Week, Sept. 9 to 15, it is fitting that we consider our "homes" not only in their physical aspects, but in the spiritual as well.

Scouting Is Viewed As 'Imperialist'



Are you aware that the long-respected Boy Scout organization is turning American youngsters into hostile, war-mongering imperialists? And that every boy who is forced into the Scouts is trained to be a master of all forms of espionage, violence and germ warfare?

If you aren't aware of this, you haven't been reading Pravda, the principal Soviet newspaper. Pravda means, of all things—Truth.

That isn't all Pravda had to say about American Scouting.

It declared that younger boys are forced into the Cub Scouts, where their preparation begins for future foul deeds. And, Pravda reported: "There is a sister group known as the Girl Scouts. These girls are unpaid door-to-door cookie vendors and the revenues they obtain go directly to the Wall Street master minds of the entire plot."

'It Certainly Is Beautiful . . .' But Let's Keep It That Way!

Variety . . . by I. F. Howell

No informed observer can deny that in the past half century we have been the earth's most generous nation.

It all began in a very small way in 1898 when we helped the Cubans throw out the cruel Spaniards. With one eye on Cuban sugar and the other on the Philippines as a Pacific base, we can't claim we were entirely unselfish.

But we really got going on this export-of-assets business about 1914 or soon after. That was when the nations of Europe came to grips. Now millions of lives and billions of dollars later, the struggle is worldwide.

At first we sincerely tried to be neutral. But we soon found that our national interest and safety were at stake. So we began to give aid under and over the table to those whom we thought to be permanent friends in the long pull and at least temporary in the short. This last explains our help given to the Communists at times and to other dictators.

Now, for reasons our leaders seem to think sufficient, we are shoveling out billions of dollars, yours and mine, to more than 50 nations. The sun never sets on what was once American money.

It says here . . .

If we ever go under, our monument will not be a statue of George Washington throwing a dollar across a river. It will be one of Uncle Sam hurling billions of them across every ocean on earth. And the epitaph will be, "Here lies the only nation ever to die of prosperity and generosity."

An Editor's Outlook . . . by Jenkin Lloyd Jones

The Phased-Out Man Is Big Problem

Last spring before the Senate subcommittee on automation and employment, a British-born economist, Robert Theobald, made a startling suggestion:

Let's pay people for doing nothing.

We have, of course, already set up unemployment allowances. But Theobald went far beyond this. He told the senators that "we are now producing more goods than we need and fewer jobs than we need." He forecast an increased out-pouring of goods from increasingly automated machines. So, he argued, a lot of citizens should be paid enough "to live in dignity" for just sitting around.

Jones

Well, boy, there go the copybook maxims. There go "Early to rise," and the fable of the grasshopper and the ant, and "Labor omnia vincit." Why labor if you can vincit lying down? Horatio Alger and Edward Bok and Andrew Carnegie and all the self-made builders of America who preached thrift and diligence are twirling in their graves. Be a hobo or a hop-head, if you like — just get on the dole.

Yet before we ride Mr. Theobald out of town on a fence rail let's weigh the disturbing possibility that he may have something.

The trouble seems to be that automation is not the same thing as mechanization. When the spinning frame was born at the end of the 18th century the weavers of Lancashire rioted. They assumed that machines would destroy jobs. But it didn't work out that way at all. Mechanical spinning meant cheap cloth which vastly expanded the market which demanded more workers than ever.

The automobile ruined the carriage makers, the harness factories and the horse breeders. But it built gigantic auto plants and a huge oil business, stimulated steel, put millions to work on highway construction, in garages and filling stations. So the comforting conviction has arisen that new machines, however marvelous, will eventually expand employment opportunities.

There seems, however, to be a difference between the simple machine and the thinking machine. The automatic elevator performs every function of the human operator except weather observations. It takes a lot of clever people to put automatic elevators together and to service them, but nowhere near as many as the operators who lost their jobs.

As far as scientists are concerned, the argument is not whether railroads need firemen, but whether they need engineers. The automated railroad train is within our present technology. The new oil refineries are run from consoles. The new cement plants consist of a couple of white-collar boys staring at closed circuit TV and presiding over banks of buttons. Thousands of skilled men used to run the mills that bored out engine cylinders. Now the block is bored, machined, perforated and polished from 50 different directions simultaneously—by no man.

The fight over "featherbedding" is therefore human and understandable. No one wants to be phased out. But the problem is that everyone who commands a salary for doing unnecessary work adds to the cost of the commodity produced, and thus taxes the consuming public. The only benefit the true featherbedder confers on the economy is his own purchasing power.

Now, you have to have purchasing power. If unattended machines could suddenly produce all the commodities in the country you'd have disaster and starvation unless you could put these goods into the hands of consumers.

So we may, indeed, have to move into a system of stretching out jobs by shorter work weeks, long vacations and early retirement. But if these non-work periods reduce productivity per man or prevent employers from accumulating the extra cash necessary for automation we will simply have busted industries which will employ no one or more expensive commodities and shrinking markets for them.

There remains the problem of the chronic unemployables, the unskilled, the unschooled, the people who will be increasingly out-thought and out-performed by the marriage of computers and mechanics. Since government is now in the business of subsidizing the production of illegitimate children it is not likely that the ratio of poorly gifted offstring of irresponsible parents will diminish.

Yet if we support in ease and idleness those who are incompetent to command useful jobs in an automated age of the social consequences will be sad. Not only do idle people rust out morally and spiritually, but you have to maintain a wide disparity of rewards in order to keep the able and the gifted hopping for the benefit of all. The Communists very quickly found out that under Marx's doctrine of "from each according to his ability to each according to his need," everybody sat down.

So we may eventually wind up with a brainy elite, a fabulously prosperous (if half-employed) technician class, and a huge mass of citizens on permanent W.P.A. The prospect is not entirely alluring.

Frosting On The Cake

By "UNCLE DOC" ROSS — U.S.A.

Professional religionists who fight about creed or ritual are seldom forces for genuine good. Any Sunday School is a good school if it teaches children right from wrong.

Any church is legitimate if it keeps men and women in tune with Almighty God and His wisdom. Faith is not any kind of opinion monopoly. Faith is understanding of the eternal verities by adult minds so that such minds own reliance upon Divine Providence and salvation for every soul.

Any home is a good home if children are taught to behave themselves and mind their manners.

Any business is legitimate if it is honest and serves the everyday needs of people.

Any party is legal if it is managed by honest men who know that public office is a public trust. The reason that Socialism and then Communism will "die on the vine" eventually is because it never works out for the common good.

Teachers who learned out of man's evolving experience are making contributions to real education, be it still in a log cabin in the hills.

Million dollar palaces with "everything," as the saying goes today, are too often not homes at all. They are just a place to eat, sleep, hang one's clothing and fight like cats and dogs over every trivia.

"With all thy getting, get understanding," saith the Lord.

Charity Will Not Cure Ills Of Society

It requires considerable hardness of heart to live comfortably in this modern world of ours. Otherwise, the pain would be too excruciating to bear.

One acceptable definition of a Christian would be that he is a person with the capacity to stand in another's shoes. But who could endure to do that today? Stand in the shoes of: the man who has been unemployed for months; the demented woman who in desperation shoots her own children; the man who has incurred the displeasure of the local newspaper and finds himself mercilessly pilloried without any weapon to fight back; the victims of prejudice and injustice in our society? Who wants to do that today? The only way we manage to live in the same world with these, and a thousand other evils, is by shutting them out; steeling ourselves against them; in short, by hardening our hearts.

Rev. Everson

But then, if we make any pretense of being Christian, or are at all acquainted with the Bible, we are brought up short by the realization "hardness of heart" is one of the definitions of sin, and a definition that was often used by Jesus himself. "He was grieved at the hardening of their hearts," it is written, when Jesus saw people being able to stand unmoved in the presence of a case of great human need. And when discussing divorce, Jesus readily allowed that Moses had written permitting it, but, he added, "only because of the hardness of your hearts."

And surely this must have been foremost in his mind when he counseled us to become as little children, for isn't responsiveness to need a spontaneous and instinctive characteristic of children? But experience hardens us, makes us callous and impervious to entreaty. We refuse to let things bother us, because we know that it will cost us if we do. Those who care, share.

Now this is not an appeal for us to be more generous or charitable. God knows we are often generous to a fault. But it is an appeal for us to be more Christian in our relations, and to realize that charity is not enough. The ills of society are not going to be cured by charity, no matter how well organized or generous it may be.

Something more costly and more exacting is required of us than that. For the truth is that we can be charitable and still have hearts of stone, not really caring about people, as people. What is required of us is that we shall be given hearts of flesh in place of our hearts of stone. Then their suffering will be our suffering; their plight will be our plight; their injustices will be our injustices. We shall not then be satisfied with what charity can do; then we shall want to right the wrongs which caused the conditions in the first place. Then we shall be willing to work for legislation to protect the defenseless; we shall be willing to pay taxes for the care of the indigent; we shall be in the forefront of those who will not rest until a just society shall have been born.

God has promised to bring this change into being. "I will take away the stony heart out of your flesh and I will give you a heart of flesh," wrote Ezekiel. The fact is that only those in whom God has wrought this change can stand the world as it is. The others go and hide—in restricted housing, in exclusive clubs, in air-conditioned office towers, because they are too cowardly to confront the by-products of the society which has been so good to them.

But those who have hearts of flesh do not wince in the presence of any evil; they do not turn their eyes aside from any sight, because they know that in Christ it is redeemable. And so they are found in all the most unlikely places, near and far, identifying themselves with human need, and maintaining a restless warfare with all the forces of cynicism and greed.

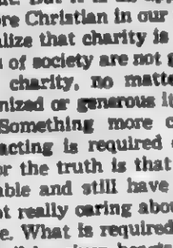
Rev. Sydney C. G. Everson, pastor
Westgate Methodist Church

THIS WEEK'S FOOD MARKETS

Processed Food Outlook Below Last Year's

By Estelle B. Franks

THIS WEEK LOOK FOR:



Fruits — Grapes, cantaloupes, cooking apples, Stanley prune plums.

Vegetables — Sweet corn, snap beans, cabbage, peppers, all-purpose potatoes, beets.

Other Foods — Fryers, fryer parts, chuck cuts of beef, ground beef, cheese, eggs (small sizes).

During September food ads let us know that the new packs of frozen, canned and other forms of processed foods are arriving. What will the supply be this year, and what about prices? Here's a look at the prospects:

Canned fruit supplies this fall probably will be smaller than the unusually heavy supplies a year ago. Canners' stocks of nine important canned fruits at mid-summer were about 10 per cent under a year earlier. Also, due to lighter crops of many fruits, the total pack will be down somewhat from the 1962 record. However, the packs of cling peaches, applesauce and apricots will likely be larger than last year's. There will be less fruit cocktail due to the shortage of pears. The total pear pack on the West Coast will be about one-third smaller than last year.

Mrs. Franks

Naturally the smaller supply will tend to raise prices. In fact, retail prices of some canned fruits advanced during the first half of 1963 to levels above a year earlier. And, further increases are expected, particularly on the items in short supply.

Fruit juices, particularly citrus juices, will continue in light supply for the rest of 1963. On Aug. 1 Florida packers' stocks of frozen orange concentrate were 43 per cent under last year, and prospects are not very favorable for a quick build-up of supplies from the new citrus crop. So, retail prices are likely to stay at high levels.

To an increasing extent, processed fruit juices are reaching the consumer as an ingredient of "fruit drinks." Upon inspection of the listing of the ingredients on the label, one finds that the major ingredient is water. Vitamin C has been added to many of these drinks, but again, read the label carefully to see whether the suggested serving supplies the minimum daily requirement, or the recommended daily allowance of Vitamin C. Mrs. Pauline Hall, extension nutritionist, says that the recommended daily allowance of Vitamin C is about two to three times the minimum daily requirement.

Frozen fruits and berries in the nation's freezers are also down more than 10 per cent from a year ago, and the 1963 pack probably will be down somewhat due to smaller crops this summer. A sharp reduction is expected in the pack of frozen red tart cherries.

The supply picture for canned and frozen vegetables looks brighter, although moderately below the heavy supplies of last season. Early reports point to a substantially smaller tonnage of vegetables for commercial processing this year than last. But this decline will be largely offset by the heavy carryover of canned and frozen vegetables at the beginning of the season.

Among canned items, smaller supplies are in prospect for lima beans, snap beans, sweet corn, tomatoes and tomato products. Supplies of canned green peas and sauerkraut are about the same as for 1962-63, but larger supplies of cucumber pickles are indicated.

During the remaining weeks of summer, overall retail prices of canned and frozen vegetables are expected to continue slightly to moderately higher than a year ago.

The Gadabout

Priscilla LaRue Lener
HI. 4-1851

For those who passed 160 E. Moler-st on Wednesday, Sept. 4, from 2 to 4 p.m. and heard a lot of youngsters in the backyard, we'll tell them a heart-warming tale of today's youth which should be shared with all readers.

Four young lasses decided to do something to earn money for the Heart Association and decided a neighborhood carnival was the best way. Immediately they planned their games, the best refreshments to serve, then set out to solicit their neighbors for white elephants to use as prizes. The four young ladies were Debbie Burdett, 157 Frebis; Loretta Hummel, 169 E. Moler, (where the carnival took place); Joan Theado, 165 Frebis, and Sheila Naezelle, 148 E. Moler-st.

The original plans were made by Aug. 30, less than a week before the project. How's that for speedy efficiency?

The girls made their games, baked cookies and a cake, made Kool-ade, and popped popcorn in preparation for the big event. Their siblings and a neighbor girl also were pressed into service as workers. These youngsters were Janice Ballard, Mary and Margaret Naegele, Eddy Burkett and Linda Theado.

Prices at the concessions ranged from two to 25 cents. These concessions included a fish pond, ring-toss, penny-pitch, white elephant stand and refreshments. The cake was raffled off. The biggest money maker was the penny-pitch, which netted $5. The two-hour project was so successful that the group hopes to make it in annual event.

The Heart Association may receive larger donations, but none with such a tender story as that of the $15.25 they will receive from the efforts of four South Side girls.

Meetings, here and there . . . The Lydia Guild of Livingston Methodist Church will meet Tuesday, Sept. 17, 7:30 p.m. The WSWS of the Washington EUB Church will hold a general meeting Thursday, Sept. 12, at 7:30 p.m. A family night will be held at the church on Thursday, Sept. 19, at 6:30 p.m. Rev. Butterbaugh will be in charge of the program and the Florence Circle will be in charge of the kitchen. The Ladies' Bible Class of the church will meet at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 16.

The Loyal Men's and Women's Class of Southwood Church of Christ will meet Tuesday, Sept. 17, 6:30 p.m. at Ohio Avenue EUB. The Friendship Class will meet Friday, Sept. 13, at 7:30 p.m., and the Ruth Circle will hold a 1 p.m. meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 17. The Evening Women's Guild of St. Paul's Lutheran Church will meet Friday, Sept. 13, 6:45 p.m. at the church, for a potluck supper. Mrs. Paul Hickman will present the Bible study for the evening.

The Luther League of Hope Lutheran Church will hold a Mixer and Teen Night on Sunday, Sept. 15. The evening's program includes games, mixers and refreshments. Officers for the group include Rick May, president; Judy Smith, vice-president; Sharon Chase, secretary, and Sue Weber, treasurer. Gary Englehart and Mrs. Emil Schwartz are the sponsors for the group.

A city-wide service training for community volunteer work for Senior Camp Fire Girls, those in Horizon Clubs, will be held at the Charity Newsies, Tuesday, Sept. 17, from 5 to 7:30 p.m. The volunteers are asked to bring a sack lunch. University Women To Meet Sept. 14

"The New Look in Programming" is the theme of the Fall Workshop of the Ohio Division of the American Association of University Women, scheduled for all day on Saturday, Sept. 14, at the Neil House. Registration will begin at 8:45 a.m.

Selection of the Workshop theme was a natural in view of the recent changes in the association structure.

Former study topics have been regrouped into four broad subject matter areas, designed to increase the scope of AAUW study and action. This major change in structure was approved at the AAUW National Convention in Denver in June.

All division officers, standing committee chairmen, area representatives and implementation chairmen have made preparations for the workshop sessions, with emphasis on programming in accordance with the revised organization. Branch leaders from across the state will have an opportunity to discuss their particular phase of AAUW work with division officers and representatives from the 69 branches.

Ohio Division President Mrs. Raymond Guthrie, Marietta, will preside at the opening assembly at 9:30 a.m., which will be followed by special sessions. After luncheon, the afternoon assembly will get underway at 1:15 p.m. Guest speaker at both the morning and afternoon assemblies will be Mrs. Norman W. Hosler, Association third vice president and membership chairman. Mrs. Hosler has served AAUW in a number of capacities, at all levels. Most recently she was the New York State Division president, and a member of the association membership committee. She lives in Hempstead, Long Island.

Two Columbus members are among the officers and chairmen on the Ohio Division Board: Mrs. Kenneth C. Evans, 1478 Cardiff-rd, second vice president and program chairman, and Mrs. Carl E. Eriksson, 2120 Ridgeview-rd, legislative program chairman.

Women interested in AAUW membership are invited to get in touch with Columbus Branch President Mrs. Robert L. McClarren, or Membership Chairman Mrs. Charles S. Pearce.

DR. WENDELL PFEFFERLE tests a patient's eyes with a Tonometer, a device which measures the pressure the eye can stand.

Optometrist Attends Clinic

Glaucoma is an important and common disease of the eye which has for its characteristic sign of an increase of pressure within the eye. No one knows what causes this disease or how to prevent it. Once glaucoma attacks the eye and vision is lost — whether partial or total — the sight is never regained. If this disease is discovered soon enough, it may be treated and the remaining vision may be preserved.

Recently, Dr. Wendell Pfefferle, local optometrist, 1645 Parsons-av, attended a special Glaucoma Clinic held at Ohio State University. The course included the newest techniques of detecting this disease and the newest type instruments being used. Dr. Pfefferle is now prepared to perform these tests in his office.

One of the new devices is the Tonometer. This instrument is placed on the white part of the eye and the pressure of the eye is taken.

Another method is "Taking the Visual Fields." A screen is placed in front of the patient and a wand with a round white dot, which may be different colors, is moved over the area of the screen until the dot disappears. This point is recorded. This is continued until a definite pattern is established.

Youth Suffers Third Degree Burns On Leg

Because of a dog, a match and a gasoline can, Michael Aldridge, 13, of 644 Basswood-av, was in Children's Hospital Saturday night.

Aldridge was burning trash in his backyard when a neighbor's dog came and knocked over a gasoline can just as the youth tossed a match to the ground.

Flames engulfed his left trouser leg. He removed his trousers, but by then he had suffered third degree leg burns. He was in good condition at the hospital.

Suburban Homemaker Search Is On In This Community

Somewhere in our town a woman is living and working to better her home and your community, unaware that come November she will be known and honored as our Suburban Homemaker of the Year. She may not be wealthy in material possessions, she may not be the holder of several university degrees or a potential beauty contest winner, but in the eyes of her family and her community she has made and is making a vital and meaningful contribution in her role as a suburban homemaker.

This woman, selected as our community's Suburban Homemaker of the Year, may reap even more honors. She will have an opportunity to be chosen National Suburban Homemaker of the Year and to receive a national award of $5,000.

Women will be selected from communities served by several of the seven Hartley Newspapers to travel to Chicago where they will compete for National Suburban Homemaker honors.

Last year Hartley Newspapers sent four local winners to Chicago on an all-expense paid holiday for the national competition.

They were, Mrs. Mac McKinley, 885 South Enfield; Mrs. Philip Wagner, 2389 Bulen-av; Mrs. Kedron Heckner, 161 Topafield-rd, Lincoln Village, and Mrs. Oliver Tallman, 3306 Stephen-dr S.

The second annual National Suburban Homemaker of the Year Search is sponsored by Suburban Press Foundation, Inc., and its member papers of which this newspaper is one. The search is a tribute to and recognition of the important role of the homemaker in the family, civic and economic life of the suburban community.

How will we find our suburban homemaker?

Someone will tell us about her, in a letter of no more than 500 words. Appearing below are the official judging standards which indicate some of the qualities she might possess. Using these

SOUTH SIDE FOUNDRY READY TO DIVERSIFY

South Side industry will take a big step forward Saturday when Buckeye Steel Castings Co. officially opens its new soil pipe plant.

At 11 a.m. Governor James Rhodes, joined by Mayor W. Ralston Westlake, will cut the ribbons signifying the $3 million diversification program is substantially complete.

High-production pipe casting machinery has been installed which can turn out 17,000 tons of two to five-inch pipe annually and can be geared to double that production whenever shipments warrant the increase, according to W. W. Heimberger, president.

When the new division goes into two-shift operation, approximately 100 more employes will be required.
